NEW DELHI: Delhi government on Friday ordered a magisterial inquiry into the deaths of 14 people since January 2024 due to health issues and malnutrition at Asha Kiran, a home for the mentally challenged people in the national capital.
Delhi Minister Atishi has asked Additional Chief Secretary Revenue to submit report into the matter within 48 hours.
In a letter, Atishi said, "It is very shocking to hear such bad news in the Capital city of Delhi and we cannot tolerate such kind of lapses, if found true." "This is a very serious issue and needs to be thoroughly investigated in order to take hard steps to revamp whole system to improve the conditions of all such homes to provide better facilities to the inmates," she added.

NEW DELHI: Aam Aadmi Party MP Raghav Chadha today urged the government to take urgent measures to combat piracy on OTT platforms. Speaking in the Rajya Sabha, Chadha highlighted the severe financial impact of piracy on the film industry, citing annual losses estimated at ₹ 20,000 crores. "Years of hard work of an artist goes down the drain because of piracy. Industry is facing losses amounting to ₹ 20,000 crores per annum due to piracy," Mr Chadha said. Mr Chadha's remarks came amid growing concerns over the surge in online piracy, which saw a 62% increase during the COVID-19 pandemic.

HP cloudburst toll mounts to 8; over 45 still missing

SHIMLA, AUG 2 (UNI)

With the recovery of three more bodies on Friday, the death toll in cloudbursts in Himachal Pradesh has risen to eight while more than 45 people are still missing, officials said.

The National Disaster Response Force (NDRF), State Disaster Response Force (SDRF), police, and Home Guard personnel are trying to trace people who went missing in the wake of devastating floods triggered by a cloudburst at five locations in the state on Wednesday night, officials said.

Chief Minister Sukhvinder Singh Sukhu visited the flood-affected areas of Samej, Ghanavi, Bagipul, and Nirmand on Friday morning.

He advised tourists to avoid flood-hit regions and warned against taking selfies near rivers and streams, citing the risk of slipping and potential life-threatening situations.

Local BJP MP and Bollywood actress Kangana Ranaut was in touch with district officials but she didn't visit the affected area due to an red-orange alert for rain.

So far, 36 people are reported missing from Shimla district. Most of the missing people are from Samej village, located on a tributary of the Satluj, where six houses were washed away, officials said.

Death toll rises to 308 in Wayanad landslides

WAYANAD : Kerala Health Minister Veena George on Friday confirmed 308 deaths in the multiple landslides that hit Wayanad on July 30.
The rescue and relief operations are underway in Chooralmala and Mundakkai in the Meppadi region where the landslides wreaked havoc.
Minister George said that 195 bodies and 113 body parts have been recovered so far.
The Indian Army earlier today handed over the 190-feet Bailey Bridge to the civil administration which was built over the Iruvanjippuzha river connecting the regions Chooralmala and Mundakkai, isolated by the landslides.

IAF's helicopters accelerate rescue ops in Uttarakhand

Dehradun: Uttarakhand Chief Minister Pushkar Singh Dhami on Friday expressed his gratitude to Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Defence Minister Rajnath Singh for initiating the Humanitarian Assistance and Disaster Relief (HADR) operation by the Indian Air Force in the disaster-affected areas of the State.
The Chief Minister said, "Chinook and Mi-17 V5 helicopters deployed in Gauchar by the Indian Air Force have certainly accelerated the rescue operation in the disaster-affected areas."
Dhami said that rescue operations are being conducted on a war footing and over 5000 people have been evacuated to safer places.

NEET-2024: SC asks NTA to avoid "flip-flops"; no systematic fraud in exam

AGENCY
NEW DELHI, AUG 2

The Supreme Court on Friday said that the National Testing Agency (NTA) should avoid "flip-flops" in conducting the exams and observed that mishaps orchestrated by it were a luxury students cannot afford.

Pronouncing the detailed judgement on pleas seeking cancellation of NEET-UG 2024 over allegation of paper leak and malpractices, the apex court asked the Central government to completely restructure the exam process.

A bench of Chief Justice of India DY Chandrachud and Justices JB Pardiwala and Manoj Misra also reiterated that there was no systemic breach in NEET-UG 2024 exam beyond Hazaribagh and Patna and, hence, no retest would be needed with respect to this year's NEET.

"The NTA must avoid the flip-flops it has done in this case. These flip-flops of the NTA do not serve the interests of the students," said the bench in its order.

It directed the Centre-appointed committee to recommend and implement top-to-bottom overhauling of the exam process, including security improvements, data protection measures, periodic audits, surprise inspections of exam centres, grievance redressal mechanisms for students and foolproof logistics.

It highlighted how question papers were transported in e-rickshaws to some exam centres during NEET-UG 2024.

"These issues such as the rear door being kept open in the strong room etc, then granting compensatory marks, then grace marks which led to 44 students getting 720/720. We have highlighted all errors of NTA and thus committee should identify and rectify these. These issues which have arisen must be rectified by the Union of India this year itself so that it is not repeated," the order stated.

The apex court had on July 23 declined to order re-exam of NEET UG and today it passed the detailed judgement.

The order of the apex court came on a batch of pleas seeking direction to recall NEET-UG 2024 results and to conduct the examination afresh, alleging paper leakage and malpractices in the test held.

Aspirants had approached the top court and raised the issue of leakage of question paper, awarding compensatory marks and anomaly in the question of NEET-UG.

NEET-UG examination, conducted by NTA, is the pathway for admissions into MBBS, BDS, AYUSH and other related courses in government and private institutions across the country.

The NEET-UG, 2024 was held across 4,750 centres on May 5 and around 24 lakh candidates appeared in it.

Rahul claims ED raids being planned against him

AGENCY
NEW DELHI, AUG 2

Leader of Opposition in Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi on Friday alleged that the Enforcement Directorate (ED) was planning a raid against him.

He said that an ED 'insider' had informed him that a raid was being planned and he was waiting for them with open arms.

The former Congress president hinted that the ED raid was probably being planned as a retaliation to his Budget speech in the lower house in which he mentioned 'Chakravyuh' which was not liked by some in the government.

Taking to his micro blogging handle X, the Raebareli MP, said, "Apparently, 2 in 1 didn't like my Chakravyuh speech. ED 'insiders' tell me a raid is being planned. Waiting with open arms @dir_ed...Chai and biscuits on me."

On July 29 during a discussion on the Union Budget, Gandhi had charged the Narendra Modi government with trapping the country in a 'Padmavyuh' - like the 'Chakravyuh' of Mahabharat - and promised that the INDI alliance would restore the people's rights.

Meanwhile, Congress member Manickam Tagore on Friday moved an Adjournment Motion in the Lok Sabha for a discussion on "misuse of agencies like the ED, CBI and Income Tax for political harassment".

Shambhu border blockade: SC asks Punjab, Haryana to suggest neutral names for committee

AGENCY
NEW DELHI, AUG 2

The Supreme Court on Friday asked the states of Haryana and Punjab to suggest the names of neutral persons who can be included in a committee to negotiate with the protesting farmers at the Shambhu border near Ambala, where they have been camping since February 13.

A bench of Justices Surya Kant and R Mahadevan emphasised the need to inspire confidence in the farmers and therefore suggested both the states come out with common names for the committee.

"We want a very smooth beginning in terms of dialogue. There are very good, very seasoned practical personalities in the country who have the experience to their credit and they know the ins and outs of the problem. Please think of some neutral personality. It will inspire more confidence in the farmers," the bench said.

The apex court has now posted the matter for hearing on August 12 while asking Solicitor General Tushar Mehta and Punjab Advocate General Gurminder Singh to suggest common names for the committee.

It also continued its earlier order of maintaining a status quo on the border.

The Supreme Court was hearing an appeal against the July 10 Punjab and Haryana High Court order by which it had directed it to open the highway and clear the barricading within seven days.

On the last date of the hearing, the top court had said that it was proposing to constitute some independent committee and asked both the states to suggest common names.

The bench had also observed that it's more than a year now and the national highway can't remain blocked.

In February, the Haryana government had set up barricades on the Ambala-New Delhi national highway when farmers' bodies announced that farmers would march to Delhi in support of various demands, including a legal guarantee of minimum support price (MSP) for crops.

Karnataka govt withdraws GST notice on Infosys

AGENCY
NEW DELHI, AUG 2

A Day after Infosys denied evading any payment of GST, the Karnataka government has withdrawn the "pre-show cause" notice against the IT firm but directed the company to submit its response to central authorities.

"The Company has received a communication from Karnataka State authorities withdrawing the pre-show cause notice and has directed the Company to submit further responses to DGGI central authority on this matter," Infosys said in a regulatory filing with the stock exchanges.

Infosys had strongly denied evasion of any payment of GST, saying the company has paid all its GST dues and is "fully in compliance" with the central and state regulations on this matter.

Infosys had said that it is important to note that the GST payments are eligible for credit or refund against the export of IT services and not on expenses incurred by overseas branch offices of Infosys Limited. Karnataka State GST authorities had issued a pre-show cause notice for payment of GST of Rs. 32,403 crores for the period July 2017 to March 2022 towards the expenses incurred by overseas branch offices of Infosys Limited. The company has also received a pre-show cause notice from the Director General of GST Intelligence on the same matter, and the company is in the process of responding to it.

Maliwal 'assault' case: Delhi HC dismisses Bibhav Kumar's plea challenging his arrest

AGENCY
NEW DELHI, AUG 2

The Delhi High Court on Friday dismissed a plea moved by Arvind Kejriwal's close aide Bibhav Kumar seeking direction to declare his arrest by Delhi Police as illegal.

The bench of Justice Neena Bansal Krishna today passed the Judgement and decided to dismiss it.

Appearing for Bibhav, senior advocate N Hariharan submitted that FIR was registered after a delay of three days. He was picked up illegally without being served notice under section 41A from CM's residence.

"I (Bibhav Kumar) put an anticipatory bail, while around 4:00-4:30, it is being heard, I am arrested around 4:15. If the arrest is happening in such a fashion then the court must intervene. My fundamental right to be arrested in such a fashion was exploited and hence, I am here. You flouted the 41A procedure," the plea said.

"Section 41A mandates police to issue notice to the person accused of committing an offence before arrest without a warrant. There was no urgency of arrest & till the 18th he did not move. On the 16th the FIR was registered. He was picked up at a time when Kumar apprised them that he was ready to cooperate with the investigation. Police picked him up at 12 and till 4:15 there was no news of arrest.

Apex court refuses to set up probe team in electoral bonds scheme

AGENCY
NEW DELHI, AUG 2

The Supreme Court on Friday dismissed petitions seeking a court-monitored SIT probe - under the oversight of a retired Justice of the top court - into the sale of (now banned) electoral bonds amid allegations of "quid pro quo" arrangements between political parties and corporate donors.

The court said individual grievances - referring to discrete claims of quid pro quo deals between a political party and a corporate organisation - "will have to be pursued on basis of remedies available under the law", which include options should authorities decline to investigate specific claims.

"At present, absent recourse to remedies available in law, it would be premature and inappropriate for this court (to interfere)... because intervention must proceed (after) failure of those remedies... at this stage the court cannot say if these normal remedies will not be efficacious," the court said.

The petitions were filed by activist groups Common Cause and Centre for Public Interest.

The petitioners had sought directions to law enforcement agencies to investigate funding of political parties via "shell and loss-making companies" as disclosed by Election Commission-released data.

Electoral bonds were scrapped in February. In a landmark ruling weeks before the Lok Sabha election, the court said the undisclosed funding to political parties violated voters' right to transparency. The spectre returned to the top court this morning with a batch of four petitions, including one seeking the court-monitored SIT probe. Senior advocate Prashant Bhushan said a special inquiry was merited because "governments are involved... ruling party and top corporate houses are involved". "There is a money trial of over 8,000 crore! In some cases, companies like IFB Agro paid 40 crore in bonds as it was facing issues in Tamil Nadu... this is not limited to one political party," he said.

Native languages are not merely means of communication; they are the heart and soul of people's identity, history, and emotions. Verdict rejects propaganda being peddled: Pradhan on SC ruling on NEET-UG '24

AGENCY
NEW DELHI, AUG 2

Union Education Minister Dharmendra Pradhan thanked the Supreme Court for refusing to cancel the National Eligibility-cum-Entrance Test (UG) held on May 5 this year holding that there was no systemic breach in the exam. In a post on X, Pradhan said that the findings and the verdict "outrightly reject the propaganda that was being peddled." He further saidthat the apex court's observation of no systemic breach of sanctity in the NEET-UG exam and therefore no re-exam vindicates the stand of the government.

"The govt. stands committed to a "Tamper-free, Transparent & Zero-error examination system." To ensure the same we shall implement the recommendations of the high-level committee of experts, at the earliest once they are submitted," the Minister said. "We wholeheartedly thank the Supreme Court for delivering justice and protecting the interests of lakhs of hardworking students. We shall implement the Supreme Court's judgement in letter and spirit," he added. Congress MP Karti P Chidambaram however disagreed with the Apex Court's order saying that it would be unfair to base results on the NEET Test.

" I like to respectfully differ with the Supreme Court because the integrity of this test is completely gone. To base the admissions, on the results of this test, in my opinion, will be very unfair to the students because we are hearing great anomalies," Karthi Chidambaram said.

Congress MP Shashi Tharoor said that the system in which the examinations are being conducted needs a rethink. "There have been several areas that complaints have come from. There have been some strange cases, like a topper in Gujarat who could not even pass her school examinations, but somehow topped in the NEET. There is something very strange about the situation, it needs to be addressed. There is a new complication with the NEET PG because a majority of the students from my state of Kerala have been given centres not in Kerala but in Andhra and Telangana. How can this country conduct examinations so badly? I have just seen Minister JP Nadda along with a delegation of Kerala MPs. The matter is very serious. The entire way in which this whole NEET system is being conducted, whether it's NEET PG, they need to rethink it and find a better, more efficient way because our young people's aspirations, hopes and prayers are being put at risk in this," Tharoor said.

The residents of Ferozepur are grappling with a lack of healthcare facilities and an escalating drug menace. A second look

In the Puja Khedkar case, the Union Public Service Commission announced on July 31 that it had "examined the available records carefully and found her guilty of acting in contravention of the provisions of the CSE-2022 Rules. Her provisional candidature for the CSE-2022 has been cancelled and she has also been debarred permanently from all the future Examinations/Selections of the UPSC." Earlier, on July 19, the UPSC formally announced that following a "detailed and thorough investigation in the misdemeanour of Ms. Puja Manorama Dilip Khedkar", a first information report has been lodged for her "Criminal Prosecution". Additionally, a show cause notice was issued to her for the "cancellation of her candidature for Civil Services Examination 2022" and "debarment from future examinations/selections". The UPSC had asserted that its investigation had shown that Khedkar had "fraudulently availed attempts beyond the permissible limit under the Examination Rules by faking her identity by way of changing her name, her father's & mother's name, her photograph/ signature, her email ID, mobile number and address".

While the government's additional-secretary-level inquiry is understood to have submitted its findings, as the UPSC has cancelled Khedkar's candidature, her appointment to the IAS, ipso facto, falls. The Khedkar case is being closely monitored by UPSC aspirants. The UPSC had initially asked Khedkar to respond to the questions in the show cause notice by July 25. She had asked for an extension of time till August 4. But the UPSC only gave her an extension to submit a reply till 3.30 pm of July 30. She did not do so by then; hence, the UPSC gave an ex parte order. If Khedkar goes to court, it can only be hoped that the UPSC's ex parte decision would stand judicial scrutiny. In the July 31 press note, the UPSC has assured that Khedkar was the only candidate in the past 15 years who succeeded in availing more than the entitled attempts. However, the Commission passed the buck the genuineness of the candidates' documents to the government.

The UPSC is a recommendatory body for some classes of appointments to government services, including the civil services. It functions under a constitutional mandate. Once the government receives the UPSC's recommendations, it conducts its own investigations about the antecedents of those recommended and also ascertains their medical fitness prior to various cadre-controlling authorities issuing appointment letters to successful candidates. The appointments are first made on a probationary basis.

Trump escalates race attacks on Kamala Harris' Indian heritage

Former US President Donald Trump has continued to raise questions regarding Vice President Kamala Harris' racial identity for a second day on Thursday.

A day after saying that Harris had "all of a sudden" decided to become "a Black person", Trump shared a picture on his social media site that features Harris dressed in a sari along with her family members. He mentioned that Kamala Harris' love and warmth for Indian heritage is appreciated.

While sharing the picture on Truth Social, Trump stated, "Thank you Kamala for the nice picture you sent from many years ago! Your warmth, friendship, and love of your Indian Heritage are very much appreciated."

Kamala Harris's ethnic identity is becoming a key issue in the US presidential election campaign. It came under further scrutiny after Trump launched a strong personal attack on Harris by claiming that she, after being of "Indian heritage" for years, "turned black" a few years ago, CNN reported. He further claimed that Harris "all of a sudden, made a turn" in her identity and wants to be known as a woman of colour.

Trump made the comments at a gathering of journalists of colour in Chicago when an interviewer asked him why voters of colour should consider backing a candidate with his history of racist attacks on political rivals. He responded by questioning Harris' heritage.

"She was always of Indian heritage, and she was only promoting Indian heritage. I didn't know she was black until some years ago when she happened to turn black, and now she wants to be known as black. So I don't know, is she Indian or is she black?" CNN quoted him as saying.

"I respect either one, but she obviously doesn't, because she was Indian all the way, and then all of a sudden she made a turn and she went - she became a Black person," he said.

Kamala Harris's ethnic identity is becoming a key issue in the US presidential election campaign. It came under further scrutiny after Trump launched a strong personal attack on Harris by claiming that she, after being of "Indian heritage" for years, "turned black" a few years ago, CNN reported. He further claimed that Harris "all of a sudden, made a turn" in her identity and wants to be known as a woman of colour.

"I think somebody should look into that too," he added.

Kamala Harris' mother was Indian and her father is Jamaican. Her parents had immigrated to the United States. She is the first woman of colour and the first Asian American vice president. If Harris wins the upcoming polls, she will become the first woman president of the US.

Following the former President's remarks, Kamala Harris has hit back at Donald Trump over the latter's remarks against her racial identity and said the American people "deserve better."

She asserted that today the country faces a choice between two different visions, and alleged that Trump and his campaign aim to take the country "backwards."

Harris was speaking at a Houston fundraiser on Wednesday (local time), hours after Trump claimed that Harris, after being of "Indian heritage" for years, "turned black" a few years ago. "In this moment, we face a choice, between two very different visions for our nation. One focused on the future, and the other focused on the past. And we in this room, are fighting for the future," she told the donors. "As we work to move our nation forward...there are those who are trying to take us backwards. You might have seen their agenda, they call it Project 2025 and it is a 900-page agenda of extremism," Harris added.

Attacking Trump further, the US Vice President said, "We are not going back. We all remember what those four years were like, and today we got yet another reminder. Study finds strains of tuberculosis that are most infectious

According to a recent study evaluating how various strains migrate across mixed populations in cosmopolitan cities, the chances of an exposed person becoming infected with TB vary depending on whether the human and the bacterium share a hometown.

The study, led by Harvard Medical School scientists provides evidence that pathogen, place, and human host interact in a unique way that affects infection risk and susceptibility.

The study strengthens the case for a long-standing hypothesis in the field that specific bacteria and their human hosts likely coevolved over hundreds or thousands of years, the researchers said.

The findings may also help inform new prevention and treatment approaches for tuberculosis, a wily pathogen that, each year, sickens more than 10 million people and causes more than a million deaths worldwide, according to the World Health Organization. In the current analysis, believed to be the first controlled comparison of TB strains' infectivity in populations of mixed geographic origins, the researchers custom-built a study cohort by combining case files from patients with TB in New York City, Amsterdam, and Hamburg. Doing so gave them enough data to power their models.

The analysis showed that close household contacts of people diagnosed with a strain of TB from a geographically restricted lineage had a 14 per cent lower rate of infection and a 45 per cent lower rate of developing active TB disease compared with those exposed to a strain belonging to a widespread lineage.

Price hike in Pakistan continues to affect middle class

The uncontrollable inflation in Pakistan is now severely affecting the daily lives of people, and essential food items, including vegetables and pulses, have become inaccessible to middle-class people.

Moreover, the people of Pakistan are now forced to witness drastic price changes frequently. Muhammad Waseem, a vegetable seller from Karachi said that the people are forced to face these difficulties because of the price rise.

"Both the seller and the customer remain worried. On one day tomatoes cost PKR 120 per Kg and the very next day it rises to PKR 200 per Kg. The situation continues to grow worrisome," Waseem said.

Another merchant, Ghulam Fareed said that the ongoing monsoon has destroyed major supplies and now even the wholesalers are selling it on higher profit margins.

"Small shopkeepers like us get these supplies at higher costs. Hence we are forced to sell it even higher. The market hoarders also try to control the supply and so we are forced to make do with what we get.

GEETA SAAR-13

Being Witness

K. Shiv Prasad

If one word could describe the entire Gita it would be 'Drishta' (a witness), which appears in many contexts. An understanding of this is important as most of us think 'we' do things and control situations.

Arjun, who was about sixty years old at the time of the Kurukshetra war, had lived a good life and enjoyed all luxuries. As a warrior he had tasted victory in many a battle. At the time of war, he felt that he was the Karta (Aham-karta; Ahankaar) and felt that he would be responsible for the death of his kith and kin, which led to his despondency on the battlefield. The entire Gita is Lord Krishna's attempt to tell him that he is not the Karta. The natural question that follows is : "If I am not karta, then what am I". The Lord explains in the Gita that Arjun is 'Drishta', a witness. Due to 60 years of good and bad life experiences, Arjun finds it difficult to grasp the idea that he is only a 'Sakshi' and not the 'Karta'. Only the Lord's painstaking explanation convinces him of this fact. Though most cultures tell us that we are just a 'Drishta', those at the start of their spiritual journey end up being confused with the idea. Drishta (Sakshi) is a state of intellect, but is not manifest in the physical world. It is the ability that helps us to step back from the day to day happenings around ourselves and have internal stability. It helps us realise that though it is in the nature of things to give us pleasure and pain, we should always act without desiring any particular outcome(karma-phal). It is the ability to witness our feelings and subordinate them.

High blood pressure linked with environmental contamination

Higher amounts of tellurium, a pollutant transported from mining and manufacturing to foods, increase the risk of having high blood pressure (hypertension). Improved monitoring of tellurium levels in certain meals may help reduce high blood pressure in the general population.

The study was led by Nagoya University in Japan. According to Takumi Kagawa, one of the researchers involved in the study, the findings are significant as they indicate that tellurium exposure may contribute to elevated blood pressure, a significant public health concern. "The results indicate diet was the most significant contributor to increased urinary tellurium levels, compared to other lifestyle factors, such as smoking and working status, and physiological factors, such as age and sex. Dietary intake, an important aspect of our lifestyle, plays a significant role in increased urinary tellurium concentrations."

The journal Environment International published the findings of research looking at the link between tellurium exposure and hypertension. In Japan, cereals and legumes, represented by rice and natto (fermented soybeans), are popular dietary choices. These foods are packed with essential nutrients, such as high-quality carbohydrates, vitamins, and minerals, that support a person's health.

However, tellurium, a rare metalloid, can also be present in these foods. Mining and manufacturing activities release dust, ash, and slag, which are responsible for the presence of tellurium in the soil. In certain cases, it can be transferred from the soil to crop plants, such as cereals, carrots, and garlic. Consequently, people are exposed to tellurium through food.

The study conducted by Professor Masashi Kato, Takumi Kagawa, and their colleagues involved 2,592 Japanese adults.

It revealed that higher levels of tellurium in urine were associated with higher blood pressure and a greater occurrence of hypertension. The results were the same in both mice and humans.

"We administered tellurium to mice in amounts equivalent to what humans might encounter daily and observed an increase in blood pressure," Tomoko Misawa, the lead author of the study, explained. "When we stopped the exposure, both the blood pressure and the tellurium levels in their urine decreased. These results provide a direct link between tellurium exposure and increased blood pressure, confirming findings in humans."

Professor Kato and his team also studied foods that raise the levels of tellurium in urine. They discovered that the consumption of cereals and legumes caused high levels of tellurium, but further testing did not establish a direct link to high blood pressure rates.

"We found that despite raising tellurium levels in the urine, cereal/legume intake did not directly increase the risk of hypertension," said Takumi Kagawa. "Cereals/legumes may contain many diverse nutrients that can mitigate the risk of hypertension despite high levels of tellurium. However, considering that increased tellurium exposure is a latent risk factor for hypertension and foods contribute to this association, careful and continuous monitoring of tellurium levels in individual foods may be crucial."

"The urinary level of tellurium in this study was comparable with the levels in general populations in other countries," Professor Kato said, "Our results indicate an increased potential risk of hypertension by tellurium exposure may be applicable to general populations all around the world."

Essentials to add in your child's meals: Tips & Benefits

AMRITSAR : Ensuring that your child receives a balanced and nutritious diet is fundamental to their growth, development, and overall well-being. Dr. Latika Uppal, Sr. Consultant - Paediatrics & Neonatology (MBBS, DCH, MD, Fellowship in Neonatology), Apollo Cradle & Children's Hospital, Amritsar said that the essentials to include in your child's meals encompass a variety of nutrient-dense foods that provide the necessary vitamins, minerals, and energy for their daily activities. One of the most crucial elements is incorporating a range of fruits and vegetables. These foods are rich in essential vitamins like A, C, and K, as well as minerals such as potassium and fiber. Fruits and vegetables are not only vital for physical health but also for cognitive development and immunefunction.

Another key component of a child's diet is protein, which is essentialforthegrowthandrepairof tissues. Sources of protein include lean meats, poultry, fish, eggs, beans, and legumes. For children following a vegetarian or vegan diet, options like tofu, tempeh, lentils, and chickpeas can provide the necessary protein intake. Protein also plays a critical role in the production of enzymes and hormones, supporting metabolic processes and overall health. Incorporating protein into each meal helps maintain steady energy levels and supports the development of strong muscles and bones.

Whole grains are another essential addition to your child's meals. Unlike refined grains, whole grains retain their bran and germ, which means they are packed with fiber, B vitamins, and other important nutrients. Whole grains such as brown rice, quinoa, whole wheat bread, and oats provide sustained energy and aid in digestion. The fiber content in whole grains is particularly beneficial for maintaining a healthy digestive system and preventing constipation. Moreover, whole grains have been linked to a reduced risk of chronic diseases like type 2 diabetes and heart disease, making them a critical part of a healthy diet from an early age.

Dairy or dairy alternatives fortified with calcium and vitamin D are also crucial for a child's diet. These nutrients are essential for the development of strong bones and teeth. While milk, cheese, and yogurt are traditional sources of calcium, there are many fortified plant-based alternatives available, such as almond, soy, and oat milk. Ensuring that children receive adequate calcium and vitamin D helps prevent conditions like rickets and supports overall skeletal health. Additionally, dairy products often contain probiotics, which promote a healthy gut microbiome and improve digestive health.

Healthy fats should not be overlooked when planning your child's meals. Fats are necessary for brain development, the absorption of fat-soluble vitamins (A, D, E, and K), and energy production. Omega-3 fatty acids, found in fatty fish and flaxseeds, are particularly important for cognitive function and visual development. Including these healthy fats in your child's diet supports their neurological and physical growth, while also providing satiety and helping to regulate their appetite.

Hydration is another essential aspect of a child's diet. Water should be the primary beverage, as it is crucial for maintaining bodily functions, regulating temperature, and supporting overall health. Encouraging children to drink water regularly helps instill good hydration habits and can prevent issues related to dehydration, such as headaches and poor concentration. While milk and 100% fruit juices can be part of a balanced diet, water should always be the go-to beverage to keep children properly hydrated.

MLA Ramkumar lays foundation stone of Kashyap Chaupal in Sarwan Majra village

MAINPAL KASHYAP
INDRI, AUG 2

MLA Ramkumar Kashyap said that the BJP government in the state was working under the motto of Sabka Saath-Sabka Vikas by keeping in mind the interests of every section while following the path of education, health security, self-respect and self-reliance. Through this basic mantra, emphasis was being laid on good governance. Influenced by the good governance and development of the BJP government, the opposition parties have become issueless. He told that drains, streets, roads have been constructed in the villages of the constituency at a cost of crores of rupees. Development works like roads, Dharamshalas, Ambedkar Bhawan, marriage hall have been completed and the incomplete development works will also be completed immediately so that the people of the constituency can avail the benefits.

MLA Ramkumar Kashyap, while laying the foundation stone of Kashyap Chaupala to be built at a cost of Rs 23 lakh in Sarwan Majra village of the assembly constituency, said that the BJP government of the state has done more development work compared to opposition parties. He told that every year the government granted crores of rupees to each assembly constituency for development work. Now no one can say that development work was happening at one place, rather it was happening in all the areas of Haryana without any discrimination. Development work was being carried out equally. He said that the BJP government first of all worked to end the corruption spread in the administration. Today Haryana is one of the leading states in the country in terms of development and our policies and seeing the success of the schemes, other states of the country are also following our policies.

The MLA informed that under the Ayushman Yojana, the Central government provided free treatment worth Rs 5 lakh to each member of the poor families whose annual income was less than Rs 1.2 lakh and similarly in Haryana state under the Chirayu Yojana, the members of the families whose annual income is Rs 1.8 lakh have also been provided the facility of treatment up to Rs 5 lakh by the government. Colleges cannot function without professors: Kumari Selja

SHIV KUMAR SHARMA
SIRSA, AUG 2

The General Secretary of the All India Congress Committee, Uttarakhand Incharge, and Sirsa MP Kumari Selja said that the new session of colleges in the state has started, but the irony is that there are no professors in the colleges. In such a situation, how will the students study? On the other hand, it is being said that teaching work is being conducted under the new education policy. Can teaching work be conducted without professors under the new education policy? The government lies every time; even the Punjab and Haryana High Court has directed the government. It seems that the state government is determined to play with the future of the youth.

In a statement released to the media, Kumari Selja said the state government is not serious about education, especially women's education. The announcements made by the government regarding education are proving to be baseless. The government repeatedly announces that a women's college will be opened every twenty kilometers to promote women's education, but this has not happened. Even today, people are demanding the opening of women's colleges, but the government is delaying it with some excuse or the other. Where people made a lot of noise, a college was started with one or two rooms. In such a situation, where will the students sit, and how will arrangements be made for the professors? The government has not even been able to select land for opening colleges yet. There is a shortage of professors in the state; the government is not serious about recruitment.

The government has admitted in an affidavit to the Punjab and Haryana High Court that 4738 professor positions, which constitute 60 percent of the total positions, are vacant in the state. This is mentioned in the decision of DW 21168 /2021 on September 20, 2023, in the Punjab and Haryana High Court. She said that in another petition filed in the Punjab and Haryana High Court on April 22/2024, in Writ Petition 24619, it is clearly written at point number 13 that the people appointed by the government to provide education to the students are unqualified.

I feel like it's very open, honest, truthful idea": Florence Pugh on 'Thunderbolts'

Actor Florence Pugh is back on the Marvel set with the movie 'Thunderbolts'. She expressed her excitement about the project at San Diego Comic-Con and said the makers have created something special with the film, reported People.

Acknowledging that the movie "has been years in the making," the Oscar nominee shared that "the reason why it took so long to come together is that there would be no point in doing this story unless we did it properly."

Pugh will reprise her role as Yelena Belova, the Russian Black Widow, who was first introduced in Scarlett Johansson's 2021 film 'Black Widow'. She appears alongside Sebastian Stan as Bucky Barnes, a.k.a. The Winter Soldier, David Harbour as Red Guardian, Wyatt Russell as John Walker, Olga Kurylenko as Taskmaster, Hannah John-Kamen as Ghost, and Julia Louis-Dreyfus as Valentina Allegra de Fontaine.

"There'd be no point in letting these characters come together and have their character arcs unless we actually spoke the truth about how they'd be feeling and to come and make this movie in the way that we made it," said Pugh.

While plot details are still under wraps, the Jake Schreier-directed 'Thunderbolts' will center on a new team of superheroes who were all formerly considered villains.

"I feel like this is something that we've never seen before from Marvel," added Pugh. "I feel like it's a very open, honest and truthful idea. And I'm just really excited for people to watch it."

While sharing her experience of working with co-stars, she shared, "This is why we can't stop laughing together, because we genuinely just had such a wonderful time with each other, and we've loved working with one another."

Harbour shared that reuniting onscreen with Pugh as his character's daughter was a treat. Calling the actress "electric to work with," he said, "this time around, we got to go to all these different levels [in their relationship]. There's warmth and humour, but he's a terrible narcissist. And she's very dedicated to killing people," reported People.

'Thunderbolts' is all set to release in 2025.
