to be made by the aggrieved candidate within 7 days after the declaration of results. The expenses for the verification (of the program) are to be borne by the candidates making the request, in case the EVM is found to be tampered

Commandos in Sandeshkhali, Bengal moves SC against CBI probe

NEW DELHI: The Bengal government has approached the Supreme Court against a Calcutta High Court order directing the CBI to probe allegations of extortion, land grab, and sexual assault from Sandeshkhali against suspended Trinamool Congress leader Sheikh Shahjahan and his associates. This comes hours after the CBI which is also investigating the January 5 attack on an Enforcement Directorate team - conducted a raid on hideouts linked to suspects in that case. Sources told the federal agency recovered foreign-made weapons and ammunition, following which teams of the National Security Guard, who are elite commandos, were deployed to the spot. The Sandeshkhali row broke after a mob of Shahjahan's supporters set upon an ED team en route to conduct searches related to a separate case.

Crop diversification saved Rs. 477 cr of electricity and 5 BCM of ground water: Bhagwant Mann

BUREAU CHANDIGARH, APRIL 26

Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann, on Friday, thanked the farmers of Punjab for following his advice and not cultivating PUSA-44 type of paddy last season.

In a video message, CM Mann said that he is working hard to save our farming and make it a profitable business again. He said that he ensured that the farmers should get required electricity in the daytime. The preparations in mandis for procurement, lifting and transportation are also excellent. We do proper planning, preparations and execution during every season

He said that before last season of paddy he requested the farmers to not sow PUSA-44 which takes 150+ days to get ready. After his one request, the area under PUSA-44 was decreased by 50%. Instead of PUSA-44, our farmers planted PR-126, PR-127, PR-128, PR-129 and PR-130 which only takes 90 days to get ready, which is 60 days less than PUSA-44. Due to lesser area under PUSA-44, the electricity worth Rs. 477 crore was saved and it also saved 5 billion cusecs groundwater.

Mann said that we are following the words of Guru sahib, 'pawan guru paani pita' and the farmers' support is his biggest strength on this path to make Punjab Rangla again. He said that he is so happy that farmers followed his advice at one simple request and he will never take any decision that can harm Punjab, Puniabis and our resources. He said that he will always take decisions for the betterment of Punjab. Mann said that he once again, before the beginning of paddy season, he requests the farmers to not sow PUSA-44 at all. It will save electricity and groundwater. He advised the farmers to grow PR-126 to 130 and basmati

RANVIR PARASHAR KAITHAL, APRIL 26

DC Prashant Panwar said that these days there is a danger of many vector borne diseases like malaria, chikun-gunya and dengue.Health Department has fixed the rate of dengue test (ELISA test) at Rs 600 from a private lab and this test is done for free in the civil hospital. If any private lab operator is found charging more money for dengue test, strict action will be taken against him. Lab private hospitals have been instructed to display test rates outside the lab, so that all patients can know the prescribed rate.DC was addressing the concerned officers and employees in the meeting of the District Malaria Executive Committee held in the auditorium of the Mini Secretariat on Friday. He said that it is a good thing that no case of malaria has been reported in the district since 2019. We will have to remain alert and take appropriate steps to ensure that no cases arise in the future. Mosquito-borne hot spots should be identified and waterlogging should not be allowed at home, office or construction site. If old tires kept in road-ways premises are filled with water, get them cleaned and PWD officials should fill the potholes on the roads so that they do not get filled with water during the rainy season. He said that not a single case of dengue has been reported this year, although last year there were 118 cases of dengue.He said that it is necessary for all private hospitals and labs to inform the Civil Surgeon Office about any suspected or positive case of ma-laria, dengue, Japanese fever, chikungunya. Apart from this, any private hospital cannot admit dengue patients if it is not certified by the health department. If anyone does this, action will be taken against him. DC said that all the heads of departments should take special care of cleanliness around their of fices and should not allow water to accumulate any where. All municipalities and Panchayat departments should prepare a schedule for fogging in their areas and implement the work.

Civil Surgeon Dr. Renu Chawla said that the Health Department has formed 244 teams to prevent vector-borne diseases, which are making people aware and checking for larvae. Health workers are going door-to-door, making blood slides of people suffering from fever and source reduc tion activities will be conducted. In this series, so far blood slides of 37 thousand 579 people suffering from fever have been made in the district. Wherever larvae are found, notices are being given to them and challans are being issued

DINESH AGA

Speaking to the media, Pradesh Adhyaksh of the Bharatiya Janata Party, Dr. Rajiv Bindal, stated that the INDI alliance does not want the country to have a stable government and a strong Prime Minister. The goal of the Congress party is to create an unstable government by gathering some MPs from various parties, making a weak Prime Minister, and then removing them in six months to a year and installing another one. The Congress party has previously executed this plan, leading the country through a phase of instability. They supported H.D. Deve Gowda to become Prime Minister and ousted him after four months. Then, they supported Indira Kumar Gujral and ousted him as well. This cycle continued with Charan Singh, Chandrashekhar, resulting in economic, social, border security, and internal security weakening, and putting the country's progress at stake. The Congress party, along with the Nehru-Gandhi family, has planned and is now working on the same agenda. Dr. Bindal mentioned that the hidden agenda of the Congress party's election manifesto has been revealed, and Sam Pitroda, the mentor of the Nehru-Gandhi family. has presented the entire script of the picture before the world. He stated that if the Congress government comes to power in India, wealth tax will be imposed on the assets, land, and properties of Indians, similar to America, and heavy taxes will be levied on property transfers to children after death. Dr. Bindal emphasized that the cat is out of the bag now, and the Indian public is aware of Congress's intentions. The hidden agenda of the Congress election manifesto. which was to offer reservations to specific castes and religions, has now been openly exposed. The Congress's traditional antiopenly Ram face is now evident to everyone.

BKU demonstrates against Will this country run on Sharia?, Amit imposition of 7 pc interest on Shah tears into Congress manifesto cooperative loans SHIV KUMAR SHARMA KARNAL, APRIL 26

AGENCY BHOPAL, APRIL 26

Union Home Minister Amit Shah said on Friday that after the Congress manifesto was released, people's inclination towards the Bharatiya Janata Party has increased further because Congress has repeated its old habit of appeasement in its manifesto.

Shah told ANI that Congress' manifesto speaks of taking the personal law forward, which is about dividing the country. "First of all, I would like to appeal to the voters to elect a party that stands on its words--for a secure and prosperous country and the welfare of the poor. After the Congress manifesto was released, people's inclination towards the BJP further increased because, in its manifesto,

Congress has repeated its old that it will bring a Uniform Civil Code (UCČ).

"We scrapped Triple Talaq and started UCC and we will take this forward. Rahul Gandhi speaks of personal law, which is about dividing the country. Personal laws can't be implemented in this country. I am confident that we will see Narendra Modi as the Prime Minister of the country for the third time," Shah added. Earlier, Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath hit out at Congress, accusing it of planning to implement the 'Sharia law' in the country and redistribute people's property. The Uttar Pradesh CM, while addressing a public rally in Amroha, claimed that Congress has in its election manifesto expressed its intention to implement the 'Sharia law' in the country, posing a threat to the Constitution. "Congress has written in its manifesto about bringing personal laws for a particular community. Through this move, Congress aims to impose Sharia law, bringing a Taliban-style rule India. This clearly to indicates that Congress and the I.N.D.I alliance pose a threat to the Constitution crafted by Baba Saheb," he said

Farmers gathered on the premises of the Cooperative Bank in Karnal under the aegis of Bharatiya Kisan Union (BKU) regarding reimposition of interest on cooperative loans by the Central Cooperative Bank and demonstrated strongly on Friday. Slogans were raised in protest. Earlier, Kisan Panchayat was organized under the chairmanship of District President Surendra Singh Ghumman at Deenbandhu Sir Chhotu Ram Kisan Bhawan located in local Arjun Nagar. Kisan Panchayat was addressed by senior farmer leader Premchand Shahpur, District President Surendra Sangwan, farmer leader Ram Dureja, Indri Block President Dilawar Singh Dabkoli, farmer leader Vinod Rana. Farmers demonstrated from Kisan Bhawan to the Co-operative Bank located on Mall Road. After the protest, under the leadership of State President Ratan Mann, they met with Bank General Manager Sheetal and discussed the entire matter, but as the discussion was not positive BKU seemed to disagree with the talk. Farmers said that the government was doing injustice to the farmers by implementing new laws, but the farmers would not tolerate it at any cost. Ratan Mann said that the government was trying to impose an annual interest rate of 7 per cent on the loans taken by farmers through PACS. Earlier, the Hooda government of Congress which ruled the state had implemented the scheme of providing loans at zero per cent rate on the demand of farmers. Now the present government was seemed to end this scheme. Mann said that many types of documents were being asked from farmers unnecessarily. While calling upon the farmers, he said that no farmer should give any kind of documents when asked by any bank officer or employee.

Editorial Mirror of truth

A s artists who come from social privilege and prac-tise art forms that cater to that same section of so-ciety, we waltz through life just doing our thing. Of course, they put in a lot of hard work and make umpteen sacrifices, and many overcome economic challenges. But if talent is so obvious that it is difficult to ignore, more often than not, such hurdles are surmounted because of the inherent social network that race. caste, gender and colour provide and the fact that the art form is performed, patronised and appreciated largely by the social elite. Once the economic threshold is crossed, there is little to be done. Upskilling is not rocket science and merely adds layers of additional ability and information that help in keeping their art 'interesting'

Let us step back and wonder why we want to be come artists. The initial drive comes from exposure, conditioning and, without doubt, from marvelling at the art and artists. This can result in young people tak-ing the plunge into the uncertain world of art production. Family and friends are initially thrilled to show off a talented youngster. They beam with pride at social gatherings and amateur public events. But all this ceases once the individual wants to consider art as a career choice. The inner circle highlights the in-built dangers of such a decision, mainly focussing on art's long gesta tion period, uncertainty, and ensuing financial instabil-ity. One cannot deny any of these realities. They will convince the individual to at least complete an under-graduate degree in another field. The logic being, if everything goes south, there is a degree to fall back on. Beyond the financial fear and despite their love for their arts', the social elite rarely view the arts as a seri-ous professional endeavour. They would rather have a home-grown software engineer, doctor or accountant. They will admire artists from a distance and bathe in the cultural affirmation they provide, silently glad that someone else from a different home is doing the deed. They will come to events, be it a concert or a gallery show, as aficionados. On the other hand, organisers complain that these very people are often tight-fisted when it comes to supporting the arts. Many prefer free passes rather than paying for a ticket; a different sort of entitlement! The art forms that occupy this space divorce themselves from critical thinking. This is because the privileged believe that their way of life is 'ideal'. Their lifestyle, aesthetic choices, faith, rituals and social understandings are flaunted as flawless. Their so cial status, thus, makes their way of life aspirational. In such an environment, it is but natural that the arts they patronise and produce are also believed to be perfect. Consequently, everything is guarded by gatekeepers who regulate entry and exit and will not shy away from insensitively using the names of 'others' who fought their way in and withstood stigma and discrimination to offer proof of their own catholicity

bini PAGE 8 CHANDIGARH, SATURDAY, APRIL 27, 2024 Iran sentences rapper Toumaj Salehi to death

ranian rapper Toumaj Salehi, known for his outspoken criticism of the government, has been sentenced to death by an Iranian court on speech-related charges, sparking outrage from human rights organisations, an international non-governmental organisation, Human Rights Watch said in a press statement.

YUGMARG

The verdict was issued by Branch 1 of Isfahan's Revolutionary Court, which found Salehi guilty of "corruption on earth," a charge that can carry the death penalty. Salehi's lawyer, Amir Raeesian, revealed the sentence to the media outlet Shargh on April 24, 2024. Raeesian denounced the ruling, highlighting significant legal errors and stating that they would appeal the verdict.

Human Rights Watch condemned the decision, with senior Iran researcher at Human Rights Watch, Tara Sepehri Far denouncing the Iranian judicial system's assault on fundamental freedoms and the right to a fair trial. "Iran's revolutionary court judges act like they are empowered to assault citizens' basic rights and make a mockery of any existing legal safeguards. Toumaj Salehi's outrageous verdict is just the latest manifestation of Iran's brutal justice system. He should be released immediately," she stated, calling for Salehi's immediate release.

According to the Human Rights Watch statement released on Wednesday, Salehi's legal ordeal began when he was violently arrested on October 30, 2022, amidst protests following the death of Kurdish-Iranian woman Mahsa Jina Amini in morality police custody. He was held in solitary confinement and faced multiple charges, including "corruption on earth." Despite a previous six-year prison sentence being struck down by Iran's Supreme Court in November 2023, Salehi was rearrested by security forces just 12 days later.

Court had ruled that the threshold for the "corruption on earth" charge had not been met, instead sentencing Salehi to six years in prison under article 286 of the Islamic Penal Code. However, he was later released on bail after the sentence was overturned. Yet, upon his rearrest, new charges were brought against him, resulting in a oneyear prison sentence and a two-year travel ban.

Despite these legal battles, Salehi faced a new trial on April 18, 2024, where additional charges were added, ultimately leading to the death sentence. Raeesian highlighted the legal inconsistencies in the ruling, including Human Rights Watch condemned the decision, with senior Iran researcher at Human Rights Watch, Tara Sepehri Far denouncing the Iranian judicial system's assault on fundamental freedoms and the right to a fair trial. "Iran's revolutionary court judges act like they are empowered to assault citizens' basic rights and make a mockery of any existing legal safeguards. Toumaj Salehi's outrageous verdict is just the latest manifestation of Iran's brutal justice system. He should be released immediately," she stated, calling for Salehi's immediate release.

contradictions with the supreme court ver-

The case of Toumaj Salehi is not an isolated incident. Human Rights Watch highlighted a pattern of Iranian authorities using vaguely defined national security charges against protesters, resulting in death sentences. The organisation revealed that as of April 2024, 25 death sentences had been issued in connection to protests, with eight executions carried out and 11 death penalty convictions overturned by the Supreme Court, the release said. Another rapper, Saman Seyedi, also known as "Yasin," was among those arrested during the protests. While initially sentenced to death on charges of "enmity against the state," his sentence was struck down by the Supreme Court. However, he was later sentenced to five years in prison by Branch 15 of Tehran's Revolutionary Court.

Sepehri Far condemned the Iranian government's use of unfair courts to suppress dissent, describing it as a cornerstone of their repression tactics. "The Iranian government has made unfair courts a cornerstone of its vicious repression of popular dissent," Sepehri Far said.

ussian President Vladimir Putin said that he has plans to visit China this May, Kyodo reported citing Russian news agency TASS.

This would mark the first overseas trip of Putin after his fifth term in office begins May 7

"I have a visit (to China) scheduled in May," Putin was quoted as saying in his address at the Russian Union of Industrialists and Entrepreneurs congress on Thursday, Kyodo reported.

The announcement by Putin came shortly after US Secretary of State Antony Blinken landed in Beijing. Chinese President Xi Jinping and Putin had in February this year accused Washington of "interfering" in their countries' affairs during a tele phone call. Xi Jinping had met with Russian Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov in Beijing earlier this month, marking the first face-to-face discussion between Lavroy and Xi in six years. Their last meeting in 2018 occurred just before Putin's inaugural visit to China following his re-election.

Since then, China and Russia have intensified their economic, trade, and diplomatic collaborations, particularly in the aftermath of Putin's war in Ukraine.

Despite Beijing claiming neutrality in the conflict, it has emerged as a crucial economic partner for Russia, providing vital support to its isolated economy. The two nations have also aligned diplomatically against perceived Western containment efforts. Beijing has been importing Russian oil after other countries placed sanctions on Russian imports. Putin's last visit to Beijing occurred in October 2023 during the Belt and Road Forum, while Xi visited Moscow for a state visit in last March in 2023

Use of acid reflux drugs linked to higher risk of migraine: Study ccording to a study, people who take acid-reducing medications may be at a higher risk of migraines and other severe headaches than those who do not. Acid-reducing medications include proton pump inhibitors like omeprazole and esomeprazole, histamine H2-receptor antagonists or H2 blockers like cimetidine and famotidine, and antacids.

The study does not prove that acid-reducing medicines cause migraines; it only indicates a relationship.

Findings of the study were published in the online issue of Neurology Clinical Practice, an official journal of the American Academy of Neurology. Acid reflux is when stomach acid flows into the esophagus, usually after a meal or when lying down. People with acid reflux may experience heartburn and ulcers. People with frequent acid reflux may develop gastroesophageal reflux disease, or GERD, which can lead to cancer of the esophagus."Given the wide usage of acid-reducing drugs and these potential implications with migraine, these results warrant further investigation," said study author Margaret Slavin, PhD, RDN, of the University of Maryland in College Park. "These drugs are often considered to be overprescribed, and new research has shown other risks tied to long-term use of proton pump inhibitors, such as an increased risk of dementia."

For the study, researchers looked at data on 11,818 people who provided information on use of acid-reducing drugs and whether they had migraine or severe headache in the past three months.

A total of 25 per cent of participants taking proton pump inhibitors had migraine or severe headache, compared to 19 per cent of those who were not taking the drugs. A total of 25 per cent of those taking H2 blockers had severe headache, compared to 20% of those who were not taking those drugs.

And 22 per cent of those taking antacid supplements had severe headache, compared to 20 per cent of those not taking antacids.

When researchers adjusted for other factors that could affect the risk of migraine, such as age, sex and use of caffeine and alcohol, they found that people taking proton pump inhibitors were 70 per cent more likely to have migraine than people not taking proton pump inhibitors. Those taking H2 blockers were 40 per cent more likely and those taking antacid supplements were 30 per cent more likely.

"It's important to note that many people do need acid-reducing medications to manage acid reflux or other conditions, and people with migraine or severe headache who are taking these drugs or supplements should talk with their doctors about whether they should continue," Slavin said.

Slavin noted that the study looked only at prescription drugs. Some of the drugs became available for overthe-counter use at non-prescription strength during the study period, but use of these over-the-counter drugs was not included in this study.

C amsung Galaxy Z Fold 6 Ultra might just be more than a red herring. After months of rumours hinting at the launch of a third foldable smartphone at the next Galaxy Unpacked event this year, a new report claims that the smartphone will likely be launched. But there's a twist. Reportedly, the Ultra foldable wil only be launched in South Korea and is not expected to be introduced in other regions. But on the upside, the tech giant is also said to launch two new smartwatches - Galaxy Watch Ultra and Galaxy Watch FE.

The information about the Samsung Galaxy Z Fold 6 Ultra comes from a report by Android Authority, which claims to have snotted the smartphone's model number in its database. suggests that the South Korean tech giant has been developing a new foldable smartphone with the model number SM-F958N, and it correspond to the Ultra variant. The rationale behind it is that Samsung uses the number eight, as seen at the end of the model number, only for devices with the Ultra moniker. It highlighted that the model number of Galaxy S24 Ultra was SM-S928x whereas Galaxy S24 had SM-S921x as the model number. The pattern is consistent in the previous years as well. Further, the report claimed that it only found a single model numbe for the smartphone which suggests its limited availability. The alphabet N in the model number is said to denote the South Korean region, and based on this, the publication states that the Fold 6 Ultra might not be launched anywhere else Favourite dance form of &TV's actors!

CHANDIGARH: Dance, an artistic expression allowing individuals to convey emotions and narratives, stands as one of the most freeing modes of communication Annually, on April 29th, people worldwide unite to celebrate International Dance Day, honouring its significance and embracing its diverse forms. Speaking of which, &TV's artists share their favourite dance styles that help them keep fit and enjoy dancing. These in-clude Prachitee Ahirrao (Vimla Bihari Vajpayee, Atal), Geetanjali Mishra (Rajesh Singh, Happu Ki Ultan Paltan), and Shubhangi Atre (Angoori Bhabi, Bhabiji Ghar Par Hai). Prachitee Ahirrao, Vimla Bihari Vajpayee from Atal, shares, "I love to dance because it brings me happiness. It is an integral part of my life. Dancing has taught me to find harmony within myself by instilling discipline, grace, and a strong desire to excel. Dancing helps me to relax and uplifts my mood like nothing else. I have trained in Kathak, a type of dance that com-bines theatre and storytelling. So undoubtedly, Kathak is one of my favourite forms of dance. It allows me to express complex emotions and tell stories through intricate movements and facial expressions. I have become a better storyteller by mastering the graceful gestures, intricate footwork, and subtle facial expressions that Kathak requires. Kathak brings me mental peace and positivity, which I cherish and en-joy. On International Dance Day, I hope everyone can experience the joy of dance and that it helps them relax and forget their worries." Geetanjali Mishra, Rajesh in Happu Ki Ultan Paltan, shares, "As a child, dancing brought me immense joy. My sister and I would watch our favourite songs on TV and try to copy the moves. That's where my love for dance began. Although I'm not a professional, I can dance gracefully, especially in freestyle and Bollywood styles. As an actor, I've had the opportunity to perform various dance forms like Tanday, Garba, Lavani, and more. Dancing has always been a sanctuary for me, a way to escape life's stresses. It's an expression without limits, allowing me to let go of inhibitions and connect with others. Dancing keeps me physically fit and nurtures my spiritual well-being. It brings peace, harmony, and a profound connection with myself and the universe. Happiness comes from within, and dancing is the key to unlocking it. I cultivate that inner joy through regular practice, letting it shine through every step and gesture.
