Addressing the Pravasi Bharatiya Divas convention in Bhubaneswar, Modi said India is not only the mother of democracy, but democracy is a part of people's lives here.

"The government is trying to ensure that whenever Indian youths go abroad, they go with skills," Modi said, noting the demand for skilled workers across the world.

Canada: All four Indian accused in Nijjar murder case granted bail

AGENCY
OTTAWA, JAN 9

In a big setback for Canadian government, all the four accused Indian nationals in the murder of Khalistani terrorist Hardeep Singh Nijjar has been granted bail.

The four accused Indian citizens - Karan Brar, Amandeep Singh, Kamalpreet Singh, and Karanpreet Singh - were charged with first-degree murder and conspiracy to commit murder.

The trial has been moved to the British Columbia Supreme Court, with the next hearing scheduled for 11 February.

Khalistani terrorist Nijjar was shot dead by unidentified gunmen near a Gurdwara in Surrey, British Columbia in June 2023.

Earlier last year, the Canadian government opted for a direct indictment in the case against four Indian nationals accused of killing Khalistani terrorist Hardeep Singh Nijjar, bypassing pre-trial proceedings in the Surrey Provincial Court.

This decision moved the case directly to trial at the Supreme Court in New Westminster, according to reports.

Relations between India and Canada have been tense since Trudeau accused Indian government agents of playing a role in Nijjar's killing in June 2023.

India has strongly denied the claims, labelling them "absurd" and politically motivated, while accusing Canada of sheltering individuals engaged in terrorism and criminal activities targeting Indian interests.

Markets tumble nearly 1 pc; Sensex sinks below 78k

AGENCY
MUMBAI, JAN 9

Equity benchmark indices Sensex and Nifty tumbled nearly 1 per cent on Thursday due to heavy selling in market heavyweights HDFC Bank, TCS and Reliance as investors turned nervous over earnings growth concerns amid unabated foreign capital outflows.

Besides, abysmally low Chinese inflation data, an indication of poor demand, and a sell-off in US bonds added to the pressure, traders said.

Sliding for the second straight day, the 30-share benchmark dropped 528.28 points or 0.68 per cent to sink below the 78,000 level at 77,620.21. During the day, it tanked 605.57 points or 0.77 per cent to 77,542.92.

If INDIA bloc was only for parliamentary polls, better wind it up: Omar Abdullah

AGENCY
JAMMU, JAN 9

Asserting that there was no time limit attached to the INDIA bloc, Jammu and Kashmir Chief Minister Omar Abdullah on Thursday expressed dismay over the lack of clarity regarding its leadership and agenda, saying the alliance should be wound up if it was meant only for the parliamentary elections.

Abdullah said the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP), Congress, and other political parties on the ground will decide how to effectively compete with the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP).

"After the Assembly elections in Delhi, they should call all the alliance members for a meeting. If this alliance was only for the parliamentary elections, it should be wound up, and we will work separately. But if it is meant for Assembly elections as well, we will have to sit together and work collectively," Abdullah told reporters here.

The National Conference leader was replying to a question about an RJD leader's statement that the INDIA bloc was meant only for Lok Sabha elections.

"As far as I remember, no time limit was set for this. The issue is that no meeting of the INDIA bloc is being convened," he said. Claiming that there is no clarity regarding the main leadership, the party, or the agenda for future strategy (in the INDIA bloc), he said, "Whether this alliance will continue is also unclear." Abdullah also said that perhaps the members of the INDIA bloc will be called for a meeting after the Delhi elections, and a clarity would emerge. Replying to another query on increasing support for AAP ahead of next month's Delhi elections, Abdullah said, "I cannot say anything about this at the moment because we have no involvement with Delhi polls.

The security forces have achieved success in the anti-Maoist operation in Sukma, he said.

So far, bodies of three Maoists have been recovered and the search operation is still underway, Vijay Sharma, who holds the Home portfolio, told reporters in Raipur.

JALANDHAR: Anti-defection law should be implemented in Municipal Corporation as well:- Anil Sachhar

Former Secretary of Bharatiya Janata Party Punjab Anil Sachhar said that like Parliament and Vidhan Sabha, anti-defection law should be implemented in local bodies as well so that those who have given fatwa to the candidate of a party and have made him councillor, if they change the party, then they should contest election again from the ward. They should contest election again on the election symbol of the party they want to join. How can we expect truth from the leaders of a party whose government is based on lies and deceit. State BJP General Secretary Trilok Kapoone has strongly reprimanded MLA Ashish Kutel for giving false explanation on the lock-up of Kundan Cow Sanctuary and Chechiyan Sub-Tehsil. BJP leader Trilok Kapoor said that in fact he has just been expelled from CPS by the Hon'ble High Court and is still mentally disturbed due to this problem. Kapoor said that the Congress MLA, seeing the public outrage of 15 Panchayats of Nagari area, hurriedly came to the press conference and by speaking factless and blatant lies on the subject of Cow Sanctuary, Chechiyan Sub-Tehsil and Block Development Palampur, had become a laughing stock among the people of Palampur. Kapoor said that the previous BJP government had selected a suitable place for the cow sanctuary at a place called Kundan under Badsar Panchayat of Palampur and arranged the necessary funds for its construction, and made a budget provision of about 2 crore 92 lakh rupees and completed it in record time. Rs 42 lakh was also reserved for the permanent water arrangement there and for the initial running of the cowshed. RTS Commission awards Rs 3,000 compensation to consumer over delay in notified service

BUREAU
CHANDIGARH, JAN 9

The Haryana Right to Service (RTS) Commission has directed the Uttar Haryana Bijli Vitran Nigam (UHBVN), Panchkula to grant a compensation of Rs 3,000 over a delay in providing a notified service to a consumer.

While giving this information here today, a spokesperson of the Commission said Sh. Rajesh Yadav, a resident of Jhajjar district, had approached the Commission regarding replacement of his old meter. After lodging a complaint on July 18, 2024, he received a call from the Nigam that his new meter had arrived and would be replaced within 2-3 days. However, no action was taken in this regard. Instead, the complainant alleged that he received a call from the concerned JE stating that no meter was available in the store and that his meter could not be replaced. From the complainant's account, it appeared that the JE was seeking illegal gratification, causing delays in the installation of the new meter. The complainant further alleged that the concerned SDO fabricated a document by sending a satisfaction letter purportedly signed by one Sh. Jai Parkash Yadav, who, according to the complainant, was neither a tenant nor an employee at the premises. The Commission carefully considered all the facts and circumstances of the case. It was only after an appeal was filed with the Commission that the meter was finally replaced on November 26, 2024.

It said for a service that is supposed to be delivered within 3 days in urban areas, it took more than 4 months to provide the same, adding that UHBVN is clearly responsible for this delay. It is neither the concern of the complainant/consumer nor the Commission that meters are unavailable. Once a service has been notified, the UHBVN must take all possible steps to ensure adequate supply of meters in its stores. It has been generally observed that the Material Management (M&M) wings of the power utilities are not ensuring the availability of necessary material in their stores, which causes delays in the delivery of notified service, the Commission observed. Hence, the Commission, exercising its powers under Section 17(1)(h) of the Haryana Right to Service Act, 2014 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act'), awarded a compensation of Rs. 3,000 to the consumer, which should be paid by the UHBVN from its funds. The UHBVN is free to recover this amount from the defaulting officials who failed to ensure the availability of LT/CT meters in their stores. This amount should either be adjusted in the consumer's account by UHBVN or transferred to the consumer's bank account. The concerned XEN has been directed to send a compliance report of these orders to the Commission by January 25, 2025. At the same time, a serious issue in this case is the creation of a fake satisfaction letter on behalf of the complainant. The Commission directed the XEN, Bahadurgarh, to investigate the same and submit a report in this matter by January 24, 2025. The XEN has also been directed to confirm whether any LT/CT meters were available in the stores after July 18, 2024.

ACC cement transporters blame managements for losses due to clinker transportation

AJAY KUMAR UPADHYAY
BILASPUR, JAN 9

The transporters of Asia's largest truck operator, the Barmana-based Thr Bilaspur District Transport Cooperative Society (BDTS), have raised strong objections against the heavy losses being inflicted on their vehicles during clinker transportation. Transporters have reported severe damage to truck bodies, wheels, and rims due to the heavy stone-like lumps of clinker being loaded by machines. The frozen and hardened clinker, stored for extended periods, exacerbates the problem, leaving vehicles in disrepair and transporters in financial distress. The transporters, who move clinker from Barmana's ACC cement industry to locations like Ropar and Nalagarh, highlighted that loading and unloading delays are worsening the situation. Loading now takes up to two days, and significant time is consumed during unloading, with drivers having to clean residual clinker manually. These delays, coupled with reduced trips due to the economic slowdown, have left transporters struggling to pay their vehicle installments.

Former BDTS chief Rakesh Thakur voiced his frustration, holding the BDTS management and ACC Adani management responsible for compensating the damages. He alleged that no progress has been made under the current BDTS chief, Jeet Ram Gautam, and transporters are being coerced to continue transporting clinker under adverse conditions.

Govt Primary School in Bari facing water crisis for last 4 months

RAJNEESH SHARMA
HAMIRPUR: The Government Primary School in Bari, located near the Bamsan Tehsil headquarters, has been grappling with a severe water shortage for the past four months. The taps have completely run dry, forcing students to boil and drink water sourced from a local spring. However, with the spring now also depleted, the situation has worsened significantly. It is worth noting that the late social worker Birbal Das Thakur had laid a water pipeline from a kilometer away at his own expense to cater to the needs of the schoolchildren. However, the pipeline was damaged and buried during the construction of the National Highway. Although local residents protested, the construction company has yet to restore the pipeline. Former headmaster Ashok Sharma and locals, including Deshraj, Balwant Singh, Bhoomi Raj, Jai Raj, Hans Raj, Jaswant Singh, Purushottam, Hemraj, and Sunil Chauhan, have expressed concerns about the dire situation. The lack of water has made it difficult for students to even use the washroom. JBT teacher Jyoti stated that both the staff and students are struggling to manage without water, with even basic tasks like preparing mid-day meals becoming a challenge.

Caste query

The answers to certain questions can be disturbing. It has to be asked why the Supreme Court should be needed to examine details of caste discrimination and resultant suicides in higher education institutions. The Supreme Court was sitting on a 2019 public interest petition jointly submitted by the mothers of a PhD student and a resident doctor who had committed suicide on their respective campuses allegedly because of caste harassment. The court asked the University Grants Commission to provide the data on complaints of caste discrimination from all universities and deemed universities. The UGC was also asked to table the number of equal opportunity cells it had mandated in its 2012 regulations. It seems that the number is small, at least in the case of the Indian Institutes of Technology where a large number of student suicides, many allegedly for caste discrimination, have taken place. Where there are cells, they are mostly managed by upper-caste persons; this puts off students from marginalised communities from discussing their problems. Astonishingly, some suicides are undocumented, and the data on suicides have yet to be analysed for caste; this makes the number of caste-based suicides uncertain. The number of drop-outs, however, shows a striking predominance of scheduled caste, scheduled tribe and other backward classes students.

The Supreme Court asked the Centre and the National Assessment and Accreditation Council to file counter-affidavits indicating the steps taken to address caste discrimination on campuses. This is not the first time that the Supreme Court is dealing with the issue. In 2023 it had asked the UGC to think of 'out-of-the-box' solutions to the problem. Neither the Supreme Court's directions nor the UGC's regulations have changed matters. It is both alarming and shocking that not just students but teachers too are reported to be hostile to students from marginalised groups. This explains why a campus issue has not remained confined there but has spilled over to the Supreme Court. If HEI managements and teachers had been sincere in their efforts to end caste discrimination, bereaved mothers would not have had to go to the court for justice. Suicides and dropouts over the years indicate institutionalised indifference, even cruelty, towards hopeful young people who have beaten inherited odds to reach HEIs and IITs. It is this deep-rooted and destructive prejudice that must change.

Chronic stress has a wide-ranging impact on our bodies. Many stress-related mental disorders, including depression, are associated with immune system abnormalities. However, the basic mechanisms dictating how these changes affect the brain are largely unknown.

Enzyme from immune cells in the blood affects nerves in the brain

An international research team led by the University of Zurich (UZH), and the University Hospital of Psychiatry Zurich (PUK) and the Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai, New York, has now uncovered a novel mechanism. "We were able to show that stress increases the amount of the matrix metalloproteinase-8 (MMP-8), an enzyme in the blood of mice. The same changes were found in patients with depression," says first author Flurin Cathomas. MMP-8 travels from the blood to the brain, where it alters the functioning of certain neurons. In the affected mice, this leads to behavioral changes: they withdraw and avoid social contact.

Potential for new treatments for depression

According to Cathomas, the findings are novel in two respects: "Firstly, they indicate a new 'body-mind mechanism', which might be relevant not only for stress-related mental illness, but also for other diseases that affect both the immune and nervous systems." And secondly, says the psychiatrist, identification of the specific MMP-8 protein could be a potential starting point to develop new treatments for depression.

Changes to brain extracellular matrix

The researchers were able to use animal models to show that stress increases the migration of a specific type of white blood cells called monocytes into the vascular system of the brain, particularly into the reward center regions. These monocytes produce MMP-8. MMP-8 is involved in the restructuring and regulation of the net-like frame that surrounds neurons in the brain - called the extracellular matrix. "If MMP-8 penetrates the brain tissue from the blood, it changes the matrix structure and thus disrupts the functioning of the neurons. Mice who are affected by this process display changes in behavior that are similar to those seen in humans with depression," says Flurin Cathomas.

In order to prove that MMP-8 was really responsible for the behavioural changes, the researchers removed the MMP-8 gene from some of the mice. Compared to the control mice, these animals did not display stress-related negative behavioral changes. "Blood analyses of patients with depression indicate that the findings from the mouse models are also relevant for humans: both the monocytes and MMP-8 were increased in the blood of people with depression in comparison to healthy participants."

Clinical studies with patients planned

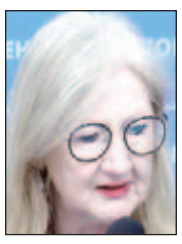

Many more studies are needed before the results can be implemented in clinical practice. Nevertheless, says Cathomas, "our work once again demonstrates the importance of the interaction between the immune system and the brain in the development of psychiatric disorders. These insights are already being incorporated into psychiatric treatment today." On the PUK's special ward for integrative care led by Cathomas, the clinicians take a holistic mind-body approach based on the latest scientific findings when treating their patients.

The research team is now planning clinical studies to investigate the extent to which the immune system can be influenced by stimulating certain areas of the brain. They will also look at whether any changes in the immune system cells of depressive patients influence their behaviour.

Expected during winter, WHO official on HMPV virus

Amid concerns surrounding the Human metapneumovirus (HMPV) virus, WHO official, Margaret Harris, said that the rise observed in the number of common respiratory infections, is 'common' during winter and spring.

She further added that as per Chinese Center for Disease Control and Prevention, the pathogens causing the disease are "known ones."

"There has indeed been a rise in a number of common respiratory infections in the country. And this is entirely expected during the winter. China has a sentinel surveillance system for influenza-like illness and severe respiratory infections," she said. Harris said that the pathogens are known ones and can be tackled, including the pathogens of Covid 19. "According to the Chinese CDC data, the pathogens causing these infections are known ones. And they include the seasonal influenza virus, the respiratory syncytial virus, also known as RSV, and of course, the human metanumavirus, HMPV, as well as our old friend SARS-CoV-2, the virus that causes COVID-19," she said.

The WHO official further said that seasonal influenza is a common one that crops up for testing.

"Now among the pathogens reported by China's CDC, seasonal influenza is by far the most common that's coming up in all the testing. And it's increasing. The test positivity rate for influenza at the end of December was over 30 per cent among people presenting with the flu-like symptoms in outpatient and emergency departments sentinel sites," she said. She added that the cases regarding respiratory illnesses reported by China are within the normal range.

"China's reported levels of respiratory infections are within the normal range. It's what we expect to see for the winter season. Authorities report that hospital utilisation is currently actually lower than this time last year and have been no emergency declarations.

POEM

O Sun

O mighty sun, blazing fiercely in the Sahara's embrace,
Bathe me in your brilliance, as my forebears, warriors of grace.
Not for conquest's glory do I seek your fiery gaze,
But to cleanse this frail vessel, from shadows to blaze.
Grant me strength to stand tall, like the mountains in the dawn,
Amidst companions and lovers, let my heart find its song.
For I, too, yearn for bonds, friendships true and deep,
And the whispered flatteries, in which secrets creep.
Though my words may echo ambition, my heart seeks only solace,
To walk among the ordinary, in love's gentle embrace.
Grant me the courage to rise, from this abyss of longing and despair,
To be as radiant and powerful, as your unyielding glare.
In this vast expanse of desert, where your radiance reigns supreme,
I pledge a life of honor, in the warmth of your dream.
And when age dims my sight, and twilight draws near,
I'll stand once more, naked and humbled, in your heat sincere.
For in your gift of strength, lies the promise of eternity,
To live, to love, to be, in the radiance of your divinity.

Does physical activity reduce pain intensity in cancer survivors?

People who have had cancer frequently feel persistent pain, but a new study suggests that staying physically active may help reduce its intensity.

The study is published by Wiley online in CANCER, a peer-reviewed journal of the American Cancer Society.

Although physical activity has been shown to lessen various types of pain, its effects on cancer-related pain are unclear.

To investigate, a team led by senior author Erika Rees-Punia, PhD, MPH, of the American Cancer Society, and first author Christopher T.V. Swain, PhD, of the University of Melbourne, in Australia, analyzed information pertaining to 51,439 adults without a history of cancer and 10,651 adults with a past cancer diagnosis. Participants were asked, "How would you rate your pain on average," with responses ranging from 0 (no pain) to 10 (worst pain imaginable). Participants were also asked about their usual physical activity.

U.S. guidelines recommend 150 minutes (2 hours 30 minutes) to 300 minutes (5 hours) a week of moderate-intensity, or 75 minutes (1 hour 15 minutes) to 150 minutes (2 hours 30 minutes) a week of vigorous-intensity aerobic physical activity.

To investigate, a team led by senior author Erika Rees-Punia, PhD, MPH, of the American Cancer Society, and first author Christopher T.V. Swain, PhD, of the University of Melbourne, in Australia, analyzed information pertaining to 51,439 adults without a history of cancer and 10,651 adults with a past cancer diagnosis.

Based on participants' responses, the investigators found that, for individuals who had cancer in the past as well as for those without a history of cancer, more physical activity was linked with lower pain intensity. The extent of the association was similar for both groups of individuals, indicating that exercise may reduce cancer-related pain just as it does for other types of pain that have been studied in the past.

Among participants with a past cancer diagnosis, those exceeding physical activity guidelines were 16% less likely to report moderate-to-severe pain compared to those who failed to meet physical activity guidelines. Also, compared with people who remained inactive, those who were consistently active or became active in older adulthood reported less pain.

All claims made by BJP about providing jobs without recommendations have failed: Kumari Selja

SHIV KUMAR SHARMA

SIRSA, JAN 9

The General Secretary of the All India Congress Committee, former Union Minister, and Member of Parliament from Sirsa, Kumari Dekha has said that the claims of the BJP government regarding job provision without recommendations have been disproven. This became evident when the results of 13 recruitments announced by the Haryana Public Service Commission (HPSC) in just 20 days were challenged in the High Court. There is not a single recruitment by the state government that has not been challenged in the High Court by candidates. In some cases, paper leaks occurred, while in others, top scorers of various exams were deliberately given lower marks and denied jobs, instead offering positions to their own favored candidates. Kumari Selja said that the government release a white paper on the recruitments done by HPSC so that the truth can come before the public. In a statement released to the media, Kumari Selja said that the government's claim of providing jobs purely based on merit, without recommendations or expenditures, is entirely false. Questions have been raised regarding every recruitment done under HPSC, and they have even been challenged in the High Court. These petitions are still under consideration in court. Kumari Selja said that in the past 20 days, HPSC announced the results of 13 recruitments, all of which have been challenged in the High Court through petitions. If the government had conducted the recruitment honestly, why would candidates need to approach the court? Kumari Selja stated that the BJP government says one thing but does another. Today, no one trusts the BJP.

Kumari Selja said that for this year's PGT recruitment in 12 subjects, 190 petitions have been filed in the High Court. The government is preparing to issue joining orders, but even if the joinings take place, the candidates' jobs will be uncertain until the petitions are resolved. Kumari Selja said that there are 33 petitions against the PGT Mathematics recruitment, 31 against PGT Biology, and 7 against PGT Urdu. Additionally, petitions have been filed regarding the recruitment for Assistant Civil Engineer in the Irrigation Department. Kumari Selja said that the government faced a lot of criticism for the Veterinary Surgeon recruitments in 2023, with even central ministers raising questions about the process. These recruitments were later canceled.

This mode has now been upgraded to allow users to connect their air conditioners with their Galaxy Watch series and have the 'Good Sleep' automatically activated when they fall asleep.The influence of a suitable ambient temperature on sleep is immense. The common experience of waking up in the middle of the night drenched in sweat or shivering in cold, is relatable for most people. It is for this reason that Samsung decided to develop a mode on its air conditioners to help people get better sleep during the night. The key point in this mode, however, was that the optimal temperature for sleep is not fixed for the entire period that a person sleeps. This is why although many set their air conditioner to the optimal temperature before going to bed, they still wake up.

Celebrate the Harvest Season with a Nutritious Twist of California Almonds

Chandigarh/ Ludhiana January 9, 2025: The Harvest Season is celebrated with great fervor across India, known by various names such as Makar Sankranti in Bengal, Pongal in the South, and Lohri, Bihu, or Baisakhi in other regions. While traditions and names may differ, the joy of preparing festive desserts and dishes unites everyone in celebrating the season's bounty. In 2025, let's embrace a healthier approach to the festive feasts by incorporating California Almonds—the most popular almonds in the world. Being the King of Dry Fruits, California Almonds are rich in 15 essential nutrients, including protein, healthy fats, dietary fiber, vitamins, and minerals, offering numerous health benefits.

Celebrating the Harvest Season with loved ones is a joyous occasion, but it's also important to be mindful of food choices, especially given the rising prevalence of lifestyle diseases such as diabetes, high cholesterol, and obesity in India. According to the World Health Organization (WHO), six million Indians are affected by these conditions annually, and by 2030, chronic illnesses could cost the nation $6 trillion. A simple yet effective way to support better health, even during festive indulgences, is by including nutrient-dense foods like almonds in the diet. Almonds can help reduce the blood sugar impact of carbohydrate-rich foods they are consumed with, promoting healthier fasting insulin levels and overall well-being.

Incorporating California Almonds into the daily diet can also support weight management by curbing hunger, thanks to their high fiber content and satiating properties. Beyond this, these nuts provide sustained energy, help lower total and LDL cholesterol, reduce heart-damaging inflammation, and boost immunity—essential during seasonal transitions. The recently published Dietary Guidelines for Indians by the Indian Council of Medical Research–National Institute of Nutrition (ICMR-NIN) have recognized almonds as a nutritious nut that can be consumed daily for good health.

Ritika Samaddar, Regional Head – Dietetics, Max Healthcare – New Delhi, said, "Festivities are all about joy and celebration, with desserts often taking center stage. This Harvest Season, I suggest making smart choices by replacing traditional sweets with healthier, more nutritious ingredients like almonds. While our mothers have long recommended almonds for their nutritional value and overall well-being, science supports their benefits as well. Over 200 scientific studies highlight the extensive health advantages of almonds. Rich in vitamin E, iron, magnesium, fiber, protein, and zinc, almonds support heart health, blood sugar control, weight management, and overall wellness. They also help boost immunity. By making smarter food choices and adding a handful of almonds to the celebrations, it's possible to enjoy the festivities while staying aligned with health goals."

Fitness Master and Pilates Instructor Yasmin Karachiwala, said, "Staying active during the festive season is just as crucial as making mindful food choices. Whether it's a quick workout or a walk, incorporating movement helps balance indulgences. For muscle recovery and sustained energy, I recommend snacking on natural foods like almonds. Packed with protein and healthy fats, almonds not only offer great nutrition but also aid in muscle repair and provide lasting energy. Their versatility makes them an ideal addition to festive meals and snacks, allowing to stay on track while still enjoying the celebrations."

Sheela Krishnaswamy, Nutrition and Wellness Consultant, said, "Lifestyle diseases, such as obesity and diabetes, are on the rise in India, making it essential for individuals to make mindful food choices and opt for healthier alternatives.

Sanjay Dutt, Anil Kapoor mourn the demise of filmmaker Pritish Nandy

The demise of writer-turned-filmmaker Pritish Nandy has left members of the film industry extremely saddened. After learning about Pritish's untimely demise, many took to their respective social media handles to pay their heartfelt condolences.

Remembering Nandy, veteran actor Anil Kapoor on Instagram wrote, "Shocked and heartbroken by the loss of my dear friend Pritish Nandy. A fearless editor, a brave soul, and a man of his word, he embodied integrity like no other. I still remember a bold Illustrated Weekly cover shoot he planned-when I felt uncomfortable, he scrapped it immediately, saying, 'If you're not happy, I won't publish it' That gesture marked the beginning of a lifelong friendship built on trust and respect. My heart goes out to his family. I'll always miss his presence, his voice, and the fearless spirit he brought to everything he did."

Actor Sanjay Dutt described Nandy as a "true creative genius".

"A true creative genius and a kind soul . You will be missed sir," he posted on Instagram.

Actor Sayani Gupta, who worked with Nandy in 'Four More Shots Please!', penned a lengthy note on Instagram in fond memory of the late director.

"The youngest guy in the room, the most articulate and brilliant. Always smiling, always warm and with that glint in his eyes. He loved a good conversation. He loved Bong women. And I knew he loved me. He would always express his love & never shied away from appreciating the people around him. There are very few people who are this magnetic," she wrote.

Sayani added, "An absolute stalwart. A true visionary. A rock star feminist who has created some of the most iconic women characters for cinema. I thought of him a lot when his very close friend Mr. Ratan Tata passed away recently. How he must be holding up. Cannot believe he left us so soon.

The head of our family just left us. Hasn't sunk in. I am grateful for his grace, wisdom & the moments spent under his light. A deep deep loss. Love to his and our family."

Filmmaker Hansal Mehta, too, expressed his grief. "Sad, sad news. My most personal work has lost one of its greatest patrons. You lived well Mr Nandy. Will miss you terribly. Deepest condolences to the entire family. I remember when I first met him in 2005 I had shared the idea for Omerta. Let's make it he said. When nobody had belief in me or my ideas Mr Pritish Nandy gave me the strength to dare, to dream and to tell stories that mattered to me - no matter what. He did not end up producing Omerta eventually but I owe the film and a lot of my journey beginning from Shahid to him. We had the most delightful conversations, he was always candid with me and I always left his room very energized. So hard to believe that he is gone. The past tense just isn't for men like him," Mehta wrote.

Pritish Nandy breathed his last South Mumbai residence on Wednesday, January 8. He was 73.

Pritish Nandy was not only a celebrated journalist but also hosted a popular talk show, 'The Pritish Nandy Show', on Doordarshan in the 1990s, where he interviewed several celebrities.As a film producer, Nandy made a significant impact in the early 2000s with films like 'Kaante', 'Jhankaar Beats', 'Chameli', and 'Hazaaron Khwaishein Aisi'. He also produced the web series 'Four More Shots Please!' and 'Modern Love Mumbai' under his banner, Pritish Nandy Communications.
