Air India plane with 242 on board crashes near Ahmedabad airport

204 DEATHS CONFIRMED

169 Indians, 53 Britishers, 7 Portugese, 1 Canadian on board

AGENCY
AHMEDABAD, JUNE 12

An Air India Boeing 787-8 Dreamliner carrying 242 people crashed immediately after take-off from Ahmedabad airport this afternoon, in one of the worst ever aviation tragedies in India. There were 232 passengers and 10 crew on the flight which was headed to London. As per initial reports 204 deaths were confirmed.

One person -- the passenger of seat No. 11A -- survived the crash, officials said. The plane slammed into a hostel for doctors of a medical college, killing five students. Visuals from the crash site show debris had pierced through the wall of a dining hall of the hostel, with food still visible on some of the plates. A video of the aircraft flying low and struggling to gain altitude shows the plane slamming the ground and exploding in a massive ball of fire at 1.38 pm. It was loaded with fuel since it was flying a long distance to London.

Shortly after take-off, the pilot sent out a mayday call. There was no response after that to repeated calls from the air traffic controller, say reports.

Of these, 169 are Indian nationals, 53 are British nationals, 1 Canadian national and 7 Portuguese nationals. The injured are being taken to the nearest hospitals. We have also set up a dedicated passenger hotline number, 1800 5691 444, to provide more information. Air India is giving its full cooperation to the authorities investigating this incident," the Airline said.

Former Gujarat CM Vijay Rupani was among passengers

AHMEDABAD: Former Gujarat Chief Minister Vijay Rupani was among the passengers aboard Air India flight AI 171. The flight, operated by a Boeing 787 Dreamliner, tragically crashed into a residential area in Meghani Nagar shortly after taking off from the Ahmedabad airport at 1:38 PM on June 12, 2025.
According to reports, ex-Gujarat CM Vijay Rupani was passenger number 12 on the ill-fated Air India flight.

5 dead at medical students' hostel where Air plane crashed

NEW DELHI: Five medical students died and many suffered injuries after Air India flight crashed into the hostel of the BJ Medical College in Ahmedabad, Gujarat. This includes, four undergraduate students and a postgraduate resident.
The flight, headed to London, departed at 13:38 pm from the Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel International Airport. The failure to achieve lift happened at a very low altitude of 825 feet.
In pictures from the ground, plates with food left uneaten and glasses can be seen lying on the tables in the hostel canteen, indicating medical students were having lunch at the time of the crash. The picture also shows with people standing near the damaged wall of the hostel mess.
The pictures showed a part of the aircraft stuck inside the students' hostel of the BJ Medical College.

Aircraft crashed immediately after take-off: DGCA

NEW DELHI: The London-bound Air India flight 171 crashed immediately after it took off from Ahmedabad Airport around 1.39 pm on Thursday afternoon, the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) has said. The ill-fated flight took-off from runway 23 and was carrying 230 passengers and 12 crew members, including two pilots.
The DGCA reported that shortly after departure, the aircraft made a "MAYDAY" distress call, signaling a life-threatening emergency.
However, despite multiple attempts by Air Traffic Control (ATC) to re-establish communication, the aircraft did not respond. The aircraft fell to the ground outside the airport perimeter shortly thereafter, resulting in a catastrophic crash.
Heavy black smoke emanating from the crash site was seen, indicating the severity of the incident.
The aircraft was under the command of Captain Sumeet Sabharwal, a seasoned pilot with 8,200 flying hours. He was assisted by co-pilot Clive Kundar, who has 1,100 hours of flying experience, said the DGCA.

Everything in life is luck.

Mind the gulf

India's image problem has now moved into a state of crisis. The gulf between how the country is perceived from outside and the picture of India promoted by the current national government has grown to a point of tragedy or comedy, depending on your perspective. Life, Byron said once, is a tragedy for those who feel, and a comedy for those who think. Feelings might have taken the driver's seat, particularly with the brutal tragedy of the terrorist attack at Pahalgam, but the sobriety of honest thought is essential to assess the reality of the conflict with Pakistan that followed. This is where comedy returns, not only as a mark of thinking over feeling but, sadly, also of grotesquery of a different order. It takes us back to the longstanding problem of India's international image and its startling contrast with the dominant domestic editions.

The question glares on the trip trail of the international public relations team of multiparty parliamentarians to tell the Indian side of the story in the recent standoff with Pakistan. The Georgetown academic, Christine Fair, gets it exactly right in her interview with Scroll when she points out that the very need for such a delegation marks something of a serious communication failure on the international stage. Pakistan, she reminds us, has been far better at communicating with the Western media. That India has failed at this is the irony of India's size and heft, both economic and political, and its importance as a functioning democracy, if a rapidly declining one. But if size makes us complacent and inward looking, then we have a problem. We may fume at being bracketed with Pakistan. But sadly, this also shows that we have forgotten how to speak to others, particularly to outsiders who do not buy the ideological marketing of nationalist pride that distorts home truths for our citizenry.

An indifference to the world outside and the global image of the nation is sometimes characteristic of large nations that have enough within their own borders to preoccupy them. No nation has shown this as revealingly in the modern world as the United States of America whose cultural insularity is the stuff of legend. When you're in the heart of Middle America where nothing but America is visible for thousands of miles all around, it can get hard to see other cultures beyond your land. Arriving in one such state in the last year of the last millennium as a student, I was appalled at the local image of India as the land of poverty, Gandhi, and the Taj Mahal. But even then, the impending computer glitch of Y2K had brought droves of Indian software engineers to the US.

Deadlock continues in Nepal parliament

Protest by the opposition has prolonged the deadlock in the lower house of Nepal's federal parliament for 15 days following obstruction by the opposition over the visit visa controversy.Opposition parties have been obstructing the parliament session since May 27, demanding the resignation of Home Minister Ramesh Lekhak over the visit visa controversy. Within a fortnight, the opposition has softened its stance over the resignation of Home Minister Ramesh Lekhak. The opposition is now calling for the formation of a parliamentary or judicial committee to investigate the matter.

The prolonged deadlock stems from a lack of agreement among parties on how the investigation should proceed, with repeated attempts at dialogue failing to produce a breakthrough."The parliament has been in deadlock for over fourteen days. Parliament is a place where the issues of the country are discussed, and we should make an environment for deliberations. In order to create such an environment, all the honorable members of the parliament who are standing, please take your seats.

I will allocate time to members of parliament on the basis of party-wise representation in the parliament," House speaker Devraj Ghimire said at Wednesday's meeting.Opposition parties in the House of Representatives have been protesting following the reports on an investigation by the Commission for the Investigation of the Abuse of Authority (CIAA). The anti-graft agency has unearthed a vast network operating the scam with the help of officials at the immigration office at the Tribhuvan International Airport, which involves the joint secretary Tirtharaj Bhattarai, the immigration office chief. Opposition parties have raised question over Bhattarai's removal from his duties following an inquiry from the anti-graft body following an order from the Home Ministry.In addition, the network involved in sending people abroad is being reported to have links to the private secretariat of Home Minister Ramesh Lekhak, who continues to defend himself.

The corroborative investigation conducted by the CIAA has revealed that more staff were deployed at the TIA immigration office than the number of sanctioned posts. It was after the CIAA summoned joint secretary Bhattarai that the visit visa scam was exposed.Ever since the protest in parliament by the opposition over the issue, House Speaker Devraj Ghimire, leaders, mainly from the Nepali Congress, the CPN (Maoist Centre), and the Rastriya Swatantra Party (RSP) have engaged in cross-party talks for weeks but failed to break the logjam.

The RSP has demanded an investigation committee, but the Congress is not in favour of forming a committee to look into the Home Minister Lekhak. Even Prime Minister KP Oli and CPN-UML are not in a mood to form such a committee.The Congress argues that as the CIAA is already looking into the issue, it is unnecessary to form a separate committee at this time. To resolve the deadlock in the House, the Congress has been holding separate and joint discussions with various parties involving party's deputy president Purna Bahadur Khadka.

The Rastriya Swatantra Party (RSP) on Monday released a draft that the party had earlier forwarded for agreement with the Nepali Congress and other parties. The draft proposes a high-level investigation committee within five days to conduct a multi-dimensional investigation into the involvement of government bodies, travel agencies, manpower companies, airlines, and both Nepali and foreign organizations in human trafficking and organised crime under the guise of visit visas, without affecting the ongoing investigation of the CIAA.The Commission for Investigation of Abuse of Authorities (CIAA)'s investigation has spotlighted numerous actors, including immigration officers, travel agents, and even those with controversial histories in government offices.Amongst those key figures, Joint Secretary at Home Ministry- Tirtha Raj Bhattarai, the emblematic of the system's return to a high-ranking position at TIA after a controversial tenure elsewhere raised eyebrows. Home Minister Ramesh Lekhak had appointed him as the Chief of the Immigration at the Tribhuvan International Airport (TIA) who previously also had been alleged in corruption scandals and cases. Bhattarai was transferred back to the Home Minister just a day before the CIAA raid at the Immigration office at the airport.On May 21, 2025, Bhattarai, the Joint Secretary at the Home Ministry and former Chief Immigration Officer at Tribhuvan International Airport, was arrested by police following the CIAA probe into alleged links with a human trafficking ring. He had only been transferred to the Home Ministry the previous evening.

Trump urges Netanyahu to end Gaza war

US President Donald Trump has asked Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu to end the war in Gaza and stop talk of a potential military strike on Iran, CNN reported, citing a source familiar with their recent phone conversation.

The phone call, which took place on Monday, comes amid ongoing indirect ceasefire negotiations between Hamas and the US, as well as Washington's efforts to secure a nuclear agreement with Iran.CNN noted that despite Trump later describing the call as "very well, very smooth," tensions between the two leaders have grown in recent weeks over the Gaza conflict.According to CNN, Trump urged Netanyahu during the call to stop public discussion of a potential attack on Iran and halt leaks about related military plans.

In response, Netanyahu reportedly told Trump that Iran was stalling through negotiations and was not genuinely committed to any deal.

Meanwhile, ceasefire negotiations have shown some movement. Netanyahu convened a meeting of top ministers on Tuesday night after "some progress" was made toward a deal, according to his office.

"Greening our highways: Strategic recommendations for NHAI Tree Plantation Initiatives"

India's vast network of national highways is a symbol of connectivity and development. However, rapid infrastructure growth often comes at an environmental cost - deforestation, habitat fragmentation, and rising pollution levels. To counterbalance these effects, it is essential to integrate sustainable practices into highway development. Tree plantation along highways is one such critical intervention. In this context, a set of practical and strategic suggestions have been put forward to the National Highway Authority of India (NHAI) to promote large-scale and effective tree plantation.

Highway-side tree plantation is not merely an aesthetic measure - it serves multiple vital purposes such as air quality improvement, noise & dust reduction, temperature regulation, soil erosion prevention, biodiversity support.

Key Suggestions Submitted to NHAI

Mandatory Green Belts in Highway Projects: Every new or expanded highway should include a well-planned green belt with a mix of native and fast-growing species. Green infrastructure must be made a legal component of project approval.

Use of Indigenous and Climate-Resilient Plants: Instead of ornamental or water-intensive species, the focus should be on drought-resistant, native plants like neem, peepal, banyan, jamun, and amaltas which are ecologically suited and need less maintenance.

Geo-tagging and Digital Monitoring:To ensure transparency and survival tracking, all plantations should be geo-tagged. Mobile apps or portals can be developed to monitor the growth, survival rate, and health of trees.

Collaboration with Local Stakeholders: Involve local panchayats, forest departments, NGOs, and educational institutions in planning, plantation, and maintenance activities. Local engagement ensures better care and accountability.

Dedicated Tree Maintenance Contracts: NHAI should ensure that tree plantation is not a one-time activity. A 3-5-year maintenance contract must be awarded to ensure watering, pruning, and protection from grazing or damage.

Adopt-a-Green-Stretch Program: Encourage public-private partnerships (PPPs) where corporates, communities, or academic institutions can "adopt" a highway stretch and take responsibility for its greenery under CSR.

Policy-Level Recommendations should include Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) for highways must include a green cover plan, allocate at least 2-5% of project cost for ecological restoration and plantation, introduce incentives for contractors who ensure >80% tree survival in 3 years and penalize felling of trees without compensation or replantation plans.

Successful Case Studies

"Green Highways (Plantation, Transplantation, Beautification & Maintenance) Policy-2015 by MoRTH has laid a solid foundation but needs stronger enforcement.

"States like Telangana and Haryana have implemented large-scale roadside afforestation with measurable success.

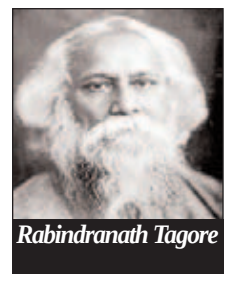

Greener highways are not a luxury - they are a necessity for sustainable and resilient infrastructure. The National Highway Authority of India holds a strategic position in shaping India's environmental footprint. By adopting the above suggestions and promoting tree plantation as a core component of highway development, NHAI can lead the way in merging infrastructure with ecological responsibility.

Let me not forget

If it is not my portion to meet thee in this life then let me ever feel that I have missed thy sight ---let me not forget for a moment, let me carry the pangs of this sorrow in my dreams and in my wakeful hours.

Rabindranath Tagore

As my days pass in the crowded market of this world and my hands grow full with the daily profits, let me ever feel that I have gained nothing ---let me not forget for a moment, let me carry the pangs of this sorrow in my dreams and in my wakeful hours. When I sit by the roadside, tired and panting.

Blood molecules that could revolutionise teen depression diagnosis

In a groundbreaking study, researchers from McGill University have identified nine biological markers in the blood that could help diagnose depression in teenagers.The findings, which were published recently, are expected to revolutionise how depression is detected in adolescents, offering the potential for earlier intervention before symptoms become severe and harder to treat.

The study, led by Dr Cecilia Flores, James McGill Professor at McGill's Department of Psychiatry, sheds light on a new method for identifying the condition.The researchers discovered that these nine molecules, known as microRNAs, were elevated in the blood of teens diagnosed with depression.Furthermore, these microRNAs were able to predict the progression of the condition, providing valuable insight into how symptoms may evolve over time."Alarmingly, more and more adolescents are being diagnosed with depression, and when it starts early, the effects can be long-lasting and severe," said Dr Flores, who is also a researcher at the Douglas Research Centre and the Ludmer Centre."Teens with depression are more likely to face additional challenges such as substance use, social isolation, and symptoms that often resist treatment," Dr Flores added.Interestingly, these microRNAs have not been linked to depression in adults, suggesting that the markers may reflect biological processes unique to teenagers.This could open the door for personalised treatment approaches for adolescent depression, which often manifests differently than in adults.

The study was conducted in collaboration with researchers from the University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA), and Stanford University.It involved 62 teenagers, 34 diagnosed with depression and 28 healthy individuals. By analysing small blood samples, which were collected via a simple finger prick and stored in dried form, the researchers were able to preserve the integrity of the biological markers over time."The method we developed is minimally invasive, scalable, and easy to implement in real-world settings," said Dr Alice Morgunova, postdoctoral fellow at McGill and first author of the study."Our findings pave the way for using dried blood spots as a practical tool in psychiatric research. This approach allows us to track early biological changes linked to mental health with minimal discomfort for patients," Dr Alice added.

Currently, diagnosing depression in teenagers largely depends on self-reported symptoms, which can delay accurate diagnosis.Many adolescents struggle to recognise the signs of depression or are hesitant to seek help.A blood-based screening tool could provide a more objective way of identifying those at risk, potentially leading to earlier and more effective interventions.The researchers plan to continue their work by validating these findings in larger groups of adolescents and examining how these microRNAs interact with other genetic and environmental risk factors for depression.The study was funded by several prestigious organizations, including the Douglas Foundation, Bombardier Fund, the National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA), the Canadian Institutes of Health Research (CIHR), and the Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council of Canada (NSERC), among others.

Tata Group, which owns Air India, said it will provide Rs 1 crore to the families of each person who has lost their life in this tragedy.

"We are deeply anguished by the tragic event involving Air India Flight 171. No words can adequately express the grief we feel at this moment. Our thoughts and prayers are with the families who have lost their loved ones, and with those who have been injured," N Chandrasekaran, Chairman, Tata Sons, said in a post on X.

Additionally, we will provide support in the building up of the B J Medical's hostel," he said.

"We remain steadfast in standing with the affected families and communities during this unimaginable time," he added.

The Air India Boeing 787-8 Dreamliner, operating as flight AI 171, was en route to London from Ahmedabad when it crashed shortly after takeoff, with 242 people on board -- including 230 passengers and 12 crew members.

The aircraft came down in a densely populated locality near the airport.

Air India CEO Campbell Wilson expressed "deep sorrow" over the incident. "This is a difficult day for all of us at Air India, and our efforts now are focused entirely on the needs of our passengers, crew members, their families and loved ones," he said.

Wilson refrained from speculating on the cause of the crash but said that investigations are underway. "I know that there are many questions and at this stage I will not be able to answer all of them," he said.

He said the flight carried 169 Indian nationals, 53 British nationals, seven Portuguese nationals and one Canadian national.

"Of the passengers, 169 are Indian nationals, 53 are British nationals, there are seven Portuguese nationals, and one Canadian national. The injured passengers have been taken by local authorities to the nearest hospitals. We are actively working with the authorities on all emergency response efforts," said the Air India CEO.

Aircraft manufacturer Boeing Airplanes also issued a brief statement on X, saying, "We are in contact with Air India regarding Flight 171 and stand ready to support them. Our thoughts are with the passengers, crew, first responders and all affected."

The Air India plane was under the command of Captain Sumeet Sabharwal, an LTC with 8,200 hours of flying experience. He was assisted by First Officer Clive Kundar, who had 1,100 hours of flying experience, an official said.

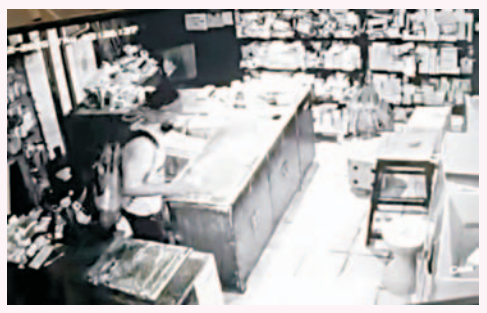

According to Air Traffic Control (ATC), the aircraft departed from Runway 23 at 1339 IST (0809 UTC). It gave a mayday call to ATC, but thereafter, no response was given by the aircraft to the calls made by ATC.

"Aircraft immediately after departure from Runway 23, fell on the ground outside the airport perimeter. Heavy black smoke was seen coming from the accident site," an official said.

Thief steals Rs 3.5 Lakh from medical store in Nilokheri, sparks outrage among traders

PARDEEP MEHTA

NILOKHERI: A daring theft at A.K. Medical Store on Kisan Basti Road has left local traders angry and alarmed. The incident took place around 5 a.m. when most residents were visiting temples and gurdwaras for morning prayers. The thief, covering his face with a cloth, managed to lift both shutters of the store to avoid suspicion—giving passersby the impression that the shop owner had arrived for an emergency. In a calculated move, the perpetrator also turned the CCTV camera away before entering. What shocked the store owner and police alike was that the thief did not touch any goods but went straight for the cash counter, taking away ₹3.5 lakh. The accuracy of the theft has raised strong suspicion that the culprit might be someone with close knowledge of the store's operations—possibly a former or current associate. It is believed the thief knew the cash hadn't been deposited in the bank due to a holiday two days earlier. Police have taken fingerprints from the scene and assured the shopkeeper of a thorough investigation and swift arrest of the culprit. Meanwhile, the morning theft has triggered widespread anger among the local business community, who are demanding tighter security and quick justice.

Neera Loomba Foundation Extends Support to Chandi Kusth Ashram with Essential Food Supplies

CHANDIGARH: On the occasion of the 72nd birth anniversary of Mrs. Neera Loomba, the Neera Loomba Foundation carried out a heartfelt food donation drive at Chandi Kusth Ashram in Chandigarh — a home to over 160 individuals and families affected by leprosy. As part of this initiative, the Foundation provided essential supplies of rice and sugar — enough to support the residents for the next couple of weeks. More than the donation itself, the drive focused on human connection: Foundation volunteers spent quality time engaging with the residents, listening to their stories, and creating a space of warmth and dignity. "The real impact begins when we stop looking away," said Dr. Aditi Loomba, Founder of the Neera Loomba Foundation. "We want to ensure these food drives become more regular, reaching people who are often forgotten. It's not just about what we give, but how deeply we connect." Ms Vandana Tripathi, who was present during the drive, shared, "Being here today was a powerful reminder that empathy is action. Every conversation we had, every smile we received — it's something that stays with you." Ms Pragya, who also took part in the initiative, added, "We often underestimate what presence can mean. Just showing up with compassion can bring light to places long left in the dark." The Foundation continues to focus on bringing care and compassion to the margins - one drive, one conversation, one smile at a time.

Too many conditions in Ayushman scheme, Mohalla clinics provide treatment to all: Cheema

CHANDIGARH: June 12Senior Aam Aadmi Party leader and Punjab Cabinet Minister Harpal Singh Cheema sharply criticized BJP leader and Union Minister Hardeep Puri, stating that while Puri boasted about the BJP government's achievements over the past 11 years, he conveniently ignored how his government has consistently undermined the Constitution and dismantled the country's federal structure.Harpal Cheema said that the Constitution defines India as a union of states, with clearly outlined powers for both the states and the center, and provisions for joint lawmaking in certain cases. However, over the past 11 years, the Modi government has centralized authority, systematically obstructing the functioning of states. He asserted that anyone who fails to respect the Constitution cannot genuinely contribute to the nation's development.Cheema remarked that if the Modi government had delivered on its promises, there would have been no need to showcase Delhi's government schools to Melania Trump, the wife of U.S. President Donald Trump. He pointed out that BJP leaders lacked schools of their own to present and were compelled to highlight the government schools built by the AAP in Delhi.He highlighted that the AAP government's schools were so exemplary that children from ordinary families began gaining admission to IITs and medical colleges. In contrast, the BJP government closed nearly one lakh government schools. In 2014, when the BJP came to power, there were 11 lakh government schools in the country; today, only 10 lakh remain. Cheema said that this is BJP's version of development.

Arora will be minister after victory: MLA Baljinder Kaur

SHARMA
LUDHIANA : Baljinder Kaur, MLA from Talwandi Sabo, addressed a poll meeting on Thursday in support of Rajya Sabha MP and Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) candidate Sanjeev Arora, who is contesting the Ludhiana (West) Assembly by-election.

In her speech, she highlighted the achievements of the AAP-led Punjab government under the leadership of Chief Minister Bhagwant Singh Mann. She said the government has been fulfilling the promises made to the people and described its policies as "pro-people" and "pro-industry."

She mentioned that she has been campaigning in Ludhiana (West) for the past ten days and has received overwhelmingly positive feedback about Arora. "The people here say Arora is a grounded, honest, and dedicated leader. He is the most deserving candidate," she said.

Recalling the contribution of the late MLA Gurpreet Bassi Gogi, she said that the people of the constituency had supported him wholeheartedly. After his untimely demise, AAP's senior leadership chose Arora as the party's candidate, she noted. "I am confident the voters will extend the same support to Arora, who has proven his commitment to development over the past three years," she added.

She also said Arora would be inducted into the Punjab Cabinet as a Minister following his expected thumping victory. Appealing to voters, she urged them to support Arora in large numbers to ensure continued development of the constituency.

In his address, Sanjeev Arora presented his three-year report card and listed various civic works he has facilitated in Ludhiana. He praised the state government's performance in healthcare, education, power, and employment, and said Punjab is witnessing positive transformation under CM Mann's leadership.

Calling upon voters to ensure a strong turnout, Arora said, "Spare at least ten minutes to cast your vote. Don't think one vote doesn't matter—remember, an ocean is made of countless drops."

AAP MP Meet Hayer hits back at Harsimrat Badal

CHANDIGARH: Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) MP Gurmeet Singh Meet Hayer launched a scathing attack on Shiromani Akali Dal (SAD) leader Harsimrat Kaur Badal, countering her remarks with a detailed account of AAP's achievements in Punjab. Meet Hayer accused the SAD government of plunging Punjab into a debt crisis during their tenure without delivering any tangible development for the state's people.

"Punjab's debt burden began under the SAD government, and despite taking substantial loans, there was no visible development. Instead, this debt was used to benefit their own businesses. In contrast, the AAP government, in just three years, has demonstrated unparalleled progress across multiple sectors," said Meet Hayer.

The AAP MP emphasized the transformative impact of the party's governance, highlighting significant achievements such as uninterrupted 12-13 hour electricity supply for farmers, a stark contrast to the erratic services under the SAD regime. He noted that thousands of villages now receive canal water for irrigation, a facility denied during previous governments.

Meet Hayer praised the AAP's investment in education, revamping dilapidated schools with modern facilities and allocating crores for their improvement. Over 50,000 government jobs have been provided in the last three years, compared to the SAD's negligible efforts during their decade-long rule, which he dismissed as mere election-season tokenism.

Furthermore, the AAP government has undertaken projects worth thousands of crores to clean ponds, build sports grounds, and promote holistic rural development, delivering tangible benefits to the people of Punjab.

Meet Hayer also ridiculed the SAD for failing to take meaningful steps on key issues such as toll plazas and public infrastructure. "AAP's government shut down exploitative toll plazas. Why didn't the Akalis close even one during their tenure? The answer is simple, they didn't care about the common people," he asserted.

‘Nazara’ song from ‘Aankhon Ki Gustaakhiyan’ out now

A new song ‘Nazara’ from Vikrant Massey and Shanaya Kapoor-starrer ‘Aankhon Ki Gustaakhiyan’ was unveiled. Sung by Vishal Mishra, the song gives a sneak peek into Vikrant and Shanaya’s heartfelt rapport. https://www.youtube.com/watch?si=imIAK5j1b5fPn0XF&v=kXprtJltwvk&feature=youtu.beSpeaking about the song, Vishal Mishra shared, “Composing ‘Nazara’ for Aankhon Ki Gustaakhiyan has been one of the most personal journeys for me. From the very first note, I wanted to create a melody that feels timeless something that quietly tugs at your heart and stays with you. The lyrics are woven with innocence and emotion, echoing the tender magic of first love and serendipitous meetings. ‘Nazara’ is a celebration of vulnerability, of the kind of love that catches you by surprise and lingers like a memory. I truly hope it makes people believe in love all over again.”’Aankhon Ki Gustaakhiyan’ marks Shanaya’s Bollywood debut.

Viral food trends take over actors’ kitchens!

CHANDIGARH: Social media has become a hotspot for the latest food trends, and it’s not just us who are tempted to try them out! Even some of your favourite actors have been diving into their kitchens to recreate viral snack sensations. &TV actors recently opened up about the trending dishes they have tried, loved, and even mastered at home. These include Vidisha Srivastava (Anita Bhabi, Bhabiji Ghar Par Hai) and Geetanjali Mishra (Rajesh, Happu Ki Ultan Paltan). Geetanjali Mishra, aka Rajesh from Happu Ki Ultan Paltan, shares, “I love exploring global flavours, especially when they are trending and even celebrities are talking about them. This passion truly kicked off when I tried recreating a traditional dish from Bhutan that Deepika Padukone once mentioned in an interview. Made with cheese and chillies, the dish is bold, rich, and comforting. I gave it my twist by pairing it with mildly spiced rice and sautéed vegetables. To my surprise, it was a total hit at home! Another time, I stumbled upon a trending version of Baingan Tawa Fry. While brinjal is commonly made as a sabzi, chokha, or kalonji in my UP household, I had never tried it this way. The reels were too tempting to ignore, so I gave them a shot. And it turned out so delicious that I make it quite often. The texture, the spices, the whole vibe was like a flavour explosion. My first attempt was a bit overfried, but I kept at it and finally got it just right. Recently, I also tried my hand at a viral Lemon Chilli noodles recipe that has taken social media by storm. It’s a fiery, tangy twist on the classic noodles made with fresh green chillies, lemon juice, a hint of garlic, and a sprinkle of chaat masala. It is quick, easy, and instantly satisfying. These viral recipes have made experimenting in the kitchen a lot more fun and exciting!

Vidisha Srivastava, aka Anita Bhabi from Bhabiji Ghar Par Hai, shares, “I have always drawn inspiration from wholesome, homestyle cooking, and one name that instantly comes to mind is Farah Khan. Her passion for food, especially as showcased through her vlogs, is truly infectious.

A royal transformation! Mandeep Kaur dons a traditional Rajasthani bridal look in Vasudha

CHANDIGARH: Zee TV’s popular drama Vasudha continues to keep viewers engaged with its emotionally gripping storyline and unexpected twists. In a recent sequence, audiences witnessed a striking transformation as Megha (played by Mandeep Kaur) stepped into a regal Rajasthani bridal avatar. The sequence, set around an ad shoot in the storyline, brought in a vibrant cultural touch and gave viewers a glimpse of Megha in an all-new look that stood out for its grace and grandeur.

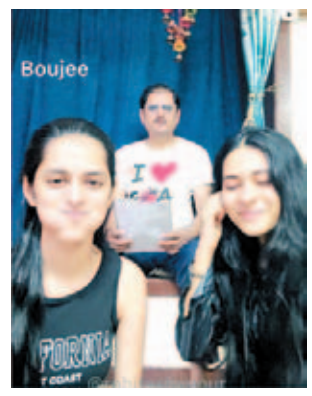

This marked Mandeep Kaur’s first time portraying a Rajasthani bride on screen, and she looked nothing short of majestic. Dressed in a deep maroon lehenga with intricate golden embroidery, a heavily embellished choli, and a classic Rajasthani-style dupatta, her look was brought together with traditional kundan jewellery—a nath, choker, layered haar, borla maang tikka, bangles, and a kamarbandh.

The rich colours, detailed textures, and ornate accessories made the look grand yet elegant. The process of wearing such an elaborate costume for the first time turned out to be a new and fulfilling experience for the actress.

Sharing her experience, Mandeep said, “It was my first time ever dressing up as a Rajasthani bride, and I was genuinely excited. I sat with the creative team to understand their vision for Megha’s look and even added a few suggestions of my own. I felt the kamarbandh and traditional dupatta drape would enhance the authenticity. When I finally saw myself in the mirror, it felt surreal.

Rohitashv Gour Decodes Gen Z Slang with Daughters!

CHANDIGARH: Rohitashv Gour, popularly known as Manmohan Tiwari in &TV’s Bhabiji Ghar Par Hain, recently delighted fans with a hilarious twist by trying out Gen Z slang with his daughters. In a fun reel that quickly went viral, the seasoned actor, loved for his Tiwari ji persona, embraced the quirky vocabulary of today’s generation. While he may be a pro at delivering comic punches on television, matching pace with Gen Z lingo proved to be both a challenge and a treat. His candid attempt not only brought smiles but also highlighted the sweet generational gap between parents and children that is bridged beautifully by humour and love. Reflecting on the joy of the moment with his daughters, Rohitashv Gour aka Manmohan Tiwari from Bhabiji Ghar Par Hai shares, “I decided to make this reel when I heard my daughters casually using words like ‘sus’, ‘lowkey’, and ‘boujee’ in front of me, and honestly, I was clueless! That’s when I realised I had to dive into the world of Gen Z slang and try to decode it. For context, ‘lowkey’ means something you are subtly or secretly into, ‘sus’ is short for suspicious, and ‘boujee’ describes someone with expensive taste. But when I mispronounced ‘boujee’ as ‘bhauji’, my daughters Giti and Sanjiti couldn’t stop laughing! It turned into a fun, wholesome ‘Papa the Great’ moment, with both giggling nonstop. I never imagined this reel would go viral while my only intention was to make them smile and have some fun together. But soon, I started getting calls from people in the family and industry saying, ‘You are trending!’
