This is not an era of war : PM Modi in Cyprus

AGENCY NEW DELHI, JUNE 16

Reiterating India's position that conflict should be resolved on the negotiating table, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Monday said that 'this is not an era of war'. The PM speaking in Cyprus, made the comment in the backdrop of the ongoing conflict between Israel and Iran.

"We expressed worry over the ongoing conflicts in West Asia and Europe. The impact of these conflicts are not restricted to these regions alone, but has the potential for a larger geopolitical fallout," remarked the PM. During the height of Russia-Ukraine conflict, PM Modi in presence of Russian President Vladimir Putin, drove home the point that international relations in the 21st century should be driven by dialogues and not war. Time and again, the PM underlined India's stance in the conflict is not neutral, but rather it is on the side of peace. Earlier today, the PM was conferred with the Grand Cross of the Order of Makarios III of Cyprus, the country's highest civilian honour.

Israel-Iran war escalates, over 240 reported dead

Iran rejects ceasefire negotiations

AGENCY TEHRAN, JUNE 16

Iran launched a new wave of missile attacks on Israel early Monday, triggering air raid sirens across the country as emergency services reported at least three killed and dozens more wounded in the fourth day of open warfare between the regional foes. The death toll has reached to 280. As per reports 227 people were killed in Iran and around 50 persons lost life in Israel.

Meanwhile Iran has rejected any sort of negotiations with Israel while the conflict is ongoing, amid reports that US President Donald Trump rejected Israel's plan to kill Iran's Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei during the military strikes.

Speaking on the condition of anonymity, the US officials told Reuters that top officials have been in continuous communication with

Khamenei relocated to underground bunker

TEHRAN: Iranian supreme leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei along with his family have been relocated underground to a bunker in Lavizan, northeast of the capital city of Tehran. According to Iran International, his son Mojtaba was also said to be with him, though his other sons, Masoud and Mostafa, were not.

Israel since Friday (June 13) when it began the airstrikes on Iran's nuclear sites, adding that US does not intend to go after Iran's supreme leader Khamenei.

"Have the Iranians killed an American yet? No. Until they do, we're not even talking about going after the political leadership," a senior US administration official told Reuters. The official further claimed that Israel had an opportunity to assassinate Khamenei, but Trump rejected the plan.

The officials did not confirm whether Trump directly spoke with Israel's Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu on the matter. Netanyahu, however, dismissed such media reports, stating that there are many incorrect reports of "conversations that never happened." "There's so many false reports of conversations that never happened, and I'm not going to get into that," Netanyahu told Fox News Channel.

'Yeh jo kiraye ke tattu hain', Hardeep Puri slams pro-Khalistan protestors

AGENCY NEW DELHI, JUNE 16

Union Petroleum Minister Hardeep Singh Puri on Monday dismissed the recent pro-Khalistani protests in Canada ahead of the G7 Summit, calling the demonstrators hired stooges who should not be taken seriously.

"One more video is going viral in which these people are protesting against the neighbouring country after they did not get funding from them," Puri said.

"Yeh jo kiraye ke tattu hain (These are hired stooges). Don't take them seriously," he said.

The minister made the remarks while inaugurating exhibition on 11 years of PM Narendra Modi's Government and 100 days of the Delhi Government at the Delhi BJP headquarters at 14, Pant Marg in Lutyens' Delhi.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi is scheduled to arrive in Canada to attend the G-7 summit from Cyprus on the second leg of his visit, at the invitation of Canadian Prime Minister Mark Carney.

Addressing concerns around rising fuel prices amid the ongoing Iran-Israel conflict, Puri assured that India's energy reserves remain robust.

"Today we have an energy situation where we have enough stocks, our own production is going up," he said.

"Who thought in 2014, when our bio-fuel blending was 1.4 per cent, that it would reach 20 per cent now?"

He also noted recent advancements in India's green energy sector.

"Green hydrogen, which was thought to be the fuel of the future, is now becoming a reality. "IOCL has issued a tender for its Panipat refinery, and hydrogen-fueled buses will run in the coming times," Puri added.

The Iran-Israel tensions have rattled global markets, pushing oil and gold prices higher. On Monday, US benchmark crude oil rose by 20 cents to USD 73.18 per barrel, while Brent crude gained 95 cents to USD 75.18 per barrel. Asian markets responded cautiously, with mixed performance amid fears of a broader regional conflict and disruptions to global oil supply chains.

India lost 91 tigers under six months: NTCA

UNI NEW DELHI, JUNE 16

In the past five-and-a-half months, India has lost 91 royal tigers—an alarming figure—due to poaching, territorial disputes, human-wildlife conflicts, train mishaps and natural causes, according to data from the National Tiger Conservation Authority (NTCA).

On an average, this equates to nearly 17 tiger deaths every month.

If this trend persists, the total number of tiger fatalities this year could surpass last year's figure of 126. In the five-year period from 2019 to 2023, a total of 628 striped predators have died across India. The data from the NTCA, which oversees Project Tiger in India, shows 96 deaths in 2019, 106 in 2020, 127 in 2021, 121 in 2022, and 178 in 2023.

This widespread loss in the first five months till to date is uneven across states, with more than half ie 49 mortalities occurring in Madhya Pradesh and Maharashtra where train accidents and infectious disease too have been found to be the cause of the deaths.

Maharashtra alone reported the deaths of 26 tigers, followed closely by Madhya Pradesh with 24. Other affected states include Kerala (nine), Assam (eight), Uttarakhand (seven), Karnataka and Uttar Pradesh (four each), and Telangana (one).

The data also reveals that 42 tigers were found dead inside their habitat only which can be due to natural causes or territorial fights. At the same time, 35 were reported to have perished outside these protected areas, with officials attributing the deaths to man-animal conflicts and electrocution among others. A significant portion of these fatalities includes 14 cubs, 26 females, and 20 males. However, data available from the Wildlife Protection Society of India (WPSI), an NGO engaged in the sector are more alarming. It indicates that tiger deaths have surged in 2025, with 120 reported fatalities so far—96 due to natural or human-induced causes and 24 linked to poaching and wildlife trafficking.

Government takes major decision on RC & DL backlog; registration powers delegated to regional authorities

GAURAV GOEL
CHANDIGARH, JUNE 16

The Punjab Government has taken a major decision by delegating the powers of registration and renewal of Registration Certificates (RC) and Driving Licenses (DL) to regional authorities to complete the backlog work of RC and DL registration and renewal accumulated over several years and provide big relief to the general public.

While providing further information, Transport Minister S. Laljit Singh Bhullar said that citizens of the state can avail this relief by following a prescribed process, adding that applicants can now get their old vehicles and driving licenses digitized online and renew the related documents.

The lack of approvals for documents related to renewal of old RCs and DLs and their non-digitization had become a major obstacle, he added. The Cabinet Minister informed that the instructions have been issued to all Registering and Licensing Authorities in Punjab to complete the backlog.

He said, documents that do not meet the conditions of the Ministry of Road Transport and Highways will be processed according to the conditions laid down in the letter issued by the State Transport Commissioner's office on May 24, 2024. S. Bhullar said that for RC and DL backlog matters, a verified affidavit from the Executive Magistrate will be obtained, which must include entries regarding online digitization through backlog, validity period, category, manual issuing authority, tax payment status, NOC of any dues and accuracy of all information. The Transport Minister said that when uploading complete information online for RC backlog, it has been made mandatory to upload a physical inspection report with complete details of chassis and engine numbers verified by the Motor Vehicle Inspector for the vehicle bearing the registration number. He said that instructions have been given to upload vehicle transfer records of different individuals during RC backlog processing so that records of previous owners can also be preserved.

S. Laljit Singh Bhullar informed that backlog driving licenses can be applied through the earlier issuing authority and instructions have been given for approval by the licensing authority after the dealing staff uploads authenticated/verified copies of previously and subsequently issued licenses in the Sarathi software to the office records. He stated that during this process, it has been made mandatory to upload the original copy of the license and proof of birth/address.

The Transport Minister said that to complete the backlog work transparently, a permanent departmental employee will register the driving license/RC related backlog entry in the office on behalf of the applicant, verify it on the transport portal and subsequently get it approved by the concerned authority.

He clarified that the complete responsibility for any incorrect entry will lie with the concerned registration and licensing authority. He said that the concerned authorities will ensure sending daily reports of RC and DL backlog approvals to the headquarters in the prescribed proforma.

Negi Case: HC extends interim protection to IAS Officer Harikesh Meena till July 14

AGENCY
SHIMLA, JUNE 16

The Himachal Pradesh High Court on Monday extended interim protection from arrest to IAS officer Harikesh Meena till July 14 in connection with the abetment to suicide case of HPPCL Chief Engineer Vimal Negi. The decision came after the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) orally requested more time to complete its review of the case and submit a detailed response to Meena's bail plea. The matter was heard in Court No. 8, where the counsel appearing for the CBI stated that the agency is currently in the process of collecting case records from various state agencies.

The CBI is analysing the material on a daily basis and, at this stage, is not in a position to provide a comprehensive reply. Without opposing the extension of interim relief, the CBI sought additional time to prepare its stand in the matter. Accepting the oral request, the Court extended Meena's protection from coercive action until the next date of hearing, which has now been fixed for July 14. The court also directed rectification of an error found in the memo of parties submitted by the petitioner's counsel. It is worth noting that neither the Special Investigation Team (SIT) — which was earlier probing the matter — nor the CBI, which took over the investigation on the directions of the High Court, has so far filed any plea seeking cancellation of interim bail granted to either Harikesh Meena or HPPCL Director (Electrical) Desh Raj. Vimal Negi, who was working as Chief Engineer with the Himachal Pradesh Power Corporation Limited (HPPCL), went missing from the corporation's headquarters in New Shimla on March 10. His body was later recovered from the Bhakra Dam on March 18.

ACP Rajendra Singh is weaving colourful reflection of art on hard canvas of khaki

MANMOHAN SHARMA

HANSI: It is assumed that life of a police employee or officer becomes emotionless and insensitive. In crowd of khaki-clad people, there are some personalities who stand as role models in discharging their duties with strict commitment but at the same time, by taking out some time from their busy routine, they are proving that khaki is not just a synonym for toughness. Art, culture, poetry, paintbrush also hold an important place in their lives. This personality is master of paintbrush and artist of poetry, Rajendra Singh 'Kalkal'. Rajendra Singh, Assistant Police Commissioner (PHQ) in Delhi Police, can be seen in National Poets' Conferences, making audience happy, thrilled and emotional with poetry. In no time, he will make such a lifelike caricature of the person sitting next to or in front of him that you will be stunned. 'Kalkal' has gained international fame as a 'sharp' cartoonist. Among his admirers is the then Prime Minister of Britain, Boris Johnson, who, after seeing his cartoon, sent a letter of appreciation to 'Kalkal' from 10, Downing Street (the residence of British Prime Ministers in London since 1735). When Rajendra 'Kalkal' gave his caricature to former President of India and architect of the country's missile mission APJ Abdul Kalam, he was so impressed that he wrote on it, 'Very good cartoon'. Work's left

In 2025, India's population stands at 1.46 billion, a new report by the United Nations Population Fund has revealed. The report, titled State of World Population 2025: The Real Fertility Crisis, bears glad tidings: India's population will peak at 1.7 billion in around 40 years from now, after which it will begin to fall. This is good news for a country that has struggled to control its population size, which is the largest in the world. India's total fertility rate has been declining and is hovering at 1.9, significantly below the replacement level fertility of 2.1. The falling TFR is being considered a key factor that will drive the population decline. Perhaps this will put to an end to the mischievous, political propaganda that projects the minority population as a ticking population bomb.

A demographic decline poses both challenges and opportunities. While it will boost labour productivity and increase per capita allocation of resources, an ageing population will also mean a shrinking workforce and strain healthcare services. But the falling TFR is undoubtedly a feather in the cap of India's population control policies. From an average of around six children per woman in 1960 to fewer than two in 2025, India has witnessed a meaningful transformation brought about by education and awareness. But the "real crisis", according to the UN report, is the persistent absence of autonomy when it comes to exercising reproductive choices. According to the data, one in three adult Indians has had to confront an unintended pregnancy, while nearly a third have struggled with an unfulfilled desire for children.

Significantly, the progress in attaining this freedom of choice has not been uniform. Bihar, Jharkhand and Uttar Pradesh — the "worst" states in terms of such agency for women, according to a 2016 IndiaSpend survey — continue to have high TFR while progressive states like Delhi, Kerala and Tamil Nadu have registered sustained below-replacement fertility rates. What is needed then is a recalibration of population policies so that women in underperforming states have greater access to education, contraception and health services. The scale of Indian population control coverage is impressive. What is required are targeted interventions to address regional imbalances.

India's economy maintains growth momentum

India's economy continues to demonstrate resilience amid global uncertainties, as country's real GDP grew by 7.4 per cent in the fourth quarter of FY25, bringing full-year growth to 6.5 per cent, surpassing expectations, according to the recent report by CareEdge Economic Pathways report.

The report also reflects that, although this marks a moderation from the 8.4 per cent average seen in the previous two years, the economy remains on a strong footing. Growth in FY26 is projected at 6.2 per cent. The services and construction sectors drove economic momentum, with construction activity growing by 10.8 per cent in Q4. Manufacturing showed improvement, while private consumption moderated.

Additionally, urban demand remained mixed, but rural demand was steady, supported by robust wage growth. Meanwhile, household savings declined for the third consecutive year to 18.1 per cent of GDP, while financial liabilities rose to 6.2 per cent, reflecting increasing household leverage. Furthermore, Retail inflation eased significantly, with CPI dropping to 3.2 per cent in April 2025, marking its lowest level since August 2019. Food inflation moderated sharply, helped by the arrival of Rabi harvests, comfortable reservoir levels, and projections of above-normal rainfall.

However, prices of edible oils and fruits remained elevated, restricting further upside in the overall food inflation. Inflation is expected to average 4.0 per cent in FY26, down from 4.6 per cent in FY25. On the fiscal side, the central government maintained the FY25 deficit at 4.8 per cent of GDP. While direct tax collections were slightly lower, strong corporate tax revenues and restrained spending helped contain the shortfall.

Capital expenditure exceeded expectations at Rs 10.5 trillion, with a notable pickup in both central and state spending in the second half of FY25. Investment activity improved sharply in Q4 FY25, led by private sector announcements and government project completions. Manufacturing and electricity were major beneficiaries. Non-petroleum exports remained slightly positive, while services exports stayed resilient. However, the goods trade deficit widened in April. Recently, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) cut the repo rate by 50 basis points to 5.5 per cent in June and announced a phased 100 basis point CRR cut, boosting liquidity.

The rupee weakened slightly due to volatile FPI flows and higher oil prices, but it remains stronger than earlier lows. However, CareEdge projects a stable FY26 with moderate inflation, steady growth, and continued investment momentum.

UK spy agency MI6 appoints first woman chief

United Kingdom Prime Minister has announced the appointment of the first ever woman Chief of the country's Secret Intelligence Service (MI6). Blaise Metreweli CMG will be the 18th Chief in the organisation's history and the first woman to hold the role as a statement from the UK government said on Monday.

This is the first time in the foreign intelligence service's 116-year history that the MI6 has got a woman head. Metreweli, 47, who joined the Secret Intelligence Service in 1999, will take over from Sir Richard Moore later this year. She is currently responsible for technology and innovation at the service and said she was "proud and honoured" to have been asked to lead. Prime Minister Sir Keir Starmer called the appointment "historic" at a time "when the work of our intelligence services has never been more vital".

"The United Kingdom is facing threats on an unprecedented scale - be it aggressors who send their spy ships to our waters or hackers whose sophisticated cyber plots seek to disrupt our public services," Starmer said. MI6 is tasked with gathering intelligence overseas to improve the UK's security, with its core aims being to stop terrorism, disrupt the activities of hostile states and bolster cyber-security. Commonly referred to as 'C', the MI6 Chief has operational responsibility for MI6, and is the only publicly named member of the organisation. They are accountable to the Foreign Secretary. She is currently Director General 'Q', responsible for technology and innovation division in MI6, and has previously held a Director-level role in MI5. "MI6 plays a vital role - with MI5 and GCHQ - in keeping the British people safe.

EU slams China over Tibet in 40th human rights dialogue

The European Union and China conducted the 40th iteration of their Human Rights Dialogue on 13 June in Brussels.

EU representatives criticised China's human rights practices, particularly in Tibet, according to a Central Tibetan Administration (CTA) statement. During the talks, the EU reiterated its concerns regarding China's involvement in the selection of religious leaders, especially concerning the succession of the Tibetan spiritual leader Dalai Lama, emphasising that this should adhere to religious customs, as reported by the CTA. The EU also requested clarity regarding the location of Gedhun Choekyi Nyima, the 11th Panchen Lama, who has been unaccounted for 30 years after being taken by Chinese authorities as a child in 1995.

Numerous Tibetan individuals were prominently featured in the EU's list of notable individual cases. The EU advocated for better treatment and the release of various Tibetan religious leaders, writers, and activists who are currently imprisoned, including Go Sherab Gyatso, Tashi Dorje, Anya Sengra, Tsongon Tsering, Drugdra, Lobsang Khe-drub, and Lobsang Gephel. Before the talks, there was a field visit to South Tyrol to examine regional autonomy methods and models for minority protection, encouraging China to adopt similar governance strategies, according to the CTA statement.

POEM

Lord of My Life

Thou who art the innermost Spirit of my being, art thou pleased, Lord of my Life? For I give to thee my cup filled with all the pain and delight that the crushed grapes of my heart had surrendered, I wove with rhythm of colors and song cover for thy bed, And with the molten gold of my desires I fashioned playthings for thy passing hours. I know not why thou chocest me for thy partner, Lord of my life.

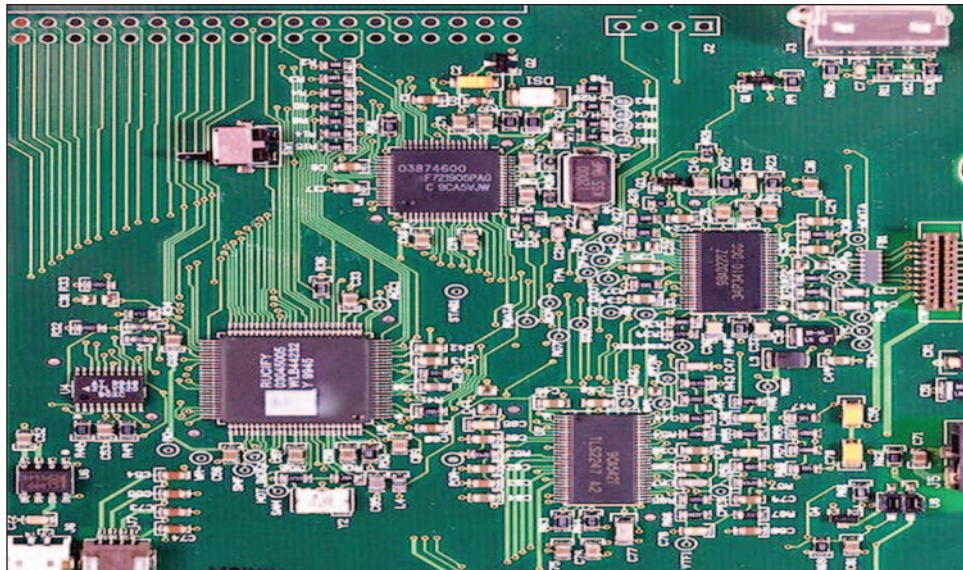

Didst thou store my days and nights, my deeds and dreams for the alchemy of thy art, and string in the chain of thy music my songs of autumn and spring, and gather the flowers from my mature moments for thy crown?

Race for advanced 2nm semiconductor chips heats up

The global race to lead in next-generation 2-nanometer (nm) semiconductors is expected to intensify in the second half of 2025, with top foundries TSMC and Samsung Electronics preparing to begin mass production. At the same time, Intel is also looking to outpace its rivals with the launch of its more advanced 1.8nm process technology. According to a report by The Korea Herald, Taiwan's TSMC has already started receiving client orders for its 2nm process node. The chips are expected to be produced at its Baoshan and Kaohsiung factories in Taiwan in the latter half of the year.

This marks a major milestone for TSMC, as it is adopting gate-all-around (GAA) transistor architecture for the first time in its 2nm chips. The new node promises 10-15 per cent better performance, 25-30 per cent lower power consumption, and a 15 per cent boost in transistor density compared to the current 3nm technology. Meanwhile, Samsung Electronics, the second-largest foundry player, is also tar-getting mass production of 2nm chips in the second half of 2025. The company confirmed in its latest earnings report that it will begin producing mobile chips using its 2nm node this year. Although it didn't mention the specific product, it is widely believed to be the Exynos 2600 chip, expected to power the upcoming Galaxy S26 series in early 2026. Samsung was the first to adopt GAA technology with its 3nm chips, but initially struggled with low yield rates.

The company now aims to improve its 2nm production efficiency using its earlier experience. As per The Korea Herald, TSMC currently dominates the global foundry market, holding a 67.6 per cent share in Q1 2025. It added that TSMC's 2nm yield rate has surpassed 60 per cent, a key level for stable mass production.

In comparison, Samsung's yield rate reportedly stands at around 40 per cent, with a market share of 7.7 per cent. Despite the tough competition, the 2nm market outlook remains strong.

TSMC Chairman C.C. Wei said that demand for 2nm chips has already surpassed that of the 3nm generation, driven by demand from smartphones and high-performance computing. He also noted that the number of 2nm chip designs, or "tape-outs," in the first two years is expected to exceed those of previous nodes like 3nm, 4nm, and 5nm. Counterpoint Research has predicted that TSMC will reach full utilization of its 2nm production capacity by the fourth quarter of 2025, faster than for any previous node. Key clients are expected to include Apple, Qualcomm, MediaTek, AMD, and even Intel. To stay competitive, Samsung is making strategic moves to strengthen its foundry business.

The company recently hired Margaret Han, a former TSMC executive, to lead its US foundry operations.

Meanwhile, US chipmaker Intel is placing its bets on the 1.8nm process, known as 18A, to turn around its foundry business. Kevin O'Buckley, general manager of Intel Foundry Services, admitted that the company had missed some of its earlier deadlines but confirmed that 18A is now on track for high-volume manufacturing in the second half of 2025. He stated, "I'll be very direct to admit we did not deliver all of our schedules for 18A." Intel hopes to challenge both TSMC and Samsung in the advanced node race with this new process.

Haryana accelerates green transition in NCR with bold Measures for cleaner mobility and better air quality CHANDIGARH: The Haryana Government has unveiled an ambitious roadmap to phase out polluting vehicles and manage construction dust to significantly improve air quality across the National Capital Region (NCR). At a high-level review meeting chaired by Chief Secretary Sh. Anurag Rastogi here today, detailed strategies and timelines were laid out, reflecting the state's strong commitment to environmental stewardship.

As part of this action plan, from November 1, 2025, fuel stations in Gurugram, Faridabad, and Sonapat will no longer supply fuel to End-of-Life (EoL) vehicles. This restriction will extend to the remaining NCR districts from April 1, 2026. To enforce this, Automatic Number Plate Recognition (ANPR) cameras will be installed at all fuel stations—by October 31, 2025 in the first phase districts, and by March 31, 2026 in rest of the NCR. These systems, along with traffic surveillance cameras and Command and Control Centres, will be instrumental in identifying EoL vehicles for challaning, impounding, and scrapping.

In a major shift towards green mobility, the state has mandated that only CNG or electric 3-wheeler autorickshaws will be inducted into existing fleets going forward. Effective November 1, 2025, only BS-VI compliant Light, Medium, and Heavy Goods Vehicles—excluding essential services and Delhi-registered vehicles—will be allowed entry into Delhi. Further, all non-conforming goods vehicles, including those carrying essential commodities, will be barred from entering the city after October 31, 2026.

It was informed that 382 BS-VI buses shall be added by end of October this year for better connectivity between Haryana and Delhi. From January 1, 2026, no new diesel or petrol 2-wheelers, 4-wheeler LCVs, or N1-category LGVs will be allowed into the fleet. Also, all buses entering Delhi, including tourist buses and special permit vehicles, must operate in EV/CNG/BS-VI mode from November 1, 2026.

Haryana is also intensifying its efforts to manage construction and demolition (C&D) waste and reduce road dust emissions—two major contributors to urban pollution. Facilities to process 300 metric tonnes per day of C&D waste are operational in both Gurugram and Faridabad.

Dabur Amla's 'Jealous Dad' Campaign Celebrates Fathers Who Rarely Ask—But Deeply Feel

NEW DELHI: Dabur Amla Hair Oil, India's most trusted and iconic hair care brand, has launched a new digital film for Father's Day titled 'Jealous Dad', spotlighting the unspoken emotional needs of Indian fathers. The heartwarming campaign, created in collaboration with Instamart, reimagines Father's Day gifting by celebrating the emotional strength of a simple, culturally rooted gesture—the champi. The film follows a father who grows increasingly envious watching his daughter shower affection on her mother—through reels, selfies, and shared moments. Feeling left out, he sarcastically asks if it's Mother's Day again. The daughter, realizing her oversight, springs into action by placing an instant order for Dabur Amla Hair Oil by Instamart. In minutes, she transforms the moment into a special at-home champi experience—bringing smiles, connection, and comfort to her father. Mr. Ankur Kumar, Head of Marketing, Dabur India Ltd., said: "With this campaign, we aimed to spotlight an emotion that often goes unspoken—the quiet yearning fathers feel for love and connection. In our culture, a simple champi is more than just a hair massage; it's a heartfelt expression of care. By partnering with Instamart, we've made this gesture instantly accessible, so showing love to our fathers doesn't have to wait." The insight stems from a UNICEF India and Population Council study (2018), which reveals that nearly 80% of fathers desire stronger emotional bonds with their children—yet most rarely express it. The campaign is a gentle reminder that while fathers may not always voice their feelings, they deeply value love, attention, and care.

Daily 5 nutritional products fathers should incorporate into their daily routine

CHANDIGARH: Let's explore some of the nutritional powerhouses that can help fathers maintain a healthy and active lifestyle as they age. Fathers who strive to be the best they can be for their families understand the importance of adopting a healthy lifestyle. This encompasses various aspects, including regular exercise, proper rest, maintaining a positive attitude, and consuming a balanced diet. Alongside these practices, incorporating key nutritional products into their daily routine can significantly contribute to their overall well-being and vitality. Let's explore some of the nutritional powerhouses that can help fathers maintain a healthy and active lifestyle as they age. Protein is crucial for muscle repair, growth, and overall well-being. For busy fathers, incorporating a high-quality protein powder into their daily routine is a convenient way to meet their protein needs. Whether it's whey, casein, plant-based, or collagen protein, choosing a protein powder that suits individual dietary preferences is important. Nutrilite All Plant Protein Powder is an excellent choice, offering 100% plant-based high-quality protein with PDCAAS of 1, which means the supply of all 9 essential amino acids, with no artificial sweeteners or added calories that aid in meeting daily protein requirements, muscle health, energy support, and safety. Multivitamin and Multimineral In addition to protein, incorporating multivitamins and multimineral supplements into the daily routine can help bridge any nutritional gaps that may exist, especially as men reach middle age. The nutrition gap in daily diets can be caused by two main factors: the loss of nutrients during cooking, and the lack of incorporation of enough servings of fruits and vegetables. And, this gap can be filled with dietary supplements, therefore opting for a formulation specifically designed for men is recommended. These multivitamin multimineral often contain vital nutrients such as vitamins A, C, D, E, B-complex, calcium, iron, magnesium, zinc, and selenium. Nutrilite Daily Plus is a multimineral and multivitamin tablet that offers comprehensive nutritional support. It not only provides essential vitamins and minerals but also incorporates antioxidant benefits derived from organically grown plant concentrates like acerola cherry, spinach, parsley, watercress, carrot, and alfalfa. These antioxidants help combat oxidative stress and promote overall well-being. Omega-3 fatty acids Omega-3 fatty acids are essential fats that significantly impact heart health, brain function, and inflammation regulation. Fathers can incorporate Omega-3 into their daily routine by consuming sources such as fish oil or plant-based alternatives like flaxseed oil or chia seeds. Further, omega-3 fatty acids can be supplemented with Nutrilite Salmon Omega-3 Softgels that provide the ideal combination of DHA and EPA, offering a convenient way for fathers to incorporate these beneficial omega-3 fatty acids into their daily routines. Ashwagandha Stress management is crucial for maintaining a healthy and balanced life. Unfortunately, many individuals experience inadequate sleep and heightened stress levels leading to fatigue and anxiety. Ashwagandha, an herb with a rich history in ancient medicinal texts and recognized by modern science, has been scientifically proven to possess rejuvenating properties. Nutrilite Ashwagandha contains ashwagandha, which supports vitality, increases energy levels, and calms the nervous system. Regular use of this herbal supplement can alleviate stress, rejuvenate the body, and boost its overall functioning. Fiber Fiber plays a vital role in managing gut health in middle age. It promotes regular bowel movements, prevents constipation, and supports a healthy gut microbiome. Fiber can help lower cholesterol levels, reducing the risk of cardiovascular disease. It aids in weight management by promoting satiety. Additionally, fiber-rich foods contribute to a well-rounded diet, providing essential nutrients for overall health. Nutrilite Fiber is made with a blend of three natural soluble fibers, i.e., resistant maltodextrin, inulin, and partially hydrolyzed guar gum, to support gut health and overall well-being.

Hum Paanch fame and veteran actress Vandana Pathak return to Television after five years with Zee TV's Tumm Se Tumm Tak

CHANDIGARH: In a society where relationships and marriage are often defined by age-old traditions, where factors like age, financial status, and social background hold great significance. But love doesn't follow rules—it charts its own course, breaking barriers along the way. For decades, Zee TV has been known for progressive and emotionally resonant stories over the years, and is all set to present a refreshing new fiction offering — Tumm Se Tumm Tak. At the heart of this unconventional love story lies a poignant connection between two very different individuals: Anu, a 19-year-old spirited young woman from a modest background, and Arjavardhan, a 46-year-old disciplined and self-made business tycoon. Their bond challenges societal expectations, raising questions about love, age, and acceptance.

While Niharika Chouksey and Sharad Kelkar have been cast in the roles of Anu and Arjavardhan, respectively, adding depth to this stirring narrative is the much-anticipated return of popular television actor Vandana Pathak, who is making her comeback after a five-year hiatus. She steps into the role of Gayatri Devi. A matriarch who balances grace with strength, Gayatri Devi is rooted in her values despite the luxury that surrounds her. Beloved by everyone for her kind and pure heart, her greatest desire is to see Arjavardhan happily married, and her presence brings emotional gravity and familial warmth to the storyline. Vandana Pathak said, "Zee TV feels like an extension of my home and heart — it's where my journey on television began with Hum Paanch nearly three decades ago. That show gave me not just recognition, but also memories that have stayed with me even today. Coming back to the same channel after all these years of my acting journey feels deeply emotional. In fact before a five-year hiatus from television my last show was on Zee TV!!"

David Beckham includes son Brooklyn in Father's Day post amid family tension

Football icon David Beckham, who has officially received a Knighthood from King Charles III on Saturday (local time), honouring his outstanding contributions to sport and charity, shared several adorable pictures with his kids on Father's Day, including photo of his eldest son, Brooklyn, despite reported family tension, reported People. "My most important & favourite job in life is being a dad... I'm so proud of all of you and like daddy (sorry boys) tells you every single day I will always be here for you no matter what," David wrote in the caption. He went on to pay tribute to his wife, Victoria Beckham, writing, "Mummy thank you for doing the most important part and making me a father there is no greater gift in life than making me a dad... Happy Father's Day... I love you kiddies more than you could imagine..."

David and Victoria, 51, are parents to daughter Harper, 13, and sons Brooklyn, 26, Romeo, 22, and Cruz, 20. David tagged his wife and sons in the caption of his post, using a hashtag for his daughter, who does not have an Instagram account, reported People. The post started with a throwback photo of his three sons holding his daughter, as a newborn, while sitting on a couch. The series of pictures also included a variety of selfies with David and his kids, including one where he and Brooklyn pose with matching grins on their faces. On his Instagram Stories, he shared a photo of his three sons with the caption, "I love you boys." The picture was followed by a snap of him and Harper, captioned, "Love you pretty lady." He also shared a photo of his four kids cuddled with Victoria on a couch, writing, "My favorite gift of all time." Meanwhile, Victoria also shared a carousel of photos and videos of their happy family to celebrate the occasion on her Instagram. "Happy Father's Day to the best daddy there is," she wrote to her husband. "You always lead with love and our four beautiful children are a reflection of that. We all love you so so much!!" The couple's celebrations come amid a rift between the Beckham family, as a source said in May that "there are tensions" between Brooklyn, his wife Nicola Peltz and the wider Beckham crew. The couple did not attend David's 50th birthday bash in May. "While the pair have been noticeably absent from the Beckhams' recent functions, the relationship is definitely not beyond repair. They love and are always there for him. They're just hurt and disappointed that he's now playing no part in family life," the source said at the time. On June 14, Victoria shared an Instagram tribute dedicated to her husband being awarded a knighthood by King Charles. Alongside a photo of the longtime couple hugging, the fashion designer wrote that David has "always been my knight in shining armor." David toasted his wife and kids in the comments section of the post, writing, "I love you all," as per the outlet. On Christmas this year, Victoria took to Instagram with a series of stylish photos featuring her husband David, their four kids and daughter-in-law Nicola Peltz Beckham, reported People.
