SC refuses to grant stay on EC Act

AGENCY
NEW DELHI, JAN 12

The Supreme Court on Friday refused to grant an immediate stay on the election panel legislation passed by Parliament last month but agreed to hear Congress leader Jaya Thakur's plea challenging the constitutionality of two sections of the law.

A bench of Justices Sanjiv Khanna and Dipankar Datta was hearing a writ petition filed by Thakur under Article 32 of the Constitution questioning the constitutionality of Sections 7 and 8 of the Chief Election Commissioner and Other Election Commissioners (Appointment, Conditions of Service and Term of Office) Act, 2023. The Act was signed into law last December by President Droupadi Murmu.

Under the Act, the name of the Chief Justice of India was dropped from a committee to appoint the Chief Election Commissioner (CEC) and other election commissioners.

Senior Advocate Vikas Singh, appearing for Thakur, argued that this Act was a violation of the doctrine of the separation of powers which formed a basic structure of the Indian Constitution.

Justice Khanna asked the senior counsel to serve an advanced copy of the petition to the union government and election commission who are the respondents in the case.

Justice Khanna at the outset told the lawyer that they would not grant any stay. "We can't stay a statute like this. We will issue notice though," the judge added. The senior counsel then requested the court for a 'short date. The bench then agreed to post it to April for hearing.

The court directed, "Issue notice returnable in April 2024. Notices will be served by all modes including dasti."

The case pertains to a petition filed by Congress leader Jaya Thakur, the general secretary of the Madhya Pradesh Mahila Congress Committee, against the removal of the Chief Justice of India from the selection committee to appoint the Chief Election Commissioner (CEC) and other election commissioners, through this legislative move,

Alleging that it is ultra vires Articles 14, 21, 50, and 324 of the Constitution since it violates the principles of free and fair election. She has also relied on the Supreme Court's March ruling in Anoop Baranwal case mandating the inclusion of the chief justice in the appointment process till Parliament enacted a law regulating it because of the need for an independent and unbiased selection panel.

The bench posted the matter to April for further hearing.

The Defence Research and Development Organisation (DRDO) conducted a successful flight test of the New Generation AKASH (AKASH-NG) missile on Friday.

The test was conducted at 10:30 AM from the Integrated Test Range, Chandipur, off the coast of Odisha, against a high-speed unmanned aerial target at very low altitude.

The flight test was witnessed by senior officials from DRDO, the Indian Air Force (IAF), Bharat Dynamics Limited (BDL) and Bharat Electronics Limited (BEL). The AKASH-NG system is a state-of-the-art missile system capable of intercepting high-speed, agile aerial threats.

Govt to launch cervical cancer vaccination campaign later this year

AGENCY
NEW DELHI, JAN 12

In a significant move to tackle cervical cancer, India will launch an extensive Human Papillomavirus (HPV) vaccination campaign targeting girls in the 9-14 age group. The immunisation drive will unfold in three phases, with over 7 crore doses prepared for the initial stage.

Cervical cancer, currently the second leading cause of cancer among women in India, is poised to become a major focus of the government's immunisation program. The World Health Organization (WHO) ranks cervical cancer as the fourth most common type of cancer globally, emphasizing the urgency of preventive measures.

The HPV vaccine, which is currently available commercially for around □ 2,000 per dose, is designed to combat not only cervical cancer but also other related malignancies affecting the anus, vagina, and oropharynx. Additionally, the vaccine offers protection against strains responsible for genital warts, providing a comprehensive shield against the various health risks associated with HPV.

India, accounting for approximately a fifth of the world's cervical cancer cases, is witnessing a concerning rise in cancer incidence. The number of cancer cases is projected to surge from 14.6 lakh in 2022 to 15.7 lakh in 2025, underscoring the critical need for robust preventive measures.

The government's decision to include cervical cancer in its immunisation program aligns with its broader goal of making the vaccine accessible to all. Government plans to provide the vaccine free of charge, ensuring that financial constraints do not hinder access to this vital preventive measure.

By targeting a younger age group, the campaign aims to build a foundation of immunity early on, potentially reducing the burden of cervical cancer in the coming years.

Manohar Lal launches 'Mission 60,000' in youth mahasammelan

BUREAU
CHANDIGARH, JAN 12

Haryana Chief Minister, Sh Manohar Lal announced Mission 60,000, stating that within the next few months, employment opportunities would be extended to 60,000 young individuals hailing from families with an annual income of less than Rs 1.80 lakh. In addition, the recruitment process for 60,000 Group C and D posts is set to conclude within the few months.

Chief Minister Sh Manohar Lal made this announcement while addressing the state-level Vivekananda youth mahasammelan on the occasion of Swami Vivekananda's birth anniversary held in Kurukshetra today.

The Chief Minister stated that within the framework of 'Mission 60,000', the government would engage 7,500 'Van Mitra' individuals from families with an annual income of less than Rs 1.80 lakh. In addition, 15,000 contractual employees will be recruited through HKRN, provide training to 10,000 youth for industrial establishments, engage 7,500 'e-Sewa Mitra' for CSCs, and facilitate employment abroad for 5,000 such individuals through Foreign Cooperation Department. He also declared to train 15,000 youth with a diploma/degree in civil engineering, empowering them to become contractors. The government will extend a loan of Rs 3 lakh to these individuals for one year without requiring any collateral. Trained youth under this program will be exempt from providing a guarantee for works up to Rs 25 lakh. The goal is to boost their annual income, enabling them to surpass the Below Poverty Line (BPL) threshold, he added.

Paying homage to Swami Vivekananda, the Chief Minister said that the CET exam results for Group C and D are currently in progress. For Group D, approximately 3.25 lakh candidates participated in the CET, and the results is expected to be announced later today. We will offer 13,500 such jobs to these successful candidates within the next 15 days.

Furthermore, the recruitment process for Group C is actively underway. We aim to provide approximately 60,000 jobs for both Group C and D within next few months. With this, the present government has established a record by providing 1.7 lakh government jobs. The Chief Minister said that just as Swami Vivekananda ignited a flame of self-respect and pride among the countrymen in the 19th century, similarly, in the 21st century, Prime Minister Sh. Narendra Modi has elevated the pride and dignity of India on the global stage. Post-independence, no one worked towards securing such a prominent position for India globally.

Rise above politics and celebrate Shri Ramlalla in Ayodhya: Gaba

SHIV KUMAR SHARMA

KARNAL: Social worker Pravesh Gaba said that the consecration ceremony of Ram Lalla in Ayodhya is a historic moment for India. Forgetting political differences, everyone should celebrate this moment as a festival. Lord Shri Ram did not belong to any one person but to the entire world who sacrificed his personal happiness for the sake of dharma. One gets inspiration from Lord Ram as to how sacrifice is made for one's brother and how one's father's orders are obeyed. Lord Shri Ram taught the lesson of living with brotherhood. After Lord Shri Ram went into exile, Bharat himself did not sit on the throne but fulfilled his duty by placing his Khadau on the throne. Everyone should take inspiration from the life of Lord Shri Ram. The consecration of Lord Shri Ram Lala in Ayodhya will strengthen civilisation and culture. This is a proud moment for everyone. The message of brotherhood and harmony will be received in the world. He appealed to everyone to forget discrimination .

The move comes after meticulous monitoring of cases involving extortion, forced collections, street crimes, and collaboration among gangsters within different jail facilities.

Dwarka DCP Harshwardhan informed ANI that Kala Jathedi, notorious for his involvement in various criminal activities, was taken into remand from Mandoli Jail. "Kala Jathedi was taken into remand from Mandoli Jail yesterday, and other gangsters have also been taken into remand from different jails" he said. Notably, after the murder of Sagar Dhankad, there was a conflict between Kala Jathedi and Neeraj Bawania, which prompted the police to take action against both, aiming to dismantle their separate groups and curb their influence in orchestrating criminal incidents, including shootings in the Dwarka District.

The interrogation of these gangsters by Dwarka Police aims to understand how incarcerated criminals continue to operate and instigate crimes from within jail premises.

Dwarka DCP Harshvardhan mentioned, "This operation follows prior actions against the Nandu gang, with a commitment to curbing crime and ensuring public safety."

As the investigations unfold, the Dwarka Police are poised to take appropriate action against the gangsters involved.

Torn fabric

About six years ago, a team of scientists from the Central Institute of Cotton Research, Nagpur, was travelling through the countryside in Telangana to pick cotton samples. It was stopped by an angry, middle-aged, woman farmer. She wanted to show the team a problem with her cotton field. The scientists obeyed and went to her farm where green cotton bolls were dangling from the branches of robust-looking plants. The woman plucked a random boll and showed the scientists that small dark holes had been drilled into the round boll which was almost ready to burst into white lint.

The team cracked the boll open and a beautiful, centimetre-long pink worm twirled up, as if to say hello. It had laid eggs inside the boll and the lint — the white cotton that the world uses so very affectionately in fashion and everyday life — had been devoured by the worm; the boll was hollow from within. The farmer wanted to know from the scientists what she was supposed to do as her entire farm had been devoured by this small worm that spreads like wildfire in days and tucks itself into the boll before it can burst into lint.

Recounting that anecdote during a freewheeling interview with me the same month, one of the CICR scientists on that team told me that the woman farmer had actually alerted the country to a disaster waiting to happen with regard to this important global commodity: cotton. This is because that small worm had announced the beginning of the end of what was touted as India's biggest success story of the genetically modified cotton, known as Bt cotton. The worm threatened cotton landscapes across India with devastating consequences for the already beleaguered growers since Bt cotton was essentially created to repulse infestations of bollworm complex. If the pink worm has developed resistance to Bt cotton, the Indian fabric industry has a mega-crisis on its hands. While it was then confin-ed to a few cotton-growing re-gions in Telangana, Ma-ha-rashtra and Gujarat, the failure of Bt cotton and its main objective — to internally resist bollworm attack — does not bode well for the sprawling cotton economy and the value chains that rely on it. For one, in the past 20 years, India has done away with non-GM cotton, both the hybrid and the straight-line desi varieties. Second, we don't have a new cotton technology on the anvil other than the herbicide-tolerant cotton, which has a completely different objective. The CICR had then alerted the Indian Council of Agriculture Research, the apex scientific agricultural institution of this country, to the potential devastation that the return of the pink worm could cause to the vast cotton economy.

Taliban intensifies suppression of human rights

Human Rights Watch has released a new report stating that the Taliban has intensified its suppression of human rights, especially women's rights, in Afghanistan, Afghanistan-based Khaama Press reported.

In this report, Human Rights Watch Executive Director Tirana Hassan stated that 2023 was a year of widespread human rights abuses and war crimes across the world. She also mentioned signs of hope, indicating the possibility of a different path. She urged the Taliban to uphold their human rights commitments.

According to the report, Afghanistan is the only country in the world where women are officially banned from education. It said the Taliban has increasingly enforced repressive policies in 2023, including the suppression of women's protests, the arbitrary detention of women activists, the disappearance of some women after detention, and their torture and that of their family members.

Human Rights Watch stated that the ban on women's work has deprived many Afghan women of their livelihoods. It connected a part of Afghanistan's economic crisis to the restrictions that have been placed on women's employment, according to Khaama Press report.

Highlighting the need for humanitarian assistance in Afghanistan, Human Rights Watch said nearly two-thirds of the population requires humanitarian aid due to the economic hardships faced by the people of Afghanistan.

In the report, Human Rights Watch mentioned revenge killings and the disappearance of former government officials and Afghan security forces.

The other issues highlighted by Human Rights Watch include the continuous suppression of civil society, particularly Afghan women, extensive censorship of the Afghan media, and the detention of Afghan journalists. According to Human Rights Watch, the Taliban's control of Afghanistan, foreign sanctions and several years of drought are major factors behind increased poverty in Afghanistan, Khaama Press reported.

Human Rights Watch said ISIS continues to carry out attacks on civilians, particularly targeting the Hazara people and Shia minority.

Meanwhile, Human Rights Watch urged the international community to pressurise the Taliban to stop their abuses against women and girls. It has been over two years since the Taliban banned girls from attending schools after sixth grade in Afghanistan and has not taken any step towards restoring girls' education in the country.

Since the Taliban seized power in Afghanistan, they have issued several decrees imposing restrictions on women. Girls and women in the war-torn country have no access to education, employment, or even public spaces.

Earlier in December, the United Nations Special Rapporteur on Human Rights in Afghanistan, Richard Bennett, urged the Taliban to lift the ban on women working in non-governmental organisations, Afghanistan-based Khaama Press reported.

He stressed that women are crucial to the economy and that their contributions are essential for the well-being and progress of Afghan society.

In a post shared on X, Richard Bennett stated, "One year ago #Taliban banned women from working in NGOs. Once again I urge the lifting of the ban. Education and work are vital to a full and dignified life, women are crucial for the economy and their contributions are essential for the well-being and progress of #Afghan society."

He made the statement while marking the first anniversary of the Taliban's ban on women working in non-governmental organisations.

Taliban's ban on women working in NGOs highlights the ongoing restrictions faced by women in Afghanistan.

Perinatal depression linked to higher risk of death

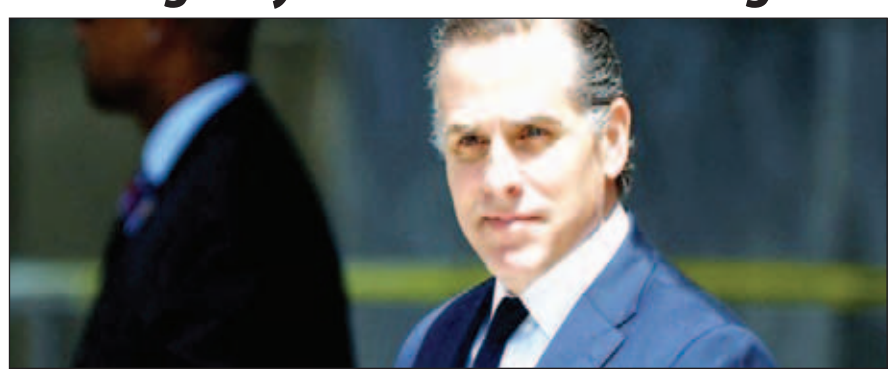

Women who experience depression during or after pregnancy are more likely to die from both natural and unnatural causes, according to a recent study of childbirth in Sweden published in The British Medical Journal. The increased risk peaks in the month following diagnosis and remains raised for up to 18 years.

Women who develop perinatal depression, which is to say depression during pregnancy or shortly after childbirth, are generally twice as likely to die of natural or, as in most cases, unnatural causes. They are six times more likely to commit than women without this form of depression. The increase in risk peaks in the 30 days following diagnosis but remains elevated for up to 18 years later.

These are the results of a large cohort study that used data from the Swedish Medical Birth Register, which effectively contains all births in Sweden since 1973. Basing their study on women who had live births between 2001 and 2018, the researchers compared over 86,500 women diagnosed with perinatal depression, during pregnancy or up to one year after childbirth, with over 865,500 matched controls of the same age who had given birth the same year. "This is a cohort study, and although it can't prove any causality, it's the largest and most comprehensive study in its field," says Qing Shen, affiliated researcher at the Institute of Environmental Medicine, Karolinska Institutet and one of the principal authors of the study. "I believe that our study clearly shows that these women have an elevated mortality risk and that this is an extremely important issue." The risk was highest for the women diagnosed with postpartum depression (depression after childbirth), corroborating the findings of previous smaller studies.

Joe Biden's son Hunter Biden pleads not guilty to federal tax charges

US President Joe Biden's son, Hunter Biden, pleaded not guilty on Thursday (local time) to the tax fraud charges that he faces in California for allegedly failing to pay more than a million dollars in taxes, according to CNN.

In the lawsuit launched by special counsel David Weiss, Hunter Biden made his initial appearance on Thursday in a federal courtroom in Los Angeles.

Nine charges against Hunter Biden are linked to a tax evasion scheme that authorities claim he carried out over a number of years while leading an opulent and occasionally scandalous lifestyle, according to CNN.

They are nothing more than a political hit piece, according to Hunter Biden's lawyer.

Attorney General Merrick Garland appointed David Weiss, the US attorney for Delaware, as special counsel in August, and he conducted a year-long investigation that led to the accusations against Hunter Biden.

The California court presiding over Hunter Biden's case moved swiftly to schedule the trial and establish the filing and hearing deadlines following Biden's not-guilty plea.

"I'm kind of keeping you on a tight schedule," federal Judge Mark Scarsi said after setting the trial in the case for June 20, 2024, and stated, "We like to move things along," according to CNN.

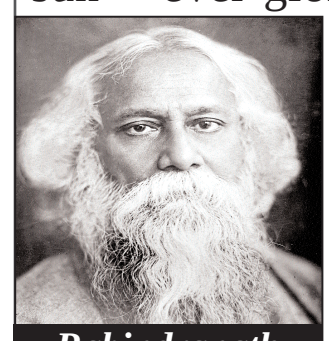

The prosecutor, Leo Wise, informed the court that much of the information in the case had already been turned over and that some of it would be utilised in the California case as well as the Delaware case, in which Hunter Biden is accused of three charges relating to guns

Although dates in the Delaware case have not yet been scheduled, Hunter Biden's attorney, Abbe Lowell, did not object to the dates set by the judge.

Study finds immune system can influence behaviour

Those who are allergic to seafood may feel quite ill just by smelling it, increasing their proclivity to avoid it. People who acquire food poisoning after eating a particular meal exhibit the same avoidance pattern.

Scientists have long known that the immune system has a role in human sensitivity to allergens and diseases in the environment, but it was unknown whether it also played a role in producing these types of behaviours in response to allergic stimuli.

According to a Yale-led study published in the journal Nature, the immune system plays a critical role in modifying our behaviour.

"We find immune recognition controls behaviour, specifically defensive behaviours against toxins that are communicated first through antibodies and then to our brains," said Ruslan Medzhitov, Sterling Professor of Immunobiology at Yale School of Medicine, investigator for the Howard Hughes Medical Institute, and senior author of the study.

Without immune system communication, the brain does not warn the body about potential dangers in the environment and does not try to avoid those threats, the study showed.

A team in the Medzhitov lab, led by Esther Florsheim, at the time a postdoctoral researcher at Yale and now an assistant professor at Arizona State University, and Nathaniel Bachtel, a graduate student at the School of Medicine, studied mice that had been sensitized to have allergic reactions to ova, a protein found in chicken eggs.

As expected, these mice tended to avoid water laced with ova, while control mice tended to prefer ova-laced water sources. The aversion to ova-laced water sources in sensitised mice lasted for months, they found.

The team then examined whether they could alter the behaviour of sensitised mice by manipulating immune system variables.

They found, for instance, that mice allergic to ova lost their aversion to the protein in their water if immunoglobulin E (IgE) antibodies, produced by the immune system, were blocked.

IgE antibodies trigger the release of mast cells, a type of white blood cell that, along with other immune system proteins, plays a crucial role in communicating with areas of the brain that control aversion behaviour.

Without IgE as an initiator, the transmission of information was interrupted, so mice no longer avoided the allergen.

Yoga asanas to reduce belly fat

Fat accumulated in certain areas of the body can be tough cookies, and if you're looking to get slimmer around your abdomen, the only thing to do is to exercise regularly without stressing over it. And what fits the bill perfectly? Yoga to reduce belly fat!

Practising yoga regularly can offer several health benefits for not just the body, but for the mind and soul too. Apart from increasing flexibility and improving muscle strength and tone, certain yoga asanas can help burn fat effectively.

1. Cobra Pose (Bhujangasana)

Apart from helping reduce belly fat, the cobra pose also cures digestive ailments like constipation. This asana is particularly great for individuals suffering from back pain and respiratory disorders.

Lie flat on your stomach with your forehead on the ground and palms underneath your shoulders.

Using the back and belly muscles, lift your body off the floor slowly while inhaling.

Straighten your arms keeping shoulder blades pressed against your back.

Stretch your neck while looking at the ceiling.

Lift your hips off the floor by a couple of inches.

Hold this position for 15-30 seconds and then exhale and return to the starting position.

2. Boat Pose (Navasana)

The Navasana is a popular exercise that strengthens abdominal muscles and helps develop six-pack abs. It is a hard exercise though, so if you're a beginner, start with simple ones and pick this up later.

To practise, start with sitting on the floor.

Keep your legs straight in front of you with your knees bent.

Lean back a bit as you gradually lift your legs in the air.

Stretch your arms in front of you at shoulder height.

Engage your abdominal muscles and feel your spine stretch.

Hold this pose for as long as you can.

Return to the starting position, and rest for some seconds before repeating.

3. Knees To Chest Pose (Apanasana)

The apanasana yoga pose offers relief from menstrual cramps and bloating as well as helps in melting fat around the stomach and lower back. This exercise also creates a downward energy flow, stimulating digestion and encouraging healthy bowel movement.

To begin, lie down on your back and inhale deeply.

Pull your knees up to your chest while exhaling.

Keep shoulder blades down towards the waist.

Keep your face aligned with the centre of your body and tuck your chin downwards.

Hold this pose for 10-15 seconds or till breathing becomes comfortable.

Move knees side to side slowly and maximise stretch as much as you can.

Return to the starting position as you exhale.

Relax for a minute and repeat, performing the asana for a minimum of six times.

4. Chair Pose (Utkatasana)

This is a standing yoga posture that helps stimulate the circulatory and metabolic systems, thereby aiding fat loss. The chair pose helps tone the entire body, particularly working the hips, thighs, and buttocks.

Stand with your feet slightly apart.

Inhale and raise arms straight overhead with palms facing in and with triceps next to ears.

Exhale and bend the knees while pushing the butt back.

Slowly lower yourself towards the floor as you would when sitting in a chair.

Let the torso lean naturally forward over the thighs.

Keep shoulders down and back.

Continue inhaling and exhaling deeply.

Hold the position for five breaths and return to the starting position.

To make this harder, hold the position and lower your arms to chest level as you lower your legs instead of keeping them straight overhead. Bring hands together as if joined in prayer, and twist the upper body towards the right, bringing the left elbow to rest on the right thigh.

Keeping the abs tight, continue inhaling and exhaling deeply. Hold the position for five breaths; inhale and return to start by straightening your knees. Repeat while switching sides.

5. Warrior Pose (Virabhadrasana)

Avoid practising this yoga if you have any spinal ailments, heart conditions or high blood pressure, or knee pain as it is an arduous exercise. Traditionally there are 3 variations of Virabhadrasana.

For the first, start with standing straight with feet four to five feet apart.

Raise arms above your head and join palms.

As you exhale, turn your right foot 90 degrees outwards.

Turn the left foot 45-60 degrees inwards, to the right. Keep the right heel aligned with the left wheel arch.

Next, rotate the torso to the right while keeping your arms straight.

As you exhale, bend your right knee bringing the thigh parallel and shin perpendicular to the floor.

6. Plank Pose (Kumbhakasana)

This is the most simple yet effective yoga to reduce belly fat as it focuses on the core. It strengthens and tones the abs, along with the arms, back, shoulders, thighs, and buttocks.

To start, lie flat on your tummy with palms next to your face and feet bent such that the toes are pushing the ground.

Raise the body by pushing your hands off the ground.

Legs should be straight and wrists directly under shoulders. Breathe evenly; spread your fingers and press down your forearms and hands, keeping your chest from collapsing.

Congress always opposed Ram Mandir construction: Kanwar Pal

RAHUL KOHLI

JAGADHRI: Haryana Cabinet Minister Kanwar Pal Gurjar, while giving his reaction on the rejection of Shri Ram Mandir Pran Pratistha invitation by the top leadership of the Congress and the statements being made by the Congress leaders, said that the innate attitude of the Congress is of this type and earlier the Congress had said that Ram is only in imagination. A large number of Congress party people used to oppose the construction of Ram temple every time. Lord Shri Ram is the soul of this country. Ram is the pride of this country. Ram is our existence, Lord Ram is our idol, Lord Ram is our life, Lord Ram is our God, Lord Ram is the identity of our India. We take inspiration from Lord Ram only. Shri Ram is our ideal. People who have not even read Ramayana talk about Ram Rajya on every good thing. They associate good things with Ram Rajya. Lord Shri Ram is the ideal of the whole of India. This is not a matter of any political party. Everyone should work together on this. But appeasement and divide and rule is the thinking of the Congress party. But today the people of the country have understood everything. Congress is currently at 40 and will come down to 4 very soon.

Indian women's hockey team strive to make their 3rd consecutive Olympic qualification

RANCHI: The battle to earn a berth for the Paris Olympics begins tomorrow, with the FIH Hockey Olympic Qualifiers 2024 kicking off in Ranchi, Jharkhand at the Marang Gomke Jaipal Singh Astro Turf on Saturday in Ranchi.

The eight teams in the fray include Germany, Japan, Chile and Czech Republic in Pool A while hosts India are clubbed in Pool B with New Zealand, United States and Italy. Only the top 3 teams in the tournament will make the qualification cut.

Vying for their third consecutive Olympic berth, the Savita-led Indian women's hockey team is optimistic about their chances. Going into the tournament as the second-highest-ranked team, the hosts will be riding on some significant performances in recent times, namely the Asian Champions Trophy, where they avenged their loss to China in the semi-finals of the 19th Asian Games in Hangzhou.

"We are ready for the tournament. The entire team understands that this is the first step towards the Paris Olympics dream. We have worked on ourselves as individuals and as a team. Our focus will be on our own strength and not worry too much about what the opponents will bring to the table," asserted a confident captain, Savita as quoted by Hockey India.

The Indian side will begin their campaign with a match against the United States on Saturday. The Indian team defeated the US in the 2019 Olympic Qualifiers and will be looking to repeat that performance this time too.

"There will be pressure when we take on the US. No doubt, they are a good side. But as I have always said, there is pressure in every match and every tournament; this is no different. We have worked on ourselves mentally and have worked on how to overcome difficult situations in the match," stated Savita.

"We will go out and fight": Igor Stimac ahead of AFC Asian Cup clash against Australia

DOHA: Ahead of the "difficult match" against Australia in the AFC Asian Cup, India head coach Igor Stimac shifted all the weight of expectations away from the players and said that the Blue Tigers are in Doha to embrace the challenges. On the brink of their fifth appearance on the continental stage, the Blue Tigers begin their tryst with destiny against the mighty Australians at the Ahmad bin Ali Stadium in Doha on Saturday. India, for the first time in the history of the competition, has qualified for back-to-back editions. Carrying a generation of players that grew up when India qualifying for the continental tournament was not a usual sight, this set of players will set out to make that right, as they look to not only normalise India's appearance at the Asian Cup but to also do something that they have never done before: make the jump to the knockout rounds.

"It happens...I wanted Gill to carry on": Rohit on his run-out in Afghanistan match

MOHALI: Following India's six-wicket win over Afghanistan in the first T20I, India skipper Rohit Sharma praised his team's all-round performance and said there are a lot of positives.

Dube's half-century and Axar Patel's economical bowling spell were the key highlights as India beat Afghanistan in the first T20I by six wickets to go one-up in the three-match series.

"A lot of positives, especially with the ball. It was not the easiest of conditions but our spinners bowled particularly well," said Rohit after the match.

On his mixup with Shubman Gill that led to the run-out, Rohit said, "Honestly, these things happen. When it happens, you feel frustrated because you want to be out there and score runs for your team. I wanted Shubman Gill to carry on. He played a good inning but got out."

Elaborating further on his team's performance, he said that batters Jitesh Sharma, Shivam Dube and Rinku Singh are in good form and he aims to try different things in the coming games.

"There are a lot of positives: Shivam Dube, the way Jitesh batted, Tilak as well and obviously Rinku. (Next game?) I want to try a few things. I want to make the bowlers do a few different things. Like how Washy (Washington Sundar) bowled the 19th today. Keeping those things in mind, we will try to do different things. But not at the cost of winning," he concluded.

Coming to the match, put to bat first by India, Afghanistan had a good start, with skipper Ibrahim Zadran (25 in 22 balls, with two fours and a six) and Rahmanullah Gurbaz (23 in 28 balls, with two fours and a six) adding 50 runs for the first wicket.

After Indian bowlers reduced Afghanistan to 57/3, A 68-run partnership between Azmatullah Omarzai (29 in 22 balls, with two fours and a six) and Mohammed Nabi (42 in 27 balls, with two fours and three sixes) brought them back into the match. A solid partnership between Najibullah Zadran (19*) and Karim Janat (9*) at the back end of the innings took them to 158/5 in 20 overs.

Axar Patel (2/23) and Mukesh Kumar (2/33) were the pick of the bowlers for India. Shivam Dube got one wicket.

Chasing 159, India lost skipper Rohit Sharma for a duck on his return to T20Is. Shubman Gill (23 in 12 balls, five fours) showed intent but could not convert his start into big score. A 44-run stand between Shivam Dube and Tilak Varma (26 in 22 balls, with two fours and a six) brought India back into the match. Later, a 45-run stand between Shivam and Jitesh Sharma (31 in 20 balls, with five fours) took India close to a win. Dube scored his second T20I half-century, getting 60 in 40 balls with five fours and two sixes and joined forces with Rinku Singh (16*) to win the game for India.

New Zealand bowler Tim Southee achieves rare milestone in T20I during first match against Pakistan

AGENCY

AUCKLAND : New Zealand's veteran pacer Tim Southee on Friday became the first bowler to breach the 150-wicket mark in T20Is.

Southee achieved this feat during the first T20I against Pakistan at Eden Park in Auckland, where he bagged a figure of 4/25 in his four-over spell.

He completed 150 wickets in cricket's shortest format, becoming the first bowler in Men's T20Is to reach the landmark.

During a match against Pakistan, Abbas Afridi became Southee's 150th victim in T20Is. After Bangladesh all-rounder Shakib Al Hasan and Sri Lankan bowler Lasith Malinga the New Zealand quick was the third to get to 100 T20I wickets.

Southee, who made his T20I debut in 2008, currently has 746 international wickets, including over 350 in the Test format of the game.

The seamer was in good form at Eden Park, removing Mohammad Rizwan, Iftikhar Ahmed, Abbas Afridi and Haris Rauf from Pakistan's chase of 227.

Clinical performances from Kane Williamson, Daryl Mitchell and Southee helped New Zealand register a comprehensive 46-run victory against Pakistan in the first T20I of the five-match series here at Eden Park on Friday.

Actors share their first Kite-Flying experience this Makar Sankranti!

CHANDIGARH: Makar Sankranti, also known as the Kite Festival, is joyously observed throughout India. The festive spirit is marked by flying kites, symbolizing the onset of spring. &TV artists share their memorable first experiences of flying kites during this auspicious occasion. These include Vyom Thakkar (Young Atal, Atal), Geetanjali Mishra (Rajesh Singh, Happu Ki Ultan Paltan), and Shubhangi Atre (Angoori Bhabi, Bhabiji Ghar Par Hai). Vyom Thakkar, essaying Young Atal in &TV's show Atal, says, "Being a Gujarati, we refer to Makar Sankranti as Uttrayan, a festival we celebrate with great enthusiasm. Our entire family gathers at our home for this occasion. We begin the festivities with prayers, and then, we all head to the terrace to engage in the traditional activity of flying kites. This has become a cherished tradition for us. I vividly recall my first experience of flying a kite. Initially, I felt a bit nervous amidst the multitude of kites soaring in the sky, and I wasn't even familiar with handling the manjha (kite string). That's when my father stepped in as a hero, guiding me on the art of carefully lengthening the string. He taught me to hold one part in one hand and bring the other hand a little further down to brace the kite once it goes up in the air. Despite numerous failures in the initial attempts, I didn't give up. I repeated the entire process with the hope of success. Slowly but steadily, my kite began to ascend, with both me and my father skillfully holding the string. The joy of seeing my kite flying high in the sky was immensely gratifying. Over the years, I have honed my kite-flying skills to the point where I can confidently declare myself a pro. Now, it has become quite a challenge for anyone to outdo me in this traditional and thrilling festival activity."

Geetanjali Mishra, aka Rajesh Singh from Happu Ki Ultan Paltan, shares, "In Uttar Pradesh, kite flying is not just a seasonal activity reserved for Makar Sankranti; it's a year-round passion. The vibrant hues of kites paint the sky throughout the year. As a kid, I dedicated endless hours to this exhilarating pastime on terraces. Anticipation builds up two weeks before Makar Sankranti, prompting my friends and me to embark on a kite-buying spree. Armed with bulk purchases, we would go to our terraces, transforming them into lively arenas for aerial battles. The thrill of cutting opponents' kites and engaging in spirited chases from one terrace to another became the essence of our days. Among these joyous escapades, one incident remains etched in my memory. During a spirited pursuit of a soaring kite, I took a tumble that resulted in minor injuries. Determined to keep it a secret from my mother, I hid the mishap. However, mothers possess an uncanny intuition, and mine soon discovered the truth. The revelation triggered disappointment and concern in my entire family, a testament to the inherent risks associated with our beloved pastime. In my hometown, remnants of those spirited kite-flying days still linger in the form of mementoes – a collection of kites that serve as nostalgic artefacts, preserving the essence of a cherished childhood activity. The laughter, the camaraderie, and the occasional mishaps are all woven into the fabric of these kites, symbolizing not just a seasonal festivity but a year-round love affair with the skies."

Shubhangi Atre, aka Angoori Bhabi from Bhabiji Ghar Par Hai, shares, "My encounter with kite flying remains etched in my memory as an unforgettable experience. It granted me the chance to relish the excitement of manoeuvring a kite through the sky. The initial foray into kite flying was marked by a surge of enthusiasm and eager anticipation. The vibrant and enchanting kites dotting the sky captivated my attention, intensifying my eagerness to launch my own. Witnessing the myriad kites soaring above, I couldn't wait to join the ranks. The moment finally arrived when I propelled my kite into the sky, and with each passing second, it ascended to greater heights. The sheer exhilaration of seeing my kite glide through the air was beyond description, filling me with immense joy. A delightful memory from that day includes a playful squabble with my sisters over our respective kite-flying prowess. They couldn't help but express a hint of jealousy as my first attempt proved successful, prompting them to redouble their efforts amidst laughter. The entire experience was wonderful, and the festive ambience of Makar Sankranti continues to evoke a profound sense of happiness in my heart. I extend my warm wishes to everyone for a Happy Makar Sankranti!"

Punjabi folk and Sufi singer Satinder Sartaaj lends his voice to COLORS' 'Udaariyaan'

CHANDIGARH: COLORS' 'Udaariyaan' continues to mesmerize the viewers while depicting the pursuit of love and ambition through the lives of Alia (Alisha Parveen), Aasmaa (Aditi Bhagat) and Armaan (Anuraj Chahal). In the current storyline, Alia lands a fierce blow to Aasmaa's head and tosses her into a river, which lands her in the neighbouring country, Pakistan. She resides with an entirely new family in the country, cleverly disguising herself as a Muslim and hiding her Hindu identity. Amid this upheaval, Aasmaa and Armaan find themselves at the Wagah border for an event. The burning question is whether the hand of fate will unite them. In a harmonious union of music and television, renowned Punjabi folk and Sufi singer Satinder Sartaaj graces the show at this pivotal juncture in the story. The acclaimed artist's melodic prowess and the romance-drama promise to treat viewers to a compelling narrative along with the soulful tunes of Sartaaj. Satinder Sartaaj says, "Udaariyaan holds a special place in the hearts of people across India, especially in the northern regions of the country.

Sriti Jha: "It's an absolute joy to play a character that stands up for herself"

CHANDIGARH: Zee TV's recently launched show, Kaise Mujhe Tum Mil Gaye is fast catching on, showcasing an impossible love story between two contrasting characters – an optimistic Maharashtrian mulgi of modest means who believes in working on one's marriage after finding a suitable partner – Amruta (played by Sriti Jha) and a worldy-wise, Delhi-based Punjabi munda Virat (Arjit Taneja) who has lost faith in the sanctity of the institution, taking most women to be gold-diggers. Popular actress Sriti Jha, who plays Amruta, enjoys playing a character with substance and having a voice of her own.

Sriti believes Amruta's character is very relatable as she is today's girl who is ambitious yet rooted. For instance, we have seen Amruta fearlessly take a bold stand for her mother and speak up about how a homemaker is no less than the partner who supports the family financially.
