Unprecedented monkey fight disrupts power supply in Shimla's Jakhu forest

SHIMLA, JULY 15

Mount Jakhu, renowned for its dense oak and deodar forest and a significant monkey population, experienced an unusual and disruptive event early Monday morning. A violent clash between two groups of monkeys shattered the signature peace of the area, causing unexpected disruptions, including an impact on the local power supply for hours.

Eyewitnesses reported that the altercation among the monkeys escalated rapidly, with the agitated primates interfering with the power tower and high-voltage lines.

This resulted in a dramatic short-circuit, creating a series of sparks, intense heat, and explosions that mimicked the sounds of a gun battle. The chaotic scene, captured on video by a passerby, quickly went viral on social media, causing widespread concern among local residents.

Civil administration officials, upon investigating the incident, confirmed that the disturbances were indeed caused by the aggressive behaviour of the monkeys. They reassured the public that although loose wires and power spans occasionally trigger nuisances, it is rare for monkeys to interfere with power lines to this extent.

The power supply in the area was disrupted for several hours due to the continuous sparksand short-circuits in the forest. Technicians worked diligently to restore normalcy.

Experts suggest that increased competition for control of territory among different monkey groups could be a factor behind such violent encounters. While territorial disputes among monkeys are not uncommon, the incident underscores the need for effective measures to manage wildlifehuman interactions and ensure the safety of the essential infrastructure.

Local authorities are now considering additional strategies to mitigate such occurrences in the future.

BJP's strength in Assembly increases from 25 to 28: Kashvap

DINESH AGARWAL DHARAMSHALA, JULY 15

Former BJP State President and MP has stated that in December 2022 or 2023, the Congress government was formed in Himachal Pradesh. At that time, the Congress party had 40 assembly members and 3 independent members, making a total of 43 members. In contrast, BJP had only 25 assembly members. The people of Himachal Pradesh had high hopes from the Congress government and Chief Minister Sukhvinder Sukhu due to the grand promises and guarantees made before the government was formed. Kashyap highlighted that BJP achieved significant victories in the Lok Sabha elections and also won three by-elections, increasing their number of assembly members to 28, while the Congress reduced to 40 members.

He further stated that from the beginning of 2023, the dreams of the people started to shatter. The first statement from the Chief Minister was that the state treasury was empty. The months of January, February, and March 2023 were spent debating why and how the treasury was empty. As the main opposition party, BJP became aggressive towards the government. The big question arose: how did the treasury, which had everything to serve the public until December 2022, become empty as soon as the Congress government came into power? So far, the government has taken more than Rs. 25,000 crores in loans, which seem to have been consumed like butter, leaving people wondering where the money went. Kashyap also pointed out that the next claim by Chief Minister Sukhvinder Singh Sukhu and Deputy Chief Minister Mukesh Agnihotri was that the previous BJP government, led by Jairam Thakur, left a debt of Rs. 70,000 crores on the state, which became a widespread issue.

Rajesh Dharmani refutes allegation of BJP on Him Resort at Auhar

DINESH AGARWAL SHIMLA, JULY 15

Refuting the allegation of the BJP leaders of laying the foundation stone of Tourism resort at Auhar in district Bilaspur twice, Town and Country Planning Minister, Rajesh Dharmani today said that the foundation stone of the 'Stateof-Art Him Resort' at Auhar which was laid by Chief Minister Thakur Sukhvinder Singh Sukhu on Sunday was completely different from the Hotel, the foundation stone of which was laid by the then National BJP President Jagat Prakash Nadda in October 2022, just before a day before declaration of the Model code of Conduct before the Vidhan Sabha elections, without any budgetary provision and was still lying in limbo. The foundation stone of Rs 33.75 crore Him Resort laid by the Chief Minister, on 14th July, 2024, will have various facilities such as a conference hall, banquet hall, health club, food court and will be integrated with Govind Sagar reservoir for water sports activities. Dharmani said that 25 Bighas land each on both side of the four lane, i.e on the lake side and opposite to it, has been made available for expansion of the project and to equip it with State-of Art facilities. He said that the current 'Him Resort project' offers multiple facilities. The foundation stone laying ceremony by the Chief Minister marks the beginning of a project which would be unique and one of its type catering to all the needs of the tourists. Therefore, the allegations made by BJP leaders are baseless, unfounded, and lack factual support. Apart from this, the Minister said that even the 'Tourism Cafe' at Auhar was set up and developed by the Congress government in 2017, the inauguration of which was done by him. The BJP leaders should check the facts before issuing unfounded statements in media, he advised.

How physical exercise prevents nerve damage during chemotherapy

amage to nerves brought on by cancer therapies frequently results in symptoms that endure a lifetime. In some circumstances, medication has not worked. Simple exercises can prevent nerve injury, according to research.

The research was conducted by an interdisciplinary German team led by a sports scientist at the University of Basel.

Over time, advancements have been made in cancer therapy. The quality of life following rehabilitation is becoming increasingly important; it is no longer only about surviving.

Unfortunately, many cancer medications, from chemotherapy to modern immunotherapies, attack the nerves as well as the tumour cells. Some therapies, such as oxaliplatin or vinca alkaloids, leave 70 to 90 per cent of patients complaining of pain, balance issues, or feelings of numbness, burning or tingling. These symptoms can be very debilitating. They can disappear following cancer treatment, but in around 50 per cent they become chemotherapy-induced peripheral chronic. Specialists call it neuropathy, or CIPN for short.

A research team led by sports scientist Dr Fiona Streckmann from the University of Basel and the German Sport University Cologne has now shown that specific exercise. concomitant to cancer therapy, can prevent nerve damage in many cases. The researchers have reported their findings in the journal JAMA

Internal Medicine. The study involved 158 cancer patients, both male and female, who were receiving treatment either with oxaliplatin or vinca-alkaloids. The researchers divided the patients at random into three groups. The first was a control group, whose members received standard

The other two groups completed exercise sessions twice a week for the duration of their chemotherapy, with each session lasting between 15 and 30 minutes. One of these groups carried out exercises that focused primarily on balancing on an increasingly unstable surface. The other group trained on a vibration

Regular examinations over the next five years showed that in the control group around twice as many participants developed CIPN as in either of the exercise groups. In other words, the exercises undertaken alongside chemotherapy were able to reduce the incidence of nerve damage by 50 to 70 per cent. In addition, they increased the patients' subjectively perceived quality of life, made it less necessary to reduce their dose of cancer medications, and reduced mortality in the five years following chemotherapy

The participants receiving vinca-alkaloids and performing sensorimotor training had the largest benefit. A lot of money has been invested over the years in reducing the incidence of CIPN. explains Streckmann. "This side effect has a direct influence on clinical treatment: for example, patients may not be able to receive the planned number of chemotherapy cycles that they actually need, the dosage of neurotoxic agents in the chemotherapy may have to be reduced, or their treatment may have to be terminated. Despite the investments made, there is no effective pharmacological treatment to date: various studies have shown that medications can neither prevent nor reverse this nerve damage. However, according to the latest estimates, USD 17,000 are spent per patient every year in the USA on treating nerve damage associated with chemotherapy. Streckmann's assumption is that "doctors prescribe medications despite everything because patients' level of suffering is so high.'

In contrast, the sports scientist emphasizes, that the positive effect of exercise has been substantiated. and this treatment is very cheap in comparison.

At the moment, she and her team are working on guidelines for hospitals so that they can integrate the exercises into clinical practice as supportive therapy. In addition, since 2023 a study has been ongoing in six children's hospitals in Germany and Switzerland (PrepAIR), which is intended to prevent senso rv and motor dysfunctions in children receiving neurotoxic chemotherapy.

The potential of physical activity is hugely underestimated," says Fiona Streckmann. She very much hopes that the results of the newly published study will lead to more sports therapists being employed in hospitals, to better exploit this po-
