Centre notifies implementation of Citizenship Amendment Act rules

AGENCY NEW DELHI, MAR 11

The Union Home Ministry has notified rules for implementation of Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA) on Monday, days ahead of the announcement of the Lok Sabha elections schedule.

Home Minister Amit Shah, on multiple occasions, said that CAA rules would be notified ahead of the Lok Sabha elections to be held in April-May.

The CAA rules, introduced by the Narendra Modi government and passed by Parliament in 2019, aim to confer Indian citizenship to persecuted non-Muslim mi-grants - including Hindus, Sikhs, Jains, Buddhists, Parsis, and Christians - who migrated from Bangladesh, Pakistan, and Afghanistan and arrived in India before December 31, 2014. Following the passage of the CAA by Parliament in December 2019 and its subsequent Presidential assent, significant protests erupted in various parts of the country.

As per an official, the CAA law can be put into action with the issuance of MHA notification, allowing Applicants halted as it stands as the law of the land. He had also accused West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee of misleading the public regarding this matter.

Speaking at a party meet-ing in Kolkata, Shah earlier emphasized that the BJP is committed to implementing the CAA. The TMC, led by Mamata Banerjee, has been opposing the CAA.

The assurance of imple menting the highly debated CAA was a significant electoral agenda for the BJP during the previous Lok Sabha and Assembly elections in West Bengal. Leaders of the ruling party at the Centre view it as a credible factor contributing to the BJP's ascent in the state. As per the manual of parliamentary procedures, the guidelines for any legislation should have been formulated within six months of receiving the presidential assent, or the government should have sought an extension from the Committees on Subordinate Legislation in both the Lok Sabha and Rajya Sabha.Since 2020, the Ministry of Home Affairs has been regularly seeking extensions from the parliamentary committees to continue the process of framing the rules associated with the legislation.

A plea was filed in the Supreme Court to restrain the central government from appointing the Chief Election Commissioner and other Election Commissioners as per Sections 7 and 8 of the Chief Election Commissioner and other Election Commissioners (Appointment Conditions of Service and terms of office) Act 2023.

Sections 7 and 8 lay down the procedure for the appointment of ECI members.

The application filed by the Congress leader Jaya Thakur also sought direction to appoint members of the Election Commission as per the Supreme Court judgment which had directed the constitution of a committee consisting of the CJI, the PM, and the leader of the Opposition in Lok Sabha for appointment

Following the resignation of Election Commissioner Arun Goel last week and the retirement of Anup Chandra Pandey, two vacancies of Election Commissioners have arisen.

Advocate Varun Thakur, appearing for the petitioner, also mentioned the plea for an early hearing before a bench headed by Chief Jus-tice of India DY Chandrachud. The bench asked the lawyer to send an email regarding this and it will look into the listing. Thakur had earlier also challenged the provisions of the Chief Election Commissioner and other Election Commissioners (Appointment, Conditions of Service and terms of office) Act. 2023

Underscoring that the Lok Sabha Election 2024 may be announced shortly, the application was filed to prevent the appointment of the next Election Commissioners under the amended CEC Act, 2023. Top government sources said the launch will ensure that a single missile can deploy multiple warheads at different locations.

The project director of Agni 5 is a woman and the development that will alter India's geopolitical position has significant women's contribution.

With the test of Mission Divyastra, India has joined the select group of nations who have MIRV (multiple independently targetable rented vehicles) capability. "This system is equipped with indigenous Avionics systems and high accuracy sensor packages, which en-sured that the re-entry vehicles reached the target points within the desired accuracy. The capability is an enunciator of India's growing technological prowess," government sources

Meanwhile, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Monday congratulated DRDO scientists over the first flight test of Agni-5 missile.

"Proud of our DRDO scientists for Mission Divyastra, the first flight test of indigenously developed Agni-5 missile with Multiple Independently Targetable Re-entry Vehicle (MIRV) technology," Modi said on 'X'

The Agni-5, with a range of 5,000 km, is developed considering the longterm security needs of the country. The missile can bring almost the entire Asia including the northernmost part of China as well as some regions in Europe under its striking range.

Crossing with blind curve behind Radha Krishan Mandir poses serious threat RAJIV JAIN

CHANDIGARH: Speed Breakers and Blind Curve on Road Crossing, behind Radha Krishan Mandir and Lal Dwara Mandir, Sector 40A, Chandigarh have become a source of inconvenience for the public. The spot has also become safety concern behind the Radha Krishan Mandir and Lal Dwara Mandir in Sector 40 A, Chandigarh. The lack of proper speed control measures such as speed breakers, further aggravate the problem. Hence there is urgent need of speed breakers to be strategically placed at appropriate intervals will force motorists to slow down and navigate the curve with caution. There is a need of erecting clear and visible warning signs alerting drivers about the blind curve ahead.. These measures will significantly reduce the risk of accidents at this location and ensure the safety of all road users.

People of dozens of villages join BJP AAP pushed Punjab towards

economic emergency: Chugh

VERMA

GURDASPUR: BJP national general secretary Tarun Chugh today said the AAP government led by Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann has pushed Punjab to the brink of economic collapse by grossly misusing resources and burdening the state with unprecedentedly huge debt. Demanding a white paper on the economic condition of the state, Chugh said that if the decline continues for some more time. Punjab may have to declare fiscal emergency as happened in Sri Lanka and Pakistan. Chugh held the Bhagwant Mann government responsible for completely ruining the economy of Punjab. He said as Punjab's share in central taxes is rising steadily from Rs 14,000 crore in 2022-23 to Rs 22,000 crore in the current financial year, the debt-GDP ratio has touched alarming heights. Contrary to the RBI's recommendation of keeping it at 32 per cent, Puniab has recklessly increased the state's debt to 45 per cent. In the last financial year, the state had taken a loan of Rs 94000 crore, but the total debt of Punjab has reached Rs 3.7 lakh crore. Further, the capital expenditure has been reduced from Rs 10354 crore in 2022-23 to Rs 7445 crore in 2024-25. This makes it clear that the AAP government of Punjab does not have any concrete strategy for development. He said that what is worrying is that the allocation for rural and small scale industries has been reduced from Rs 385 crore in 2023-24 to Rs 126 crore in 2024-25. Similarly, the allocation for roads and bridges has been drastically cut from Rs 295 crore in 2023-24 to Rs 192 crore in 2024-25. Even the allocation to agriculture and allied sectors has been cut by about Rs 100 crore, a serious reflection of the wrong and anti-development policies of the AAP government in Punjab.

Editorial Handheld morality

In January, the International Court of Justice saw South Africa present its 84-page legal dossier detailing allegations of genocide brought against Israel. Western media giants were widely criticised on social media platforms for what has been described by the Palestinian writer and analyst, Yara Hawari, as an "outstanding" lack of adequate coverage of the hearings. Furthermore, the same media giants that pointedly failed to broadcast South Africa's case went on to air Israel's two-hour-long defence against the allegations in a later session.

In a move that many have hailed as a necessary corrective to this blatant media bias, clips featuring several actors, including well-known faces from Game of Thrones, reading out key passages from South Africa's case against Israel were circulated widely on social media platforms. The videos have since gone viral, with X users pointing out that the limited coverage of South Africa's arguments had had the unintended effect of ensuring that hundreds of internet users would be made familiar with the details of the charges brought against Israel.

While digital activism is not new to us, what sets the current situation in Gaza apart is that one would be hard-pressed to name any other 'conflict' in history which has seen such extensive real-time uploading and sharing of videos and images of brutal slaughter, displacement, and resilience across social media platforms. Every single development in the past few months in the lives of the Gazan people has been meticulously documented and streamed directly to our mobile devices. Ideological wars continue to be fought in X threads. Instagram reels and TikTok comments as propaganda machines work overtime to churn out contrasting accounts of a decades-old conflict. Images of violence and destruction flood in from Gaza, often in defiance of deliberate media and internet blackouts, even as content creators on TikTok and Instagram take to their ring lights and phone cameras to create videos, memes and trends advocating for the rights of the persecuted

And, yet, one cannot help but be dismayed at the implications of the need to relentlessly post, share and reshare images of death, dismemberment, despair and destruction of a people on a daily, even hourly, basis. Grieving privately is a privilege no longer granted to the traumatised victims of the carnage, as cameras must constantly point to and shoot scenes of overwhelming devastation in an effort to humanise victims and survivors.

Actors wear red pins calling for Gaza ceasefire on Oscars red carpet

n the Oscars red carpet, a striking departure from the typical glitz and glamour unfolded, with notable celebrities such as singer Billie Eilish and actor Mark Ruffalo proudly donning red pins as a poignant call for a ceasefire in the Israel-Hamas war, The New York Times reported.

This marked a significant departure from the general trend of Hollywood stars shying away from drawing attention to the ongoing conflict during this awards season.

The red pins served as a symbol of solidarity with Artists4Ceasefire, a coalition of celebrities and industry members who, in a collective effort, signed an open letter urging President Joe Biden to advocate for an immediate cease-fire, according to The New York Times.

The list of nearly 400 signatories includes this year's Oscar nominees Bradley Cooper and America Ferrera, along with prominent names like Cate Blanchett, Drake, Ben Affleck, and Jennifer Lopez.

"The pin symbolizes collective support for an immediate and permanent cease-fire, the release of all of the hostages and for the urgent delivery of humanitarian aid to civilians in Gaza," Artists4Ceasefire said in a news release. "Compassion must prevail," the release continued.

One of the entertainers who wore the symbolic pins was comedian and actor Ramy Youssef, who starred in the highly nominated film "Poor Things." Youssef expressed a mixture of hope and disappointment, saying, "There's a part of you that hopes it doesn't have to get to pins... There's a part of us that hoped we would already be at a cease-fire, and we're not."

Youssef also reflected on the surprising lack of questions about the war during earlier red carpet events this season. At the Golden Globe Awards in January, he seized an opportunity to redirect a question about Jeremy Allen White's Calvin Klein ad into a call for a cease-fire. He emphasized that this isn't about political strategy but a simple plea: "Hey, let's stop killing kids."

Other notable personalities joining this movement included director Ava DuVernay, actor Quannah ChasingHorse, and Billie Eilish, who won the Best Original Song for "What Was I Made For?" from "Barbie." Eilish incorporated the red accent into her black-and-white Chanel ensemble, a sentiment echoed by her brother and producer, Finneas, as reported by The New York Times. While the Israel-Hamas war had a limited presence on red carpets since the Golden Globe Awards in January, where stars wore yellow ribbons in solidarity with hostages held by Hamas, the Oscars served as a platform to renew attention to the humanitarian crisis. The Artists4Ceasefire pins, resembling glossy red quarters with an image of a hand surrounding a small black heart, have made intermittent appearances throughout the awards season. At the Grammy Awards, members of the indie rock trio boygenius attached these pins to their suits, and actors Tony Shalhoub and Ebon Moss-Bachrach showcased them on the red carpet at the Screen Actors Guild Awards.

Mark Ruffalo, nominated for the Oscar for Best Supporting Actor for his role in "Poor Things," also proudly displayed an Artists4Ceasefire pin at the Directors Guild of America Awards in February. Ruffalo emphasised the need to give a ceasefire a chance, stating, "We're not going to bomb our way to peace."

The Israel-Hamas war has resulted in a significant loss of life, with over 30,000 people reported killed in Gaza, according to Gazan officials, and around 1,200 casualties in Israel from the Hamas attack on October 7

Red carpets at award shows have traditionally provided opportunities for stars to draw attention to various issues. At the 2023 Oscars, blue ribbons were donned to express support for refugees. In 2018, women in Hollywood wore black to the Golden Globes in solidarity with victims of sexual harassment. Natalie Portman, in 2020, wore a cape embroidered with the names of female directors at the Oscars.

While Hollywood stars have increasingly spoken out on political leaders, abortion rights, and racial inequality on award show stages, discussions surrounding the war in the Middle East have been relatively subdued. However, the Grammy Awards saw a slight shift last month when Annie Lennox called for a cease-fire during her musical tribute to singer Sinead O'Connor.

The Los Angeles Police Department anticipated possible protests related to the Israel-Hamas war on the day of the Oscars, leading to increased security around the Dolby Theater, the venue for the awards show.

Ramy Youssef emphasised the unique role of artists in encouraging viewers to engage with humanitarian issues, saying, "There's that term 'talking heads' -- I think artists are talking hearts," he said. "We're appealing on an emotional level," The New York Times reported.

Australia to axe hundreds of nuisance tariffs from July

A ustralian Treasurer Jim Chalmers said on Monday that the federal government would abolish almost 500 nuisance tariffs from July 1. "We will eliminate import tariffs on a wide range of imported goods, including toothbrushes, hand tools, fridges,

"This is the biggest unilateral tariff reform in at least two decades. It will cut compliance costs, reduce red tape, make it easier to do business, and boost productivity," he noted.

According to the treasurer, the new reforms served as a significant move to simplify Australia's trading system and remove compliance costs for local businesses, particularly small-to-medium enterprises.

"There are 18 free trade agreements and around 16,000 tariff concession orders. Much of our trade is tariff-free but not free of the associated compliance costs. The complexity of the current system means businesses are not fully benefiting from trading opportunities. The compliance burden disproportionately impacts small businesses and occasional importers who are less able to manage the costs of accessing preferential or concessional rates," said Chalmers.

The changes are estimated to scrap about 14 percent of Australia's total tariffs. Meanwhile, they will also streamline approximately 8.5 billion Australian dollars (5.6 billion U.S. dollars) worth of annual trade and save businesses over 30 million Australian dollars in compliance costs each year.

"It will provide a bit of extra help with the cost of living challenge by making everyday items just that little bit cheaper," said Chalmers (1 Australian dollar equals about 0.66 U.S. dollars). The South Korean health ministry sent prior notices on Monday to suspend the medical licenses of around 5,000 trainee doctors who have defied an order to return to work and have been protesting against the government's proposal to increase medical school admissions, reported Yonhap News Agency.

Deputy Health Minister Jun Byungwang said that it had completed sending the notices to 4,944 junior doctors last week.

After receiving the notices, the doctors will be required to submit their opinions on punitive measures by March 25, according to Yonhap News Agency.

With the government vowing to take legal action against junior doctors making threats to their colleagues, or impeding their return to hospitals, the health ministry will also open a hotline on Tuesday for the physicians wishing to return, Jun said.

"The government will spare no efforts to help trainee doctors wishing to return to hospitals," Jun added.

As many as 11,994 trainee doctors left their worksites at 100 teaching hospitals as of Friday, accounting for some 93 per cent of all junior doctors, the ministry stated, Yonhap News Agency reported.

Health Minister Cho Kyoo-hong said that the government will take lenient measures if trainee doctors return to work before administrative procedures to suspend their licenses are completed.

"As we plan to proactively extend leniency to junior doctors who return before the conclusion of administrative procedures, we encourage their prompt comeback," Cho said. Reportedly, local hospitals have been experiencing cancellations and delays in surgeries and emergency medical treatment as medical interns and residents remained silent to the government's call for them to return by the end of February. PM:USHA-A Vehicle for Transforming Higher Education Landscape

Sustainedgrowth in the sphere of knowledge enrichment is an essential factor for the advancement of human civilization. Needless to say that education is the backbone of the holistic growth of an individual, society and the nation.

Quality contemporary education promotes economic, intellectual and social growth by empowering youth with attributes, namely, critical thinking, creativity, skill-development, innovation and entrepreneurship. These attributes are essential for inclusive growth, social harmony and horizontal and upward mobility. Moreover, quality education fosters scientific advancement and help create a rational and a just society. With a superb demographic dividend, India's commitment for high quality 21st century education to its youthful population would determine the future of the country.

In this context,RashtriyaUchchatarShikshaAbhiyan (RUSA), an overarchingcentrallysponsored scheme, has become a key-driver for promoting equity, access and excellence in higher education. The sole objective of RUSA is to create an ecosystem for best quality higher education by strategic funding of higher education institutions under state governments and union territories. RUSA also focuses to ensure equityin higher education by promoting inclusion of women, tribals, minorities, differentlyabled persons, socially-disadvantaged and economically weaker sections. Additionally, is also aimed at quality assurance, infrastructure development, faculty recruitment and research and innovation.

RUSA isbeing implemented in mission mode for funding the state government universities and colleges to achieve objectives of education. This has helped state governments for strategic planning and execution for completely revamping higher education ecosystem to resolve the issues concerned with access, equity and quality and other related issues. After the completion of the first phase, it was extended as RUSA 2.0 until March 2020 with further extension provided till March 2021 under the same programmatic and financial frameworks.

RUSA, a norm based and outcome dependent scheme, has contributed significantly to sectoral outcomes through various focused components.In the first phase, RUSA covered a total of 2.107 institutions across different components with a budget ary outlay of 8,118 croreinfrastructuralgrants. Un der the second phase of RUSA around 1,050 institutions received funding and the total allocation was 6,475 crore of which infrastructure grants accounted for 35% share and quality and research initiatives constituted 31% share. Better achievement of targets in certain areas has been observed under the second phase indicating implementation and process maturity. An independent performance review conducted by IIT Bombay in 2017 found that GER increased from 19.4 % in 2013 to 25.2% in 2018 and the teacher-student ratio also significantly im-proved after the implementation of RUSA. While the number of accredited institutions during the scheme period has increased, a large number of institutions are still unaccredited. Though, RUSA was partly responsible for reducing the number of affiliated colleges the scheme's objectives with regard to reducing the affiliation burden for each state university to two hundred is yet to be met with.Despite the high focus of the scheme on infrastructure augmentation, some surveys done in the past highlight gaps with respect to infrastructural availability and the quality of infrastructure in a few institutes. Limited usage of ICT based classroom transaction has also been observed in some sampled institutes. Moreover, as most of the components under RUSA prioritized funding for institutions with NAAC rating of 2.5 and above, this affected participation of institutions from the backward regions.

With a view to overcome the bottlenecks experienced during implementation of RUSA-1 and 2, RUSA-3 (rechristened as PM-USHA) was launched which will continue until 31st March, 2026.This new avatar of RUSA targets to reach out to the unserved, underserved areas, remote and rural areas, difficult geographies, LWE areas, North-eastern region, aspirational districts, tier-2 cities, areas with low GER etc., and to benefit the most disadvantaged areas and socio-economically disadvantaged groups. It also aims at revamping and re-energising learning system for delivery of quality higher education in tune with the key recommendations of NEP-2020. The focus of strategic funding under PM-USHA, apart from improving equity, access and quality, has shifted to transformative reforms viz. gender inclusion, multi-disciplinary education and research, ICT, enhancing employability through vocationalisation, skill upgradation and innovations. This would support around 1,600 projects worth Rs 12,929.16 crores with 60:40 share with the state governments.

PM-USHA is the central government's commitment to meet the promises held by the rich expanse of India's state universities. The country's future lies in empowering these campuses with all that it takes to enhance quality learning, transformational research and to promote skill-development, innovation and entrepreneurship. As a centrally sponsored scheme, the vision of RUSA is loud and clear that at times the most important lessons of life are learnt outside the classroom. As such, whether it is upgrading libraries or computer centres, promoting autonomous colleges or clubbing them to consolidate their strength and forming cluster universities/institutions, this programmerealizes that every institution holds the power to enrich lives and life values through top-class education system.

In a nutshell, PM-USHA has enabled policy dimensions with regard to smooth, cost effective and timely implementation of various institutionalpro jects including transformational imperatives of NEP. The scheme has ensured proper utilization of project funds and timely submission of financial management reports and utilizationcertificates. It helped monitor progress and in implementing reforms, resolving bottlenecks, and enabling the in-stitution to achieve targets for key quality imperatives. The programme has focused on state higher educational institutions and drawn upon the best practices from colleges and universities across the nation.PM-USHAmay help inspire state governments to re-strategise and revamp their learning system to make it current and relevant and to meet the aspirations of the 21st century learners.

we should serve mother cow wholeheartedly. This does not mean that you serve the mother cow as long as she gives milk and when she stops giving milk, you scold her. This should not be done. One should always serve the mother cow. This gives good results. After this Meena Chauhan thanked the villagers from the bottom of her heart.

City residents have a reason to cheer as the Finance and Contract Committee (F&CC) of the Municipal Corporation today gave its nod to 20,000 litres of water and free parking. In a story meeting, BJP councillors today disrupted the house meeting and marshals had to be called to handle the situation. The agenda was brought up by the India Alliance under which 20,000 litres of free water will be given to every house in Chandigarh and along with this, parking will also be made free in the city. councillors Jaswinder Kaur, Ramchandra Yadav and Taruna Mehta have been elected. Just before the F&CC elections, the time of the Municipal Corporation was wasted by the BJP councillors by asking all kinds of wrong questions to the Municipal Corporation officials and the voting process was not allowed to start for a long time. Finally, when the voting process was started, BJP withdrew the councillors. He said that BJP already knew that their defeat among F&CC members was certain today, due to which their councilors wasted time by asking counter-intuitive questions as part of a plan. On this occasion, he also congratulated the newly elected members. On this occasion, seven different agendas were presented in the Municipal Corporation. The first agenda was to install radiographic machinery and complete the work of X-ray room, room and ultrasound operation theatre in the Veterinary Hospital, Raipur Kalan, Chandigarh. Which was passed with consent. The second agenda was of water pipeline in Burail village, which was kept for consideration in the upcoming meeting.

Modi-Manohar and Yogi are saints of this era: Kalyan

SHIV KUMAR SHARMA KARNAL, MARCH 11

Gharaunda MLA Harvinder Kalyan said that Prime Minister Narendra Modi. Harvana Chief Minister Manohar Lal and Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath are actually saints it is under their supervision that the country and the state are moving on the path of progress. The MLA was addressing the gathering on Monday during his stay at Suhana and Veer Rice Mill Colony Gharaunda. The MLA said that now people are not going to be misled by the opposition which is giving false slogans of giving Rs 7000 pension, free electricity and loan waiver. Now every person has become aware. Earlier the oppo sition formed their govern ments on these false slogans and worked to loot the country and the state. The opposition should first answer that during its 10 years of rule, the Congress had caused a loss of Rs 30 thousand crores to the electricity department of Haryana and at that time the people used to clamour for electricity, then why the opposition could not improve the system. Why is the Congress making big false promises now? Under the Modi-Manohar government, 24-hour electricity service is being provided to every village.
