People are getting benefits from policies of AAP: Satish Sharma

RADAUR: Aam Aadmi Party leader and Vice President of the party's Kurukshetra Lok Sabha Satish Sharma Dhaudag visited villages Kunjal Kamboyan, Dhaudag and Khajuri. During this, he interacted with the villagers and inquired about their problems and discussed the current politics. Satish Sharma Dhaudg said that while giving information about the policies of AAP to the villagers, he said that today the anti-BJP wave is getting stronger in the country and the state. Not only the general public of the state, the employ ees, businessmen, farmers and working class are fed up with the policies of the government. The em ployees have to sit on dharna for their demands. There is no one to take care of the farmers there. Farmers' crops have been destroyed due to floods and rains, but so far government has not made any policy for compensation. There is anger among farmers towards the government. Now people have made up their mind to get rid of BJP and are looking at Aam Aadmi Party as a strong alternative as people are liking Punjab and Delhi model. There people are getting benefits from the policies being adopted by AAP. That's why the time to come in the state also belongs to the AAP

Farmers have to take loans to run families: Sumita Singh

SHIV KUMAR SHARMA KARNAL, JULY 31

Sumita Singh, former MLA Karnal, said that former Chief Minister Bhupinder Singh Hooda, Congress State President Udai Bhan and Rajya Sabha MP Deepender Hooda are coming to Karnal Jan Milan programme to listen to the public's problems. Inviting the people of Karnal to meet the former Chief Minister, Sumita Singh said in a programme organised at Jat Dharamshala. The Haryana Government should explain why it is not paying the money to the farmers even after three months of closure of the mills. Due to non-payment, the farmer has to take out a loan to run his family. During the Congress government led by Bhupinder Singh Hooda, immediate payment was ensured along with the

the farmers. Sumita Singh appealed to the state government that Haryana Immediately pay the outstanding amount of sugarcane producing farmers along with interest. He said that BJP's claim of doubling the income of farmers by the year 2022 has already failed.

She reminded that the rate of sugarcane in 2015-16 was Rs 317, which doubled to government should at least increase the rate to Rs.634 to double the income of sugarcane farmers. But it cannot even be imagined with the present government. He said that far from doubling the income of the farmers, the expenditure of the farmers and the debt on the farmers has doubled in the government which falsely promises to double the income of the farmers. The prices of diesel-petrol, fertilisers are increasing rapidly. By imposing tax on agricultural equipment, the work of reducing the income of the farmers has been done. Mohan Malik, Ashish Malik, Amit Gulia, Alam ji, Alam Mushrik, Ajay Bangar, Baljit Dahiya, Labh Singh Sandhu, Pradeep Jaglan, Ashish Sharma, Amit Sharma etc were present on this occasion.

Your blood donation can give life to someone: Dr. Vinod Kamal

SHIV KUMAR SHARMA TARAORI, JULY 31

On behalf of Taraori Journalist Ekta Manch, on the martyrdom day of freedom fighter Shaheed Udham Singh, a blood donation camp was organised at the Community Health Centre of Taraori. Civil surgeon Dr. Vinod Kamal reached the camp as the chief guest and encouraged the blood donors. 80 units of blood were collected in this blood donation camp. On this occasion, CMO Dr. Vinod Kamal said that blood donation reduces the risk of heart attack. The risk of heart attack is less. Oxygen is supplied properly in the body. Blood donation can also help you in reducing weight, so blood donation should be done at least twice a year. Blood donation saves someone's life, while on the other hand it gives self-satisfaction. Many people shy away from donating blood tions about blood donation.Dr. Vinod Kamal said that blood donation has been given the status of a great donation. Because this donation of yours can save a person's life, but people are still not aware about this donation. He said that there is a lack of awareness among the people for blood donation, but in the meantime a question arises that people will be aware after all. Who will make them aware? If a solution to this question is to be found, then only one option comes to the fore, that along with social organisations, social workers, schools, colleges, etc. will have to come forward. Along with the blood donation camp, awareness will also have to be spread. He said that blood donation is our social responsibility.. Instead of waiting for the blood donation camp, we should take initiative and donate blood on our own. So that the needy does not have to be disappointed in the emergency. Blood donation does not cause weakness in the body. The amount of blood that comes out is replenished in a day or two. Doctors believe that the excess of cholesterol in the blood donation obstructs the blood flow. Blood donation also accelerates the process of making blood by the body. The life of blood cells is only 90 to 120 days. Every day the old blood keeps on decaying in our body and new blood is formed that we do not feel. Many men and women have made a routine of donating blood regularly. Therefore, you should also do-

voluntary blood regularly. 'Baby will be born alive': Court rejects abortion for girl at 24 weeks

AGENCY MUMBAI, JULY 31

The Aurangabad bench of the Bombay High Court has refused permission to a 17-year-old girl to abort her 24-week pregnancy, saying it was the result of a consensual relationship and the baby would be born alive at this stage. A division bench of Justices Ravindra Ghuge and Y G Khobragade, in its order on July 26, noted the girl would turn 18 this month and that she was in a consensual relationship with the boy since December 2022. The bench in its order said the victim girl and the accused boy had developed physical relations several times. The girl herself brought a pregnancy kit and confirmed the pregnancy in February this year, it noted.

"Therefore, it appears that the petitioner victim is not innocent and she was having full maturity of understanding. If the petitioner was not interested to carry the pregnancy she could have sought permission for termination soon confirmation of the pregnancy," the HC said.

The girl had filed the petition in the HC through her mother, seeking to terminate the pregnancy claiming she was a "child" within the meaning of Children from Sexual Offences Under the Medical Termination Pregnancy Act, a court's permission is required to terminate pregnancy beyond 20 weeks, if it is found the pregnancy poses a threat to the life or health of the mother or the child. The plea claimed the pregnancy would cause grave injury to the mental health of the petitioner who wishes to study to become a doctor in future.

The high court took note of a report submitted by the medical board after examining the victim girl, which said there was no anomaly in the foetus and the growth was normal.

The medical board opined that a child born if pregnancy is aborted at this stage would show signs of life, but would not be capable of independent survival.

"If a baby is born alive even forcible delivery considering the request of the mother to terminate the pregnancy then it would lead to an under-developed child with chances of deformities," the HC said. The bench said it was not inclined to permit termination of the pregnancy as in any case, the child is going to be born alive and the natural delivery is just 15

Provision is being made to reserve seats in the Jammu and Kashmir Legislative Assembly in this amendment. OPINION

he popularity of a particular subject during admission to undergraduate courses may indicate broader trends within the po-pulace. Consider the trend reported by several col-leges in Calcutta suggesting that more application forms have been submitted this year in psychology than in traditionally popular subjects like political science and history. This uptick in interest in psychology has also been observed in universities in Delhi and Bengaluru. This has led to speculation that the development may be suggestive of broader concerns with mental health and its attendant challenges among students. This inference, if it has substance, is encouraging. The popularity of psychology as a discipline and subsequent opportunities in research in relevant fields may help tackle the embedded social stigma associated with mental health in this country. Several studies have underlined the scale of the crisis and the depth of the bias. A World Health Organization report had indicated some years ago that about 56 million Indians were battling depression while 38 million citizens suffered from anxiety. Another study by a non-profit entity around the same time revealed that a disproportionate number of Indians were judgmental about mental health conditions, with several attributing violence and retardation to this constituency. Incidentally, the pandemic has further exacerbated India's mental health burden. It has been estimated that the Covid-19 outbreak may have pushed up the number of Indians with mental health problems from 14% to 20%. Since a large number of young people remain afflicted — a student had committed suicide once every 42 minutes in 2020 says the National Crime Records Bureau — it is perhaps reasonable to draw a causal connection between the attraction for psychology among students and India's mental health epidemic.

The challenge now would be to streamline employment opportunities with the discipline. This would have two benefits. First, it may help address the severe paucity of mental health professionals in the country: India has only 0.75 psychiatrists per 1,00,000 people. Second, it may also encourage more students to take up the subject. The Centre is not unaware of the ground reality: its instituting of the telepsychiatry helpline, Tele Mental Health Assistance and Networking Across States, bears proof. But the paltry Rs 919 crores allocated to mental health — a mere 1% of the total budget for the ministry of health and family welfare — speaks of a larger deficiency in official attention towards India's burgeoning thangmora Lhakhang, a revered sanctuary, lies in the pristine landscapes of Athang Gewog, nestled within the breathtaking beauty of Bhutan's mountains, Bhutan Live reported.

The saga of Athangmora Lhakhang and divine encounters

The sacred monastery carries with it a rich tapestry of legends, miracles, and historical significance, woven into the fabric of the nation's cultural heritage.

The roots of Athangmora Lhakhang are traced back to the revered Terton Pema Lingpa, a legendary figure in Bhutanese history known for his profound spiritual discoveries. The monastery shares a close association with Gangtey Goenpa, a renowned Buddhist monastery in the region.

According to ancient tales, Guru Rinpoche, the Padmasambhava, and his consort, Khandro Mandarava, graced this hallowed ground with their divine presence, bestowing it with celestial blessings.

Throughout its existence, Athangmora Lhakhang has witnessed remarkable events that have etched their mark on the lives of the local community.

A tragic fire once ravaged the original monastery, which threatened to engulf precious relics and sacred treasures. Yet, amidst the chaos, a striking statue of Chador (Vajrapani), the wrathful deity, miraculously flew away and came to rest atop an orange tree. This extraordinary event has left an indelible impression on the hearts of the villagers. To honour this divine intervention and the deity's benevolence, it became a tradition for newborns in the village to be named with "Chador" as part of their names – a testament to the profound impact of faith and the enduring power of miracles, Bhutan Live reported. Another captivating tale recounts the remarkable journey of Tenzin Drakpa, the first speech reincarnation of Pema Lingpa.

When he resided at the monastery, he faced a lack of respect from the local populace. Seeking to assert his spiritual authority and display his divine powers, he performed a wondrous feat – riding on the rays of the sun. This inspiring display of supernatural ability left the villagers spellbound, and in an act of reverence and devotion, they offered the entire Lhakhang to him. This act of veneration reflects the deep-rooted faith and devotion that courses through the veins of Bhutanese culture, Bhutan Live reported. The allure of Athangmora Lhakhang goes beyond its enchanting legends; the monastery's location amidst the natural splendour of Athang Gewog enhances its sacred atmosphere. The serene surroundings, the crisp mountain air, and the warm climate create an ambience that is ideal for introspection, meditation, and spiritual contemplation.

In the annals of Bhutanese history, Athangmora Lhakhang remains a beacon of spirituality and a testament to the profound devotion of its people. The stories of miracles and the revered individuals associated with this sacred sanctuary continue to resonate through the generations, fostering a sense of awe and wonder among visitors and locals alike, Bhutan Live reported. As the winds whisper tales of ancient mysticism and the prayer flags flutter with hopes for a blessed future, Athangmora Lhakhang stands as a living testament to the enduring power of faith and the indomitable spirit of Bhutan's cultural heritage. This timeless sanctuary continues to be a source of solace and inspiration, inviting pilgrims and explorers from far and wide to immerse themselves in the profound mystique of this sacred haven, Bhutan Live re-

New suspension bridge makes Jerusalem holy sites accessible

Jerusalem is due to unveil Israel's longest suspension bridge on Sunday night, connecting Mount Zion with the Hinnom Valley to the south. The bridge will make Mount Zion's holy sites and Jerusalem's Old City more accessible to pedestrians

"For the benefit of Israeli citizens and visitors from abroad, we built the bridge with the spectacular view in order to upgrade the tourist experience in the area," said Tourism Minister Haim Katz. "The summer holiday is a great opportunity for Israeli families to come and experience the uniqueness of the place. We will continue to invest in promoting Jerusalem as a leading tourist destination."

Tourist attractions on the Mount Zion side of the bridge include King David's Tomb, the Room of the Last Supper, the Chamber of the Holocaust and Dormition Abbey. Pedestrians can continue into the Old City by walking through Zion Gate.

The southern end of the bridge is located near the agricultural farm in Gai Ben Hinnom, known for its ancient agricultural activities, including olive picking, wine-making, and honey production. Nearby tourist attractions include the City of David National Park, the Sultan's Pool, and the First Station shopping and restaurant complex.

A separate initiative to build a 1.4 km cable car connecting the First Station to the Old City has raised objections over cost-effectiveness, and environmental and political issues. Cable cars would reach the Dung Gate, from which tourists would enter the Old City directly to the Western Wall plaza.

Western Wall plaza.

Suleiman the Magnificent intended for Mount Zion to be included within the walls of Jerusalem's Old City, but his engineers mistakenly left it outside. The walls were completed in 1541. The Hinnom Valley below the bridge was a no man's land between 1949-1967 when Jordan occupied Jerusalem's eastern neighbourhoods. The valley now features hiking trails.

The bridge will be open every day between 6:00 am – 11:00 pm for pedestrians only. Children up to the age of 14 are required to be accompanied by an adult.

Typhoon Doksuri deaths in Philippines rise to 25, 20 missing

The death toll from flooding and landslides triggered by typhoon Doksuri climbed to 25, with at least 20 more missing, the Philippines' national disaster agency said on Monday. Many parts of the country remain underwater as heavy rain continues to pour even after Doksuri blew away from the Philippines last week.

Typhoon Khanun, the sixth cyclone to batter the Philippines this year, continues to intensify on Monday, enhancing the southwest monsoon rains across the country, including Metro Manila.

In a report on Monday, the National Disaster Risk Reduction and Management Council (NDRRMC) said Doksuri left with 20 deaths in the northern Philippines, three in a region near Metro Manila, and two in the central Philippines.

The agency added that 20 more people are missing in the northern Philippines. Doksuri affected nearly 2.4 million people in the Southeast Asian country, with over 50,000 displaced people still in temporary shelters. The typhoon also damaged houses, crops, roads, and bridges.

The Philippines is one of the most disaster-prone countries globally, mainly due to its location in the Pacific Ring of Fire and the Pacific typhoon belt. On average, the archipelagic country experiences 20 typhoons yearly, some intense and destructive.

Crime, Security in age of NFTs, Al and Metaverse: Addressing Emerging Challenges

s the world rapidly expand itself into the digital era, technological advancements such as non-fungible tokens (NFTs), artificial intelligence (AI), and the metaverse have revolutionized various aspects of society, including the art and collectible market, commerce, and communication. While these innovations bring immense opportunities and benefits, they also pose unprecedented challenges in terms of crime and security. Artificial Intelligence platforms are collecting and processing large amount of data thereby raising serious privacy

With the skyrocketing use of non-Fungible Tokens (NFTs), the malicious NFTs scams aimed at deceiving and stealing user's funds from their digital wallets has seen upward trend. Metaverse is still in its relative infancy but the consumers need to understand the security and privacy safeguards that platform enabler provides. The complexity of Cyber threat landscape has increased and there is a need for higher level collaboration between Industries, Academia. and Government through regional and international initiatives. To address these emerging challenges for fostering a secure and trustworthy cyber space, the Ministry of Home Affairs is hosting G20 Conference on "Crime and Security in the age of NFTs, AI and Metaverse" on 13-14 July in Gurugram, Haryana.NFTs: Transforming the Market and Expanding Criminal PossibilitiesSince 2014, Non-fungible tokens have revolutionized the art market, enabling digital ownership and provenance verification for digital assets. The NFT market is projected to reach nearly $20 billion by 2028. However, this revolutionary technology also presents new gateways for criminal activities. Counterfeit NFTs, unauthorized duplication, and copyright infringement have become significant concerns in the realm of digital art. Furthermore, the anonymity associated with cryptocurrencies used in NFT transactions can facilitate money laundering, tax evasion, and illegal financing. Other than this, securities issue and vulnerabilities present in NFT platform can lead to a sophisticated cyber-attack leading to huge financial as well as reputation loss. There is a need to establish robust regulatory frameworks, strengthen the Law Enforcement Agencies and promote International Cooperation and collaboration among the G20 nations to ensure the authenticity and legality of NFT transactions while safeguarding the interests of the stakeholders. Artificial Intelligence: A Double-Edged Sword in Crime and SecurityThe proliferation of Artificial Intelligence (AI) has unlocked transformative possibilities across various industries.

Artificial intelligence has emerged as a

Artificial intelligence has emerged as a powerful tool across various domains, including cybersecurity, law enforcement agencies, and predictive market/weather analysis. However, Al can be exploited by cybercriminals to perpetrate sophisticated cyberattacks and launch Al-driven fraud schemes. The impact of Artificial Intelligence extends beyond positive advancements, encompassing negative consequences as well. There has been a rising trend among criminals who exploit AI to carry out intricate cyberattacks, commit identity theft, and propagate disinformation. Al-Powered malware, APTs, DDOS, Deep fake technology are few examples of AI based cyber security attacks, it certainly poses a significant threat to personal privacy, trust, and the integrity of digital content. In this era of AI, it is imperative for G20 nations to give precedence to cybersecurity measures, foster global collaboration, and allocate resources for research to proactively address emerging threats. The establishment of ethical frameworks for the development and implementation of AI will guarantee responsible usage and mitigate the risks associated with AI-enabled criminal activities. Strengthening Al governance, encouraging responsible Al development, and enhancing Al-driven threat detection mechanisms are crucial steps in ensuring a secure digital ecosystem. The Metaverse: An Expanding Virtual Landscape and its Security ImplicationsThe metaverse represents an interconnected virtual world that blurs the boundaries between physical and digital realities. It offers huge potential for businesses, social culture and interactions, and entertainment. But everything comes with a price and risks associated.

Virtual identity theft, phishing scams, and virtual asset theft are potential threats within this immersive environment. Moreover, the metaverse's decentralized nature can complicate law enforcement efforts, necessitating enhanced collaboration between governments, technology companies, and cybersecurity experts. Developing robust security standards, promoting user education, and implementing effective regulatory frameworks will be instrumental in preventing cybercrime and ensuring a safe metaverse experience. Conclusion As technology continues to reshape our world, the G20 nations need to work proactively to address the challenges posed by NFTs, AI, and the Metaverse in the context of crime and security in collaboration with Industry Academia, Government and Subject Matter Ex perts. Through international cooperation, robus regulatory measures, technological innovations and public awareness campaigns, the transformative power of NFTs, AI, and the Metaverse can be harnessed while safeguarding the interests of individuals, businesses, and societies at large. A focused Research and Development ap proach on the Cybersecurity vertical of these emerging technologies in-line with regulators framework will go a long way in creating Cybersafe ecosystem and boost adoption of these technologies at every level. The underlying aim should be to harness the immense potential of these ground breaking technologies while safeguarding our societies from the emerging risks.

successful back surgery in March and has not played competitive cricket since a T20I match at home against Australia in last September. He had also missed a lot of action in the Asia Cup when his back injury surfaced. Following this, he made a brief return to action during the Australia T20I series at home in September, but his injury resurfaced. Bumrah was chosen for the ODI series against Sri Lanka in January this year after he had started his rehab in November last year and started to bowl in December. But during his fitness drills in January, which increased in intensity, he started to face discomfort once again. He also missed ICC T20 World Cup 2022 and Indian Premier League (IPL) 2023.

The squad also witness new faces like Rinku Singh, who had a breakthrough Indian Premier League (IPL) season with Kolkata Knight Riders, scoring 474 runs in 14 matches at an average of over 59 with four half-centuries. Pacer Prasidh Krishna, last played for Team India in August 2022 against

All-rounder Shivam Dube, who last played for India in February 2020, also makes his return to the side after a hard-hitting 2023 IPL season with Chennai Super Kings, for which he hit 418 runs in 16 matches with three fifties and impressed with his power-hitting in a titlewinning campaign.

Hardik Pandya, who has been captaining the T20I side in the absence of senior players like Virat Kohli and Rohit Sharma does not find a place in the squad.

The matches will be played on August 18, 20 and 23 in Dublin, Ireland.
