On the occasion of ‘International Day against Drug Abuse and Illicit Trafficking’, Haryana Chief Minister, Mr. Manohar Lal envisaged a three-pronged strategy—Treatment, Education and Promotion. He said that at the root of the problem is the ineffective control of drug menace and illegal trafficking in the northern states. Similarly, the ‘Run for Unity’ programme was started in Sohna which marked record participation. It is also our responsibility that we all contribute well and also employment. In such a situation, sanitisers and masks should be under the shade of the tree, which will have the motivation to work in the country's income generation.

Pollution, smoking linked to childhood obesity

O pposition scientists have linked childhood obesity with pollution and smoking, saying these factors are major contributors to the growing problem of childhood obesity. The study found that children who are exposed to pollutants and smoke are more likely to become overweight or obese, leading to a number of health problems later in life. The researchers believe that efforts to reduce pollution and smoking could help prevent childhood obesity and improve the health of future generations.

China targeting schools to implement its policies in Hong Kong

O ne of the most recent policies implemented by the Chinese government in Hong Kong is aimed at targeting schools in order to implement its policies and control the flow of information. The government has been targeting schools in different ways, such as by imposing restrictions on the teaching of certain subjects and limiting access to books and other materials. The government has also been targeting teachers and students, seeking to control their activities and limit their ability to express their opinions. These policies have been controversial and have led to protests and demonstrations in Hong Kong.

Parents started thinking about cricket after 1983: Triumph: Kapil Dev

A NEW DELHI: On the 37th anniversary of when India lifted their first-ever cricket World Cup title in 1983, former Indian all-rounder "Virat Kohli is doing well, Sourav Larry Gomes picked up two wickets give India their first-

The Kapil Dev-led side managed to turn around from 80 against Andy Roberts. The team took three wickets while Malcolm Marshall, Michael Holding, and Gary Sobers picked up two wickets each. In the finals, India did a good job of keeping a check on West Indies bowlers and reduced the tally to 150/5. Soon after, the team from the Caribbean was reduced to 76/6 and India won the tournament from there on to win the title.

They believed and became World Champions: Ravi Shastri

New Delhi: Indian team head coach Ravi Shastri said the Kapil Dev side's historic 1983 World Cup final triumph against West Indies was a game-changing event that laid the foundation for the Indian team becoming one of the most powerful teams in cricket.

"It was a historic moment for Indian cricket," said Shastri. "Kapil Dev was a game-changer and a leader who inspired his team to achieve greatness. His inspiring leadership helped India win the World Cup final against the mighty West Indies, who had won the title twice in the previous two editions of the tournament.

Shastri said the victory in 1983 was a turning point for Indian cricket and helped shape the future of the sport in the country. "Kapil Dev's leadership was a game-changer, and it set the stage for India to become a world-class cricket team," he added.

The victory in 1983 also paved the way for India's success in subsequent World Cups, including the 1987 and 1992 editions. "Kapil Dev's leadership was the foundation for India's success in world cricket," Shastri said.

Shastri also praised the Indian team's performance in the World Cup final, saying "the team was masterful in their execution of the game plan and their executions were flawless.

"Kapil Dev's leadership was a game-changer, and it set the stage for India to become a world-class cricket team," he added. "The victory in 1983 was a turning point for Indian cricket and helped shape the future of the sport in the country."
