Property holders in Punjab to get NOC in 15 days

BUREAU
CHANDIGARH, OCT 27

To save the people of Punjab from disputes and litigations during the purchase and sale of property, Finance Minister Advocate Harpal Singh Cheema and Revenue Minister Bram Shanker Jimpa while chairing a high-level meeting on Thursday decided to reduce the NOC process from 21 days to 15 working days.

During this meeting held here at Punjab Bhavan, on the suggestion of Finance Minister Harpal Singh Cheema, it was also decided that NoC would be issued in 5 working days under Tatkal for the convenience of NRIs and other such persons who need it in a short time span. The Finance Minister said that under Tatkal, NRIs or those persons who could not spare more time, would be able to get this facility in 5 days by paying some extra fee. Meanwhile, the Cabinet Ministers also decided to provide login ID and password to the sub-registrars of the revenue department to check the originality of the NOC at the time of registration. This will help in fixing the responsibility of the concerned officer in case of any registration done using a fake NOC. This would also help in expediting the process of registering criminal cases against the frauds.

In the meeting it was decided to issue new licenses of Deed Writers for the convenience of the people. Along with this, it was also asked to ensure that every Deed Writer should display the instructions issued by the Punjab Government from time to time for the information of property sellers and buyers, and the concerned Tehsildars to ensure the same by conducting random inspections.

Four mobile phones, drugs recovered from Nabha jail

RAKESH JINDAL NABHA, OCT 27

The Punjab government is making claims to have eliminated Chitta in Punjab, but now Chitta has started being supplied to jails too. The latest example of which was seen in the new district jail of Nabha, where 4 mobiles, one gram of white and 20 grams of sulphur have been recovered.

On this occasion, SHO of Nabha, Priyanshu Singh said that regarding this matter, we will bring everyone on production warrant and strictly inquire as to where these mobiles came from and by whom they were supplied. She said that we have started investigating the matter by registering a case under 52 A Prison Act and NDPS Act. It is worth mentioning that the new district jail of Nabha, is looking less like a jail and more like a mobile shop. In the month of October, 29 mobile phones, 89 pouches of zarda, 20 grams of sulphur, one gram of chitta have been recovered so far. If we look at the previous record, a large amount of mobiles and other goods have been recovered. In the new case, four mobile phones, 20 grams of sulphur and one gram of chitta have been recovered in the new district jail. Nabha Sadar police have registered a case in these three cases and started investigation. Question marks are being raised on the prison administrators. Because every prisoner is thoroughly searched before entering the jail. But even after the search, so many mobiles and drugs cannot be smuggled into jail without collusion. On this occasion, Nabha Sadar SHO Priyanshu Singh said that the police have registered three cases in which four mobile phones, 20 grams of sulphur.

Vigilance unearths scam in labour, transportation tenders in Ferozepur

SHASHI PAL JAIN CHANDIGARH, OCT 27

The Punjab Vigilance Bureau (VB) has exposed another scam regarding fraud in labour cartage and transport tenders for wheat in grain markets by the contractors in conniving with concerned officers/employees of the Food and Civil Supplies department in Ferozepur.

In this regard a case has been registered against three contractors/tenderers Davinder Singh of Faridkot, Davinderpal and Gurushakti, both from Talwandi Bhai, at the VB Police Station Ferozepur, for committing fraud and embezzlement causing huge loss to the State exchequer. In this case the VB has arrested contractor Davinder Singh resident of Nandana Gate, Faridkot. Disclosing this here today, the spokesperson of the VB said the bureau after investigating this fraud in the grain markets of Ferozepur and Mamdot, a case has been registered under FIR 24 on 27-10-2022 against the accused contractors under section 420, 409, 467, 468, 471, 120-B and section 13 (1) and (2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act at Police Station VB, Ferozepur. Giving more information in this regard, the spokesperson said during the tenders for labour cartage and transport in the above grain markets for wheat/stock articles in the current year 2022-2023, the above mentioned contractors has attached lists at the time of filling the tenders regarding the registration numbers of vehicles for transportation of goods which were verified by the VB from respective district transport authorities. It has come to light that in these lists several registration numbers of unvalued vehicles like Motor Cycles, Jeeps, Tractors etc, were attached whereas the food grains could not be transported on such vehicles, he added.

During the probe it has been established that along with the registration numbers of fake vehicles mentioned in the gate passes by the accused contractors, the details of the quantity of food grains are prima facie a case of fake reporting and embezzlement shown in these gate passes. He said the concerned officials/employees of the department had also paid to the said contractors for the work done without verifying these fake gate passes.

He further revealed that according to the above facts, the district tender allotment committee should have rejected the technical bid of the concerned contractors as per rules, which was not done. But the concerned officials/employees in connivance with each other have committed this fraud in the labour cartage and transport tenders for the transportation of food grains in these grain markets and on the basis of which this case has been registered against the above mentioned accused. The role of other government officers/employees of the department would be probed during the investigation of the case as alleged in the complaint in this regard.

Anywhere man

There is a silent school of thought that genuinely feels the United Kingdom had to experience some 45 days of needless political turbulence — the Liz Truss interregnum — because rank-and-file Conservatives couldn't stomach the fact that the party of Lord Salisbury and Winston Churchill would be led by an Asian gentleman with the name, Rishi Sunak. Truss was chosen by the membership — overruling the choice of Conservative members of Parliament — not on account of either her popular connect or ideological farsightedness, but because she seemed more electable than a 'posh' boy, a David Cameron-type politician, whose biggest liability was his ethnicity. Consequently, it took an almighty financial crisis and the Opposition Labour Party taking a 30-plus point lead in the polls for this squeamishness to be overcome.

Last week, after Truss bowed before the inevitable and announced her departure from 10 Downing Street, the Conservative MPs were in no mood to take further chances. There were at least two candidates for the leadership — the former prime minister, Boris Johnson, and the feisty Penny Mordaunt, who had the potential of beating Sunak in the poll of ordinary party members. My guess is that Johnson definitely, and Mordaunt possibly, would have prevailed against a man who is perceived as lacking the common touch. So the real stitch-up — about which we are likely to hear more in the coming days — lay in preventing the contest from entering the second round. For all the talk about the Conservative Party being a divided house, the backbench MPs showed enough resolve in preventing anyone other than Sunak from securing the endorsement of the requisite 100 MPs. The proverbial men in grey suits — alas, no longer in smoke-filled rooms — decided they needed a technocrat crisis manager and not a populist.

Historical analogies are never exact, but those familiar with the course of British politics in May 1940 will detect similarities. Tasked with replacing a prime minister who was better at ensuring clean drains than fighting a rampaging Hitler, the MPs homed in on Winston Churchill who was always regarded as an oddball. They preferred him over Lord Halifax — a former viceroy of India — who was cut from the same cloth as the discredited Neville Chamberlain. The MPs, in their collective wisdom, felt that war needed a very different leadership. Subsequent events proved them right.

Global emissions will peak in 2025

The International Energy Agency (IEA) on Thursday released its World Energy Outlook 2022 report, which stated that global emissions will peak in 2025.

Based on the latest energy data and market developments, this year's WEO explores key questions about the crisis, including setbacks for clean energy transitions, government responses on energy markets and possible risks ahead on the path to net zero emissions.

"In the Announced Pledges Scenario (APS), the commitments in the Nationally Determined Contributions (NDCs) bring about a faster reduction in emissions: global emissions peak before 2025 and fall to 31.5 Gt CO₂ in 2030, which is around 15per cent lower than in the STEPS," the report said.

IEA energy outlook report's scenario is based on prevailing policy settings that see a definitive peak in global demand for fossil fuels.

"Coal demand peaks in the next few years, natural gas demand reaches a plateau by the end of the decade, and oil demand reaches a high point in the mid-2030s before falling slightly. From 80per cent today - a level that has been constant for decades - the share of fossil fuels in the global energy mix falls to less than 75per cent by 2030 and to just above 60 per cent by mid-century," the report said.

The World Energy Outlook report states that the global energy crisis sparked by the Ukraine conflict is having far-reaching implications for entire economies, prompting short-term responses from governments as well as a deeper debate about the ways to promote energy security.

"This is a global crisis, but Europe is the main theatre in which it is playing out, and natural gas is centre stage - especially during the coming northern hemisphere winter," it says. High energy prices are causing a huge transfer of wealth from consumers to producers, back to the levels seen in 2014 for oil, but entirely unprecedented for natural gas. High fuel prices account for 90 per cent of the rise in the average costs of electricity generation worldwide, natural gas alone for more than 50 per cent.

"Price and economic pressures mean that the number of people without access to modern energy is rising for the first time in a decade.

Around 75 million people who recently gained access to electricity are likely to lose the ability to pay for it, and 100 million people may revert to the use of traditional biomass for cooking," it says.

The report continues that there remain huge uncertainties over how this energy crisis will evolve and for how long fossil fuel prices will remain elevated, and the risks of further energy disruption and geopolitical fragmentation are high.

Early fears linked to future anxiety, depression

Early risk factors linked to children's temperament and a neural process that could foretell whether an individual might develop depression and anxiety in adolescence and early adulthood have been identified during a recent imaging study led by a scientist at The University of Texas at Dallas.

The study, published in JAMA Psychiatry, tracked a cohort of 165 individuals from 4 months old, between 1989 and 1993, through age 26.

Dr. Alva Tang, assistant professor of psychology in the School of Behavioral and Brain Sciences and corresponding author of the study, found that people who are more inhibited in early childhood and who also don't respond typically to potential rewards as adolescents are vulnerable to developing depression later in life, more so than anxiety.

"The findings highlight different mechanisms in the brain and relate them to who is at greater risk for developing different mental health issues," said Tang, who conducted the research at the University of Maryland, College Park, before joining UT Dallas in August. "These results could inform the development of prevention-oriented treatments tailored to the individual." When babies are exposed to novel objects, people or situations, some react positively and approach them without fear, whereas others respond with wariness or avoidance. This differentiation defines uninhibited versus inhibited behaviour. "We know that inhibited children are more likely to have anxiety disorders later, particularly social anxiety, that begins in late childhood to adolescence," Tang said. "Less has been known about depression, which generally has a later onset, in young adulthood. But we do know that people who have had an anxiety disorder are 50 per cent to 60 per cent more likely to have depression later in life, so inhibited children should have higher risk for depression as well."

Germany approves reduced investment of China in Hamburg port

The government ministries of both China and Germany have reached a deal on a compromise to allow Chinese shipping group COSCO to take a smaller stake in the controversial Hamburg port deal than previously decided as Beijing's political tactics have been widely seen as a national security risk by countries, US-based publication Politico reported.

The deal has reportedly allowed a Chinese firm to take stakes in one of the terminals of the controversial Hamburg port.

The decision comes straight after several media reports revealed that German leader Olaf Scholz's chancellery tried to push the deal through despite concerns from multiple ministries.

After the final approval of the deal, it will allow Chinese company Cosco to buy only 24.9 per cent instead of 35 per cent of the shipping company that runs the terminal, Politico reported.

Russia's invasion of Ukraine has made the issue politically sensitive as China's quest to emerge as a global superpower has sparked security concerns amongst western nations. Hans-Jorg Heims, the spokesperson for HHLA, said that his company was "engaged in constructive talks with the German government."

The possibility of lowering Cosco's shares had been discussed, Heims said. "We could envisage this, but that's also up to CSPL [Cosco shipping]," he said, adding that he expects a final compromise to be found before a legal deadline for reviewing the investment runs out on October 31, according to Politico.

Notably, the Chinese firm Cosco already has stakes in Europe's two largest ports at Rotterdam and Antwerp.

The Banyan Tree

O you shaggy-headed banyan tree standing on the bank of the pond, have you forgotten the little chile, like the birds that have nested in your branches and left you? Do you not remember how he sat at the window and wondered at the tangle of your roots and plunged underground?

The women would come to fill their jars in the pond, and your huge black shadow would wriggle on the water like sleep struggling to wake up.

Smoking, vaping have similar negative health impacts

According to new research published today in the American Heart Association's peer-reviewed journal Arte, the cardiovascular effects of cigarettes and e-cigarettes are strikingly similar, and these harmful effects on blood vessel function are likely caused by airway irritation due to inhalation of a foreign substance, rather than a specific component of the cigarette smoke or e-cigarette vapor (aerosol) (ATVB).

Both cigarette smoking and e-cigarette vaping are known to promote endothelial dysfunction, which is the inability of big blood arteries to open sufficiently to give enough blood to the heart and other tissues. This has the potential to be an early indicator of cardiovascular disease. Endothelial cells line the inside of all blood vessels and control blood vessel opening, material exchange between the bloodstream and surrounding tissues, and immunological and inflammatory responses. "The goal of this project was to determine

why a growing number of inhaled tobacco products, including combustible cigarettes, heated tobacco products, and e-cigarettes, all impair endothelial function despite fundamental differences in these products," said the lead researcher of both studies Matthew L. Springer, Ph.D., a professor of medicine in the division of cardiology at the University of California, San Francisco.

"Thousands of chemicals have been identified in tobacco smoke, some of which are also present in e-cigarette aerosols, either as an original ingredient or as a chemical reaction product of the heating process.

We sought to find which specific component of smoke or e-cigarette vapor may be responsible for interfering with blood vessels' ability to function efficiently."

Springer and colleagues conducted two experiments in rats and humans to investigate the effects of smoking and vaping on cardiovascular function. Cigarette smoke impairs endothelial function due to vagal input from the airway rather than a specific smoke constituent. The ability of blood vessels to widen was examined in the rat study before and after exposure to smoke from four types of classic combustible cigarettes: conventional nicotine, reduced nicotine, conventional nicotine with added menthol, and reduced nicotine with added menthol.

Menthol is found in many tobacco products, and it may reduce irritation experienced by smoking, particularly among novice smokers, as well as play a significant role in fostering nicotine addiction.

The study's findings revealed that blood vessel dilatation was reduced after smoking all four types of cigarettes, with the magnitude of the reduction varying from 20-46% depending on the cigarette type. Although nicotine was not necessary for vascular function impairment, higher nicotine levels were linked with a greater decrease in FMD than lower nicotine levels, and menthol products were related to a lesser decrease in FMD than non-menthol products.

Springer stressed that the discovery that menthol reduced the severity of flow-mediated dilation impairment should not be taken as menthol is a useful component in smoking and vaping products because the impairment was still significant and menthol has additional adverse consequences.

The rats were also given two of the primary gases found in both smoke and e-cigarette aerosol, as well as clean carbon nanoparticles, to see how they affected blood vessel dilatation.

Huawei's Revenue Falls Down 2.2 Percent This Year Amid US Sanctions

Chinese tech giant Huawei's revenue rose in the latest quarter as infrastructure sales helped to offset damage to its smartphone business under the US sanctions, according to figures released Thursday. Revenue in the first nine months of 2022 declined 2.2 percent from a year earlier to CNY 445.8 billion (nearly Rs. 5,07,400 crore), according to the company, the biggest maker of network gear for phone and internet carriers. Four ways of keeping your heart healthy post your 30s

Pumping nutrient-rich blood to all parts of the body, supplying oxygen while removing toxins and waste, the heart is undoubtedly a vital organ. And heart health is central to overall health! Dr Rajpal Singh, Director-Interventional Cardiology, Fortis Hospital, Bengaluru, says, "Most of us have a healthy heart and physical agility in our 30s. As the saying goes, what we sow, is what we reap. This also applies to how our heart responds post our 30s."

Dr Rajpal shares some important tips to keeping your heart healthy for the years to come.

Regular Exercise Inculcating the habit of regular physical exercise in your routine is a great way of avoiding cardiac related illnesses such as hypertension, diabetes, obesity, high cholesterol levels, thereby reducing the risk of developing heart diseases. "Exercise can be in any form, sports, swimming or just simple brisk walking 40 minutes daily or at least 5 times a week," advises Dr Rajpal.

Sensible Diet "A diet rich in proteins and lean on carbohydrates and fat is recommended. This should be coupled with a healthy intake of dried fruits, five portions of fruit a day, minimum salt intake, good hydration, and alcohol in moderation," says Dr Rajpal. Also go for small portions at regular intervals, rather than binge eating.

Quit Smoking Smoking is, by far, the worst enemy of the heart, responsible for several heart related ailments. "A smoker is twice as likely to develop a heart attack compared to a non-smoker, and 3-4 times more likely to die from one, compared to non-smoker.

It takes just about a year for one's cardiovascular risk to halve after smoking cessation, and two years to come down to the same risk as that of a non-smoker," states Dr Rajpal. Notably, passive or second-hand smoking also has similar deleterious effects.

Health Check-Up "Prevention is better than cure. So, once you are in your 30s, it is recommended that you undergo regular heart and health check-up at least once a year," says Dr Rajpal. Further to this, those with high cardiac risk profile like smokers, those with diabetes or hypertension, obese individuals, those with a family history of premature heart diseases, etc. should meet a cardiologist and get assessed in detail.

"All the above mentioned aspects should go hand-in-hand, and coupled with good sleep and positive thoughts, your efforts will go a long way in keeping your post 30s heart healthy," concludes Dr Rajpal.

Johnson & Johnson Private Limited and IRSC partner to spread awareness on road safety CHANDIGARH : India suffers from the third highest number of road accidents and fatalities in the world. More than 4.03 lakh road accidents were reported across India in 2021, with 1.55 lakh people losing their life, according to the National Crime Records Bureau. This grim reality proves that there is an urgent need to educate citizens on traffic rules and responsible driving. On World Trauma Day, it is this vision that has brought Johnson & Johnson Private Limited and the Indian Road Safety Campaign (IRSC) together for the third year in a row. Together, J&J and IRSC will drive a sustained effort to engage people to become Good Samaritans. As part of the awareness initiative, J&J has also launched its first patient facing website for trauma related information and resources to empower road accident victims. Commenting on the initiative, Aksh Mahesh, BU Director - Trauma, PT & CMF, Johnson & Johnson Private Limited, said, "We are committed to spreading awareness about the increasing health and safety concerns in India, particularly when it comes to preventing road accidents and helping PTSD patients. Through a dedicated road safety awareness campaign, we aim to inform and educate on good driving practices. The website will serve as a ready reference for trauma patients and help them access treatments at a click of a button." "So most of the accident victims can be saved if they are provided immediate first aid and medical attention. A major hindrance in this is the hesitation among bystanders who fear getting into legal hassles if they lend a hand of support to the victims. The awareness campaign by J&J intends to spread awareness about the 'Golden Hour' and the 'Good Samaritan Law' that protects the individuals who come forward to help accident victims, from legal harassment. The need for people to come forward and learn first-aid techniques such as cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) is critical, so that they can provide first-level help to road accident victims till an ambulance or healthcare professional reaches the site. Also, along with treating physical injuries, it is crucial for accident survivors to treat their psychological wounds. "Road accidents can be avoided if people follow traffic rules designed to keep the roads safe for both motorists and pedestrians. Citizens should be aware of the Good Samaritan behavior as bystanders can save lives escorting accident victims to the nearest hospital or call an ambulance or Police Control Room," says Deepanshu Gupta, Co-Founder and Vice President, Indian Road Safety Campaign. SYDNEY: Rilee Rossouw's century followed by Anrich Nortje's four-wicket haul took South Africa to a massive 104-run victory over Bangladesh in the Super 12s of the ongoing T20 World Cup 2022 here at the Sydney Cricket Ground on Thursday.

For South Africa, Nortje bagged four while Tabraiz Shamsi took three wickets to guide Proteas to a massive victory. Chasing a target of 206, Bangladesh got off to a flying start as their openers Soumya Sarkar and Najmul Hossain Shanto slammed 26 runs in 2 overs, but Sarkar's stint was cut short when he was dismissed by Anrich Nortje after scoring 15 runs in 6 deliveries.

In the same over Nortje struck again removing Shanto for 9 off 9. Shakib Al Hasan then came out to bat but the skipper was sent packing by Nortje after scoring just one run, leaving Bangladesh tottering at 39/3. All-round India clinches 56-run win over Netherlands

AGENCY
SYDNEY, OCT 27

A superb performance by Indian bowlers coupled with half-centuries by a trio of Rohit Sharma, Virat Kohli and Suryakumar Yadav helped the all-round Men in Blue clinch a 56-run win over the Netherlands in their Group 2, Super 12 match of ongoing ICC T20 World Cup at Sydney Cricket Ground on Thursday.

With this win, India is at the top spot in the points table with four points in two wins in two matches. The Netherlands is at the bottom and has yet to score a point after two losses.

Chasing 180, the Netherlands got off to a bad start, losing openers Vikramjit Singh (1) and Max O'Dowd (16) to pacer Bhuvneshwar Kumar and spinner Axar Patel respectively. The stumps of both the openers were rattled, reducing the Dutch to 20/2 in 4.2 overs.

The duo of Bas de Leede and Colin Ackermann took the Netherlands through the remainder of the powerplay safely. At the end of six overs, Netherlands was at 27/2, with Leede (7*) and Ackermann (2*) at the crease. The short-lived 27-run partnership between the duo was ended by Axar Patel after he dismissed de Leede for 16 off 23 balls with assistance from Hardik Pandya at backward point.

At the end of 10 overs, the Dutch were at 51/3, with Tom Cooper (3*) and Ackermann (13#) at the crease.

Following this, spinner Ravichandran Ashwin drove India to a more comfortable position in the match by dismissing Ackermann (17) and Cooper (9), reducing the Netherlands to 63/5.

Tom Pringle and Scott Edwards tried to put on a stand for their side. But the match was slipping away from them as the required run rate kept mounting. At the end of 15 overs, Netherlands was at 81/5, with Pringle (14*) and Edwards (3*).

Pringle was the sixth batter down after Virat Kohli took a brilliant running catch at around mid-off, giving pacer Mohammad Shami his first wicket in the match. The Netherlands were six down at 87.

The Dutch side continued their downward spiral. Bhuvneshwar got his second wicket of the match and he sent back skipper Edwards for 5 off 8 balls. Netherlands sunk to 89/7.

Though the Netherlands crossed the 100-run mark in 17.4 overs, Arshdeep Singh took two quick scalps to dismiss Logan van Beek (3) and Fred Klaassen (0). The Dutch side was reduced to 101/9 in 18 overs.

Netherlands finished at 123/9 in their 20 overs, with Shariz Ahmad (16*) and Paul van Meekeren (14*) at the crease. The Dutch lost the match by 56 runs.

Bhuvneshwar Kumar (2/9), Axar Patel (2/18), Arshdeep Singh (2/27) and Ravichandran Ashwin (2/21) took two scalps for India. Shami got one wicket.

Half-centuries from star batters Virat Kohli, Rohit Sharma, and Suryakumar Yadav guided India to a competitive 179/2 in 20 overs against the Netherlands in their Group 2, Super 12 match of the ongoing ICC T20 World Cup at Sydney Cricket Ground (SCG) on Thursday.

Batting first, India was off to a shaky start as they lost opener KL Rahul for 9 off 12 balls after a medium pacer Paul van Meekeren trapped his leg before the wicket. India was 11/1 in 2.4 overs. Star batter Virat Kohli joined Rohit Sharma on the crease in the third over. The duo took India through the powerplay safely, without any further fall of a wicket. However, the Netherlands kept Indian batters subdued with their great line and length. At the end of six overs, India was at 32/1, with Kohli (6*) and Rohit (16*) at the crease.
