Govt formulated various policies for ease of living of people: CM

BUREAU CHANDIGARH, JUNE 12

Harvana Chief Minister, Sh. Manohar Lal said that the government has formulated various welfare policies to make life easier for the people of the state. He said that the government is determined to eradicate corruption. "People are getting direct benefits of the schemes in our government. Now the assistance amount goes directly to the beneficiary's account whereas earlier the amount used to disappear on the way to reach the beneficiary," he added.

The Chief Minister was addressing the people during the Jan Samvad programme organized at Karnal's Ward No. 16 today.

On a demand related to a school, the Chief Minister announced to open a primary school in Karnal's Kodi colony, work on which will start soon.

Meanwhile, on a complaint of a local regarding the cancellation of ration card, it was found that the ration card was cancelled because the person had filed income tax return for taking a loan. On this, the Chief Minister said that in case someone has not filed the return in the last two years, then the income shown in the return for the ration card will not be considered. "Those who have filed income tax return, it has affected their ration cards," he added.

The Chief Minister said that every grievance related to property ID will be resolved for which special camps are being organized.

The Chief Minister said that the state government is giving the benefit of health insurance up to Rs 5 lakh to the families with an annual income of Rs 1.80 lakh. "The government is also considering to include the families in this scheme whose annual income is between Rs 1.80 lakh and Rs 3 lakh; by taking some premium amount to give them a benefit of up to Rs 5 lakh," he added.

He said that after the implementation of Parivar Pehchan Patra (PPP), 12.5 lakh new BPL ration cards have been made in the state.

Meanwhile, the people appreciated the merit based job system started by the present government, stating that it has brought transperancy against the earlier 'parchi-kharchi' system. Sh. Manohar Lal said that action will be taken on all the complaints received during the Jan Samvad programmes. All the complaints will be sent online to the concerned departments, which will have to be resolved by the concerned officer within the prescribed time period, he said. The Chief Minister said that the people of the state are getting benefits due to the implementation of the R ight to Service Act. He said that if the work is not done within the prescribed time period, the related complaint goes to auto appeal. In case of no response within the stipulated time period, the matter goes to the Commission and action is taken against the negligent officer

BJP National President Jagat Prakash Nadda on Monday said Akali Dal, Samajwadi Party, RJD, TMC, KCR, DMK, Shiv Sena, NCP have all become family parties and Congress has become a party of mother, son and daughter. Addressing a rally, he said Prime Minister Narendra Modi had discussed in 2014 that BJP should have its own office and immediately the then National President Amit Shah started planning for it. As of now, state and district level offices are opening across the country. 887 offices have been created in the country, 502 offices have been completed, including Noorpur and Palampur offices and work is underway on 166 offices. In Himachal Pradesh too, eight offices have been completed. BJP's offices are centers of rituals and they are never locked, they remain open 24 hours. Nadda is on a three day tour of Himachal Pradesh to give a fillip to the Lok sabha election campaign of the party. BJP National President Jagat Prakash Nadda said today a BJP worker's chest expands when it is discussed that BJP is the largest political party in the world with 18 crore members. Our party is an ideology based party, today it is seen that Congress and CPIM contest elections by joining hands, where have their political principles gone. Nadda said the BJP had passed a resolution to build a grand Ram temple at Palampur in Kangra and it is the strong will of Prime Minister Narendra Modi that he laid the foundation stone of the Ram temple and very soon it will be ready and dedicated to the nation. The BJP had said in the 60s that we would become a nuclear power, but the Gandhi family then made fun of the BJP. In 1998, nuclear training was conducted in Pokhran under the leadership of the then Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee. 'Today the economy of our country has surged from the tenth position to the fifth position, 'he added. Nadda said the Bharatiya Janata Party has booth presidents and booth committees at 6.80 lakh booths across the country. We have 303 Lok Sabha MPs, 1385 MLAs and governments in 15 states in the country, BJP is definitely a strong organization. Nadda said that BJP is a party working with the aim of service, good governance and welfare of the poor and the rest of the parties of the country have remained just a party of families. In our party even an ordinary worker can become the National President, Chief Minister and Prime Minister. Comparing the Congress period and the BJP period, he said scandals used to happen during the Congress period and schemes were made during the BJP period, policies were made during the Congress period, a strong, decisive government runs during the BJP period and the Congress period was the black spot of the BJP. Time is the bright spot.

Strict notice to those who threaten struggling wrestlers

KULDEEP SOOD

BARNALA: The revolutionary center Punjab has taken strict notice of the entire process of government in the case of the women wrestlers' long-standing struggle against physical abuse by the government, firing them, submitting false FIRs, making insulting remarks, threats, character assassination done by the accused Brij Bhushan. While stating to the press here today, Revolutionary Center Punjab President Narayan Dutt and General Secretary Kanwaljit Khanna said that despite the huge support and demands of the justice-loving people across the country, the BJP government is making all efforts to save the accused of sexual exploitation. Women wrestlers are now being ordered to present evidence, although in law the statements of the victim are enough to charge-sheet the accused. Three dozen cases are registered against Brij Bhushan Sharan Singh accused of physical abuse of female wrestlers. Dawood has also been punished in a case like 'TADA' in return for helping Daoud Ibrahim's goons. BJP claims to be morally high, but the truth is that targeting women, minorities, and intellectuals is the dirty morality of the BJP. He said that the famous players of the country coming to the streets for justice is a slap on the face of the Modi government. During the opening drama of the new parliament from above, the dominance of the capitalist on democracy has been witnessed by the people of the world by making the wrestlers procession on the streets. He said that the determination, courage, and faith with which women wrestlers have fought the struggle, has raised the head of women across the world. This struggle against the concept of staying silent out of fear will be victorious in all circumstances.

A research scholar of Punjabi University Patiala, Rajinder Kumar has found the solution save the turbine to components used in hydro electric power plants from erosion. The research scholar successfully completed this research work under Dr. Deepak Bhandari, Assistant Professor Yadavindra Department of Engineering and Dr. Khushdeep Goyal, Associate Professor Mechanical Engineering Department of Punjabi University. Dr. Deepak Bhandari told that hydraulic turbines of hydro power plants face the severe problem of slurry erosion. The amount of silt in water increases in the rainy season that become the reason of damage of hydro turbines parts. Particularly the vanes/blades are badly affected. Due to this damage run time of the power plant, decreases and it suffers power production loss which further leads to economy loss. Dr. Khushdeep Goyal said that the researcher Rajinder Kumar has successfully used thermal spray coatings on turbine steel and has successfully reduced the problem of erosion of turbine steel in hydropower electric stations. The technique developed by Rajinder Kumar is able to increase the life span of working of turbines in hydro electric power plants, which in turn will increase the output of electricity and will reduce the cost of per unit of electric power. He also told that their research papers written on this new developed technique have been published in various reputed international journals.

YUGMARG, CHANDIGARH, TUESDAY, JUNE 13, 2023

Editorial Battle diary

n a June afternoon, I saw 50 women protesting outside the community health centre. It all started with Somali losing her twins. "Didi, kuch karvo pade," the women responded firmly when they learnt about Somali. Losing infants is not uncommon in tribal villages that often lack clean water, electricity, and healthcare facilities. But women staging a protest was new. "How will you work in the villages?" I remember my mother asking me when I started working in Udaipur's tribal area after graduating from social work school. I was determined to make a difference. My role was to strengthen women's groups in the villages. I remember how men paid little attention while I addressed meetings. Their eyes revealed a lack of trust. After witnessing gender inequality first-hand, I felt grateful for a more gender-equal upbringing.

The journey was difficult and rewarding. It taught me to never take my freedom for granted. I also met wonderful people to whom I owe a better understanding of life. It was exciting to be with sharp and hardworking women. Their situation, however, was difficult. The Adivasi women walk for hours to gather firewood, water, and food. Many parents lose their young children. During the meetings, we discussed everything under the sun. There was laughter and fun as well as discussions about livelihood, reproductive health and violence. Some conversations, however, were heartbreaking.

Somali told me during a meeting that she lost her twins because a doctor denied her healthcare. When I enquired, many other instances came to light. The women staged a protest after a week. Later, they reported the cases of neglect to the State Women's Commission. Somali Bai told her story to a crowd of a hundred at a jansunvai. The NGO's efforts had paid off.

It was, however, a never-ending struggle. We worked on witch-hunting and domestic violence. I saw women grow into powerful leaders. Some took part in panchayat elections and became active decision-makers. When I was leaving to begin a new chapter in my life, the women members bid me farewell with tears in their eyes. I pursued my higher education in public health to learn about the community's traditional health practices. It was illuminating to understand the miseries through the lens of public health. During my PhD research, I came across many instances of the lack of access to healthcare. One day, during a visit to a remote tribal hamlet, a harried young mother approached me and said, "My son cannot see at night." After investigations, we discovered that Ramlu suffered from an acute deficiency of Vitamin A.

Why are Singapore manufacturers moving to India?

ingapore is well-known for being an easy place to do business. Among the factors that play to the city-state's advantage is an attractive tax system, an extensive network of tax treaties, ready availability of quality human capital, geopolitical stability, accessibility to financing, connectivity to the rest of the world, and good infrastructure.

Singapore also has a significant Indian diaspora, and it is therefore no surprise many Indian businesses have established bases in Singapore. According to the Indian High Commission in Singapore, about 9,000 Indian companies are registered in Singapore. Notable Indian firms such as Tata Group, Mahindra & Mahindra, Reliance Industries, Adani Group, Infosys and Wipro all have bases in Singapore. India and Singapore have enjoyed a robust trade relation for many years.

For the fiscal year 2021-22, bilateral trade stood at USD 30.11 billion. Singapore is India's 6th largest trade partner with a share of 2.9 percent of India's overall trade. Whereas India is Singapore's 12th largest trade partner with a share of 2.3 percent in Singapore's overall trade. India FDI (foreign direct investment) inflows for 2021 to Singapore stood at USD 18.41 billion while FDI equity inflows to India from Singapore reached USD 15.87 billion during FY2021-22. Cumulatively, Singapore is the 2nd largest investor in India with USD 140.99 billion invested in India from April 2000 to September 2022.

The top sectors attracting FDI Equity inflows from Singapore are the services sector, computer software & hardware, trading, telecommunications, and drugs & pharmaceuticals. Another sector that is set to attract more investments from Singapore is manufacturing.

India has been attracting more manufacturers to its since 2014 when shores Prime Minister Narendra Modi launched the "Make in India" campaign to put India prominently on the global manufacturing map and, in turn, facilitate the inflow of new technology and capital, while creating millions of jobs. To this end, the government has made it easier for foreign companies to operate in the country. Between 2016 to 2019, India vaulted from 130th place to 63rd place out of 190 countries in the World Bank's Ease of Doing Business Index. India aims to further raise the manufacturing sector's share of gross domestic product to 25 per cent by 2025, from 16 per cent now.

Of late, India has been attracting such companies as Apple, Samsung, Kia, Boeing, Siemens, and Toshiba to shift a significant amount of their manufacturing activity to India. Some of these re-locations have been prompted by COVID-era supply chain disruptions and geopolitical tensions.

Singapore companies which used to mostly manufacture their products in neighbouring Southeast Asian countries and China appear to be doing the same.

Among Singapore firms that have shifted their operations to India are contract manufacturers who support and supply larger large multinational corporations

(MNCs), some of whom have re-located to India. Singapore

Enterprise Singapore (EnterpriseSG) has been playing a part in helping Singapore firms establish themselves in India to benefit from the opportunities available to them in India due to policies favourable to manufacturers as well as its general economic outlook.

Enterprise Singapore is a statutory board under the Ministry of Trade and Industry of the Government of Singapore. Its aim is to support the development of Singapore's small and medium enterprises, upgrade capabilities, and help them innovate, transform, and internationalise

In 2022, the number of Singaporean firms that worked with EnterpriseSG to enter India increased by more than 40 per cent compared to pre-pandemic 2019. Manufacturing was among the top three sectors represented in these companies, alongside information and communications and professional servicin 2018 to 723 million rupees (USD8.8 million) in 2022.

Its managing director Ranjit Yadav told Singapore's past many foreign companies needed a local partner to enter India and there was a cap on foreign ownership. However, today, 100 per cent FDI is allowed for firms in most customs duties on imported components. This means manufacturers based in India have an incentive to find local suppliers and thus lower their costs, he said.

EnterpriseSG has been working with Indian agencies, for example, the Confederation of Indian Industry (CII) to help Singapore firms capture opportunities to expand in India.

China ignores climate while "developing" African oil pipeline

The USD 1 trillion 'Belt and Road Ini-tiative' (BRI) has been so poorly executed and with such a lack of transparency that it is difficult to estimate the amount of harm done by providing enormous sums of money to developing countries given the African continent's abundant energy resources, according to NTV Kenya. Western finand from the USD 5 billion East African Crude Oil Pipeline (EACOP), the Export-Import Bank of China (EXIM) and other stateowned companies have stepped in to fund the remaining USD 3 billion. When completed, the 1445 km long project from the Ugandan oilfields of Lake Albert is expected to deliver 216,000 barrels. It will be sent to worldwide markets after arriving at the port of Tanga in Tanzania's Indian Ocean. The Industrial and Commercial Bank of China (ICBC) owns a 20 per cent shareholding in Standard Bank of South Africa and is collaborating with it to act as EACOP's financial advisor and debt arranger, according to NTV Kenya. Although Total Energies owns 62 per cent of the pipeline, Uganda National Oil Company and Tanzania Petroleum Development Corporation each own 15 per cent, with the remaining 8 per cent owned by China National Offshore Oil Corporation (CNOOC), which has already begun drilling at the Kingfisher Oilfield in Lake Albert, while Total Energies operates the other oilfield in western Uganda.

The pipeline itself is being supplied by China Petroleum Pipeline Engineering, NTV Kenya reported. Chinese infrastructure projects have not typically had a happy outcome in the recent past. After heavily indebted countries feared their international credit rating would be damaged, China lent to African countries through shell companies, such as a USD 1.5 billion loan to Zambia from Chinese banks that did not appear on the accounts of the public for years.

As questions arise as to how exactly these massive loans will be repaid in the future, one can take a look at existing actions taken to assess China's future tactics. In a series of years-long digital intrusions, Kenya has faced cyber-attacks from Chinese hackers attempting to infiltrate key ministries and State institutions to keep abreast of its lending status and debt repayment intentions, NTV Kenya reported. Several reports show that 35 per cent of BRI infrastructure projects are plagued by corruption scandals, labour violations, environmental hazards, and public protests. Over the past few years, China has cooperated with training police institutions across the African continent and spreading its message of security.

Researchers find taurine a key to longer, healthier life

aurine is a vitamin pro-duced by the body and found in many foods. According to a new study led by Columbia academics and including hundreds of ageing specialists from across the world, taurine insufficiency is a factor in animal ageing.

The same research revealed that taurine supplementation can delay the onset of ageing in worms, mice, and monkeys and can even boost the healthy lifespans of middleaged mice by up to 12 per cent. The findings of the study were published June 8 in Science. "For the last 25 years, scientists have been trying to find factors that not only let us live longer, but also increase healthspan, efforts to identify interventions that improve health in old age have intensified as people are living longer and scientists have learned that the aging process can be manipulated. Many studies have found that various molecules carried through the bloodstream are associated with aging. Less certain is whether these molecules actively direct the aging process or are just passengers going along for the ride. If a molecule is a driver of aging, then restoring its youthful levels would delay aging and increase healthspan, the years we spend in good health. Taurine first came into Yadav's view during his previous research into osteoporosis that uncovered taurine's role in building bone. Around the same time, other researchers were finding that taurine levels correlated with immune function, obesity, and nervous system functions. 'We realized that if taurine is regulating all these processes that decline with age, maybe taurine levels in the bloodstream affect overall health and lifespan," Yadav said. First, Yadav's team looked at levels of taurine in the bloodstream of mice, monkeys, and people and found that the taurine abundance decreases substantially with age. In people, taurine levels in 60-year-old individuals were only about onethird of those found in 5-yearolds. "That's when we started to ask if taurine deficiency is a driver of the aging process, and we set up a large experiment with mice," Yadav says.

The researchers started with close to 250 14-month-old female and male mice (about 45 years old in people terms). Every day, the researcher fed half of them a bolus of taurine or a control solution. At the end of the experiment, Yadav and his team found that taurine increased average lifespan by 12% in female mice and 10% in males. For the mice, that meant three to four extra months, equivalent to about seven or eight human years. To learn how taurine impacted health, Yadav brought in other aging researchers who investigated the effect of taurine supplementation on the health and lifespan in several species. These experts measured various health parameters in mice and found that at age 2 (60 in human years), animals supplemented with taurine for one year were healthier in almost every way than their untreated counterparts.

The researchers found that taurine suppressed age-associated weight gain in female mice (even in "menopausal" mice), increased energy expenditure, increased bone mass, improved muscle endurance and strength, reduced depression-like and anxious behaviors, reduced insulin resistance, and promoted a younger-look ing immune system, among other benefits. "Not only did we find that the animals lived longer, we also found that they're living healthier lives,' Yadav said. At a cellular level. taurine improved many functions that usually decline with age: The supplement decreased the number of "zombie cells" (old cells that should die but instead linger and release harmful substances), increased survival after telomerase deficiency, increased the number of stem cells present in some tissues (which can help tissues heal after injury), improved the performance of mitochondria, reduced DNA damage, and improved the cells' ability to sense nutrients

I learnt to combat depression by smiling: Anu Malik kark

usic composer and singer Anu Malik has opened up about his struggle with depression and how he overcame it.

Speaking exclusively to ANI, Anu reminisced about his childhood, sharing that he was just 10 years old when he started "seeing the pain", adding that he learned to combat depression by smiling. "My father was one of the most uniquely talented man. 'Saarnga Teri Yaad Men Nain Hue Bechain, 'Haan Deewana Hoon Main' were composed by my father. Being the eldest. I remember seeing tears in his eyes and I went up to him and said 'everyone gets work, why are you so alone?' He said, no one was giving work. I started seeing pain at the age of 10. And depression hit me at that time. I realised I am in a world where my father is financially insecure, mummy is stressed out and I have to work.' The singer underlined the impact of changing family dynamics on mental health. He said, "I tried to combat the depression. I realised that if I start crying like anybody else, who will take care of the family? I didn't have the luxury to sit in a corner and cry. I didn't have time for that. I just lifted my Harmonica (Baja) and used to knock on the door asking for work. I remember during that time I wrote few lines, one of which was, "main galivo ka raaja mere daulat mere dil hai aur yah mere baja." Many people use to laugh at me but they never had a clue about the depression I was going through. So I learnt to combat the depression by smiling. If someone use to say something to me, I would just smile at them. I never let anything affect me. You don't have the luxury to even cry. You just move on." Revealing what kept him going during tough times, the singer-composer said, "One song motivates me. It is written by a poet, Shailendra-ji, whom I respect and draw a lot of inspiration from. His song 'Chalane Hee Hai Zindagaanee Rukana Maut Kee Nishaanee Sar Pe Laal Topi Rusi Phir Bhi Dil Hai Hindustani' motivates me to this day. I am an Indian, I am a fighter. I believe every Indian is a fighter. I believe we all learn to survive." On how he motivated Alka Yagnik, who also went through a phase in her career when she battled depression and was unable to sing, he said, "When Alka-ji lost her father, she was combating lot of pain. I lost my father and mother as well and know how it feels. JP Dutta sahib gave us a film, 'Refugee' Abhishek Bachchan and Kareena Kapoor, it was their debut film. I am really grate-ful to Dutta sahab. He gave me Border, he gave me Refugee, LOC Kargil. When these songs were written, thought only person that could do justice to them is Alka. When we use to call her, she was not in that zone to sing. She was completely de-pressed. And I convinced her and asked her to listen to these songs. And when I sang that portion, 'Aisa Lagta Hai...', I remember how she reacted the moment I sang it.
