Addressing a press conference here, Singh alleged that a "notorious criminal" lodged in Tihar jail was allowed to meet his lawyer and wife in the barrack, while Kejriwal had to meet Punjab Chief Min-Bhagwant Mann across a glass screen. Hurt by the treatment being given to him, Kejriwal has sent a mes sage for the countrymen: "My names is Arvind Kejriwal

understand the importance of having CM: Rakesh Thakur

RAJNEESH SHARMA HAMIRPUR. APRIL 16

In a notable shift, former BJP-supported district council chairman and former Sujanpur BJP Mandal president, Rakesh Thakur, has openly expressed his support for Himachal Pradesh Chief Minister Sukhvinder Singh Sukhu. At a press conference held on Tuesday at Hotel Hamir, Thakur said that the people of Hamirpur are well aware of the pain of losing a chief minister and the importance of having one. He emphasized that this time they will not lose the chief minister. Thakur is considered a strong contender for the Congress ticket from Sujanpur and has already met with Chief Minister Sukhu along with his supporters. Previously associated with the Dhumal camp within the BJP, Thakur's stance has become more assertive following the unexpected developments involving former Congress MLA Rajendra Rana joining the BJP and being declared the party candidate in by-elections. Thakur accused former Chief Minister Jai Ram Thakur of discriminating against Hamirpur during his tenure. He claimed that Jai Ram felt embarrassed to visit Sujanpur and hindered development projects in the region. However, since Sukhu became chief minister, development projects in Hamirpur have seen significant progress.

During Sukhu's 14-month tenure, work on the Hamirpur bus stand began, a project initially inaugurated by former Chief Minister Prem Kumar Dhumal. Thakur also accused Jai Ram Thakur of withholding funds from the medical college building project. In contrast, the Sukhu government allocated ?163 crore in 2022-23 and ?70 crore in 2023-24 for the construction of the district's sole medical college.

The local MLA had also repeatedly demanded an investigation from Sanskar regarding these construction works. He had even demanded a CBI investigation into all these actions. secretary and MLA Trilok Jamwal criticized the Congress party, stating that they are the true anti-women party. He mentioned that statements from their senior leaders and actions by their minister chief and government confirm this. If their intentions were genuine, they would have immediately started providing Rs 1500 per month to women as soon as they formed the government. However, their intent lacked clarity, which is why their promise to begin providing Rs 1500 to women from the first cabinet meeting has not yet been fulfilled.

provide Rs 1500 to women: Trilok

However, he made no such provision, and soon after the session ended, he announced the scheme. Even this announcement lacks transparency, as it does not specify who will receive the Rs 1500 and who will not. Upon closer inspection, it seems that only those women who were already receiving self-sufficiency funds will benefit from the scheme.

DC inspects wheat fields sown with surface seeder

SANGRUR (SUMER GARG): Deputy Commissioner(DC), Sar grur, Jitendra Jorwal today reviewed the status of wheat yield sown with surface seeders at Akal Seed Farm Mastuana Sahib. Or this occasion, while expressing happiness he said that a good yield has been produced by sowing through a surface seeder. He further said that the cost of wheat sown by conventional methods is usual ly more, but through surface seeder, where wheat is sown with a tractor of less horse power, along with this, the time for sowing this method a lot of time is also saved. DC said that due to the absence of weeds in the wheat sown with a surface seeder, there is a saving in agricultural expenses and the wheat sown in the normal way often falls due to bad weather or other reasons, but with this technology the wheat crop does not fall at the time of wheat harvesting and it turns out to be very beneficial. DC further said that the height of the wheat plant is also big and it is felt that the production will also be more. He said that due to burning of stubble after harvesting of pad dy, where there is harm to health due to poisonous gases in the environment, the friendly insects in the soil also die, which reduces the fertility of the land, also the sowing of wheat during the rabi sea son and it gets late which also affects the yield.

Pick peace

widely-anticipated attack by Iran on Israel, Husing more than 300 missiles and drones, has significantly raised fears of a broad regional conflict emerging from Israel's war on Gaza with implications that extend well beyond the Middle East. Israel, with help from the United States of America and the United Kingdom, managed to shoot down almost all of the Iranian projectiles. Jordan also shot down some missiles that passed through its airspace. Yet, Tehran's attack, which followed the Israeli bombing of an Iranian consulate in Damascus, Syria, on April 1, in which eight people were killed, including two Iranian generals, has raised the risks of a military escala-tion that could suck in multiple other nations. Israel has said it is weighing its options for retaliation. Iran has already warned that any fresh strike from Israel will invite more attacks from Tehran. Washington has reportedly told Tel Aviv that it will not support any Israeli attack on Iran, even as the US Congress is likely to discuss fresh aid for Tel Aviv

While many critics of the Israeli prime minis-ter, Benjamin Netanyahu, have accused him of trying to provoke a wider conflict to hold on to power amid mounting domestic opposition, Mr Ne-tanyahu and his team will be well aware of the risks of a war that spins out of control. Iran, which had attacked Israel through proxy militant groups but not directly before, also knows well that any further escalation is not in its interests: Israel's powerful military could embarrass Iran in ways that could shake up the credibility of the Islamic republic. But in the current, surcharged atmosphere, all it needs is one miscalculation to nudge countries off script. Already, the wider consequences of the tensions are becoming clear — from the 17 Indian sailors captured by Iran when it seized an Israel-linked ship last week near the Strait of Hormuz to the multiple flight disruptions resulting from countries closing their air space near Iran and Israel. The oil market and the shipping industry, already on edge because of the Gaza war, will take deep hits from any military con-frontation. The US, China, Russia and other major powers — as also nations like India — must immediately push for a region-wide ceasefire. The world can only afford to pick one side in this crisis: that of peace.

China plays backstop to Russia's war against Ukraine

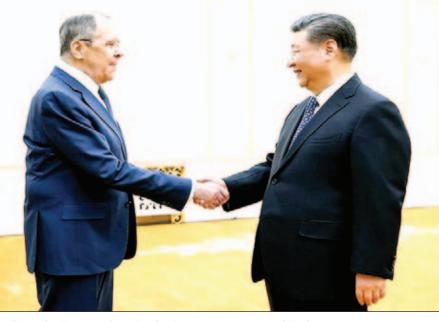

hina insists it "has always maintained an objective and impartial position" on Russia's invasion of Ukraine. Yet, contrary to these words of assurance, China is aiding and abetting Russia's war of aggression against the Ukrainian people.

The rhetoric from China is sharply at odds with its actions. A Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesman claimed last year that "As for military item exports. China has throughout adopted a prudent and responsible attitude" However, such statements are laughable in the face of mounting evidence that says otherwise

As violence flares in the Middle East, exacerbated by Iran's barrage against Israel, some are naively suggesting that China should help mediate there too. As J. Michael Cole, Senior Advisor, Countering Foreign Authoritarian Influence at the Washington DCbased International Republican Institute, commented: "That sure hasn't worked with Russia over its war of aggression against Ukraine. Nor did it work with North Korea When will the world stop living under the illusion that Beijing will be a partner for peace?

Disclosing previously classified intelligence, senior US officials have claimed that China is helping bankroll Russia's resurgent military-industrial complex. After starting cautiously after Vladimir Putin's invasion, China has been gradually ramping up clandestine support for Russia. It is helping plug gaps by rebuilding Russia's defence industrial base. Indeed, there is alarm that Russia is now achieving its most massive military-industrial expansion since the end of the Cold War. For instance, General Chris Cavoli. commander of the US European Command, recently testified that Russia has been "quite successful" at reconstituting its military back" to what it was pre-invasion despite Western sanctions. President Joe Biden raised precisely this issue with Chairman Xi Jinping in a phone call on 2 April. According to a US readout of the conversation. Biden "raised concerns over the People's Republic of China's [PRC] support for Russia's defence industrial base and its impact on European and transatlantic security

Indeed, its capacity has largely "grown

There is now a concerted message from US government officials alleging that China is largely responsible for this build-up in Russia's defence industry. As one example, Moscow is now able to produce three times the artillery ammunition that the USA and Europe combined can.

Last week, US officials divulged some of the ways that China is lending support. For instance, Chinese and Russian groups are working to jointly produce drones inside Russia. They also mentioned cruise missile and drone engines, as well as machine tools that are needed to manufacture ballistic missiles. Moscow used to get its machine tools from Europe, but sanctions turned off that conduit. Re gardless, it has found alternative and willing suppliers, and nearly 70 per cent of Russia's USD 900 million worth of machine tool imports in the last quarter of 2023 emanated from China

The USA has complained that Dalian Ma-chine Tool Group has provided tooling to Russia. Other guilty parties for items used in military equipment include Wuhan Global Sensor Technology, Wuhan Tongsheng Technology and Hikvision, which are providing optical components that can be used on armored vehicles, for instance. iRay Technology and the North China Research Institute of Electro-Optics have also supplied military optics.

Electronic components are flowing Russia-ward from China too. Where Western com panies have stopped supplying items like semiconductors, China has stepped in to fill the gap. Hong Kong, for instance, is a vital conduit of computer chips to Russia. So much so, that China supplied 90 per cent of computer chips imported by Russia last year. These are critical for things such as targeting systems and radars. Additionally, Russian semiconductor imports from China soared from USD200 million in 2021 to more than USD500 million in 2022

Chinese entities are also helping boost Russia's satellite and other space-based capabilities. Media have reported that China has supplied Russia with propellant for use in missiles, nitrocellulose (used to make gunpowder for artillerv rounds, for example), avionics and fighter jet engine parts too. Another wide ly reported export from China to Russia is drones and associated spare parts.

Molfar, a Ukrainian business intelligence consultancy, has reported that devices from DJI - the world's largest maker of consumer market drones - continue to flood into Russia. despite DJI's promise in 2022 to stop doing business there. Molfar alleged that low-cost DJI drones are being sold to Russian companies such as Skymec, SHUBBA-Octagon and Pustelga to train government and military personnel on how to fly drones.

he Pakistani government announced an increase in the price of petrol by Pakistani currency (PKR) 4.53 per litre and that of high-speed diesel (HSD) by PKR 8.14 per litre for the next fortnight ending April 30, Dawn reported on Monday

In the latest price revision, the petrol price was increased to PKR 293.94 per litre from PKR 289.41.

Additionally, the HSD price was increased to PKR 290.38 per litre for the next 15 days, compared to PKR 282.24 over the past fortnight, Dawn reported.

The decision, announced in a notification from Pakistan's finance ministry. said that price variations were worked out by the Oil and Gas Regulatory Authority based on price variations in the international market.

Petrol is mostly used in private transport, small vehicles, rickshaws, and two-wheelers and has a direct bearing on the budgets of the middle and lower-middle classes

Dawn reported that most of the transport sector runs on HSD. Its price is considered inflationary as it is mostly used in heavy transport vehicles, trains and agricultural engines like trucks, buses, tractors, tube wells and threshers and particularly adds to the prices of vegetables and other eatables

The government did not announce the prices of kerosene and light diesel oil (LDO). Kerosene is mostly used by unscrupulous elements to mix with petrol and, to some extent, for lighting in very remote areas, while LDO is consumed by flour mills and a couple of power plants.

Earlier, informed sources said the prices of petrol and HSD had increased in the international market by about USD 4 and USD 4.50 per barrel, respectively, during the last fortnight, before the latest escalation.

ndia on Tuesday called for decisive action on Security Council reform, championing an inclusive framework that truly represents the dynamic global landscape of today. During the 6th round of the intergovernmental negotiations on Security Council reform on Tuesday (local time), the Permanent Representative of India to the United Nations in New York, Ruchira Kamboj said, " India is in favour of expansion of UN Security Council membership in both the permanent and non permanent categories, as we believe that this is the only way to achieve genuine reform of the Security Council and make it legitimate, representative, responsive and effective.

She said that India needs a council that caters to the geographical and developmental diversity of the United Nations today.

"In a nutshell, we need a reformed Security Council that better reflects the geographical and developmental diversity of the United Nations today. A security council where the voices of developing countries and unrepresented regions, including Africa, Latin America and the vast majority of Asia and the Pacific, also find their due place at the horseshoe table. And for this, an expansion of the council in both categories of membership is absolutely essential," she said.

Kamboj underlined that India's position is widely supported by the majority of the member states, adding that "this fact is on record in the 2015 framework document on the issue of categories of membership."

"A total of 113 member states out of 122 who submitted their positions in the framework document supported expansion in both of the existing categories specified in the charter. This means that more than 90 per cent of the written submissions in the document were in favour of expansion in both categories of membership specified in the charter," Kamboj emphasised.

"On the contrary, longer term non permanent seats, which was an idea mooted during the inception of the United nations to only be discarded due to its ineffectivenes

Researchers discover brain region involved in control of attention

n a new study, researchers at the University of Iowa linked a brain region to how humans adjust their thoughts and attention when distracted. The link is significant because it provides insights into the cognitive and behavioural adverse effects of a treatment used to treat Parkinson's sufferers. The study, "The human subthalamic nucleus transiently inhibits active attentional processes," was published online March 4 in the journal Brain.

The subthalamic nucleus is a peasized brain area that controls our movements. These motions have been hampered in Parkinson's patients: researchers believe the subthalamic nucle us, which normally acts as a brake on abrupt movement, is exerting too much influence. Researchers believe that overactive brakes contribute to the disease's tremors and other motor deficits.

In recent years, clinicians have treated Parkinson's patients with deep-brain stimulation, an electrode implanted in the subthalamic nucleus that rhythmically generates electrical signals, causing the brain region to loosen its braking, freeing up movement. The deep brain stimulation system is like a pacemaker for the heart; once implanted, it runs continuously.

"The technique is truly miraculous, frankly," says Jan Wessel, associate professor in the departments of Psychological and Brain Sciences and Neurology at Iowa. "People come in with Parkinson's, surgeons turn the electrode on, and their tremor goes away. Suddenly they can hold their hands steady and go play golf. It's one of those blockbuster treatments where, when you see it in action. it really makes you believe in what the neuroscience community is doing." Yet some patients treated with deep brain stimulation have been beset by an inability to focus attention and impulsive thoughts, sometimes leading to risky be haviors such as gambling and substance use. Researchers began to wonder: Did the subthalamic nucleus' role in movement also mean this same brain region may deal with thoughts and impulse control?

Wessel decided to find out. His team designed an experiment gauging the focus of attention of more than a dozen Parkinson's patients when the deep brain stimulation treatment was either activated or idle. The participants, outfitted with a skull cap to track their brain waves, were instructed to fix their attention on a computer screen while the brain waves in their visual cortex were being monitored. About one in five times, in a random order, the participants heard a chirping sound, meant to divert their visual attention from the screen to the newly introduced audial distraction.

In a 2021 study, Wessel's group established that brain waves in participants' visual cortex dropped when they heard a chirp, meaning their attention had been diverted by the sound. By interchanging instances when there was a chirp or no sound, the researchers could see when attention had been diverted, and when the focus of visual attention had been maintained.

The team turned their attention to the Parkinson's groups for this study. When the deep brain stimulation was idle and the chirp was sounded, the Parkinson's patients diverted their attention from the visual to the auditory systems--just as the control group had done in the previous study.

Cotton farmers need to embraceearly weed detection for better yields – Godrej Ágrovet

hatinda,Mansa,Fazilk B a: Impacting the liveli-hood of an estimated 60 Lacs farmers in India[1]. Cotton is one of the most important cash crops in India. However, causing yield reduction between 40 percent to 85 percent during the last few years[2], weed infestation in cotton continues to impact the cotton farmers. "Weeds are the unwelcome guests in any cotton field," said Rajavelu NK, CEO – Crop Protection Business, Godrej Agrovet Limited. "They fiercely compete with the crop for precious resources like sunlight, water, and nutrients. With a capability to remove about 30 percent to 50 percent of applied fertilizer and 20 percent to 40 percent of moisture[3], it is important for the farmers to imbibe the habit of focusing on early detection of weeds so as to safe-guard their yields," he added.Studies have shown that the first 60 days after planting are a critical window.2Hence to mitigate the nuisance caused by the weed. herbicide applications are recommended approximately seven days before planting.

Said Rajavelu, "The yield from the emerging crops can drop due to weed competition. To identify the weed during the early growth stages, especially around germination hotspots, spotting young weeds through their distinctive leaves and shapes is necessary. And it is herein that in absence of quality labor, embracing technology, drones and precision tools like weed maps and targeted herbicide applicators become helpful tools, improving control efforts while minimizing environmental impact.

The addition of Mushtaq to the Bangladesh squad will help them prepare for the upcoming T20 World Cup, looking at the conditions in the USA and West Indies

Meanwhile, Mushtaq said that he is looking forward to the new role and wants to pass on his experience to the players. It is a great honour for me to be a part of the Bangladesh cricket team as a spin bowling coach. A last ball win over table leaders Rajasthan Royals on April 10 was just the kind of result the Titans needed to infuse fresh live to their campaign. They have only managed only two wins from their first six games but with another eight matches remaining, the Shubman Gill-led team has enough time to turn things around

The presence of a fit again Kuldeep Yadav made a huge difference as he broke the backbone of the opposition with three timely strikes in Lucknow. Kuldeep, who has added more speed to his craft, seems to be at the peak of his powers and it could be difficult for Titans batters to face him, especially against his googlies. In Jack Fraser-McGurk, Capitals seem to have found an able number three and will be hoping that the Australian builds on the success of his maiden IPL game.

Anrich Nortje, who has been taken to the cleaners by the batters so far in the IPL, did not play the last game.

Mukesh Kumar has conceded 10 runs per over in the five games and was also expensive in his comeback game against LSG

The biggest positive for the team has been the batting form of skipper Rishabh Pant, who seems to be getting better with every outing. It would be fair to say that the southpaw is in prime position to make India's squad for the T20 World Cup despite stiff opposition from the likes of Sanju Samson and Ishan Kishan. Thin on Indian bating talent, the Capitals rely heavily on the likes of David Warner, who would itching to make an impact after not contributing muchin the last three games.

tally in IPL 2024

AGENCY

NEW DELHI: Gujarat Titans star spinner Rashid Khan stated that he isn't "happy" with his wickets tally in the ongoing Indian Premier League (IPL) but is happy to play "little" roles, which helps his team to clinch vic tory

Rashid has had an underwhelming season for the last year's finalist. In six matches, Rashid has six scalps to his name at an economy of 7.96 and an average of 31.83.

The Afghanistan spinner struggled to make batters dance to his tune, which he has done throughout his career. He went wicketless in the opening game against the Mumbai Indians. He managed to pick two against the Chennai Super Kings but conceded 49 runs, which was the most by any GT bowler. Since then, he has picked a wicket each in the next four matches.

Rashid opened up about his struggle in the ongoing season and vowed to take more wickets in the next eight matches.

"In the first three games, I struggled a bit coming after the surgery; it wasn't easy to get back to my own rhythm. I am so happy in the last two to three games, I have played how my body allowed me to enjoy my bowling and I am quite happy with that. Wicket wise. I am not happy with that but that is what T20 cricket is all about. Sometimes you need to play a little role, which helps the team to win the game and I am try ing my best to play that little role. In any part where I can change the momentum of the game, I try my best. I will do my best to take more wickets in the last eight games," Rashid told ANI.

GT made it to two consecu tive finals of the IPL under the leadership of Hardik Pandya and even lifted the title in their debut

After Hardik returned to his former franchise, the Mumbai Indians, Shubman Gill took over the captaincy. Rashid lavished praise on Gill's performance as a captain and the commitment that he shows to deliver his best.

"He has been great since Day 1. It is so good to see him; he is lead ing from the front. The way he has been delivering with the bat even though he has captaincy on his shoulders. He is someone who tries to do his best as well, doesn't matter what the condition or situation is.
