Now, people to get NoC online for regularisation of properties: Aman Arora

SHASHI PAL JAIN
CHANDIGARH, SEPT 10:

In a bid to ensure quick and timely disposal of applications for regularization of properties situated in unauthorized colonies in the state, Chief Minister S. Bhagwant Mann led Punjab Government has introduced a facility of online submission and processing of applications on the regularization portal for obtaining NoC. The state government has also fixed a deadline of maximum 21 working days to complete the whole process to issue the NoC.

Revealing this, Punjab Housing and Urban Development Minister Mr. Aman Arora made it clear that this facility of regularization could be availed only by those allottees/residents whose properties fall under the unauthorized colonies developed before March 19, 2018.

Mr. Aman Arora said that the person concerned can now log on to www.punjabregularization.in portal dedicated to regularization of plots and buildings situated in unauthorized colonies, which will be processed online. Till now, the applications were processed offline so the applicants had to wait a long for getting issued the NoC.

Due to ignorance, a considerable number of people had purchased properties in unauthorized colonies which had mushroomed in the past few years. These allottees/residents had invested their hard earned money to purchase plots or other establishments in these colonies, the Minister added.

To give a reprieve to them the regularization portal has been revamped, said the Cabinet Minister, while adding that new features have been added on the portal to facilitate the allottees/residents of unauthorized colonies interested in applying for regularization of their property. Now, the portal extends a large number of facilities such as online submission of application, online payment, status checking of application and online disposal of the same. This one single portal is designed for regularization of plots and buildings falling within MC and outside MC area for quick disposal of applications, he added.

To ensure quick and timely disposal of applications, the Housing and Urban Development Minister further stated that the officials involved in the process of dealing the applications would be required to take action in a fixed timeline which will be monitored. The whole process to issue the NoC would be completed maximum within 21 working days from the submission of the application on the portal, he said.

Notably, Punjab Government had notified a policy on 18.10.2018 to regularize plots falling in unauthorized colonies developed before 19.03.2018. However, plot holders are facing issues for getting their plots regularized under this policy, since applications were processed offline.

Sidhu Moosewala murder: Sixth shooter Deepak Mundi arrested

BUREAU
CHANDIGARH, SEPT 10

In a major breakthrough, Punjab Police, in a joint operation with central agencies and Delhi Police, have arrested Deepak alias Mundi, sixth shooter in Punjabi singer Sidhu Moosewala's murder case, along with his two associates.

The two others arrested along with Mundi are Kapil Pandit and Rajinder alias Joker.

DGP Gaurav Yadav (officiating) said Mundi along with two associates was caught from near Nepal border in West Bengal. Mundi was the shooter in Bolero module, while Kapil Pandit and Rajinder provided logistical support, including weapons and hideouts.

Mundi's who was arrested 104 days after Moosewala's killing is being brought to Mohali by air.

In a tweet DGP Gaurav Yadav (officiating) said, "In a major breakthrough, Punjab Police, in a joint operation with central agencies and Delhi Police, have arrested Deepak alias Mundi, absconding shooter of Sidhu Moosewala, with 2 associates. Deepak was the shooter in Bolero module, Kapil Pandit and Rajinder provided logistical support, including weapons and hideouts."

Shubhdeep Singh Sidhu, popularly known as Sidhu Moosewala, was shot dead in Punjab's Mansa district on May 29, a day after the state police had pruned his security cover on a temporary basis.

He, along with his friend and cousin, was driving to Jawahar Ke village in Mansa when six shooters waylaid his vehicle and sprayed bullets into him. After the killing, Canada-based gangster Goldy Brar, who is a member of the Lawrence Bishnoi gang, had claimed responsibility for the murder.

Police had identified six shooters—Priyavrat Fauji, Kashish, Ankit Sersa, Deepak Mundi, Manpreet Singh and Jagrup Singh Roopa—who were part of the two modules allegedly involved in the killing.

While the special cell of the Delhi Police had nabbed Fauji, Kashish and Sersa, the Punjab Police neutralised Roopa and Manpreet in an encounter in Amritsar. In the 1,850-page chargesheet filed in a Mansa court last month, the Punjab Police had said Brar had coordinated with gangsters Lawrence Bishnoi, Jaggu Bhagwanpuria and some others to execute Moosewala's killing. According to the chargesheet, Brar had given the information on Moosewala's security withdrawal to the shooters and had asked them to hurry up and kill him. The Canada-based gangster had executed the murder plan to avenge the killing of Akali youth leader Vicky Middukhera, who was killed last year. The name of Shaganpreet Singh, who was said to be Moosewala's manager, had figured in Middukhera's murder. The chargesheet included Sections 302 (murder), 307 (attempt to murder), 341 (wrongful restraint), 326 (voluntarily causing grievous hurt by dangerous weapons or means) and 148 (rioting, armed with deadly weapon) of the Indian Penal Code and also the Arms Act.

Vahak propels growth of Punjab's logistics sector

AMRITSAR: Vahak, India's most-trusted transport community, has been rapidly increasing its platform user base in Punjab since the pandemic began in 2020. Bengaluru-based Vahak is India's largest open and free transport platform enabled by AI. This digital community enables direct connections between all logistics players, fostering India's largest ecosystem of transport SMEs and lorry owners.

ing the Vahak app, Punjab trucks were able to function even during the pandemic, making critical supplies available. Now, they are witnessing up to 25-26 days of inter and intrastate runs as compared to 15-17 days earlier. This has resulted in consistent growth in our user base over the last year with load postings showing 100 per cent increase and lorry posting going up by over 40 per cent. We are seeing highest demand coming in for containers, trucks and Light Commercial Vehicles (LCVs)." Detailing on the measures taken to boost the logistics sector, Karan highlights, "We aim to bring operational efficiencies in Indian logistics, cutting down the overall logistics cost. In Punjab, we are seeing that the government's positive efforts to improve logistics infrastructure has helped the state improve its ranking in terms of efficient logistics ecosystem. Contributing to this progress, we continue to bring enabling features for all logistics players. These include safe and secure escrow payments, free medical consultations.

University of Delhi Builds and Scales Samarth eGov on AWS to Transform Governance in India's Higher Education

CHANDIGARH, SEPT 10

Amazon Web Services Inc., an Amazon.com company, today announced that the University of Delhi is using AWS to enable the adoption of Samarth eGov—the open source, secure, scalable, and robust process automation e-governance platform—across India's universities and higher education institutions (HEIs). The Samarth eGov suite provides more than 40 software modules covering academics, administration, student services, human resources, governance, accounting, and finance as a cloud-based service to central and state universities, HEIs, and technical institutions in India. The suite provides universities and HEIs with an automation engine to migrate from paper-based and traditional third-party enterprise resource planning (ERP) systems to a more secure, reliable, and scalable platform that standardizes and automates digital processes and workflows. Using AWS, Samarth eGov helps education institutions enhance the speed and quality of education services to offer a more reliable experience to students, faculty, and staff. With Samarth eGov's increasing nationwide adoption, education institutions are now more agile in adapting to education policy changes and market segment demands.

Samarth eGov has already been adopted by more than 200 universities and HEIs in India, including more than 40 central and state universities, and more than 100 colleges. Samarth eGov leverages AWS's robust availability, scalability, speed, agility, security, and flexibility to process more than 7.6 million student admission applications, handle more than 600,000 faculty and staff recruitment applications, and manage more than 7.5 million student records nationwide. The next phase of Samarth eGov's adoption is expected to reach more than 500 HEIs by 2023.

"The education sector is undergoing a major transformation, and it became clear that we needed a purpose-built, policy-driven and adaptable platform to support the future needs of education institutions. Samarth eGovs developed as an open-source, highly flexible, interconnected, secure, and scalable platform, delivered on a software-as-a-service model with a cloud-first approach on AWS. It can address the diverse and evolving demands of universities and higher education institutions across India, irrespective of the state they belong to or the language they choose to interface with," said Prof. Sanjeev Singh, Joint Director, University of Delhi South Campus. "The reliability, agility, scalability, and security offered by AWS enables us to build Samarth eGov to realize our vision and confidently scale it to empower higher education institutions and students nationwide."

"The education sector in India is adapting to the post-pandemic era where student expectations are rising and changing, and the engagement between students, administration, and faculty are increasingly expected to be digitally-driven. We congratulate the University of Delhi for embarking on and implementing Samarth eGov, a pioneering initiative in India's higher education sector, and addressing common challenges faced by education institutions," said Rahul Sharma, Regional Head, Public Sector – AISPL, AWS India and South Asia. "AWS is pleased to enable the Samarth eGov suite with the power of the cloud, and enhance the availability, quality, speed, and experience of education services for students, educators, and administrators."

In the University of Delhi, Samarth eGov has enabled more than 1 million-regular and distance learning students to participate in online examinations, supported faculty with online evaluations and grading, and awarded digitally signed blockchain-based degree certificates to more than 360,000 students over the last 24 months during the pandemic, ensuring the continuity of education and career progression for students. From January through July 2022, the university processed more than 663,000 student applications, helping students begin their university journey seamlessly. With Samarth eGov, students could easily access basic information on courses, selection criteria, registration, admission, and fee payments online. Education institutions can also enhance student outcomes by automating processes like managing teaching schedules and freeing up educators' time to focus on teaching activities, such as providing personalized lessons based on students' performance. By automating the faculty hiring process and reducing the hiring period of new educators from months to a few days, Samarth eGov ensures that universities and HEIs have enough faculty staff to support student needs and deliver lessons. Samarth eGov is built using multiple services from AWS, including Amazon Elastic Compute Cloud, which is designed to provide scalable compute capacity and enables the platform to meet peak workloads such as concurrent online examinations, and Elastic Load Balancing, which is designed to distribute network traffic to improve application scalability, and is critical for managing high workloads during events such as admissions and examinations.

I learned that we can do anything, but we can't do everything... at least not at the same time.
So think of your priorities not in terms of what activities you do, but when you do them. Timing is everything.

Era ends: Elizabeth II one of a kind, she'll be missed

Elizabeth II had played her role in rallying Britain during the Covid-19 pandemic and, after the Duke of Edinburgh's death had returned to public life again to celebrate her Platinum Jubilee year. It was said of her that she could walk into a room full of people but everyone she spoke to was made to feel that he/she was the only person there. Seen in a wider context, she was the ceremonial head of state not just in Britain but in several dominions which are a part of the Commonwealth – notably Canada, Australia and New Zealand, among others. In Britain, she was the great unifier who had kept things together in most difficult times after the war when the Empire had just lost India, its crown jewel.

Perhaps Queen Victoria had some say in what the East India Company did and she was designated the titular ruler when India, after the defeat of the 1857 Mutiny or the First War of Independence, passed to the Raj, but she never had any say in what her viceroys were doing there.

All about adult immunisation

The immunisation schedule now extends to adults and senior citizens to overcome these problems. In particular, there is the coronavirus pandemic. By this time, adults should have taken two doses. In addition, those who are eligible should have also received a booster. Every year, depending on the evolving strain, new flu vaccines are released. Everyone — particularly the elderly — should take an annual flu vaccine.

But cats (unlike dogs) tend to roam free and can carry the rabies virus without exhibiting symptoms. Many older adults have not been immunised in childhood against hepatitis B. Although the vaccine has been available since 1980; it was incorporated as part of India's universal free immunisation schedule in 2017.

Panneerselvam's request for police protection rejection

AGENCY
CHENNAI, SEP 10

The Greater Chennai police have rejected a request by deposed AIADMK coordinator O. Panneerselvam (OPS) for police protection to enter the party headquarters in the city.

The police protection was sought by leaders close to OPS.

On July 11, when the AIADMK general council meeting was held at Vanagaram, OPS and his associates had entered the party headquarters leading to major clashes between the cadres of Panneerselvam and Palaniswami. After the division bench of the Madras High Court reinstated the posting of Edappadi K. Palaniswami as the interim general secretary of the AIADMK, he visited the party headquarters on Tuesday. Heavy police contingent was deployed during the visit. Following Palaniswami's visit, the OPS faction announced that Panneerselvam will also make a trip to the party head office. D. Jayakumar, former minister and a close associate of OPS, later filed a petition with the Chennai police that OPS was expelled from the party and that he should not be allowed to enter the AIADMK headquarters. The city police have now directed OPS not to enter the party headquarters at the moment as he could face physical assault.

BJP's 'Janaspandana' rally marking
3 yrs of BJP rule in K'taka today

BENGALURU, SEP 10

With an eye on the 2023 Assembly elections, the ruling BJP in Karnataka will on Saturday organise 'Janaspandana', a public rally to mark Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai government's one year and the party's three years rule in the state.

The mega rally is being organised in Doddaballapur, a neighbouring town of Bengaluru. With the rally, the BJP hopes to set aside all recent drawbacks faced in the state. First it was the backlash by the BJP workers and Hindu activists over the murders of Hindu and BJP activists in the state, then it was the alleged royal treatment rolled out to killers of Bajrang Dal activist Harsha in the prison. The party workers had laid siege to the residence of Karnataka Home Minister. Social campaigns had been carried out to mock the inaction and failure to ensure safety for Hindu activists. Hindu Mahasabha and Sri Rama Sena announced that they will not let BJP win the upcoming Assembly elections. Also, reversal of textbook revision following backlash by the public, progressive thinkers and religious pontiffs is considered as a setback to BJP. Various community groups, including Lingayat Panchamasali sub caste, Kuruba and Valmiki are demanding reservation.

Social unrest situation, following hijab crisis and boycott of Muslim traders, though polarised Hindu votes, top industrialists, including Biocon Chief Kiran Majumdar-Shaw warned that India would lose its leadership position in IT and BT sectors, if the situation continued. To add to the myseries, the recent rain fury in Bengaluru has shaken the ruling BJP. Party insiders say that they will overcome the setbacks. Chief Minister Bommai had stated that the massive rally would not only lift up the prospectus of the party, but boost the chances of BJP in the old Mysuru region, where the party is weak.

The central leadership is talking about winning 150 seats in Karnataka, for which it has to win seats in south Karnataka districts, which are bastions of regional party JD (S) and Congress. The ruling party has new opposition in the form of the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) in the state.

The programme was postponed thrice and it was seen as a jinx. However, BJP is looking ahead to make the event a success and blow the trumpet for elections.

Solid, sewage management far from satisfactory, NGT raps Ghaziabad civic bodies

NEW DELHI, SEP 10

Coming down heavily on Ghaziabad Nagar Nigam (GNN) and Ghaziabad Development Authority (GDA), the National Green Tribunal (NGT) has observed that the overall situation of solid and sewage management is far from satisfactory, finding a gap of 500 tons per day in waste processing.

The principal bench of NGT headed by Justice (retd.) Adarsh Kumar Goel was dealing a plea, which was pending since 2018, for the remedial action for scientific management of waste at Indirapuram, Vasundhara and Vaishali areas of Ghaziabad.

"For solid waste management, one site measuring 33.108 acres at Galand Village and the waste to the extent of 20,000 MT is being deposited at pipeline road. Further, another private land on an abandoned brick kiln site is being used for dumping waste. Thus, the gap appears to be of 500 tons per day," said the recent tribunal order. "With regard to sewage management, except one STP (Sewage Treatment Plant), none of the STPs are complying with respect to fecal coliform.

STPs designed at Govindpuram, Bapudham and Noor Nagar Morty for 56 MLD (million litres per day) of capacity are receiving only 11, 1 and 18 MLD respectively. It is not clear how Indirapuram STP is having treatment capacity of 70 MLD against the installed capacity of 56

MLD. Further, 10 drains are discharging BOD ranging from 29 to 218 mg/l of BOD into river Hindon," it read.

Further, the green court held that the civic bodies are liable to pay a compensation of Rs 200 crore for restoration purposes.

"..GNN has to deposit Rs. 150 crores and GDA Rs. 50 crores. The compensation be deposited with the District Magistrate Ghaziabad by the above authorities within two months," the tribunal directed.

The order also directed the Divisional Commissioner, Ghaziabad to monitor the entire action plan on monthly basis with GDA and GNN and continue further action to augment capacity suitably for treatment of solid and liquid waste which may be further periodically reviewed by the Additional Chief Secretary, Urban Development, UP on a bimonthly basis.

Man accuses Lingayat seer of exploiting his wife

(KARNATAKA) SEP 10

A man on Saturday accused Lingayat seer Omkara Shivacharya Swami of Renukashrama in Avaragola of sexually exploiting his wife repeatedly for the past one-and-a-half years.

Chandrashekar from Shivamogga has alleged that his wife has been sexually exploited by the accused swamiji in the ashram. He maintained that he has been trying to get his wife out of the clutches of accused swamiji. His wife has told him that she would commit suicide if anything comes out. He has also released an audio clip containing the conversation between him and the swami. In the audio, Chandrashekar is pleading with Swami to send his wife back to him. He also tells Swami that he had used his wife for a long time. He tells Swami that he has the video as evidence and he should send her back if he does not want any trouble.

Chandrashekar maintained that married his lover after three years of courtship. However, as they could not have children even after five years, his wife started visiting the mutt. Later, she started visiting the mutt frequently. "I caught them red-handed during a festival," he alleged.

However, the incident got a twist when the wife came forward and rubbished the allegation of her husband. She claimed that her husband is a drunkard and has been blackmailing the swamiji for Rs 30 lakh. "My husband could stoop down to any level for money," she said.

"I challenge him to produce the video that he claims as evidence. Even I want to watch it. Swamiji has helped me to come out of my decision to end life. I could not bear the torture and abuse of my husband. My father has sold one acre of land and I have given all my gold to him," she alleged.

"We have special respect for the swamiji as our family follows his mutt," she said. The woman has also lodged a police complaint against her husband in connection with the case.

Mangolpuri stabbing: Youth killed for attending Ganesha immersion, claims family

NEW DELHI, SEP 10

The family of Mangolpuri stabbing incident victim on Saturday alleged that their son was murdered for being an ardent Lord Hanuman devotee and participating in Ganesha idol immersion. On Friday evening, Arman was brutally killed while his two brothers suffered injuries after being stabbed by a group of assailants led by one Shahrukh. The same group later stabbed two more youths -- Vicky and Ravi -- as they were associates of their rival. While police claim it to be a fallout of a personal rivalry, the family is giving a religious reason. "Arman was a devotee of Lord Hanuman, he used to go to Akhada and worshipped Lord Hanuman. He also participated in Lord Ganesha idol immersion. This irked Shahrukh, who along with his aides, killed him," the family alleged. A senior police official said that they got a call at 4.36 p.m. that three persons were stabbed in K Block in Mangolpuri. The injured persons identified as Armaan, Monty alias Moin Khan, and Fardeen were moved to Sanjay Gandhi Memorial Hospital where Armann was declared brought dead. Fardeen was admitted in the ICU of the hospital. Fardeen told the police that at around 2.15 p.m., he was going on his motorcycle when his vehicle touched one Shahrukh's bike. This led to an altercation with Shahrukh's aide Shahbir and Fardeen left the area after the argument. "Fardeen's brother Monty decided to resolve the matter peacefully with Sharukh. Monty, along with his cousin Arman, went to meet Shahrukh where they had a heated argument. Sharukh and Shahbir asked their associates to bring knives and finish the three brothers."

3 arrested as ex-RJD MLC's son creates ruckus inside police station in Patna

PATNA, SEP 10

Three people were arrested after a group of around 50 people, led by RJD ex-MLC Anwar Ahmed's son Asfer Ahmed, created a ruckus inside Pirbahore police station, police said on Saturday. Asfer Ahmed allegedly misbehaved with the police personnel and grabbed DSP Ashok Singh's collar and tore his uniform in the incident which took place late on Friday night.

"We were investigating an incident wherein some police personnel were assaulted by local goons of Sabzibagh and Pirbahore area. During the clash, we managed to arrest two persons for attacking police personnel on Thursday night. When I went to the crime scene for the investigation on Friday evening and detained a trader for questioning, Ahmed and his supporters came to the police station and abused the cops. When I came out from the office of SHO, Ahmed also misbehaved with me as well and used abusive language," Singh said. "We were ensuring that he was detained on the basis of suspicion but he was not ready to listen to me. We also said that if his guilt would not be proved, he would be released. He continued to abuse me and other cops and created a ruckus inside the police station," Singh said. "We have arrested three persons in this connection and further investigation is on," he said. However, Patna police were unable to book Ahmed for obstructing government officials for doing their duty apart from creating ruckus inside the police station and misbehaving with cops. Incidentally, the incident took place hours after Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar claimed that he is not running "Jungle Raj but Janata Ka Raj". He has called for a high-level meeting to assess the law and order situation in the state.

After success with mynahs, Kanger Valley ropes in tribal youth to save Marsh crocodiles

BASTAR
(CHHATTISGARH), SEP 10

Mahendra Kumars day begins at 5 a.m. Armed with binoculars, he roams the Kanger Valley National Park in Bastar the whole day, checking on the Marsh crocodiles, a freshwater species listed as 'vulnerable by the International Union for Conservation of Nature.

"All my time is spent trying to spot the crocodiles in their assigned areas. I am here till dusk, though I take a nap at the forest patrolling camp after lunch," says

Kumar. Like Kumar, his friend Somdar Nag has begun to enjoy his work tracking crocodiles, something he had no experience in. He regularly stores details in NoteCam, an app used for storing photos, coordinates, dates and time, besides keeping an eye on poachers. Altogether, six youth -- they have all passed Class 12, have basic digital literacy skills, and know the area like the back of their hands -- are engaged in the conservation of Marsh crocodiles, also known as muggers or broad-snouted crocodiles. Their beat areas extend from 5-10 km. Tribal communities inhabit the villages in and around the national park. They cultivate paddy in the kharif season, a time when the park remains closed due to rains, and do odd jobs to sustain themselves. Kumar and Somdar, who hail from villages located two km apart, have found their job as 'mugger mitras' (friends of the crocodile) emotionally and monetarily rewarding.

They joined in May for a monthly salary of around Rs 10,000. Dhammshil Ganvir, the national park's director, is keen to rope in as many local youth as possible for the conservation effort. "We have a crocodile population in Kanger, but it is not uniform. There are some patches where the reptiles are seen basking on protruded rocks and surfaces. Overfishing and hunting/poaching by a few locals are grave issues here, and community help is the need of the hour," he elaborates. According to Ganvir, securing the habitat of crocodiles is possible only with the help of locals. In accordance with this principle, people in the surrounding villages have been asked not to catch fish from the nullah that winds through the park.

Apart from regular fishing and hunting, there is also a demand for crocodile scales and skins among quacks and traditional healers. The forest department has involved mugger mitras to discourage such practices by constantly monitoring 15 potential nesting and breeding spots. "For the first time, we have seen the crocodiles lay eggs in six locations, and some have hatched too. It boosts our confidence," Ganvir says. The initial funding of Rs 12 lakh for the project was provided through the Compensatory Afforestation Fund Management And Planning Authority. Based on the initial success, the mugger mitra project has been extended for another two years.

Class 12 student among 3 missing as snake boat overturns
in Kerala

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM: Three people, including a class 12 student, are feared missing after a snake boat overturned in the Pamba river on Saturday in Kerala's Chennithala area. The boat was a participant of the Aranmula, Uthratathi boat race as part of the Onam festivities. Police said that Adidevann, the Class 12 student, went missing first and the two others jumped into the water in search of him. The famous Aranmula Uthratathi boat race is on Sunday and as per tradition, the boat first enters the Pamba river for some rituals and then proceed for Aranmula. Scuba divers are engaged in the search for the three who were part of the snake boat race team. Heavy under current in Pamba river due to incessant rains in the past few days led to the overturning of the snake boat. However, locals said that children were seen jumping in the boat which would have toppled it in the Pamba river. Chengannur MLA and former minister Saji Cherian, while speaking to media persons, said that scuba divers, fire force and police are jointly searching for the missing people. Aranmula panchayat president Vijayamma told the media that 50 people were in the boat when it capized. Notably, incessant rains in the central areas of Kerala have led to a rise in water levels in most of the rivers. With the snake boat race being held after months of preparations, several snake boats deployed by various regions are engaged in a fight for supremacy in the waters.

Central Vista Project to Jagannath Temple: Bimal
Patel, architect behind such urban landmarks

AGENCY
NEW DELHI, SEP 10

The Central Vista project in New Delhi, Kashi Vishwanath Dham in Varanasi, Sabarmati Riverfront Development in Ahmedabad or the master planning of Jagannath temple in Puri -- all these symbols of India's cultural and urban landscape might be situated at different corners of the country, but one name common with these landmarks is Bimal Patel, the main architect behind all these projects. Patel is an architect, urbanist and academician who has traversed disciplinary, professional and institutional boundaries to explore the ways in which architecture, urban design and urban planning can enrich the lives of people in India's cities.

He is President of CEPT University in Ahmedabad and leads HCP Design Planning and Management Private Limited, an architecture, planning and project management firm.

Apart from these landmark projects, the work profile of HCP

Design says that many of the recent big urban projects in cities of Gujarat involve the services of Patel and his company.

Kerala snake boat accident: One more body recovered from Pamba river

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM, SEP 10

The body of a youth, who reportedly went missing after a snake boat overturned in Kerala's Pamba river on Saturday, was recovered by scuba divers and rescue teams on Saturday.

The deceased has been identified as 28-year-old Vineesh, a resident of Cherukol in Alappuzha district.

Earlier, the body of another youth identified as 17-year-old Adidevan, a Class 12 student, was recovered from the Pamba river by the search and rescue teams.

One more person is suspected to be missing and his identity is yet to be known.

Heavy undercurrent in Pamba river due to incessant rains in the past few days which led to overturning of the snake boat, is also making the rescue operation difficult.

However, locals have said that children were seen jumping in the boat which could have also led to overturning of the boat.

Chengannur MLA and former Minister, Saji Cherian told the media that scuba divers, fire department and the police are jointly carrying out the search and rescue operations for one more person, who is suspected to be missing.

Aranmula Panchayat president Vijayamma told the media that 50 people were in the boat while it toppled.

The incessant rains in the central areas of Kerala have led to rise in the water levels in most of the rivers.

Surge in distress calls to TN
health helpline after NEET results

CHENNAI, SEP 10

The Tamil Nadu government's health helpline set up for providing counselling to NEET aspirants is flooded with calls from students who failed to crack the exams.

After the NEET results were announced on Wednesday midnight, the number of calls to the helpline has increased manifold.

The psychological counselling for NEET-UG aspirants began in Tamil Nadu on July 19 as several students in the state had died by suicide last year after failing to crack the exam. Staff working with 104 helplines told IANS that callers are in a distressed state of mind and many callers wanted to know how they can cope up with the reality that they could not crack NEET.

The counsellors told IANS that most of the students who had approached them were those who had got more than 90 per cent marks in core science subjects like Physics, Chemistry and Biology in their Tamil Nadu plus two board examinations.

A counsellor from 104 helpline who is attending to calls said: "Most of the students who are calling have been doing consistently good in academics and scoring high marks in core science subjects. However, they failed to clear the test and hence are dejected and in a highly disturbed and distressed state of mind."

She said that they feel that all their studies went in vain and that there was no other option other than ending their life. It may be noted that 1,32,167 students appeared for NEET-UG examinations from Tamil Nadu this year and of which 67,787 qualified.

The helpline staff also said that they had tried to reach out to the 19-year-old girl from Ambattur in Chennai who died by suicide immediately after the results were out.

The state government is trying to extend the services of the helpline as the number of distress calls are increasing.

NEW DELHI, SEP 10

As many as 173 cases of lumpy virus have been detected so far in cattle in the capital city, Minister for Environment, Forest & Wildlife, Gopal Rai said here on Saturday.

It includes 45 cows from Gol Dairy, 16 from Najafgarh area, 40 in the Rewla Khanpur area, and some others from adjacent villages, he said.

ED raids several places in Kolkata, estimated Rs 7 cr recovered

KOLKATA, SEP 10

Enforcement Directorate (ED) teams conducted raids on Saturday at three separate places in Kolkata and recovered a huge amount of cash from the possession of a city-based businessman.

Although the counting process of currency notes in Rs 500 and Rs 2,000 denominations are yet to be completed, according to estimates of the central agency officials, the recovered money would be to the tune of around Rs 7 crore. On Saturday morning, the ED teams, accompanied by the central armed forces personnel, started from the agency's central government office (CGO) complex office at Salt Lake.

The first team reached the residence of an advocate at a multi-storied housing complex at 34 Macleod Street under Park Street police stations.

The second team raided the residence of businessman Nisar Ali at Shahi Astabal Lane in Garden Reach. From there, the ED officers discovered a huge trunk, where the huge currency notes of Rs 500 and Rs 2,000 denomination were reserved.

The ED officials immediately informed a local branch to depute staff with currency counting machines. Till the latest information available, the counting of notes was still on.

ED sources said that Khan could not specify the sources of this huge cash. It is learnt that although officially he used to run a transport business, he was actually involved with a number of financial embezzlement rackets. ED officials are also questioning his youngest son Amir.

Meanwhile, the third team of ED officials is conducting simultaneous raids and search operations at the residence of a garments trader at Mayurbhanj Road.

This is the third major recovery of cash by ED from Kolkata within a period of less than two months.

In late July, the ED officials, probing the multi-crore West Bengal School Service Commission recruitment irregularities scam, recovered around Rs 50 crore in two phases from two residences of Arpita Mukherjee, the close aide of former West Bengal education minister Partha Chatterjee. Both Chatterjee and Mukherjee are under judicial custody.

K'taka Congress dubs BJP's
Janaspandana 'commission rally'

BENGALURU, SEP 10

Taking a jibe at BJP's mega event 'Janaspandana' to commemorate one year of Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai at office and three years of BJP rule in Karnataka, the state Congress on Saturday termed it 'commission rally'. The jibe was based on allegations that the BJP leaders charge 40 per cent commission for any government-related work. Opposition leader Siddaramaiah questioned BJP's performance saying that the government is neck deep in corruption and charge 40 per cent commission for projects, he said. It is not a Janaspandana rally, but a commission rally, he asserted. Ruling government should reciprocate to people in crisis but sadly, no minister visits his/her constituency. People are in distress following heavy rains and floods. Instead of listening to the woes of people, the leaders are spending huge money on convention, he alleged. 'Janaspandana' is a politically motivated programme. The situation is so bad due to floods in Bengaluru that the people are forced to commute in boats, he said.

Karnataka Congress unit on social media dubbed the 'Janaspandana' rally as "convention of commission." The convention is being organised with the money looted through 40 per cent commission by BJP netas. The Congress has further questioned the BJP whether its leaders are going to boast about killing its own party worker? Are you going to talk about how you finished off contractor Santhosh Patil? In response, BJP hit back at Congress and Siddaramaiah with Minister for Horticulture Munirathna questioning the celebration of 75th birth anniversary of Siddaramaiah.

False charges by litigants after adverse order tend to demoralise judges: SC

NEW DELHI, SEPT 10

Deprecating the tendency of making allegations against judges after adverse orders are passed against litigants, the Supreme Court has said that it would ultimately demoralise judges. "Nowadays, there is a tendency to make such allegations against the judicial officers whenever the orders are passed against a litigant and the orders are not liked by the litigant concerned. We deprecate such a practice," a Bench led by Justice MR Shah said.

"If such a practice continues, it will ultimately demoralise the judicial officer. In fact, such an allegation can be said to be obstructing the administration of justice," said the Bench, which also included Justice Krishna Murari.

The top court dismissed petitions seeking transfer of proceedings pending in a court at Dhaulpur in Rajasthan to a court of competent jurisdiction in Noida, Uttar Pradesh. "No ground is made out to transfer any of the proceedings as sought to be transferred," it said in an order passed last week. One of the grounds on which the proceedings were sought to be transferred was that the petitioners believed they were not getting a fair trial and the respondents, being "local bigwigs", could influence the court there.

If the petitioners were aggrieved by any judicial order, the proper remedy would be to challenge it before a higher forum, it said, adding that merely because some adverse orders were passed against the petitioners, it couldn't be said that orders were passed under influence. "We deprecate such a stand and the ground on which the proceedings are sought to be transferred. Merely because some orders are passed on the judicial side (in the present case in the execution proceedings), which may be against the petitioners, it cannot be said the court that passed the order was influenced," the Supreme Court Bench noted. The petitioner alleged that when the warrant issued by the executing court was sought to be carried out, a false FIR was filed and, therefore, he feared for his life.

CJI: women's count in judiciary to go up

CJI UU Lalit has said there would be a greater number of women adorning judiciary in near future. Addressing an event in Pudukcherry, he said in Odisha, Jharkhand, Rajasthan and TN, the number of women at induction-level was considerably higher.

Himani Shivpuri reveals, "I considered quitting acting many times after my husband's demise"

CHANDIGARH : Himani Shivpuri, who plays Katori Amma in &TV's Happu Ki Ultan Paltan, has been one of India's most talented and brilliant actresses for over three decades. She has appeared in some of the biggest blockbusters of all time, and her superb acting abilities have won millions of hearts. Himani Shivpuri has a strong passion for the theatre, which has brought her fame, fortune, and recognition. In a candid interview with us, the actress discusses her inspiring journey as an actress.

How did your journey in Bollywood as an actress start?

After completing my post-graduation in organic chemistry, I was set to leave for the United States for advanced studies. Still, at the very same time, I got selected for NSD (National School of Drama). Everyone got annoyed when I told my family I wanted to go for NSD. Initially, I had a negative impression of Bollywood. I did not want to be in movies. I believed that Bollywood was where actresses were expected to show themselves. I was content doing plays and theatre till I met my late husband, Gyan Shivpuri, who motivated me to do films. I began auditioning and feel grateful and fortunate to have worked in great classics such as Dilwale Dulhania Le Jayenge, Pardes, and Umrao Jaan.

What were the challenges you faced in taking acting as your career choice?

I came from a small town in Uttar Pradesh and then shifted to Dehradun. At that time, venturing into the entertainment industry was frowned upon, and no one took my career choice seriously. I was often questioned, "Kya nautanki karogi? I had to convince my family to understand that acting is a serious business and that one must be formally trained to be an actor. Hence, I decided to join the NSD, which took a lot of convincing. Thankfully, my father, Haridutt Bhatt, supported me. Still, it was not as easy as it was difficult to explain to my family that choosing acting or theatre as a profession requires certain skill sets and equally hard work.

The joys and importance of having grandparents

CHANDIGARH : One of life's greatest bonds is between grandparents and grandchildren. Their decades of experience in life, stories, and knowledge hold valuable lessons that help us become better people. On this International Grandparents Day, &TV artists talk about the special bond and memories they share with their grandparents. And by making this day perfect in showing their respect and gratitude for the older generation, they honour them for everything they stand for. These includes Aayudh Bhanushali (Krishna, Doosri Maa), Kapil Nirmal (Tarkasur, Baal Shiv), Yogesh Tripathi (Daroga Happu Singh, Happu Ki Ultan Paltan), and Vidisha Srivastava (Anita Bhabi, Bhabiji Ghar Par Hai). As Krishna in &TV's Doosri Maa, Aayudh Bhanushali shares, "My grandparents are my best friends, and I live with them. I spend most of my time at home with my Dadu (grandfather) and Dadi (grandmother). They not only spoil me by giving me my favourite items, but they also know all my secrets. We eat ice cream whenever my Dadu comes to pick me up from school, and we don't tell anyone. To share a recent memory with them, it would be the moment they learned that I had been chosen to play Krishna in Doosri Maa. They were thrilled to hear the news and bestowed blessings on me, but they were also moved to tears because I had to relocate. Even though I am in Jaipur, my day begins and ends with a video call to them. On this International Grandparents Day, I want to tell them how much I love them and pray for their good health". Kapil Nirmal, as Tarkasur in &TV's Baal Shiv, shares, "My grandparents represent comfort, love, care, happiness, and belonging to me. Despite having grown up in different eras, I still identify with my grandparents and their values. I am blessed and fortunate to have been raised by grandparents who instilled love and happiness in our family. Their presence in my life made it more meaningful and blissful, and they were my first critics, guiding me when I made a mistake. My heart is filled with nostalgia as I recall all the good times I had with them. My Dada Ji used to pretend to give up or lose games when I was a kid so I could feel like a champion. It is one of my favourite memories with my grandparents, which I will cherish forever. A big shout out to all grandparents for raising us right".

As Daroga Happu Singh in &TV's Happu Ki Ultan Paltan, Yogesh Tripathi shares, "I will be eternally grateful to my grandparents for always pushing my family and me in the right direction and encouraging us to pursue our dreams. I spent my childhood listening to Grandma's stories, which had many morals, and I still remember the example of the unity of strength that she always used to give us, which was that a person could not break a bunch of sticks.

When he tries to break a single group of sticks, he can do so one by one. Similarly, my grandmother was an energy capsule for me, repatriating my sorrows and soothing all my pain, never allowing me to sit back in the face of adversity. If I ever came to her in tears, she would give me the best hugs and traditional desserts she could make. Unfortunately, she is no longer with us, and I miss her terribly. Grandparents are our strong pillars of support, guidance and comfort. So please treat your grandparents well and do something special that makes them feel important and loved."

Nidhi Uttam to essay Mala's role in &TV's 'Doosri Maa'

CHANDIGARH : &TV is set to premiere a family drama, Doosri Maa, starring Neha Joshi and Aayudh Bhanushali. The show revolves around Yashoda (Neha Joshi), who lives in Uttar Pradesh with her husband, two daughters, and in-laws. Her happy, peaceful family life ends when she and her husband unknowingly adopt Krishna, his illegitimate child (Aayudh Bhanushali). To essay the primary role of Krishna's biological mother in the show, the makers have now cast popular TV actress Nidhi Uttam as Mala. Talking about her character, an excited Nidhi Uttam essaying Mala's role in &TV's Doosri Maa says, "Krishna's mother, Mala, is a single, unmarried woman. Ten years ago, she left and expecting his child. Ashok's father was not ready for their marriage, so she left without telling him about her pregnancy to avoid misunderstandings. However, when her health deteriorates, she returns to the city where Ashok lives. Mala's only wish is that her son should not suffer after her death. The story then focuses on Krishna and Yashoda's struggle for love and care, which they lost during a period."

Nidhi, who hails from Kanpur, Uttar Pradesh, adds, "Because the show is set in Uttar Pradesh, my home state, I can more easily identify with the characters in terms of culture and dialect. The story of Doosri Maa is unique. Even though it is about a mother-and-son relationship, it has an unusual connection.

&TV artists talk about the importance of Literacy

CHANDIGARH : International Literacy Day is observed every year to raise awareness and concern for literacy problems that exist within our local communities as well as globally, &TV artists share their views on literacy as a human right, which include Neha Joshi (Yashoda, Doosri Maa), Atharva (Young Bhimrao Ambedkar, Ek Mahanayak-Dr B.R. Ambedkar), Siddharth Arora (Mahadev, Baal Shiv), Kamna Pathak (Rajesh Singh, Happu Ki Ultan Paltan), and Shubhangi Atre (Angoori Bhabi, Bhabiji Ghar Par Hai). As Yashoda in &TV's upcoming show, Doosri Maa, Neha Joshi shares, "Education cultivates critical thinking and decision-making skills. A person who lacks literacy is confined to a closed room with no way out or in, completely cut off from the outside world. Literacy, on the other hand, opens the world to man. An illiterate person cannot read or write, limiting their access to all the knowledge and wisdom available through books and other forms of media. As a result, raising awareness about education is essential. I am glad there's a day set aside for it." Atharva, as Young Bhimrao Ambedkar in &TV's show Ek Mahanayak - Dr B.R. Ambedkar, shares, "On this International Literacy Day, let us remember Babasaheb's lessons on the value of education. I consider it an honour to play Bhimrao. He used his education to free himself from the constraints of caste discrimination and inequality. He also inspired many to believe that education alone could bring about social change and enable people to overcome all social, cultural, and economic obstacles.

Soma Rathod: "I was nervous about playing Rohitashv's mother in Bhabiji Ghar Par Hai as he is 20 years older than me."

CHANDIGARH : Bhabiji Ghar Par Hai actress Soma Rathod, aka Amma Ji, has delighted fans with her impeccable comic timing. In a candid interview with us, the 38-year-old actress discusses her inspiring journey into acting and overcoming life's challenges, personally and professionally.

1. How did your journey as an actress begin?

My journey as an actor in this industry has been like a roller coaster ride. While one has probably heard stories of actresses going under the knife or undergoing weight loss regimes to get into this industry, my story is different as I had to gain weight. When I decided to become an actor and started attending auditions, I was neither too thin nor too fat. Because I did not meet any of the criteria, I was rejected. Then one of my friends suggested I gain weight to be listed among the oversized actors. I gained weight to get noticed by casting directors for plus-size roles that are not so common in our industry, leading to working in the TV industry and on many hit shows like Bhabiji Ghar Par Hai.

2. Did those rejections stop you from pursuing your career?

Being overweight makes us feel like we don't belong in this world. People tend to body shame us. We can't even get clothes our size because they don't make them. Yes, it was painful, but I never considered quitting my job because of it. But I chose to be strong and made fun of my obesity, so you have no power to make fun of me. Others may not be as courageous as you, but you should always accept and love yourself.

3. Now when you have registered yourself in the industry. Do you still want to continue doing plus-size characters?

I am thrilled to play Amma Ji because it has given me a distinct identity on Indian television. There are very few people who are in my competition in the industry when it comes to character. So, being overweight, I have the benefit of roles specifically written with me in mind.

4. Your character, Amma Ji, has become a household name. Were you expecting this kind of love when you started Bhabiji Ghar Par Hai?

I was nervous about playing a mother's role when the role was offered to me. I was asked to portray the mother of Rohitashv Gaur.
