Maldives opposition set to move impeachment motion against pro-China President Muizzu

AGENCY
NEW DELHI, JAN 29

The main opposition party in Maldives is set to begin impeachment proceedings against its pro-China president Mohamed Muizzu. The main opposition party Maldivian Democratic Party holds a majority in parliament and the collection of signatures have already started to begin the impeachment filing.

The Opposition parties have hit-out at President Muizzu for his pro-China position after a Chinese spy ship was granted permission by the government to dock in Male.

A massive scuffle took place in parliament yesterday, after which the Opposition decided to begin impeachment proceedings.

A key vote on parliamentary approval for the Muizzu government was scheduled on Sunday and the violence started as the government MPs (PPM/PNC party) disturbed the proceedings.

Over the last weeks, President Muizzu who came to power with a distinctly anti-India position, has been facing pushback, especially with the diplomatic row with New Delhi over Prime Minister Narendra Modi's widely circulated post about his visit to the Lakshadweep islands.

Three ministers who made harsh comments were removed.

Mr Muizzu's demand that India withdraw its troops stationed in the country by mid-March was the newest in the anti-India rhetoric, with the presence of 80-odd Indian troops being portrayed as a security threat to the island nation.

The sudden shift in policy -- which traditionally held India as a friend and ally -- did not sit well with the opposition, and matters escalated after the Chinese spy ship issue.

The Maldivian Democratic Party or MDP and the Democrats accused the government of a "stark" anti-India pivot and issued a joint press statement, labelling the policy shift as "extremely detrimental" to the country's long-term development.

"Alienating any development partner, and especially the country's most long-standing ally will be extremely detrimental to the long-term development of the country," the statement read.

NRI Grievance Redressal Cell created in Haryana

CHANDIGARH: On the initiative of Haryana Chief Minister, Sh. Manohar Lal, NRI Grievance Redressal Cell has been established for Non-Resident Indians (NRIs), especially those of Haryana origin, to address their issues and complaints under single roof. The centre has been set up at the Haryana Civil Secretariat in Chandigarh. A circular to this effect has been issued by the Office of the Chief Secretary.

Recently, during the 10th Vibrant Gujarat Global Summit 2024 held in Gandhinagar, Gujarat representatives of more than 10 companies from Japan, the United States, and African countries had a one-to-one meeting with the Chief Minister. They extensively discussed the possibilities of investing in Haryana. Investors sought information about the industrial and employment incentive policies of the Haryana government and expressed their desire to expand their existing units in Haryana and invest in new locations under the policy. During this interaction, foreign investors and NRIs requested the government's assistance in providing a quick resolution to difficulties and complaints. In response to this, and in line with this initiative, the Complaint Resolution Centre for Non-Resident Indians has been established.

Parents should avoid pressure on students: PM

AGENCY
NEW DELHI, JAN 29

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Monday urged parents to avoid comparing the performance of their wards with that of the latter's friends or siblings as such a practice of "running commentary" will prove detrimental to a child's future.

The Prime Minister made these remarks during an interaction with students at the seventh edition of 'Pariksha Pe Charcha', a programme where he attempts to create a stress-free atmosphere for youngsters who are preparing to give their exams.

"There is a pressure that we have set for ourselves like we have to get up at 4 am in the morning. We have to study till 11 pm at night, solve this many answers, I think we should not stretch ourselves so much that our ability gets broken. We should do it in increments, slowly," PM Modi said.

The Prime Minister observed that parents step up the pressure by asking children to wake up early during exams and by comparing students with their friends.

"This running commentary by parents, elder brothers and teachers drawing negative comparisons every now and then is detrimental to a student's future. It does more harm than good. So, we must ensure that issues are addressed through a proper and heartfelt conversation with students rather than reducing their morale and confidence through unfriendly comparisons and talks," PM Modi said, adding that the parents should avoid such a practice.

"This programme is like an exam for me too": PM Modi said during the interaction where he sought to answer questions from students and their teachers from across the coutnry.

He also said that one must become capable of bearing all kinds of pressures. "One must become capable of bearing any kind of pressure. They should believe that pressure keeps on building and one has to prepare oneself (to tackle it)," the PM said.

Addressing a range of questions, from peer pressure to competition among classmates, the PM said that if there is no competition in life, then life will become unmotivated. "There must be competition, but only healthy competition," he said.

The Prime Minister pointed out that teachers play an important role in reducing the stress of students. "Therefore, there should always be a positive relationship between teachers and students.

Another student commits suicide in Kota

KOTA: In Rajasthan's Kota, another student preparing for competitive exams has died by suicide, police said. The incident, which marks the second suicide in January, underscores the escalating issue of exam stress among coaching students. Niharika Singh, an 18-year-old from Kota's Borkheda area, was preparing for Joint Entrance Examination (JEE) and was found hanging at her residence. Despite the family's prompt response and immediate hospitalisation, she was declared dead upon arrival. The police have initiated an investigation, including a post-mortem examination, to ascertain the circumstances leading to her tragic decision.

AGENCY
NEW DELHI, JAN 29

The historic Vijay Chowk in the national capital came live to foot-tapping tunes and synchronised steps by members of armed forces during the 'Beating Retreat' ceremony on Monday to mark the end of Republic Day celebrations.

The setting sun setting down provided a majestic background as soldiers marched to Indian tunes.

The music bands of the Indian Army, Indian Navy, Indian Air Force and Central Armed Police Forces (CAPF) played captivating tunes before a distinguished audience including President Droupadi Murmu, who is Supreme Commander of defence forces, Vice President Jagdeep Dhankhar, Prime Minister Narendra Modi and union ministers.

The ceremony began with the massed band's 'Shankhnaad' tune which was followed by enthralling tunes such as 'Veer Bharat', 'Sangam Dur', 'Deshon ka Sartaj Bharat', 'Bhagirathi', and 'Arjuna' by Pipes and Drums band.

Lt Col Vimal Joshi is the principal conductor of the ceremony. 'Beating Retreat' traces its origins to the early 1950s when Major Roberts of the Indian Army indigenously developed the unique ceremony of display by the massed bands. It marks a centuries-old military tradition, when the troops ceased fighting, sheathed their arms, withdrew from the battlefield and returned to the camps at sunset at the sounding of the Retreat.

In the forests falling under the Kalsia Range, Chhachhrauli, Khair and other valuable trees are being targeted every day due to which the number of green trees and plants in the forests is continuously decreasing. The forest area is decreasing due to cutting of trees. 10 years ago the forests used to be very green, but today it has reduced. Every day, cases of cutting of precious trees including wells keep coming to light. The present District Forest Officer does not feel the need to talk on phone or even respond to messages. In such a situation, it can be gauged from how serious he is towards forests. Other forest department officials are confined to their offices instead of patrolling.

Two days ago, a case of cutting of Khair trees from Chikkan Beat of Kalsia Range Chhachhrauli came to light. The forest employee posted there was called and freshly cut Khair trees were also shown. This information was also given to District Forest Officer Yamunanagar and Range Officer Dinesh Poonia of Church Range Chhachhrauli, but even then the Forest Department fell on deaf ears. On the contrary, forest officials are claiming that no trees have been cut from the forests. In such a situation, there is a need to conduct a high level investigation of the forests.

Apart from trees, stone excavation work is also being done in the forest area.

AAP leaders are diverting attention from their criminal activities

VERMA

GURDASPUR: The Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) has strongly condemned Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) allegations of BJP attempting to buy out seven AAP MLAs in Delhi for Rs. 25 Crore each as part of what the AAP calls Operation Lotus. BJP has said that this blatant lie has been spread by AAP in a pathetic attempt to gain sympathy for AAP supremo Arvind Kejriwal before his arrest by the Enforcement Directorate on charges of massive corruption in the liquor scam, presently under investigation in Delhi. Seven MLAs cannot help topple a government that has 62 out of 70 MLAs in the Delhi State Assembly. In any case, AAP will be thrown out by the people in the next assembly elections due in February 2025. There is no need to topple a government that is bound to fall under the weight of its own corruption and inefficiency in a years' time. "There is no such thing as Operation Lotus," said Col. Jaibans Singh, Chief spokesperson, BJP, Punjab. "The propagandist media machinery of AAP always attempts to divert attention by playing the victim card when its leaders come under the scanner on grounds of corruption. This time, the leader involved is none other than their supremo, Arvind Kejriwal, and hence, the desperation is much more. It is for this reason that AAP has played the deceitful Operation Lotus card in Delhi," added Col Singh.

Bamboo may dominate India's economic landscape soon. The Niti Aayog has spearheaded a robust policy to harness its potential — from being a fabric to biofuel. The bamboo shoot has been part of the Indian diet, especially in the northeastern states. Most tribes in the region consume bamboo in various forms. The Manipuri usoi ooti and soibam, made with bamboo, maize, cucumber, coriander and milk, are served with chapatti or paratha. The Mizo delicacy, rawtuai-bai, is made by mixing chillies and other spices, and eaten as stew with pork. Mia gudhog, Tripura's famous bamboo shoot curry, is another popular meal. Bamboo biryani, originally a tribal dish from the Araku Valley in Andhra Pradesh, has donned many variations and flavours in modern kitchens across India. A detour through the districts of Nagaland, Mizoram or Tripura would reveal women busy with culinary errands involving bamboo shoots. Another typical activity in these areas is the drying of bamboo shoots for sustenance.

An interesting feature is that the technique employed to ferment bamboo is unique to tribes and ethnicities. These techniques are passed on orally from one generation to the next in the form of story-telling. The major tribes of Meghalaya — the Khasis, Garos and Jaintias — soak the chopped bamboo shoots in a water-filled container. The fermented shoots retain their crunchiness with a tangy flavour relished by locals. In Arunachal Pradesh, a bamboo basket covered with leaves is used to ferment the shoots. The Meiteis of Manipur use an earthen pot for this purpose while most Naga tribes do so in a conical bamboo basket with a hole at the bottom. Tripura's Debbarmas, Uchois and Chakmas use clay pots for the same purpose. Bamboo plays an essential role in the daily lives of the indigenous people in the Northeast because of its multifarious uses. It serves as a source of traditional food; it is used to build homes and is a raw material for handicrafts; fermented bamboo sprouts are also part of Meitei festivals like Ningol Chakouba, when married women return to their parent's house to revive family traditions.

The North Eastern Region Community Resource Management Project, a livelihood and development initiative, aims to provide a fillip to bamboo shoot production to transform the lives of these marginalised communities. The project has focused on two broad areas: social mobilisation and capacity-building to tap the latent potential of communities is one; thrust on infrastructure with income-generating activities to achieve economic wherewithal is the other.

Nepotism preventing Pakistani women from participating in country's elections

The next-to-invisible women's participation in the Pakistan general elections has been a pertinent issue, and the reserved seat criteria is merely a formality as they are only allocated on the basis of nepotism, The Express Tribune reported on Monday.

It reported that this tradition of promoting the family members and children of prominent political leaders has made it impossible for the common Pakistani woman to fight elections at the forefront.

For instance, Heer Soho from Thatta, who was recently put on the Pakistan People's Party's (PPP) reserved seats' allocation list, has been receiving the nod for a reserved seat since the 2008 general election.

The Express Tribune reported quoting a journalist, Muhammad Fayyaz, who hails from Thatta, Heer has been successful in securing the reserved spot for the 4th consecutive general election due to her father, Ismail Soho.

"Ismail Soho is a friend of the PPP's top leadership, therefore, his daughter has been getting the reserved seat ticket repeatedly," informed Muhammad.

In similar fashion, Nida Khuhro, who happens to be the daughter of Pakistan Peoples Party (PPP)'s President in Sindh, Nisar Ahmad Khuhro, has managed to secure a reserved seat ticket for the second election running. Likewise, Nafisa Shah, the daughter of former chief minister of Sindh, Syed Qaim Ali Shah, has also managed to secure a spot on the reserved seats' allocation list of the PPP.

And just like the PPP, the PML-N also rewards friends and family of their top leadership with reserved seats. Tahira Aurangzeb, who is the mother of former federal minister for information, Marriyum Aurangzeb, and was also a close confidant of Begum Kulsoom Nawaz, has been given the nod for the reserved seats by the party since 2008.

Similarly, Shaista Parvez Malik, the wife of former member of National Assembly, Parvez Malik, received the party's reserved seat ticket in the general elections of 2013 and 2018; and has been given one this time around as well, The Express Tribune reported.

The same is the case for Jamiat Ulema-e-Islam (F), which has given its approval for a reserved seat spot to its supremo Maulana Fazlur Rehman's sister-in-law, Shahida Akhtar, who has served three times in the National Assembly. The party has also given a reserved seat spot to Rehana Ismail, another sister-in-law of the party head.

The Pakistan-based news daily reported that the Awami National Party (ANP), is no different. For instance, it has consistently rewarded Samar Haroon Bilour, of the influential Bilour family of Khyber Pakhtunkhwa (K-P), who is also a relative of former federal minister Ghulam Ahmad Bilour, consistently with a reserved seat ticket to the K-P assembly.

In making these reserved seats' allocations on the basis of kinship or friendship, female grassroot political workers are left behind, which as per some of these workers is an insult to their sacrifices for their respective parties.

A senior political worker of the PPP from Hyderabad, who spoke to The Express Tribune under the condition of anonymity, remarked that the PPP has neglected most of the women political activists who were close to Benazir Bhutto, despite them having served jail time for the party in the past.

Concurring with the PPP worker, Farzana Butt, a PML-N political worker, said that many other women workers, including herself, made sacrifices for the party while they were in opposition but did not receive any appreciation from the party, let alone a reserved seat ticket.

"It is disappointing that women from influential families and good financial standing get tickets, whereas genuine grass root political workers are sidelined," a disgruntled Farzana said.

While the Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf's (PTI) allocation of reserved seats is in the doldrums due to the party not having an election symbol, Nabil Ghazanfar, a long-term worker of the party from Peshawar, was of the view that the PTI was not any different from other parties when it came to seats' allocations.

Cold water swimming improves menopause symptoms: Research

A new study led by UCL researchers found that menopausal women who swim in cold water on a daily basis experience considerable improvements in both physical and mental symptoms.

The research, published in Post Reproductive Health, surveyed 1114 women, 785 of which were going through the menopause, to examine the effects of cold water swimming on their health and well-being. The findings showed that menopausal women experienced a significant improvement in anxiety (as reported by 46.9% of the women), mood swings (34.5%), low mood (31.1%) and hot flushes (30.3%) as a result of cold water swimming. In addition, a majority of women (63.3%) swam specifically to relieve their symptoms. Some of the women quoted in the study said that they found the cold water to be "an immediate stress/anxiety reliever" and described the activity as "healing". One 57-year-old woman stated: "Cold water is phenomenal. It has saved my life. In the water, I can do anything. All symptoms (physical and mental) disappear and I feel like me at my best." Senior author, Professor Joyce Harper (UCL EGA Institute for Women's Health), said: "Cold water has previously been found to improve mood and reduce stress in outdoor swimmers, and ice baths have long been used to aid athletes' muscle repair and recovery. "Our study supports these claims, meanwhile the anecdotal evidence also highlights how the activity can be used by women to alleviate physical symptoms, such as hot flushes, aches and pains.

Iran refutes involvements in drone attack on US base in Jordan

Iran's Foreign Ministry refuted the claims of Tehran's involvement in the attack on a US base in Jordan and said resistance groups decide and work on their own principles and priorities as well as the interests of their country and people, Iran's state news agency, IRNA reported.

Iran's Foreign Ministry Spokesman, Nasser Kanaani, warned that the statements and non-constructive actions of some Western officials are threatening regional and international peace and stability

"As we have clearly stated before, the resistance groups in the region are responding the war crimes and genocide of the child-killing Zionist regime and that they do not take orders from the Islamic Republic of Iran. These groups decide and act based on their own principles and priorities as well as the interests of their country and people", he underlined.

Additionally, Iranian Minister Kanaani advised the West to condemn the crimes of the occupying Israeli regime and work to facilitate humanitarian aid to Gaza rather than making baseless accusations against Iran, IRNA reported.

This comes as Kannai lashed out at British Foreign Secretary David Cameron for his anti-Tehran rhetoric and unfounded claims.

Kanaani has called baseless the UK accusation after a US base attack in Jordan that Iran has been involved in operations by resistance groups in the region.

"These claims are made with specific political goals to reverse the realities of the region and also indicate that they are influenced by third parties, including the child-killing Zionist regime", Kanaani noted. Cameron has posted on X, in which, he condemned the drone attack on an American base in Jordan but reiterated that Iran is involved in operations of resistance forces, a claim officials in the Islamic Republic have repeatedly called "baseless". "We still urge Iran to reduce tensions in the region", Cameron added in his post. This is while the Islamic Republic has always emphasized that it does not have any proxy group in the region.

The drone attack marks the first instance of US troops being killed by enemy fire in the Middle East since the commencement of the Gaza war.

The attack targeted Tower 22 in Jordan, near the Syrian border, escalating an already precarious situation in the region. According to US officials, the drone responsible was launched by Iran-backed militants and seemed to originate from Syria, CNN reported.

cross over in their boats in the morning with ploughs on their shoulders to till their far-away fields; Where the cowherds make their lowing cattle swim across to the riverside pasture; Whence they all come back home in the evening, leaving the jackals to howl in the island overgrown with weeds. Can self-compassion help people reach their weight-loss goals?

Losing weight is exceedingly tough because high-calorie, delectable foods are easily accessible. Despite our best intentions, it is usual to overeat. These setbacks can be frustrating and demoralising, prompting people to forsake their aspirations.

A new study from the Center for Weight, Eating and Lifestyle Sciences (WELL Center) in Drexel University's College of Arts and Sciences explored whether practicing self-compassion - or treating oneself with the same care and kindness that people typically offer to their loved ones - helps people become more resilient to these overeating setbacks. Recently published in Appetite, researchers found that when study participants had more self-compassionate responses to their lapse, they reported better mood and self-control over their eating and exercise behavior in the hours following the lapse. The findings suggest that self-compassion can help people engage in healthier weight loss behavior by helping them become less demoralized by setbacks.

"Many people worry that self-compassion will cause complacency and lead them to settle for inadequacy, but this study is a great example of how self-compassion can help people be more successful in meeting their goals," said Charlotte Hagerman, PhD, an assistant research professor in the College and lead author. "The road to achieving difficult goals--especially weight loss--is paved with setbacks. Practicing self-compassion helps people cope with self-defeating thoughts and feelings in response to setbacks, so that they are less debilitated by them. In turn, they can more quickly resume pursuing their goals."

Hagerman and colleagues collected data from a group of 140 participants who were trying to lose weight through a group-based lifestyle modification program. Participants responded to surveys on their smartphones multiple times a day to report whether they had experienced a dietary lapse - eating more than they intended, a food they didn't intend, or at a time they didn't intend - and the extent to which they were responding to that lapse with self-compassion. The researchers also asked about participants' moods and how well they had been able to practice self-control over their eating and exercise behavior since the last survey they responded to.

Hagerman noted that weight loss and maintenance are extremely difficult, and people typically blame themselves for a lack of willpower.

"In reality, we live in a food environment that has set everyone up to fail. Practicing self-compassion rather than self-criticism is a key strategy for fostering resilience during the difficult process of weight loss," said Hagerman. "The next time you feel the urge to criticize yourself for your eating behavior, instead try speaking to yourself with the kindness that you would speak to a friend or loved one."

Weight loss tips for women who are in their thirties!

Sensible weight loss ideas work for everyone. Especially, when women are in their thirties, they ought to be smart with diets and a workout regime. As when you age, there is a slight decrease in metabolism and your bones start to become fragile. Hence, you are required to take extra care of your body. This doesn't mean that you cannot lose weight after a certain age, you just have to know what is right and what works for your body. Here we have mentioned a few effective weight loss tips for women who are in their thirties.

Eat protein enriched diet: As we age, our metabolism decreases and to refuel our bodies we need a nutritious and healthy diet. Even if you are not on any weight loss journey, start your day with protein-enriched diet. Your body will stay energetic and you can stay active throughout the day.
Think artificial sweeteners are healthy? They are not! These artificial sweeteners only increase your sugar cravings and when you eat sugar-based products, you can end up binging on them. Instead of relying on artificial sweeteners, you can add honey or jaggery in your food items.
Learn to manage your stress: Stress can actually hamper your healthy lifestyle, which can eventually make you obese. If you experience stress, meditate or opt for those activities that help you relieve stress and anxiety.
Exercise under expert guidance: Even if you are regularly exercising, as you age you must work out under an expert supervision. Your trainer will not only help you in losing weight but would also instruct the right exercises that are beneficial for long-term fitness journey.
Eat right: By now you already know what suits your body. Eat the right foods and avoid binging. As it is always said, oily and junk food is harmful to your health, and when you are on a weight loss journey, they will never allow you to achieve your goals.
Overcome all the barriers: At this stage of your life, chances are that you have settled professional and personal life. Sometimes, it is quite difficult to take out time for yourself. Never do this injustice to your body. If you are not fit and active, you will not be able to give your 100 per cent in any task. Make a schedule and follow it every day.
Remember, fad diets are dangerous: As dangerous as eating anything unhealthy. These diets confuse your metabolism which makes your weight loss journey even harder. Instead of falling for any fad diet, eat healthy and in moderation.
Stay motivated: You may experience demotivation which might impact your weight loss plan. If you need any motivation, seek support from friends and family. Get proper support that can also help you to deal with emotional eating.
The 5-hour rule: Follow the 5-hour rule. According to this rule, you should not stay more than five-waking hours without eating. Starving will not help rather eating in moderation and healthy is the key to fitness and health.

India drop to fifth on WTC 2023-25 points table after loss in Hyderabad

NEW DELHI: Following India's 28-run loss against England in the first Test match of the five-game series on Sunday, Rohit Sharma's side slipped to fifth place in the World Test Championship (WTC) points table.

India's point percentage dropped from 54.16 to 43.33 and stands in fifth place after Australia, South Africa, New Zealand and Bangladesh.

India were having a good run in the ongoing WTC 2023-2025 as they drew the two-match Test series against South Africa by 1-1. However, their loss against England in Hyderabad saw them dropping three spots.

In the WTC 2023-2025, India won two, drew one and lost two against South Africa and England in their previous five Tests.

Recapping the first Test match in Hyderabad, Ollie Pope's blitzkrieg, and debutant Tom Hartley's spin inspired England to a 28-run victory in the first Test against India at the Rajiv Gandhi International Stadium.

After Pope's 196 inspired England's hopes of an unprecedented comeback, debutant Tom Hartley's magic with the ball on Day 4 did the trick for the visitors. The slow left-arm orthodox spinner made most of the surface that kept low. He tried to use the rough to produce uneven bounce and sharp spin to cause all sorts of trouble to India batters. After making early inroads, Hartley continued to ride high on confidence and made an immediate impact after the beginning of the third session.

India's gamble of sending Axar Patel to fifth spot didn't yield the expected results. A momentary lapse in Axar's concentration saw him send the ball straight to Hartley's hands, forcing him to depart for 17.

Root came in, spun the ball sharply into KL Rahul and trapped him right in front of the stumps. The 31-year-old decided to challenge the on-field decision, but with three reds popping up on the screen, Rahul's time on the field ended with a score of 22.

Bumrah reprimanded for breaching ICC code of conduct in first Test against England

HYDERABAD : India's star pacer Jasprit Bumrah has been handed an official reprimand for breaching Level 1 of the ICC Code of Conduct during the first match of the five-match Test series against England.

"Jasprit Bumrah has been given an official reprimand for breaching Level 1 of the ICC Code of Conduct for an incident on the fourth day of India's first Test against England in Hyderabad," the International Cricket Council said in a statement on Monday.

According to ICC, the incident occurred in the 81st over of England's second innings when Bumrah stepped in Ollie Pope's way as he went for a run, leading to inappropriate physical contact.

Bumrah was found to have breached Article 2.12 of the ICC Code of Conduct for Players and Player Support Personnel, which relates to "inappropriate physical contact with a Player, Player Support Personnel, Umpire, Match Referee or any other person (including a spectator during an International Match."

Because this was Bumrah's first infraction in 24 months, one demerit point has been added to his record.

In addition to this, one demerit point has been added to Bumrah's disciplinary record.

The charge was levelled by on-field umpires Paul Reiffel and Chris Gaffaney, third umpire Marais Erasmus and fourth umpire Rohan Pandit.

"Level 1 breaches usually carry a minimum penalty of an official reprimand, a maximum penalty of 50 per cent of a player's match fee, and one or two demerit points. Bumrah admitted the offence and accepted the sanction proposed by Richie Richardson of the Emirates ICC Elite Panel of Match Referees, so there was no need for a formal hearing," the statement said.
