The borrowing cost which started rising in May last year has stabilised with RBI keeping the repo rate unchanged at 6.5 per cent since February when it was raised from 6.25 per cent. In the previous two bi-monthly policy reviews in April and June the benchmark rate was retained.

"Tourism in Shimla has come to a grinding halt for last about a month. There is hardly 1 or 2 per cent occupancy recorded in hotels even during this weekend. The tourism stakeholders in Himachal are under stress as they have not been able to earn anything in the last month," said Seth.

"The tourism industry of Shimla is bearing financial loss for one reason or the other from last five years may it be an acute water shortage in 2018 or COVID-19 pandemic in 2020, and the subsequent second wave of the pandemic during the summer season of 2021," he pointed out.

The tourist industry's stakeholders were hopeful about seeing some light, but the hotels in the region continued to see low footfall in May and June, added Seth.

This law is completely against the businessmen and industrialists of the country. He further said that with this law, the officers of the ED department can misuse their new powers to harass businessmen and industrialists, while the businessmen and industrialists of the country are paying all kinds of GST, VAT, Income Tax, Excise Duty, Market and by paying various kinds of other taxes like license fees they are filling the coffers of the governments. Garg said that on the other hand, the central government is making a new rule to tighten the grip of ED on businessmen and industrialists, which is absolutely wrong, as due to this new law, there will be fear among the traders and the traders will be afraid of to increase their business. The new law will curb trade and industry in the country and will have a very bad impact on the country's economy. Pb taxpayers, state exchequer to suffer due to central govt online gaming policy Chandigarh: The recent decision by the Indian govt Finance Ministry and GST council on online gaming threatens to heavily burden Punjab's taxpayers and state exchequer. The GST Council has recently announced the decision to increase tax on online gaming from 18% of platform fees to 28% of full face-value of player contributions to gaming. This will increase tax burden of legitimate domestic online gaming platforms by 1100%, pushing gamers to offshore and illegal platforms that do not pay any taxes. Offshore betting companies are generating revenues of INR Ninety Thousand Crores per annum from India alone and have been growing at 25-30% every year. After the introduction of 28% GST on legal gaming, the domestic industry will shrink, and the offshore betting and gambling operations will witness growth in excess of 60-70% per annum for the next 3 years. This double blow of losing legitimate businesses and facing tax evasion from offshore operators will severely impact the pockets of Punjab's taxpayers and the state exchequer. Several experts have raised alarms on this including former finance secretary Subhash Chandra Garg, who says that "If the online gaming industry shuts down or relocates out of the country, tax revenues will significantly decrease. Even if the industry survives but is heavily restricted, the government will only manage to maintain current revenue levels".

Busting dental care myths to make way for better oral health

When it comes to oral health, there are numerous myths and misconceptions that can confuse patients and lead them astray. It's crucial to separate fact from fiction to ensure that you have accurate dental knowledge and make informed decisions about oral care. Read on to gain accurate insights for

#Fact: This is one of the most common myths about dental care. It is true that brushing your teeth is important for oral hygiene, but brushing too hard can be damaging to your teeth and gums. Over-brushing can wear away enamel and damage the gums, leading to increased sensitivity and gum recession. To ensure proper cleaning,

Myth: Teeth Cleaning/Scaling And Polishing Cause Enamel Abrasion And Sensitivity Issues. #Fact: Teeth cleaning/scaling and polishing is an important part of dental care, as it helps remove plaque and tartar buildup from the teeth. This helps maintain oral hygiene and prevent gum disease. While it is true that this procedure can cause sensitivity, it is not due to enamel abrasion. Professional teeth cleaning is done with a machine that uses ultrasonic waves to remove the buildup, and it does not cause any damage to the enamel.

Myth: You Don't Need To Floss Your Teeth If You Brush Regularly. #Fact: This is another myth that is widely believed. While brushing is important for oral hygiene, it is not enough to remove the food particles and plaque that get stuck between your teeth. Flossing is essential for removing these particles and preventing gum disease. It is recommended to floss at least once a day, ideally after brushing your teeth.

Myth: No Dental Concerns, No Need For A Check-Up. #Fact: Many people believe that if they have no pain or other symptoms, they do not need to visit the dentist. This is a false assumption. Regular dental check-ups are essential for maintaining oral health and for detecting and treating any potential issues before they become serious. It is recommended to visit the dentist at least twice a year for an oral health check-up.

Myth: You Can Only Get Cavities From Sugar. #Fact: Another common myth is that cavities are only caused by consuming sugary foods and drinks. While it is true that sugar can increase the risk of cavities, it is not the only factor. When it comes to causing cavities, starchy carbohydrates such as those found in chips and crackers can also be responsible. Carbohydrate-rich foods often contain sugars.

71-year-old man with low-lying rectal cancer treated via Robotic Sphincter-Saving Surgery at Fortis Mohali

Bathinda : The Department of Surgical Oncology at Fortis Cancer Institute, Fortis Hospital Mohali, accomplished a remarkable medical achievement by successfully treating a 71-year-old man suffering from low-lying rectal cancer using Robot-aided Sphincter-saving Surgery. Notably, the patient was spared the need for a permanent Stoma Bag, a plastic bag commonly required after surgeries of the large and small intestines to collect bowel movements through an opening in the abdominal wall, particularly if the sphincter muscle is affected. The patient sought medical attention from Dr. Jitender Rohila, Consultant, Surgical Oncology, and Robotic Surgeon, Fortis Hospital Mohali, after experiencing rectal bleeding, changes in bowel habits, and loss of appetite. Medical investigations, including Sigmoidoscopy, MRI scan, and PET scan, confirmed Stage 3 low-lying rectal cancer, specifically adenocarcinoma. Initially, the patient received combined radiation therapy and chemotherapy to shrink the tumor, preparing him for the sphincter-saving surgery. The surgical team, led by Dr. Rohila, conducted a six-hour-long Robot-aided sphincter-saving surgery, meticulously removing the tumor and rejoining the ends of the large intestine and anal canal (anastomosis), thus avoiding the need for a permanent stoma bag. Dr. Rohila explained that the surgery presented challenges due to the tumor's location within the pelvis, close to vital organs like the anal sphincter, responsible for controlling bowel movements. Utilizing robot-aided surgery ensured less pain, minimal scarring, and faster recovery compared to open surgery. Remarkably, the patient resumed walking the day after surgery and resumed oral intake on Day 2.

“It was very tricky conditions out there”: Lewis Hamilton on collision with Sergio Perez in Belgian GP

SPA: Lewis Hamilton disagrees with the stewards’ penalty because he believes his collision with Sergio Perez during the Belgian Grand Prix Sprint was simply a racing incident. After receiving a penalty for his collision with Sergio Perez on Saturday, Lewis Hamilton fell from fourth to seventh. Earlier, he had lost the Sprint Shootout owing to a Mercedes error. The Mercedes driver’s front wheel punched a large hole in the Red Bull sidepod as he collided with Perez as they raced wheel to wheel into Turns 14 and 15 at Spa. The seven-time world champion fell from fourth to seventh in the final rankings when the stewards determined that he was “predominantly at fault” and assessed him a five-second time penalty. After the crash, numerous cars past Perez, and as he attempted to drive his damaged RB19, he ran out in the gravel and was ultimately forced to retire. “He was pretty slow and went wide and slow through 14. I got a great exit, I was more than half a car alongside him and we just ended up coming together,” Hamilton explained to Sky Sports. “It was a bit of a racing incident really. Naturally, it wasn’t intentional but they (the stewards) saw it differently. It was very tricky conditions out there, so we were all trying our best. Anyways it doesn’t make a huge difference, fourth or seventh in the Sprint you don’t get a lot of points,” he added. “Lewis just crashed into me and took the whole right-hand side of my car off so we basically lost all of the load. Unfortunately, that meant no points today,” Perez said of the incident. Mercedes boss Toto Wolff agreed that his driver had received an unfair penalty. “Absolute racing incident. This is a Sprint race, we want to see them racing. The argument of the damage isn’t valid because he was going backwards before then, massively backwards. And I think when you look at that corner, they were side-by-side and fair enough, it takes two to tango, but it’s a racing incident. For me that’s pretty clear,” Wolff said.

“It hurts to lose,” says Real Madrid’s manager Carlo Ancelotti after losing to Barcelona

TEXAS: In a pre-season game on Sunday, Barcelona defeated Real Madrid 3-0 at the AT&T Stadium in Dallas. After the match, Real Madrid’s manager Carlo Ancelotti said it hurts to lose. Ousmane Dembele, Fermin Lopez Martin and Ferran Torres were the goalscorers for Barcelona. The match created history as it witnessed the largest crowd for an ElClasico in the United States. Also, the highest club soccer match attendance in AT&T Stadium history. According to Real Madrid’s website Carlo Ancelotti said, “We played some good football. It was a decent game and we played well with and without the ball. We had our chances and we were very active. The worst thing is that we weren’t well positioned on the set piece for their first goal. Then we pressed too high for the last two goals. It hurts to lose, but I’ll take the good things”. He added, “It’s quite rare to hit the woodwork five times in a game; it’s never happened to me but it’s better if it happens in the pre-season. There seemed to be a wall blocking the opposition’s goal.” 62-year-old Ancelotti said, “I put out a new team to see how the youngsters would adapt. It went well. We have to continue in this vein and without a permanent striker we’ve had a lot of chances.” In the first half of the match, Barcelona started off well as they looked dangerous while attacking. Real Madrid was slow to get in their stride in the initial stages of the match.

“We’ve still got little bit of work to do”: Oscar Piastri

SPA: After taking the lead for the first time in a Formula 1 lap during Saturday’s Belgian Grand Prix at Spa-Francorchamps, McLaren’s Oscar Piastri paused to reflect on another significant occasion in his blossoming career. After a downpour delayed the start of the race, drivers eventually departed behind the Safety Car on fully wet tyres. However, a drying track presented a tactical conundrum when the action finally began after numerous formation laps. Piastri led a stream of vehicles into the pits to switch to intermediate tyres as pole-sitter Max Verstappen persisted on wet tyres for the opening lap of the race. That one quicker lap gave Piastri P1 when Verstappen pitted. Piastri was overhauled by Verstappen and had to settle for second, but he nonetheless took plenty of positives out of the experience. “I’m very, very happy. We tried our best. We boxed when the Safety Car came in, led a few laps, but we were no match for Max,” Piastri said after the race as quoted by Formula 1.
