Rajiv Gandhi assassination: SC orders per-mature release of six convicts

AGENCY
NEW DELHI, NOV 11

The Supreme Court on Friday ordered the release of six convicts including Nalini Sriharan and RP Ravichandran, serving life imprisonment in connection with the assassination of former Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi.

A bench of BR Gavai and BV Nagarathna passed the order while taking into consideration the good conduct of convicts in the prison.

The apex court noted that they had been behind bars for a very long period.

"Applicants are thus directed to be released unless wanted in any other case. Matter accordingly disposed of," the bench stated in its order while allowing their pleas for release.

The top court further said, "Nalini has been behind bars for over three decades and her conduct has also been satisfactory. She has a PG diploma in Computer Application. Ravichandran's conduct has also been found to be satisfactory and he has undertaken various studies during his incarceration including a PG diploma in Arts. He has also collected various amounts for charity."

The top court released Nalini, Ravichandran, Robert Payas, Jayakumar, S Raja, and Sriharan.

On May 18, the Supreme Court had evoked its extraordinary powers under Article 142 of the Constitution to release AG Perarivalan, who was one of the seven convicts in the assassination case.

Nalini and Ravichandran had approached the apex court seeking release from prison-like fellow convict AG Perarivalan. The Tamil Nadu government had earlier recommended the pre-mature release of convicts saying that its 2018 aid and advice for the remission of their life sentence is binding upon the Governor.

It had considered mercy petitions of seven convicts in the Rajiv Gandhi assassination case and resolved to recommend the Governor for the remission of their life sentences invoking the power granted under Article 161 of the Constitution.

Nalini and Ravichandran had earlier knocked on the door of the Madras High Court seeking the same relief, however, the High Court had refused to entertain the petition.

Court decision totally unacceptable: Cong

NEW DELHI: The Congress on Friday termed "totally unacceptable and completely erroneous" the Supreme Court order directing the premature release of six convicts serving life sentence in the Rajiv Gandhi assassination case, and said the apex court has not acted in consonance with the spirit of India on this issue.

The Supreme Court directed the premature release of six convicts, including Nalini Sriharan and R P Ravichandran, serving life sentence in the case. A bench of Justices B R Gavai and B V Nagarathna said the judgement of the top court in the case of AG Perarivalan, one of the convicts in the case, is equally applicable in their matter. In a statement, Congress general secretary in-charge communications Jairam Ramesh said the decision of the Supreme Court to free the remaining killers of the former prime minister is "totally unacceptable and completely erroneous".

NASA report shows a steep decline in farm fire incidents in Haryana

BUREAU
CHANDIGARH, NOV 11

Concrete steps taken by Manohar Lal-led government to curb stubble burning are reflected in a recent report released by the US National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) that has shown a steep decline in farm fire incidents in Haryana.

The recent satellite images of stubble burning and arson incidents in northern India issued by NASA clearly show that in the last 24 hours, farm fire incidents in Haryana have come down even further, while the live images of stubble burning can be seen in three-fourths of the area of neighbouring state Punjab.

The official data released by NASA certainly indicates that cases of stubble burning have decreased in Haryana while the incidents of stubble burning are continuously increasing in Punjab.

Divulging more details in this regard an official spokesperson said that as per the data released for the last 24 hours, very few incidents of stubble burning have been reported in Haryana. This clearly highlights the fact that Haryana Government's stubble management programme has been a success. The State government's data also shows that the incidents of stubble burning in Haryana have come down by 25 per cent this year while in Punjab these incidents have increased by 20 per cent, said the spokesperson. The spokesperson said not only has the Haryana government launched an awareness campaign for the farmers to make them aware of the ill effects of stubble burning, but a provision of giving Rs 1000 per acre incentive has been made for not burning stubble and for its proper management.

Key contest between BJP and Cong in Doon VS

SHANTI GAUTAM
BADDI, NOV 11

Both BJP and Congress have put their heads to the capture of Baddi, the industrial capital of Himachal Pradesh. It is the only industrial area of Himachal Pradesh which has more than three thousand industries and it also gives employment to lakhs of people. The migrant population is more than the local and the main occupation of the people is transport. The headquarters of the Doon Vidhan Sabha is the city of Baddi and the entire capital city operates from here. The area is also known as Asia's largest industrial pharmaceutical hub and has more than 400 pharmaceutical factories. The Baddi area of Doon VS supplies about 40 percent of the medicine to the whole of India. Baddi area is also infamous for junk in political parties and politicians here also keep fighting over junk. It will also be fair to say here that this time the election is without issue and both the parties did not even release their manifestos nor told the public what their vision is after winning. In Baddi, the economic and industrial capital of the state, this time also the competition is between the last two old rivals Param Singh and Ramkumar, who will be face to face for the third time. Aam Aadmi Party and Rashtriya Devbhoomi Party have also fielded heavyweight candidates and together with Desraj, the lone independent candidate who has been in the field for five years, is also firmly standing. In 2012, there was a contest between Ramkumar of Congress and Param Singh (current MLA and BJP candidate) who was independent at that time in which Ramkumar won.

Prof. Tiwari mentioned that the university is committed to actualizing its mission of generating new knowledge and setting higher benchmarks in education and research. While sharing the details, Prof. Raj Kumar stated that this book focuses on the classification, structural chemistry, chemical and physical properties, along with various approaches for their synthesis. The text is divided based on the size of rings fused with a pyrimidine ring, chemical structures, preparation methodologies, and biological applications from 2015 to the end of 2021. At the beginning of each chapter, synthetic methods have been presented in a cursory manner, followed by biological actions, docking studies, and structure-activity relationship (SAR). This book would be ideal for researchers in organic chemistry, both in academic and industrial settings, and postgraduates in chemistry and medicinal chemistry. Prof. Raj Kumar is an eminent scientist in the field of Pharmaceutical Sciences and an Elected member of the Royal Society of Chemistry.

Helping

About two decades ago, V. Malleshwaramma, a woman farmer in her mid-forties with a small farm, would double up as a footloose labourer. Today, she heads an all-women, organic farmers' company with 250 shareholders in Andhra Pradesh's Kadapa district, aggregating and processing an array of pesticide-free farm produce — from ragi to paddy to perishables — and sending it to big cities like Hyderabad. What began as a self-help group running on a thrift fund grew in size and transitioned into a robust collective after relentless hard work, training and exposure. The group is part of a growing social enterprise, Sahaja Aharam, which is a federation of 60 collectives and producer companies with nearly 10,000 farmers scattered over Andhra and Telangana.

Cut to Balangir, western Odisha's once-impoverished and out-migration district: Hundreds of women members of self-help groups are running micro, small and big enterprises as part of the state's Mission Shakti initiative, a convergence of rural livelihoods missions. A women's empowerment programme that began in 2001 is now a separate state department with the government outsourcing its services and goods to the women SHGs across Odisha, enrolling nearly 8.5 million women members. In Balangir, the SHGs now provide an array of services and run multiple enterprises — from a running cafeteria to managing a government-run guest house to producing mid-day meals to operating a roaring handloom unit to agro-allied activities, transforming groups that were once mere thrift fund managers into social enterprises.

Women there are also handling the urban waste management — from doorstep garbage collection to production of compost to selling it in the open market. Travel to Kerala, and you'll be astonished to see the quiet but incredible work that goes on in the Kudumbashree collective, a Kerala initiative for women's empowerment and poverty alleviation. Women members of Kudumbashree make a steady income from multifaceted activities; they run micro or individual enterprises, or collective businesses with sustainability at their core. In Kerala, women's neighbourhood groups are building eco-housing and setting up examples in construction. In Osmanabad, Maharashtra, a 10-year-old self-help group formed by single women has recently graduated into a producers' company, taking baby steps into a world of cut-throat competition. Vrundavani Patil, the president, lost her husband 10 years ago and set up a group to support single women, from which sprouted this company.

Beijing's rise expected to bring UK's interest in Himalayas

The continuous attempts made by the People's Republic of China (PRC) in trying to change the geopolitics of South Asia, is expected to bring United Kingdom's (UK) interests in the Himalayan region, where it no longer has any direct concern involved, a report of Gray Sergeant by a think tank named Council on Geostrategy said.

In its attempts to change the demographic structure, PRC has been building infrastructure in Bhutanese territory and has also increased its interference in Nepal.

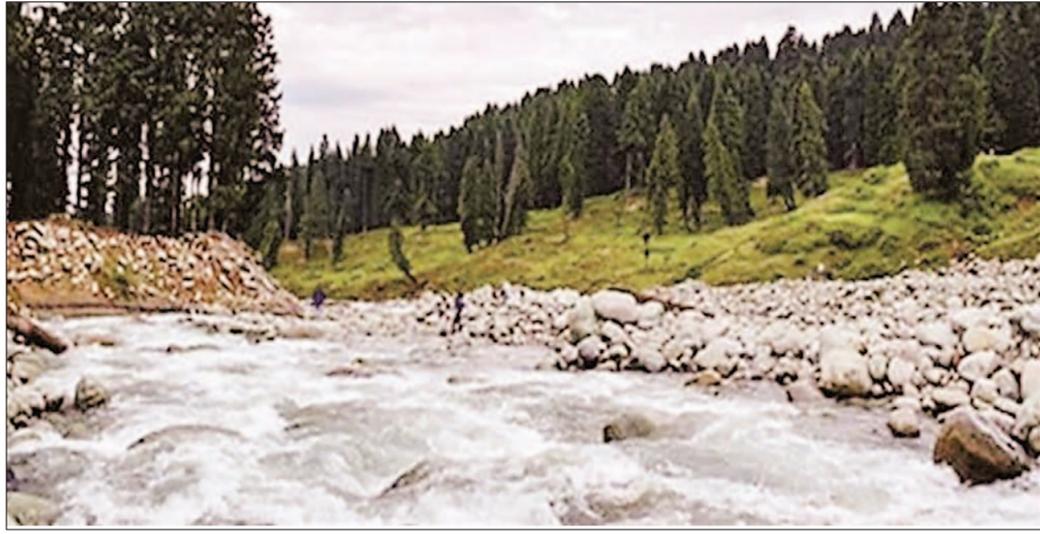

Although, territorial disputes between Bhutan and PRC have lasted for decades over their 470-kilometre-long border. But, in recent years Beijing has increased its efforts to alter the facts on the ground permanently. "Furthermore, this behaviour demonstrates the PRC's growing willingness to assert itself beyond its borders and act decisively to alter the status quo in its favour as it has done elsewhere, for example in the South China Sea and across the Taiwan Strait."

PRC has carried out measures to stem the flow of Tibetan refugees who come into Nepal by crossing the Himalayas. Beijing has also been pressuring Nepal to suppress the Tibetan and pro-Tibet activities inside the Nepalese border.

These longstanding issues are a stark example of how growing PRC influence within smaller nations can result in the undermining of human rights and their active support for Beijing's 'One China' principle.

Concerns are also present regarding the rivers India shares with PRC. Beijing has the potential to control exactly how much water will be flowing downstream, and given PRC's non-seriousness towards transparency, widen those concerns.

The issue demonstrates the PRC's willingness to ignore international norms and leverage a practical problem for political purposes, in this case as a tool in the wider territorial dispute with India, Council on Geostrategy stated.

The think tank also listed a number of recommendations for the British government. It believes that the UK should broaden its approach towards the Indo-Pacific posture covering the maritime and terrestrial theatres of the region.

The UK should be very closely monitoring the situation in Bhutan and condemn further incursions through joint statements.

It should also enhance its trade with Nepal to counter Chinese influence. UK's efforts to support Nepal's democratic transition, through the Westminster Foundation for Democracy and other Foreign Office initiatives, should continue.

The UK should also look towards enhancing its relation with India on both bilateral and security levels.

"India's own security concerns will also become more important to Britain as it seeks to strengthen bilateral ties with New Delhi," the report stated.

The UK should also support initiatives like the 'South Asia Water Initiative', which aims to enhance knowledge, technical and policy capacity and build relations with countries involved in the Himalayan river systems. Other than all this, the Council on Geostrategy believes that the UK should also stand up for the Tibetans. Although, the British government had raised its concern about human rights in Tibet.

such as Quadrilateral Security Dialogue and AUKUS, to counterbalance the PRC.

Moderate to heavy drinking is linked to a higher risk of stroke in young adults

According to a study, people in their 20s and 30s who drink moderate to large amounts of alcohol may be more likely to suffer a stroke as young adults than those who drink little or no alcohol.

The study was published in the issue of Neurology.

"The rate of stroke among young adults has been increasing over the last few decades, and stroke in young adults causes death and serious disability," said study author Eue-Keun Choi, MD, PhD, of Seoul National University in the Republic of Korea. "If we could prevent stroke in young adults by reducing alcohol consumption, that could potentially have a substantial impact on the health of individuals and the overall burden of stroke on society."

The study looked at records from a Korean national health database for people in their 20s and 30s who had four annual health exams. They were asked about alcohol consumption each year. They were followed for an average of six years.

They were asked the number of days per week they drank alcohol and the number of standard drinks per time. People who drank 105 grams or more per week were considered moderate or heavy drinkers. This is equal to 15 ounces per day, or slightly more than one drink per day. A standard drink in the United States contains about 14 grams of alcohol, which is equivalent to 12 ounces of beer, five ounces of wine or 1.5 ounces of liquor. More than 1.5 million people were included in the study. A total of 3,153 had a stroke during the study. People who were moderate to heavy drinkers for two or more years of the study were about 20% more likely to have a stroke than people who were light drinkers or did not drink alcohol. Light drinkers were those who drank less than 105 grams per week, or less than 15 ounces per day. As the number of years of moderate to heavy drinking increased, so did the risk of stroke. People with two years of moderate to heavy drinking had a 19% increased risk, people with three years had a 22% increased risk.

Muscle strength tied to biological age

Each person ages differently. Due to a variety of intrinsic and extrinsic circumstances, two 50-year-olds who have lived the same number of years may have distinct biological ages, resulting in various rates of ageing and varying levels of risk for disease and early death.

Disease, poor food, smoking, and other lifestyle factors all hasten biological ageing beyond chronological age. In other words, you're ageing more quickly than you should be. And for the first time, researchers have discovered a link between accelerated biological age and muscle weakness indicated by grip strength, a proxy for overall strength capacity.

Results in The Journal of Cachexia, Sarcopenia and Muscle show that grip strength declines with biological age, specifically.

Researchers at Michigan Medicine used three "age acceleration clocks" based on DNA methylation, a process that offers a molecular diagnostic and estimator of the pace of ageing, to analyse the link between biological age and grip strength of 1,274 middle-aged and older persons. The timepieces were initially designed after numerous research looking at early mortality, Alzheimer's disease, inflammation, diabetes, cardiovascular illness, cancer, physical impairment, and so forth.

The findings show that lower grip strength and biological age acceleration across the DNA methylation clocks were associated with older men and women. "We've known that muscular strength is a predictor of longevity, and that weakness is a powerful indicator of disease and mortality, but, for the first time, we have found strong evidence of a biological link between muscle weakness and actual acceleration in biological age," said Mark Peterson, PhD, M.S., lead author of the study and associate professor of physical medicine and rehabilitation at the University of Michigan.

"This suggests that if you maintain your muscle strength across the lifespan, you may be able to protect against many common age-related diseases. We know that smoking, for example, can be a powerful predictor of disease and mortality, but now we know that muscle weakness could be the new smoking." The eight to ten years of observation were the real strength of this study, according to Jessica Faul, PhD, M.P.H., a research associate professor at the University of Michigan Institute for Social Research.

The Journey

The morning sea of silence broke into ripples of bird songs; and the flowers were all merry by the roadside; and the wealth of gold was scattered through the rift of the clouds while we busily went on our way and paid no heed. We sang no glad songs nor played; we went not to the village for barter; we spoke not a word nor smiled;
we lingered not on the way.

Injections for diabetes, cancer could become unnecessary soon

It is now possible for cancer and diabetic patients to manage their ailments using pills rather than needles and injections thanks to research at UC Riverside.

Some medications for these illnesses dissolve in water, making it impossible to carry them through the intestines, which process food and drink. As a result, these medications can't be taken by mouth. But UCR researchers have developed a chemical "tag" that can be attached to these medications, enabling them to enter the bloodstream through the intestines. A little peptide, which resembles a protein fragment, makes up the tag. The discovery was led by Min Xue, a professor of chemistry at UCR. "Because they are relatively small molecules, you can chemically connect them to pharmaceuticals, or other molecules of interest, and use them to deliver those drugs orally," she said.

When the researchers noticed these peptides entering cells, Xue's lab was researching something unrelated.

"We did not expect to find this peptide making its way into cells. It took us by surprise," Xue said. "We always wanted to find this kind of chemical tag, and it finally happened serendipitously."

This finding surprised the researchers, according to Xue, because they had previously thought that in order for this kind of delivery tag to be accepted into negatively charged cells, it needed to carry positive charges. Their research with the neutral peptide tag EPP6 disproves that assumption.

The Xue group collaborated with Kai Chen's group at the Keck School of Medicine at the University of Southern California to test the peptide's capacity to move through the body by administering it to mice.

The team documented how the peptide ultimately made its way into the animals' organs through the blood using a PET scan, a method similar to a whole-body X-ray that is available at USC.

The team now intends to show that the tag can accomplish the same thing when attached to a variety of medications after proving the tag successfully crossed the circulatory systems through oral delivery. Preliminary findings that are 'very compelling' give us hope that we can further this, added Xue.

Numerous medications, such as insulin, require injection. The scientists are optimistic that their upcoming series of tests will reverse this situation and enable them to add this tag to a wide range of medications and chemicals, altering the way those molecules flow through the body.

"This discovery could lift a burden on people who are already burdened with illness," Xue said.

Chandigarh : The Marvel Cinematic Universe has gone green with the premiere of Marvel Studios' 'She-Hulk: Attorney at Law' on Disney+ Hotstar in English, Hindi, Tamil, Telugu, and Malayalam. Exploring the legacy of the Incredible Hulk in detail for the first time since 2008, the series introduces Emmy Award-winning actress Tatiana Maslany as Jennifer Walters, AKA, She-Hulk. Tim Roth returns to the role of Emil Blonsky, AKA The Abomination, after a 14-year hiatus. First appeared in 2008's Incredible Hulk—a storyline that put him at extreme odds with Bruce Banner and his superhero alter ego, this time viewers get to see a reformed Emil Blonsky makes his plea to Jennifer Walters to take on his parole case. The actor recalls his discussions with the filmmakers years ago when they wanted to take the memorable character. "It was something we thought about all those years ago. Back then, the question was, if they brought Blonsky back for another film, where would they find him? It was a very interesting question with some wild ideas," said Roth. "For Blonsky in this series, they took the character in a very different direction."

I started doing squats and lunges on the call: Jameela Jamil

Written by Jessica Gao, the series has been produced by Kevin Feige, Louis D'Esposito, Victoria Alonso, Brad Winderbaum, Kat Coiro and Jessica Gao. Jennifer Walters, AKA She-Hulk, has a rival of her own: the super-strong Titania played by Jameela Jamil. She-Hulk and Titania have been at each other's throats for nearly four decades of comic book stories. Titania is a narcissistic social media influencer who also has superhuman strength. Her misguided effort to garner attention leads to an unfortunate confrontation with She-Hulk, kicking off an adversarial relationship that confronts Jennifer/She-Hulk while seemingly energising Titania. For Jamil, playing a physically dominant character was exciting and terrifying.

Potli massage therapy to promote healing and wellness

Potli massage is named after the use of a potli, meaning pouch, filled with herbal ingredients to help alleviate pain. While it is one of the popular massage therapies practiced in India, potli massage therapy has been a natural remedy for centuries in South East Asia, especially in Thailand.

What Is A Potli Massage Therapy? As mentioned, potli massage therapy is performed using a poultice or a pouch filled with ingredients that benefit the body. The therapy finds its roots in Ayurveda, which is one of the oldest medicinal traditions in India. The potli used in potli massage therapy contains a mix of Ayurvedic herbs that are carefully chosen based on your ailment and your Ayurvedic constitution.

The potli is made of muslin cloth, and the ingredients for the massage are packed tightly in it. The potli is then dipped in either warm medicated oil (wet massage) or sand or herbal powder (dry massage). Then, the potli is massaged onto specific pressure points that promote healing in the body.

What Are The Benefits Of Potli Massage? Below are listed some of the many benefits of potli massage:

Owing to the selected ingredients in potli massage, this therapy serves to balance the doshas, thereby offering holistic wellness and improved health. Potli massage therapy primarily alleviates joint and muscle pain. It also reduces the severity of chronic muscle pain. This therapy is useful in reducing stiffness and soreness, especially in ailments like spondylitis, rheumatoid arthritis, slipped disc, paralysis, etc. It boosts blood circulation, thus speeding up the process of healing. Potli massage therapy helps detoxify the body, getting rid of all the waste and promoting rejuvenation. This massage therapy not only reduces the signs of ageing but also slows down the ageing process.

Both on the face and body, potli massage helps nourish the skin and firm it, reducing wrinkles and fine lines.

JP blaming Selja for his defeat: Dawoodi

VINOD DHIMAN JAGADHRI: Former Haryana Congress State Executive Mohammad Wasim Dawoodi, who considers Selja to be his political guru, gave a strong reaction to the statements of Congress candidate Jal Prakash. After the defeat in the Adampur by-election, the case of Congress candidate Jai Prakash is pointing fingers at former Congress state president Selja. Ensure 5 percent reservation in clerical cadre for compassionate ground: CS

BUREAU CHANDIGARH, NOV 11

Haryana Chief Secretary, Sanjeev Kaushal has directed all the Head of Departments, Deputy Commissioners to ensure to keep reserve of the 5 percent posts (especially of Clerical cadre) of Group C of direct recruitment for the purpose to grant Compassionate appointment to the family members of the deceased employee.

All the HODs and Deputy Commissioners will send the details about the name of the Group-c post, sanctioned strength of the post of direct recruitment quota, the number of posts under EX-gratia quota, the number of persons given compassionate appointment from August 1, 2019, onwards and the number of the vacant post under EX-gratia quota to HR-II Branch through email-Superintendents2@gmail.com by November 17, 2022, directed Sh. Sanjeev Kaushal.

Sharing more details in this regard, an official spokesperson said that in some cases it has been observed that in some of the departments the 5 percent quota of Group C posts for the purpose of compassionate appointment is not reserved at the time of sending requisition for direct recruitment to HSSC. As a result, it becomes difficult for them to grant compassionate appointment to the eligible family member of deceased Government employee of their Department and cases are sent to Human Resources Department to grant compassionate appointment on Group C posts in other departments. This process takes time upto 6 months and the family members of deceased employee have to face difficulties for this purpose added the spokesperson.

The spokesperson shared that in Rule 10 (b) of the Haryana Civil Services (Compassionate Financial Assistance or Appointment) Rules, 2019 it has been mentioned that Compassionate Appointment shall be admissible to the eligible family member of a Government employee who dies while in service to the post of Group C and D subject to certain conditions. Where the Compassionate appointment is admissible to Group C posts, the same cannot be granted over and above the 5 percent of sanctioned posts of direct quota.

Tatarwal said that it is the responsibility of the entire society to bring such children, who are mentally and physically handicapped, into the mainstream of society. Social and voluntary organisations should step forward and work for the all-round development of such children so that they can be given knowledge like normal children. Along with education, give knowledge and skills to the children based on their interest and ability, so that in the future they are not dependent on anyone.

DC Dr. Sangeeta Tatarwal was speaking during the inauguration of the Open School for Mentally Handicapped and Visually Impaired Children at Poondri Sweta Royal School. On this occasion, she told Red Cross Secretary Ramji Lal that whatever facilities, ma-

Fate of candidates to be decided this evening

SANJAY VERMA PEHOWA: The fate of the candidates will be decided by this evening regarding the Panchayat elections, and a small government will be formed at the village level. Rural development was stalled due to the delay of Panchayati Raj elections, which will start again as soon as Chaudhar meets. There was a ruckus in the villages for many days to get the chaudhar posts of Sarpanch and Panch, and the candidates were adopting all kinds of tricks to woo the voters, and the Lal Pari period was going on. In the sarpanch elections also, announcements were made by the candidates like in the assembly elections, in which promises were made regarding the development of villages, education, old age, and handicapped pensions. The efforts of the government are being appreciated at the village level; they are getting a chance to get Chaudhar into the hands of educated people, and this is also building confidence in the people that this will lead to more development and education-related awareness and social development at the village level. Evil will be removed. During the elections, just as candidates for the post of Sarpanch united day and night, there is a lot of competition for the post of Panch. The candidates have gone to the homes of the voters many times to get votes and are trying hard to get votes by making various promises to them. Meanwhile, mutual relations have been established and have deteriorated. In many villages, only family members are joining each other in the battle of Chaudhar. Now it is to be seen whether, after getting Chaudhar, the candidates will fulfil their expectations by fulfilling the promises made to the villagers or whether they will remain just announcements as before. In Block Pehowa, 69 panchayats, 128 booths, and 11 sensitive and 12 very sensitive places have been identified. Police security has been taken seriously at these sensitive and very sensitive places, and the police administration personnel will also try to maintain the security system through PCR.

Kapil Muni Govt College struggling with problem of waterlogging

SATISH SETH KALAYAT: Even after 4 months, the drainage of water has not been possible from the premises of Kapil Muni Government Women's College. Water recharge bores installed in the college campus are proving to be inefficient. Due to the stink emanating from the water due to waterlogging for a long time, the girl students are facing problems. Simultaneously, hundreds of saplings planted in the campus are drying up due to water. City residents Rajendra Kumar, Anil, Rajkumar, Vinod and the college students told that the boundary wall of the women's college campus was constructed by spending crores of rupees on behalf of the government. But no steps have been taken to get rid of the water logging problem. Due to waterlogging for a long time, foul smell is spreading around the premises and mosquitoes have found a breeding ground. Hundreds of saplings planted for beautification have dried up.

For a few days, water was being pumped continuously into sewerage by lifting water through pumps by the municipal administration. Which is not a permanent arrangement. People have urged the government and administration to make adequate arrangements for drainage of water from the college premises at the earliest.

Municipality chairperson Shashibala Kaushik said that due to the low ground of the college campus, there has been a problem of water logging during the rainy days. A pump set has been arranged by the administration for water drainage, from which water is being drained continuously.

Newly elected panches, sarpanches meet MLA Renu Bala

PREETI RANI SADHAURA, NOV 11

In the Panchayati Raj elections, mostly in the districts of Yamunanagar and Sadhaura, the Congress party has dominated. A large number of newly elected sarpanches from their respective villages visited Sadhaura MLA Smt. Renu Bala's office at 116 Omaxe Court, Pabni Road, Jagadhri, and congratulated the MLA. On this occasion, Renu Bala also extended warm wishes to the newly appointed sarpanches and wished all the sarpanches a bright future. On what occasion did Renu Bala say that today is a happy day? The Congress party has the most senators in the Sadhaura assembly. This demonstrates that the Congress party's time has come. The BJP government is proving unsuccessful in garnering public trust day by day, and it is clearly visible that the BJP government will leave Haryana. The Congress Party will come to Haryana with a thumping majority and form its government in the upcoming assembly elections. The people elected the sarpanches of the Congress party and made them sarpanches with their franchise. I bow to the mandate of the people. The people of the village have reposed their faith in the Congress party, and more and more sarpanches of the Congress party have won. She said that I assure them that, as much as possible, I will do everything possible for the development of the village and the progress of the people and that they will continue to raise their voices in the assembly from time to time. Renu Bala said that unemployment, inflation, and corruption are visible at their peaks. The public is disillusioned with the false and hollow promises of the BJP-JJP government. The large number of Congress Party Sarpanches who have formed in Halka Sadhaura indicate that the Congress Party's time has come. On this occasion, Randhir Singh from Bhogpur, Pradeep Kumar from Lalhadi-Jogiwada, Advocate Gulab Singh from Kulchandun, Jasmer Singh from Milk Sukhi, Mustakin from Manakpur, Sajid Khan from Bijauli, Narendra Singh from Dhaur, Mayaram from Sadhaen, and Ramchandra from Chaurahi and Makhor were present. Sarpanchs of more than two dozen villages, including Manish Kumar from Kotra, Manga Ram from Kotra, Reena Rani from platforms, and Parvinder Kaur from Bal Chhapar, etc., were present.

AGENCY
NEW DELHI, NOVEMBER 11

Ahead of Himachal Pradesh assembly polls, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi has said that if Congress forms a government in the state, the Old Pension Scheme will be restored like it has been done in party-ruled Chhattisgarh and Rajasthan and in Jharkhand, where Congress is part of the coalition government.

"The old pension (scheme) is security, a promise, not a deal like a new pension. Congress will restore old faith to the senior citizens of Himachal Pradesh. OPS was restored in Chhattisgarh, Rajasthan and Jharkhand. Now it's Himachal's turn," Rahul Gandhi said in a tweet.

Earlier on Thursday, Chhattisgarh Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel said the Congress would restore the Old Pension Scheme (OPS) in Himachal Pradesh in 10 days and provide jobs to 1 lakh people if voted to power in the ensuing Assembly elections.

Addressing a public rally in the state, Baghel said, "The BJP government only brought inflation and joblessness in Himachal. Now is the time for a change. The Congress has promised to restore the Old Pension Scheme in 10 days and give jobs to 1 lakh people if voted to power in the state."

The Congress held 'Vijay Ashirwad' rallies across assembly segments of Himachal Pradesh on Thursday, the last day for campaigning for the November 12 polls, with party general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra leading a door-to-door campaign in Shimla.

The Congress star campaigners visited temples and sought divine blessings before hitting the campaign trail on the last day. They were also seen holding road shows and interacting with voters.

SHIV KUMAR SHARMA
CHANDIGARH, NOVEMBER 11

Deputy Chief Minister of the state Dushyant Chautala has called upon the newly elected sarpanches to take steps in the direction of building a digital library in their respective villages. He said that this will increase the facilities for the education of the youth in the rural areas and students will be able to prepare for competitive exams in the village itself.

He was meeting the newly elected Panchs and Sarpanchs from different districts at his residence in Chandigarh on Friday. Dushyant Chautala said that the newly elected representatives have to play an important role in rural development while maintaining mutual brotherhood. On this occasion, State Minister Anup Dhanak, Haryana Khadi and Village Industries Board Chairman and JJP National Organization Secretary Rajendra Litani, Chairman and MLA Ramkaran Kala, JJP State Office Secretary Randhir Singh, JJP Rural

About 35 newly elected sarpanches from Panchkula district, representatives met Deputy Chief Minister Dushyant Chautala, including newly elected sarpanch Om Prakash of village Chhattar of Uchana Halke, newly elected sarpanch Rajbir of village Jeevanpur. JJP has done exceedingly well in Panchkula, while 35 Sarpanchs and hundreds of Panchs associated with JJP came up trumps in Kalka.

The Deputy CM while congratulating the newly elected representatives said that Panchayats have a big responsibility as a small government in rural development. He said that the government is building digital libraries in villages to facilitate the education of rural youth. He said that the newly elected sarpanches should arrange a big room in their villages for the construction of libraries in the chaupalas etc. so that a modern library can be constructed there by the government.

Johad maintenance is a major election issue in this Karnal village

SHIV KUMAR SHARMA

KACHHWA: There are many problems in Pundarak, a village under Karnal assembly constituency, but the main issue here is the massive battle between water bodies located at the entrance of the village. This 9 acre johad was built by the Chief Minister for the first time in the area 8 years ago with a 5 pound system. But today, its entire system is missing.

The previous Panchayat had arranged to drain the water of the overflowing Johad in the drain, which is alleged to have not been done. Due to this reason, the condition of Johad has worsened. The dirty water of the entire village falls into the Johd every day and it rots in the heat, and the stench spreads.

If by mistake any animal or cattle goes into the forest, then it gets stuck in it. It is not the work of anyone to remove it. The villagers say that when the east wind blows, the smell spreads throughout the village. The abundance of flies and mosquitoes lasts for 12 months. The people of the village say that if the previous sarpanch had maintained this johad properly, then he did not need to contest the election, the village would have unanimously made him the sarpanch again. There are more than 24 hundred votes in the village and 4 candidates are fighting for the election for sarpanch's post.

Three sarpanchs are from the same fraternity, Gurjar community, and one from the Brahmin community. The other issues of the village are the road to the crematorium not being paved, some fields remaining uncultivated, the lack of repair of the streets and drains etc. Village social workers Satpal Sharma, Ganesh Das, Mahinder Singh, Jaipal, Tejpal, Satish Kumar said that a large amount of grant sent by the government has gone back due to its non-use for development work. The government has not kept any shortfall in giving grants to the Gram Panchayat, but the villagers are alleging that the leadership has not been able to utilize it properly.
