Op Sindoor exposed Pak-China military nexus: Army Dy Chief

UNI
NEW DELHI, JULY 4

Deputy Chief of Army Staff (CD&S) Lt General Rahul R Singh today highlighted the growing military cooperation between Pakistan and China as a key concern emerging from Operation Sindoor, calling it a strategic challenge for India.

Addressing the conference-cum-exhibition on 'New Age Military Technologies', organised by FICCI here, Lt Gen Singh said, "We had one border and two adversaries — actually three. Pakistan was in the front, while China provided all possible support."

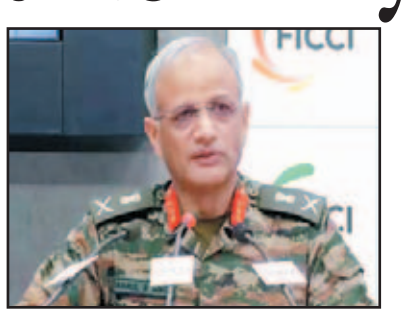

He described the alliance as "unsurprising", stating that China would rather kill with a borrowed knife than engage directly.

"In the last five years, 81 percent of Pakistan's military hardware is sourced from China," Lt Gen Singh said, while highlighting Beijing's growing role in Islamabad's defence preparedness.

He also warned that China's involvement in providing weapons to Pakistan offers them an opportunity to test new technologies in a real-world combat environment, comparong it to a "live lab."

Lt Gen Singh revealed that during DGMO-level talks, Pakistan appeared to be receiving live updates from China about India's military vectors, demonstrating the increasing sophistication of electronic warfare and intelligence sharing among adversaries.

He also highlighted about Turkey playing an important role in providing support to Pakistan during Operation Sindoor.

He emphasised on the urgency of developing a robust air defence system capable of countering such challenges, despite the financial and logistical constraints India faces compared to nations like Israel, which boasts the Iron Dome system. "Moving fast is crucial, and we need to be prepared for the next time," Lt Gen Singh said. He said, "There is a lot of scope including civil-military fusion and we need to develop an eco-system for drones including production, testing, etc. We have been in consultation with the Ministry of Defence and others to come up with a framework and by September or October we should be out with our drone framework wherein we are looking at how to incentivise all the production, how to get through the vulnerabilities and how to facilitate testing would be the basic theme of this framework".

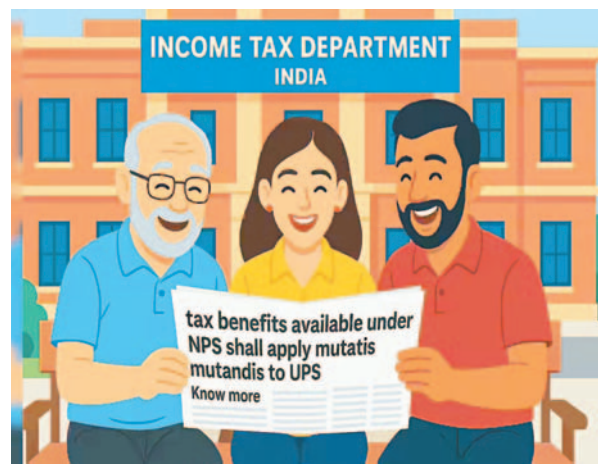

China reiterates its claim to authority over Dalai Lama reincarnation process

NEW DELHI: Chinese Ambassador to India Xu Feihong on Friday reiterated China's official stance on the reincarnation process of Tibetan Buddhist leaders, emphasising that it is governed by time-honoured rituals and cannot be determined by any one individual.In a post on X (formerly Twitter), the envoy said, "The reincarnation of Living Buddhas follows a fully developed set of established rituals, and has never been decided by a single individual including the 14th Dalai Lama himself."Expanding on the historical practice surrounding the identification of reincarnated Tibetan spiritual figures, Xu stated, "Over centuries of practice in the reincarnation and succession of Living Buddhas, particularly in the search for and identification of reincarnated soul boys, a rigorous and strictly regulated system of rituals and procedures has been established."Detailing the specific traditional methods followed in the process, he added, "These include divination, sacred lake observation, discreet visits, identification of the late Living Buddha's personal belongings, Golden Urn lottery, enthronement, and formal approval through conferment by the central government."The remarks come amid ongoing global attention on the future reincarnation of the Dalai Lama, an issue that remains a point of contention between the Chinese government and the Tibetan leadership in exile.

Centre extends NPS tax benefits to new unified pension scheme

AGENCY
NEW DELHI, JULY 4

The Finance Ministry has announced that all tax benefits available under the National Pension System (NPS) will also apply to the Unified Pension Scheme (UPS).The announcement is a significant move that will make UPS more attractive for central government employees.The Unified Pension Scheme was introduced earlier this year as an option under NPS for recruits joining the central government civil services from April 1, 2025. Existing government employees who are already under NPS have also been given a one-time option to switch to UPS.To make this new pension plan smoother to implement, the Pension Fund Regulatory and Development Authority (PFRDA) issued the necessary rules and regulations in March 2025.Now, with the latest decision, the government has ensured that employees opting for UPS will get the same tax relief and incentives as those available under NPS. This includes deductions on contributions and other tax-saving benefits, making the scheme more financially appealing.

The decision brings parity between the two schemes and provides a level playing field for employees choosing UPS over the traditional NPS."The inclusion of UPS under the tax framework marks another step forward in the Government's effort to strengthen retirement security for Central Government employees through transparent, flexible and tax-efficient options," the Finance Ministry stated in a statement.

The Unified Pension Scheme (UPS) is a pension scheme for central government employees in India, introduced as an option alongside the National Pension System (NPS). The objective of the scheme is to provide a more predictable and secure retirement income for government employees. The scheme offers an assured pension, with the government contributing 18.5 per cent of the employee's basic salary and dearness allowance and the employee contributing 10 per cent.

The scheme is designed to replace the NPS for new recruits and allow existing NPS members to opt in.On the other hand, the National Pension System is a retirement benefit Scheme introduced by the Government of India to facilitate a regular income post-retirement for all the subscribers. PFRDA (Pension Fund Regulatory and Development Authority) is the governing body for NPS.

GST regime needs reform to benefit agrarian states like Punjab: FM

GAURAV GOEL
CHANDIGARH, JULY 4

Presenting a comprehensive overview of the state's revenue landscape since the implementation of GST on July 1, 2017 during the first meeting of the Group of Ministers on analysis of revenue from Goods and Services Tax (GST) held in New Delhi, Punjab Finance Minister Advocate Harpal Singh Cheema emphasized on bringing structural changes in the GST regime and proposed policy recommendations for revenue augmentation, including food grains under the GST framework, reducing or nullifying the inverted duty structure, and making e-way bill generation and e-invoicing mandatory. He also suggested that a unified platform can be developed, giving access to all States and the Central Tax Authority for data analytics and detecting tax evasion and compliance issues.

Highlighting the significant revenue loss Punjab has faced due to the subsumption of various taxes after the implementation of GST, Finance Minister Harpal Singh Cheema said that Punjab, as an agrarian economy, heavily relied on Purchase Tax and Infrastructure Development Fee (ID Fee) on sale of grains (Wheat and Rice), collecting Rs 3,094 crores in 2015-16, which represented 16.55% of its total tax revenue, and experienced a permanent loss of revenue as a result of subsuption of these taxes. He also pointed out the loss from the subsumption of Central Sales Tax (CST), which previously contributed Rs 568 crores to Punjab's revenue in 2015-16. Furthermore, Finance Minister Cheema highlighted that under the previous VAT regime, Punjab had a higher collection of revenue as compared to GST regime. The Minister expressed concern over a consistent shortfall in Punjab's GST collection since July 2017, with actual revenue significantly lower than the projected revenue based on a 14% growth rate on the base year. He said that had GST not been implemented, Punjab's revenue position would have been better, even with a conservative 10% CAGR growth. He said that Punjab has faced a revenue shortfall of Rs 47037 crore since 1st July 2022. He said that states dependent on agriculture, like Punjab, should be compensated for the permanent loss of revenue due to the subsumption of purchase tax on food grains. Finance Minister Harpal Singh Cheema also highlighted a paradoxical situation where major industrial sectors in Punjab, such as agricultural implements, cycle and cycle parts, and hosiery goods, show high gross turnovers but do not exhibit a commensurate increase in GST collection.

Dhuri Railway Bridge: Residents fear project delay amid tensions between 'CM Mann' and Minister Ravneet Bittu'

RAJESHWAR PINTU
DHURI, JULY 4

The rising political tension between Union Railway Minister Ravneet Singh Bittu and Punjab Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann over the Dhuri railway bridge project has once again sparked concern among city residents. People fear that this long-pending demand might again get buried in paperwork. The railway line divides the town of Dhuri into two parts. Throughout the day, the railway gates remain closed due to frequent train movements, causing traffic jams and delays for emergency services such as ambulances and fire brigades. In some instances, lives have been at risk due to this. Residents have been demanding an underpass or an overbridge over the railway line for many years. This issue peaks during every election campaign. Before 2022, Dalvir Singh Goldy, then MLA from Dhuri, had also announced allocation of funds for building underpasses in his final budget, but the bridge construction never actually began for unknown reasons.

This past Sunday, Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann tweeted, shortly before the Union Railway Minister's visit to Dhuri, that approval had been granted for the railway overbridge in Dhuri. He congratulated the people of Dhuri, calling it a "gift" for the constituency. Soon after, Union Minister Ravneet Bittu responded critically to what he called "tweet politics," stating that the Railway Ministry had not yet received any official letter from the Punjab Government. He emphasized that if the state genuinely wanted the project to proceed, they should send a formal proposal. This situation has led to renewed disappointment among Dhuri's residents.

Torrential rains claimed 69 lives in Himachal so far

CM informs Union Home Minister about damages

DINESH AGARWAL
SHIMLA, JULY 4

Chief Minister Thakur Sukhvinder Singh Sukhu today briefed the media, stating that heavy rainfall has caused extensive damage to homes and land in the Seraj and Dharampur areas of Mandi district. He said that the state government has decided to provide Rs. five thousand per month as house rent to affected families whose homes have been damaged and were living in rented accommodation. He said that the concerned SDMs have been directed to provide food supplies to the affected people.

The Chief Minister said these key decisions were taken after discussions with Deputy Chief Minister Mukesh Agnihotri, Technical Education Minister Rajesh Dharmani, Deputy Speaker Vinay Kumar and other MLAs.

He further said that the disaster caused by the torrential rains has claimed 69 lives so far, with 110 people injured and 37 still missing. He said very soon he would visit the affected areas again. Thakur Sukhvinder Singh said that he had a telephonic conversation with Union Home Minister Amit Shah regarding the extensive damage in the state. The Union Home Minister has assured full support and a central team would be visiting the state to assess the situation. He said that 14 cloudburst incidents have occurred in Mandi district alone this monsoon season, which was a matter of concern. He said there was a need to study why such frequent cloudbursts were happening and that this issue was also raised with the Union Home Minister. He said that the state has suffered a loss of Rs.700 crore so far due to the rain-related calamities and cloudbursts. Roads, electricity infrastructure and drinking water supply schemes have been severely impacted. He said that all cabinet ministers were conducting review meetings in their respective departments to assess the extent of the damage.

The Chief Minister said that nearly 300 roads were currently blocked in the state, around 790 drinking water schemes have been damaged and 332 power transformers have been affected. In Mandi district alone, 402 people have been rescued as part of relief operations. He said that 92 students and teachers who were stranded at the Forestry and Horticulture in Thunag College have been safely evacuated. NDRF and SDRF teams have reached several villages in Thunag and were actively engaged in relief and rehabilitation efforts.

Responding to a question on NHAI projects in the state, the Chief Minister said that large companies were often awarded contracts based solely on their machinery, but they lack understanding of the fragile hill terrain of the state. As a result they conduct hill-cutting as per their convenience, which causes damage. He advised NHAI to consider awarding such contracts to local contractors familiar with the region. Meanwhile, a state government spokesperson said that rescue and relief operations were underway on a war footing in Mandi district, which has been the worst affected. The state government was extending full support to the victims, with senior officers, administrative officials, and government machinery deployed to assist those in need.

The spokesperson added that 241 water supply schemes were damaged in the Thunag area, of which 66 have already been temporarily restored. As of now, 164 roads remain blocked in Mandi district.

Nadda meets Dhumal and Shanta Kumar in strategic move to prepare for 2027 Assembly elections

DINESH AGARWAL
SHIMLA, JULY 4

In a politically significant move, BJP National President and Union Health Minister Jagat Prakash Nadda met with senior party stalwarts and former chief ministers Prof. Prem Kumar Dhumal and Shanta Kumar during his recent visit to Himachal Pradesh. The visits are being seen as part of an early but strategic groundwork to consolidate the BJP's internal dynamics ahead of the 2027 state assembly elections. Nadda, accompanied by newly reappointed state BJP president Dr. Rajeev Bindal, made these visits just days after Bindal took charge for his third term on July 1. Party insiders see this as an effort to ensure intergenerational alignment within the party by bringing veteran leadership and current office bearers into closer coordination. Observers say this step marks Nadda's attempt to strengthen the organisation from within and resolve legacy issues from the 2022 defeat. The BJP, which narrowly lost to the Congress in the 2022 assembly elections, is now focused on reclaiming the state in 2027. The defeat margin was thin—just 0.9% in vote share, with Congress securing 43.9% and BJP 43%. The BJP lost three crucial seats—Bhoranj, Sujanpur, and Shillai—by margins as slim as 60, 399, and 382 votes respectively. Political analysts see Nadda's recent engagements with Dhumal and Shanta Kumar as a "masterstroke," aimed at creating a cohesive leadership front that balances experience and strategy. By bringing together different ideological strands and voices within the party, Nadda is laying the foundation for a more synchronised campaign in 2027. Dr. Bindal's first address after taking over the party's reins made the BJP's intent clear—to uproot what he called a "corrupt and mismanaged" Congress government.

He urged the government to take immediate notice and appoint a dedicated SDM to the region. He further pointed out that this is not an isolated case, but a reflection of broader governance issues. Yet another stampede tragedy

One feels a grim sense of déjà vu whenever stampedes occur in India. The patterns are disturbingly familiar, as are the responses that follow. Compensation is announced, a probe is ordered, and a few officials are suspended amid a political blame game. Yet, no lessons are learned from past mistakes. It's business as usual till the next tragedy strikes. This has been the story of all recent stampede cases, be it Prayagraj, New Delhi, Tirupati, Goa, Bengaluru and now Puri. Three persons were killed and over 50 injured in a stampede during the annual chariot procession of Jagannath temple in Puri, Odisha. This once again exposed the chinks in India's crowd management strategies and also how the well-entrenched VIP culture is harming the interests of common devotees at religious gatherings.

It is shameful that a special entry for VIPs led to overcrowding, and contributed to this unfortunate incident. Such avoidable tragedies dent public trust in the authorities, with lesser mortals fearing that their lives are on the line whenever they become a part of large crowds. Media reports indicated that a common exit gate was closed to create a separate VIP entry, forcing pilgrims to exit through the already congested entrance. A single corridor being used for the flow in both directions resulted in amplifying crowd pressure. The authorities failed to manage a crowd of over 10 lakh devotees and tourists who descended on the temple town from across the country and abroad.

The ruling BJP found itself on the back foot — weeks after it tore into Karnataka's Congress government over the horrific chaos outside Bengaluru's Chinnaswamy Stadium. Odisha Chief Minister Mohan Charan Majhi has tendered an apology on behalf of his government, but such gestures are meaningless unless those responsible for the lapses are brought to justice in a time-bound manner. In a face-saving move, the government has shifted the Puri Collector and Superintendent of Police. There was a clear lack of coordination between the temple authorities and local administration. The absence of senior officials at the time was also flagged as one of the key lapses. The key part of the centuries-old tradition at Puri is the nine-day chariot procession, or Rath Yatra, when Lord Jagannath travels with his two siblings, Balabhadra and Subhadra, to their aunt Gundicha's home.

Each stampede is a stark reminder that it is not miracles but proper planning and crowd management protocols that will save us. In the last one year, there have been nine stampedes — six of which occurred at religious gatherings. Adequate deployment of security personnel to regulate crowd movement and meticulous planning are prerequisites to prevent untoward incidents. Time and again, India's administrators have failed to learn from past tragedies — from religious stampedes to election rallies.

India's auto industry likely to see continued export growth

The domestic automobile industry is expected to continue witnessing strong export growth across two-wheelers (2W), commercial vehicles (CV), and passenger vehicles (PV), while domestic sales are likely to remain show a mixed bag, according to a report by Axis Securities.

In June 2025, the report stated that the overall domestic two-wheeler (2W) industry recorded a marginal 2 per cent uptick in wholesale volumes. This was largely driven by a robust 35 per cent year-on-year (YoY) growth in exports. However, domestic 2W volumes declined 3 per cent YoY, indicating a divergence between export and domestic market performance.

It stated, "Continue to See Exports Growth in 2W/CV/PV; Domestic a Mixed Bag Jun'25 Wholesale Volumes: The overall domestic 2W industry witnessed 2 per cent marginal uptick in volumes, led by outperformance in exports.

"The passenger vehicle (PV) segment saw domestic sales decline by 7-8 per cent YoY in June 2025. This was due to lower volumes reported by major OEMs such as Hyundai, Tata Motors (TaMo), and Maruti Suzuki. However, the decline was partly offset by strong performance from Mahindra & Mahindra (M&M), JSW MG, and Toyota. In Q1FY26, domestic PV wholesales were down by 0-1 per cent YoY. Exports were notably strong, rising 37 per cent, 68 per cent, 13 per cent, and 36 per cent for Maruti, Tata Motors, Hyundai, and M&M, respectively.

The report expects overall PV volumes to grow in low-to-mid single digits in FY26.In the CV segment, the report proxy for domestic dispatches showed a slight 2 per cent YoY decline on a year-to-date (YTD) basis in Q1FY26. Among OEMs, VECV, M&M, and Maruti posted domestic volume growth of 9 per cent, 4 per cent, and 7 per cent YoY, respectively.

Tata Motors reported a 9 per cent YoY decline, while Ashok Leyland's volumes remained flat. The report forecasts flat to low single-digit growth for CV players in FY26, led by strong demand in the bus segment.Two-wheeler exports remained strong in Q1FY26, growing 22 per cent YoY, even as the domestic industry declined by 6 per cent YoY.

The report identified potential upside triggers for domestic 2W demand, including a rural demand pickup, new product launches, government support for consumption (such as tax relief for the middle class), and inventory filling by OEMs.

Overall, the report indicates positive momentum in exports, while domestic demand varies across segments and manufacturers.

Russia will not "back down" from goals in Ukraine

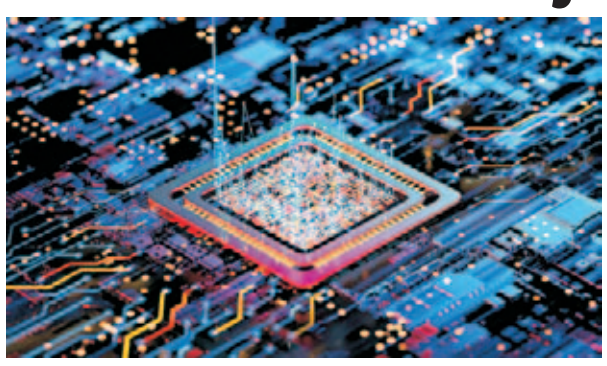

Russia President Vladimir Putin on Thursday held a telephonic conversation with US President Donald Trump in which he made it clear that the Moscow will "not back down" on its goal of "eliminating" the root cause of the war in Ukraine, Al Jazeera reported"Russia will not back down," Kremlin aide Yuri Ushakov told reporters after Putin's call with Trump.

However, he added that Putin expressed "readiness" to "seek a political and negotiated solution to the conflict."Putin emphasised that Russia seeks to achieve its goals in Ukraine and remove the "root causes" of the conflict, Ushakov said.

The "root cause" here refers to Ukraine's push to join NATO, following which Russia launched a full-scale invasion of Ukraine in 2022 to prevent Kyiv from joining the US-centric alliance. The phone call came a day after the US paused promised weapon deliveries to Kyiv, including air defence missiles and precision-guided artillery, Al Jazeera in its report added. Meanwhile Russian occupation governor of Ukraine's eastern Luhansk region claimed it had been entirely conquered, making it the first of the four eastern Ukrainian regions Russia has annexed that it fully controls, Al Jazeera reported on Thursday."Just a couple of days ago, I received a report that the territory of the Luhansk People's Republic has been 100 per cent liberated," Leonid Pasechnik said, although not everyone agreed.

On June 21, Putin said that Moscow is not seeking Ukraine's unconditional surrender, but instead demands recognition of the "realities" on the ground, RT reported.

South Korean chipmakers accelerate facility investments amid booming AI demand

South Korea's leading semiconductor companies are increasing their investments in production facilities, driven by strong forecasts for rapid growth in the artificial intelligence (AI) chip market, reported the Korea Herald.Samsung Electronics is reviewing plans to restart construction of chip manufacturing plants in Korea, while SK hynix has recently begun building a new back-end processing facility.Citing industry sources, the Korean English daily said that tech giant Samsung is preparing to resume work on its Pyeongtaek Campus Line 4 (P4), where construction was halted last year.P4, the company's fourth major chip facility at the site, is divided into four phases.

While Phases 1 and 3 are nearing completion, sources have reported that work orders have recently been issued for Phases 2 and 4, with full-scale construction expected within two to three months, the news platform added.Initially planned for foundry production, two areas of the P4 facility are now expected to be converted into DRAM production lines. These will manufacture sixth-generation 1c DRAM using a 10-nanometer process, a technology Samsung confirmed it has successfully developed for next-generation high bandwidth memory (HBM4) chips.Vice Chair Jun Young-hyun, who oversees Samsung's semiconductor division, visited the U.S. last week and met with Nvidia, signalling the company's commitment to closing the gap with competitors and securing new HBM chip orders.Phase 4 is projected to have a monthly capacity of 80,000 wafers, accounting for 40 per cent of P4's total capacity of 200,000 12-inch wafers.

Although not officially confirmed, reports suggest Samsung is also considering restarting construction of its fifth plant at the Pyeongtaek Campus, known as P5. Groundwork for P5 began in 2023 but was halted early last year, the news platform added.

The P5 facility, requiring an estimated investment of over 30 trillion won (USD 22 billion), is designed to be a complex fab for DRAM, NAND flash, and foundry production."We are continuously reviewing various scenarios for resuming construction of our facilities," a Samsung official said, quoted by Korea Herald.The report added that SK hynix is also scaling up production capacity. The chipmaker is expected to complete construction of its new M15X plant in Cheongju later this year. This facility will begin producing fifth-generation 10nm-class DRAM chips for next-generation HBM4 products, with a planned monthly capacity of approximately 90,000 wafers.Additionally, SK hynix is investing in a new back-end production facility, dubbed "P&T 7," also located in Cheongju. The site will enhance packaging capabilities to boost the performance and energy efficiency of advanced chips.The DRAM market is expected to remain strong in the second half of the year, driven by demand for HBM chips, which play a key role in powering AI processors.According to the Export-Import Bank of Korea, the global AI semiconductor market is projected to grow from USD 41.1 billion in 2022 to USD 133 billion by 2028, the Korea Herald added.

POEMS

Immigrant Picnic

It's the Fourth of July, the flags are painting the town, the plastic forks and knives are laid out like a parade. And I'm grilling, I've got my apron, I've got potato salad, macaroni, relish, I've got a hat shaped like the state of Pennsylvania.

I ask my father what's his pleasure and he says, "Hot dog, medium rare," and then, "Hamburger, sure, what's the big difference," as if he's really asking.

I put on hamburgers and hot dogs, slice up the sour pickles and Bermudas, uncap the condiments. The paper napkins are fluttering away like lost messages. "You're running around," my mother says, "like a chicken with its head loose."

"Ma," I say, "you mean cut off, loose and cut off being as far apart as, say, son and daughter."

She gives me a quizzical look as thoughI've been caught in some impropriety.
"I love you and your sister just the same," she says,
"Sure," my grandmother pipes in, "you're both our children, so why worry?"

That's not the point I begin telling them, and I'm comparing words to fish now, like the ones in the sea at Port Said, or like birds among the date palms by the Nile, unrepentantly elusive, wild.

"Sonia," my father says to my mother, "what the hell is he talking about?"
"He's on a ball," my mother says.

"That's roll!" I say, throwing up my hands, "as in hot dog, hamburger, dinner roll...." "And what about roll out the barrels?" my mother asks, and my father claps his hands, "Why sure," he says,

"let's have some fun," and launches into a polka, twirling my mother around and around like the happiest top, and my uncle is shaking his head, saying

"You could grow nuts listening to us," and I'm thinking of pistachios in the Sinai burgeoning without end, pecans in the South, the jumbled flavor of them suddenly in my mouth,wordless, confusing, crowding out everything else.

Indian Cuckoo birds in Trinidad -II

Anuj Tyagi

Like most Indian children in the 1980s, I grew up playing cricket and reading about it obsessively. One story that always puzzled me was how, despite being fierce sporting rivals, the West Indies created a joyful Calypso song to celebrate Sunil Gavaskar after India's first-ever Test win against their team in 1971 at Queens Park, Port of Spain comprising legendary Sir Garry Sobers, Clive Lloyd , Rohan Kanhai, a test series we also went on to win. I could never quite understand this generous gesture, until I visited Trinidad & Tobago.

Migration, despite its romantic connotations, is rarely a first choice. Most people, given the opportunity, would prefer to live and grow in their homeland rather than leave it for uncertain prospects. Yet history has shown us that migration, voluntary or forced, has shaped civilizations. The journey of Indians to the Caribbean as indentured labourers is one such chapter, full of quiet courage and unimaginable resilience.

In 1845, Bharat and his fellow passengers boarded the Fatel Razack to undertake a perilous voyage to a land they had never heard of, with no ancestral or cultural reference to draw from. They were brought in as substitutes for enslaved Africans following the abolition of slavery - expected to work hard, keep quiet, and assimilate.

What unfolded instead was a story of survival, dignity, and cultural preservation. Today, the descendants of those first migrants make up nearly half of Trinidad & Tobago's population. Against all odds, they retained their spiritual and cultural heritage. Among the few possessions these early migrants brought were a copy of the Ramayana, a bamboo stick, and a brass tumbler-humble objects now regarded as sacred heirlooms, lovingly preserved across seven or eight generations.

Trinidad is a unique confluence of ethnicities: African, Indian, Chinese, European, and Latin American. Each community has held on to its roots while blending with others to create a society that is both richly diverse and remarkably harmonious. Trinidadians often describe their heritage using percentages- "30% African, 20% European, 50% Chinese"- spoken not as math, but as melody.

Meeting Trinidadians of Indian origin was a deeply moving experience. Though most do not speak Hindi, they remain fluent in the stories of the Ramayana and Mahabharata, often able to recite shlokas and verses from memory. The elderly members of the community greeted us with warmth and reverence, offering blessings and treating us as long-lost kin.

Their names- Persaud, Sooklal, and others still bear traces of Indian ancestry, though filtered through colonial spellings and pronunciations.

One evening, a gracious host, Mrs. Indardaye Sagramsingh, shared a story that brought many in our group to tears. She spoke of how, even today, she chants "Jai Ganga Maiya" while bathing and offers prayers before placing her feet on the Anuj Tyagi ground each morning. She then hosted a grand dinner for our group of 25-30, cooking every dish herself, a testament to the enduring spirit of hospitality and devotion.

The ties between India and Trinidad are not just historical; they are full of promise for the future. The two nations can collaborate in the arts, music, literature, and fashion, but also in emerging economic sectors. Trinidad & Tobago may well serve as a gateway for India into Latin America, a region rich in untapped potential in fields such as rare earth minerals, petrochemicals, oceanography, agriculture, healthcare, and tourism.

The radiant culture of Trinidad & Tobago is a testament to the resilience and determination of its multi-ethnic communities. It reflects how generations of migrants overcame extraordinary hardships to build a thriving, harmonious society. Among the most unique contributions to global culture from T&T is Calypso, a vibrant Afro-Caribbean musical form that emerged right here. Interestingly, it often bears Painting at National Flour Mill, Port of Spain traces of Indian rhythms and instruments, such as the dholak, tabla, and dhantal, symbolizing the island's deep-rooted fusion of traditions.

Calypso is more than music- it's a cultural statement. It is bold, inclusive, and exuberantly Trinidadian. It's no wonder, then, that it had the heart and the guts to dedicate a song to an arch cricketing rival.

It was Gavaskar.
The real master,
Just like a Wall,
We couldn't get Gavaskar at all, not at all. You know the West Indies couldn't out Gavaskar at all.

Such was the magic of Gavaskar that even those on the losing side felt compelled to celebrate him in song. That, more than anything, captures the spirit of Trinidad: its culture, its people, and its profound generosity of heart.

To meet the skill development and capacity building needs of India's estimated number of about 40 lakh cooperative personnel and 80 lakh board members, the University will train around 20 lakh personnel of cooperative societies like Primary Agricultural Credit Societies (PACS), dairy, fisheries in the next five years.

To address the shortage of qualified teachers, the University will develop a strong teacher base through PhD programmes based on cooperative studies. At present, cooperative education is limited to a few states and scattered across various institutions, which is inadequate to meet the growing demand in this sector, the release said.

It added that there is currently no institutional mechanism in India to support research and development focused on innovation and affordable technologies in cooperatives, especially for rural areas.

"Keeping this in mind, a dedicated research and development council will be set up in the university which will undertake research and development in the cooperative sector and also promote it in affiliated institutions.

Bajaj Finserv AMC Launches Small Cap Fund with a 3-in-1 Advantage: Quality, Growth & Value

Jallandhar : Bajaj Finserv AMC announces the launch of Bajaj Finserv Small Cap Fund, an open-ended equity scheme predominantly investing in small cap stocks, that offers quality, growth and value. The fund opens for subscription on June 27, 2025, and closes on July 11, 2025. The recent correction in small caps presents a compelling entry point for long-term investors. Even though over 80% of small-cap companies have posted strong profit growth of 38% and solid return ratios, most of them are still trading 15–45% below their 52-week highs. This recent market correction has opened up a clear gap between the true value of these companies and their current market prices. Coupled with structural tailwinds such as the 'Make in India' push, rising formalisation, and digital transformation across sectors, small caps are well-positioned to benefit disproportionately in the next growth cycle, making this an attractive investment opportunity. Bajaj Finserv Small Cap Fund is designed for investors aiming to build long-term wealth by investing primarily in equity and equity-related instruments of small cap companies.
It goes beyond selecting quality stocks by rigorously filtering out companies with weak governance, inconsistent fundamentals, or financial red flags. This disciplined approach narrows the universe of over 1,100 small-cap stocks to a focused set of high-potential businesses. A key part of the process is our internal forensic and risk-aware analysis.

Parag Tyagi pens emotional note for his late wife Shefali Jariwala

Actor Parag Tyagi is reeling from the loss of his wife, Shefali Jariwala. A few days after the passing of Shefali, best known for her presence in the iconic song 'Kaanta Laga', Parag penned an emotional note on Thursday, remembering his beloved wife. In his note, he described Shefali as "sab ki maa", who always put others first, offering comfort and warmth through her presence.

Calling Shefali his "Pari", Parag on Instagram wrote, "Shefali, Meri Pari -- the ever-eternal Kaanta Laga -- was so much more than what met the eye. She was fire wrapped in grace -- sharp, focused, and fiercely driven. A woman who lived with intention, nurturing her career, her mind, her body, and her soul with quiet strength and unwavering determination. But beyond all her titles and achievements, Shefali was love in its most selfless form. She was sab ki maa -- always putting others first, offering comfort and warmth simply through her presence. A generous daughter.A devoted and affectionate wife and a wonderful mom to Simba. A protective and guiding sister n maasi.A fiercely loyal friend who stood by those she loved with courage and compassion."He urged all to remember Shefali with love always."In the chaos of grief, it's easy to be swept away by noise and speculation. But Shefali deserves to be remembered by her light. By the way she made people feel. By the joy she sparked. By the lives she lifted. I'm starting this thread with a simple prayer: May this space be filled only with love. With memories that bring healing. With stories that keep her spirit alive. Let that be her legacy -- a soul so radiant, she will never, ever be forgotten. Love you till eternity," Parag concluded. Shefali left for her heavenly abode on June 27. She was 42. Last Friday, she was rushed to Bellevue Multispeciality Hospital by Parag, reportedly after suffering a cardiac arrest.

Darna nahi hasna zaroori hai!

This week on &TV's Happu Ki Ultan Paltan and Bhabiji Ghar Par Hai, the past collides with the present as the characters find themselves entangled in their previous births, unleashing royal secrets, unfinished business, and a whirlwind of hilarious revenge drama. Talking about the upcoming track in Happu Ki Ultan Paltan, Yogesh Tripathi aka Daroga Happu Singh shares, "In a bizarre twist of fate, Happu (Yogesh Tripathi) encounters a mysterious elderly man who suddenly bows before him and reverently touches his feet. The man claims that Happu is the reincarnation of Maharaja Hapendra Singh from a past life, and that his queen was Rani Bipasa. Shaken and intrigued, Happu rushes to share the revelation with his best friend Beni (Vishwanath Chatterjee). Beni, ever the opportunist, suggests they meet the man again, thinking there may be hidden royal treasure connected to Happu's past. Together, they visit the man, where Happu is shown a faded portrait of his previous birth. As a token from the past, the old man gives Happu Rani Bipasa's antique kohl container. Happu innocently gifts it to his wife Rajesh (Geetanjali Mishra), unaware of the consequences. The moment Rajesh applies the kohl to her eyes, she becomes possessed by the spirit of Rani Bipasa. Her demeanour changes completely as she turns regal, commanding, and dangerous in her behaviour. She declares everyone in the house her servants and begins to rule the household like a true queen. When Rajesh sees Beni, a wave of rage and recognition washes over her. She recalls that in her past life, Beni was Benendra, the royal minister who betrayed the king and queen, leading to their assassination. Rani Bipasa (Rajesh) vows to kill Benendra (Beni) on the next Poornima to avenge her death. Terrified, Beni turns to Happu for help. In a desperate attempt to save his friend, Happu creates an elaborate drama in the house. He even seeks the old man's guidance once again, only to learn that Rani Bipasa's spirit won't rest until her revenge is fulfilled. The family, now united in their mission, stages a final act: they convince Rani Bipasa to carry out her revenge, but at the critical moment, they secretly replace Beni with a lifelike dummy. Will this clever plan finally free Rajesh from the vengeful queen's spirit? Or will the past refuse to let go of the present?

Sarzameen trailer out now: Kajol, Prithviraj Sukumaran and Ibrahim Ali Khan Star in a complex, bewildering tale of family, love and patriotism

BUREAU

CHANDIGARH : Sarzameen ki Salamati se badh kar, Vijay Menon k liye kuch bhi nahi. The trailer for Sarzameen has dropped, sharing a glimpse of a complex, intense and gripping tale of duty, identity and emotional conflicts. Releasing on July 25 on JioHotstar, Sarzameen stars Prithviraj Sukumaran as Vijay Menon - a man torn between a father's love and a soldier's duty, Kajol as Meher - a mother who fights against all olds to keep her family intact, and Ibrahim Ali Khan as Harman - a vulnerable young man caught at crossroads. The film marks the feature directorial debut of Kayoze Irani and is produced by Hiroo Yash Johar, Karan Johar, Adar Poonawalla, and Apoorva Mehta under the banner of Dharma Productions.

At its heart, Sarzameen is a powerful tribute to the spirit of the nation, exploring themes of sacrifice, fractured loyalties, and the emotional weight of choosing between blood ties and a higher calling. The trio brings to life a family that is torn apart by the secrets of the past. The film will be available on JioHotstar in Hindi, Tamil, Telugu, Malayalam and Kannada.

Director Kayoze Irani said, "Sarzameen is my first feature film as a director and I am incredibly proud of it. This story came to me like a whisper and quickly became a roar I couldn't ignore. It's emotional, it's intense, and it asks big questions but at its heart, it's about love, identity, and finding your place in a messy world. It is resonant of the world today and it captures the complexity of it. Directing Kajol Ma'am, Prithviraj Sir and Ibrahim was a surreal experience, they brought so much vulnerability to their characters and that made all the difference."

Prithviraj Sukumaran said, "From the moment I read the script of Sarzameen, I knew this was a character I needed to play. It's layered, intense, and speaks to the emotional cost of choices we make in the name of duty and love. Playing this character pushed me in ways I hadn't expected—it challenged my convictions and made me reflect on the weight of silence, loyalty, and truth. I'm proud to be part of something so raw, real, and resonant. I also had the incredible opportunity of working with Kajol, who's such a powerful actor, and Ibrahim is a gem in the making. I truly hope Sarzameen strikes a chord with the hearts of the audiences."

Kajol added, "Sarzameen called for an emotional depth that really intrigued me as an actor. The role resonated with me on a very personal level. I was happy to see Ibrahim bring to life such a complex character and I am very excited for him. My character in Sarzmeen has so many layers, she is the emotional core of the story and Kayoze's vision has portrayed it on screen in a compelling way. I am looking forward to the release of the film"
