Explain Amritpal's parole plea rejection: Court to Punjab govt

CHANDIGARH: The Punjab and Haryana high court (HC) has directed the Punjab government to produce the "foundational material" that led to the rejection of jailed Khadoor Sahib MP Amritpal Singh's parole plea to attend the Winter Session of Parliament.

The direction was issued by the bench of Chief Justice Sheel Nagu and Justice Sanjiv Berry on Monday while hearing a plea by Amritpal, who challenged the state's decision not to give him parole to attend the Winter Session of Parliament.

Apple to resist 'Sanchar Saathi' order amid political outcry

NEW DELHI: Apple does not plan to comply with a mandate to preload its smartphones with a state-owned cyber safety app and will convey its concerns to New Delhi, three sources familiar with the matter said, after the government's move sparked surveillance concerns. The Indian government has confidentially ordered companies including Apple, Samsung and Xiaomi to preload their phones with an app called Sanchar Saathi, or Communication Partner, within 90 days. The app is intended to track stolen phones, block them and prevent them from being misused. The government also wants manufacturers to ensure that the app is not disabled. And for devices already in the supply chain, manufacturers should push the app to phones via software updates, Reuters was first to report on Monday. India's telecom ministry confirmed the move later, describing it as a security measure to combat "serious endangerment" of cyber security. But Prime Minister Narendra Modi's political opponents and privacy advocates criticized the move, saying it is a way for the government to gain access to India's 730 million smartphones. Apple does not plan to comply with the directive and will tell the government it does not follow such mandates anywhere in the world as they raise a host of privacy and security issues for the company's iOS ecosystem.

India's third indigenously built nuclear ballistic submarine, INS Aridaman, is set to be commissioned "very soon," Chief of Naval Staff Admiral Dinesh Tripathi said on Tuesday. INS Aridaman is an upgraded Arihant-class submarine. Earlier, in August 2024, INS Arighaat' was also commissioned in the presence of Defence Minister Rajnath Singh and INS Arihant was commissioned in 2016. "Indigenous nuclear ballistic submarine INS Aridaman would be commissioned very soon," CNS Admiral Dinesh Tripathi said during a press conference ahead of the Navy day celebrations.Apart from INS Aridaman, the Indian Navy also has INS Arighaat, and INS arahant, which will further strengthen India's nuclear triad, enhance nuclear deterrence, help in establishing strategic balance & peace in the region, and play a decisive role in the security of the country.The construction of INS Arighaat involved the use of advanced design and manufacturing technology, detailed research & development, utilisation of special materials, complex engineering and highly skilled workmanship. It has the distinction of having the indigenous systems and equipment which were conceptualised, designed, manufactured & integrated by the Indian scientists, industry and Naval personnel, according to Defence Minister Rajnath Singh. "We were already aware of Pakistan's missile launch names P282. We were watching its launch. Similarly, referring to Bangladesh as a "friendly neighbour", he said.

Kremlin says India a 'great friend' ahead of Putin visit

UNI
NEW DELHI, DEC 2

Kremlin spokesperson Dmitry Peskov has said Russia is looking forward to President Putin's state visit to India (Dec 4-5), describing India as a "great friend" and its people as "great friends of Russia."

Peskov emphasised that Moscow remains "very sensitive" to any external interference in the bilateral relationship between India and Russia, underscoring that the partnership is independent, time-tested and guided solely by mutual interests.

"Our partnership is not just documents, it has a deep historic background and mutual understanding," an official said, adding India and Russia have stood "shoulder to shoulder" during key moments in history.

When asked about the US tariffs on India, he said, "Russia is sensitive to any interference by third countries" and that the issue will come up in discussion with India during Putin's visit.

On trade imbalance between India and Russia, he said, "We are selling much more than buying from India. Importers from both sides will meet soon to work out something that can pave the way for increasing imports from India such as services investments and trade."

Addressing questions on energy and payments, Peskov stressed that Russia has developed significant resilience in navigating sanctions-related restrictions.

Peskov said the issue of selling Su-57 5th generation fighter jet to India will certainly be on the agenda during Putin's visit. Russia has long been one of India's most reliable partners, with bilateral ties forming a core pillar of India's foreign policy.

Kohli refuses to play Vijay Hazare Trophy, leaves BCCI in doldrum

AGENCY
NEW DELHI, DEC 2

The growing discontent within the Indian dressing room over the handling of Virat Kohli and Rohit Sharma's future has added another layer of drama to the ongoing saga. Sources that the relationship between Kohli and head coach Gautam Gambhir is turning cold due to disagreements over certain important topics regarding the batter's future. A source informed that while Rohit Sharma has already confirmed his availability to the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) selection committee for the upcoming Vijay Hazare Trophy, Kohli has refused to participate in the domestic one-day tournament.

This stance contrasts with Rohit's apparent keenness to play for Mumbai in the Vijay Hazare Trophy, having also made himself available for the Syed Mushtaq Ali T20 tournament to maintain his match fitness. Kohli, on the other hand, reportedly believes he is not in favour of 'excessive preparation'. The BCCI, hence, is in a tricky state, as they aren't keen on making an exception for a player, even if the said player is of the stature of Virat Kohli.

"The issue is with the Vijay Hazare Trophy. He (Kohli) simply doesn't want to play. When Rohit [Sharma] is also playing, how can there be an exception for one player? And what do we tell the other players? That someone is different from all of you?" the source told NDTV.

The BCCI selection committee and head coach Gambhir have consistently pushed available players to participate in domestic cricket. It was, in fact, the BCCI's insistence that saw both Rohit and Kohli play the Ranji Trophy following the dismal Test series in Australia.

After the first ODI against South Africa in Ranchi, Kohli hinted at relying on his strong foundation, thanks to the work he put into himself over the years, and focusing solely on one-day internationals for India.

Union govt endorses facts presented by Punjab govt on floods : Goyal

SUMER GARG
LEHRAGAGA, DEC 2

Cabinet Minister Barinder Kumar Goyal stated that the Punjab Govt has consistently maintained that this year's devastating floods in the State were not caused by any shortcomings in governance or dam management. Instead, the floods occurred due to unprecedented and excessive rainfall. Whenever the Punjab Govt or its representatives presented these facts, opposition parties contradicted them and targeted the Government with baseless accusations.

However, responding to a question raised by Rajya Sabha MP, Sanjay Raut, the Union Minister of State for Jal Shakti, Raj Bhushan Chaudhary, has now clearly confirmed that the floods occurred due to extreme rainfall and not due to any lapse in dam management. This statement validates the facts consistently presented by the Punjab Government and proves the allegations of the opposition to be false. While addressing a press conference at Saurabh Complex, Lehra, Goyal added that when the floods hit Punjab, the union agriculture minister, Shivraj Singh Chauhan visited the State but made another baseless claim that mining activities caused the floods. Technically, he said, no such evidence has ever emerged. The Minister further clarified that in the legislative assembly, opposition members falsely alleged that 7.15 lakh cusecs of water were released from the Ranjit Sagar Dam.

ARVIND PATHAK

SULTANPUR LODHI: Member of Parliament (Rajya Sabha), Satnam Singh Sandhu has raised the issue of 'discriminatory denial of entry' to Hindu pilgrims at the Wagah–Attari border, even though they were part of the official Sikh jatha travelling to Pakistan to mark the Guru Nanak Dev Ji's Parkash Purab. Condemning the incident as discriminatory and provocative, MP Satnam Sandhu while speaking in the House through 'Special Mention' during the on-going Winter Session of Parliament, urged the Union Government to take up the matter with Pakistani authorities to ensure that such incidents do not recur in future so that "no pilgrim ever faces such humiliation or disappointment again".Notably, out of total 2,100 people whom the Union Home Ministry had cleared to visit Pakistan after latter had issued visas and travel documents, around 1,900 people entered Pak via the Wagah border on November 4, marking the first people-to-people contact since Operation Sindoor, the four-day military conflict between India and Pakistan in May this year. But the Pakistani authorities stopped 14 Hindu pilgrims from entering the country despite they were the part of the Sikh jatha visiting Nankana Sahib. The pilgrims from India visit sacred shrines on four different occasions every year in Pakistan.

Health min sets target to surpass national average in sex ratio by next year

GAURAV GOEL
CHANDIGARH, DEC 2

In a move to further intensify efforts to curb female foeticide, Punjab Health and Family Welfare Minister Dr Balbir Singh on Tuesday set an ambitious target for the state to surpass the national average in improving the sex ratio by next year.

The Health Minister, while chairing a state-level capacity building workshop on Pre-Conception and Pre-Natal Diagnostic Techniques (Prohibition of Sex Selection) Act (PC–PNDT) in Chandigarh, called upon all Civil Surgeons and healthcare workers right up to ASHA workers, for constant vigilance, to monitor pregnancies and prevent this unethical practice.

He exhorted health officials to ensure active tracking of every pregnant woman and said there cannot be a worse crime than killing a girl child.

Highlighting the significance of the PC-PNDT Act—which was enacted in 1994 and strengthened in 2003 to prevent the misuse of medical technology for sex determination, the Minister stressed that the law is effective only when society stands behind it. He reminded participants that no person is allowed to seek the sex of an unborn child and no doctor or clinic is permitted to disclose it, adding that any such act is severe crime and carries strict penalties, including imprisonment and cancellation of licences. Dr Balbir Singh expressed concern that Punjab had historically faced a worrying imbalance between the number of boys and girls, fuelled by social discrimination, regressive mindsets and the inhuman practice of female foeticide.

He noted that due to strict enforcement of the law, targeted monitoring, raids, registration systems and sustained awareness campaigns under the Chief Minister Bhagwant Singh Mann led Punjab Government Government, the situation has begun to improve. Citing the Civil Registration System, he shared that Punjab's sex ratio at birth improved from 906 females per 1000 males in 2021–22 to 922 in 2023 and 921 in 2024, reflecting a 16-point rise due to coordinated efforts across the state.

IMD revises forecast in state: Wet spell expected on Dec 5, 7

AGENCY
SHIMLA, DEC 2

Himachal Pradesh is bracing for a shift from prolonged dry conditions to a fresh spell of rain and light snowfall later this week, with the India Meteorological Department (IMD) indicating the impact of an approaching Western Disturbance (WD) and cyclonic circulation beginning December 5. According to the IMD's morning bulletin, the state continued to reel under dry weather over the past 24 hours, but synoptic conditions are changing rapidly. A Western Disturbance, presently marked as an upper-air cyclonic circulation over north Pakistan, persists and will be followed by another feeble WD expected to influence the western Himalayan region from December 5. An induced cyclonic circulation over north Haryana is also active, likely altering the existing dry pattern across Himachal Pradesh. Cold conditions intensified across the middle and higher hills, with minimum temperatures falling by 2-4 degree Celsius at several stations. Tabo in Lahaul-Spiti recorded the lowest minimum of minus eight degree Celsius, making it the coldest location in the state. Manali shivered at 2.7 degree Celsius, while Shimla settled at 5 degree Celsius. Several stations in the mid-hills recorded below-normal night temperatures. Dense fog was reported from Bilaspur, Mandi, and Sundernagar, with visibility dropping to 50–100 m, and the IMD has issued a yellow alert for fog over the next two days. Conditions are expected to intensify as the temperature dips further. Most regions in Himachal Pradesh, Punjab, and Haryana continued to record moderate Air Quality Index levels today, with the fog layer likely to trap pollutants and worsen conditions temporarily.

While the IMD's seven-day outlook keeps most days dry, isolated precipitation is forecast for December 5 and again around December 7 as successive Western Disturbances affect the region. Light rain and snowfall are likely over higher reaches, potentially ending the unusually dry spell of late November and early December.

Deadly air pollution in North India, major contributor to heart disease

AGENCY
UNA, DEC 2

Deadly air pollution in North India is reportedly a major contributor to heart disease .

Airborne pollutants, such as particulate matter, nitrogen dioxide, and carbon monoxide, enter the bloodstream through the lungs. Once in the bloodstream, these particles can cause inflammation in blood vessels, increase oxidative stress, and lead to the formation of plaques in arteries. Over time, these changes heighten the risk of heart attacks, arrhythmias, and heart failure. Pollution also affects the heart indirectly by increasing blood pressure, a key risk factor for heart disease, said Dr Naresh Purohit, Executive Member, the Academy of Cardiovascular Sciences. In a release here after virtually addressing a webinar on " Air Pollution - A Public Health Crisis" organised by the Mandi based Atal Medical Research University (AMRU) on the occasion of National Pollution Control Day, Advisor for National Programme for Climate Change and Human Health (NPCCHH) Dr. Purohit said that across North India, pollution levels often spike during winter, due to stubble burning, vehicular emissions, industrial activities, and weather patterns. "Air quality index in Himachal Pradesh is gradually going into the poor category, especially during winters, and in the past few days, AQI has gone from moderate to severe, and there is a need to intervene now", he added. Noted medic pointed out that air pollution is affecting every organ of the body, and the link between air quality and heart health is especially concerning in North India, where pollution levels have dramatically exceeded safe limits. Studies worldwide have underscored the connection between long-term exposure to pollution and cardiovascular mortality.

The World Health Organisation (WHO) attributes approximately 20 percent of heart disease deaths to poor air quality. In India, this impact is magnified due to the high population density and widespread exposure to pollution.

Winter Session: Opposition creates ruckus, demands withdrawal of Job Trainee Policy

SANJAY AGGARWAL
DHARAMSHALA, DEC 2

On the fifth day of the winter session of the Legislative Assembly in Dharamshala, the opposition strongly demanded the withdrawal of the Job Trainee Policy. Leader of the Opposition Jairam Thakur launched a scathing attack on the government, saying that the state government has forgotten its own guarantees. Jairam Thakur said that the Congress government had promised 500,000 jobs during the elections, but these guarantees have not yet been fulfilled. He alleged that unemployed youth are forced to take to the streets to remind them of the guarantees, while the government is watching. He said that approximately 10,000 outsourced employees have been laid off. Meanwhile, the Staff Selection Commission, Hamirpur, has not been able to initiate the recruitment process despite being reorganized in the last three years. Jairam Thakur claimed that all the jobs provided during the current government's three-year tenure are based on posts created during the BJP government's tenure, for which the budget and procedures had already been completed.

The Leader of the Opposition also questioned the government's new job training policy. He stated that this system of employing young people for two years and then re-testing them is unfair to them and should be immediately withdrawn. He alleged widespread irregularities in outsourced recruitment. He even alleged that "companies are being created in the names of the sons of government leaders and jobs are being distributed through the back door," which warrants serious investigation.

KARANPREET KARAN
BARNALA, DEC 2

Rajinder Gupta, Member of Parliament from Punjab, today raised a significant matter of public importance in the Rajya Sabha during Zero Hour, drawing national attention to the long-pending operationalisation of the Shaheed-E-Azam Sardar Kartar Singh Sarabha Airport at Halwara, Ludhiana. Speaking on the matter, he highlighted the airport's critical role in unlocking economic growth for Punjab's industrial heartland and the broader Malwa region. Highlighting Ludhiana's economic stature, he noted that the city contributes over ?72,000 crore to India's industrial output and houses more than 1.5 lakh MSMEs - one of the highest concentrations in the country. Despite this enormous economic footprint, the region continues to remain without a functional commercial airport, placing it at a competitive disadvantage compared with rapidly growing hubs such as Jaipur, Indore, Surat, Rajkot, and Coimbatore. The MP emphasised that Punjab, home to nearly 22-25 lakh NRIs, faces an urgent need for improved air connectivity for families, students, business travellers, and medical emergencies. He stated that the new airport has the capacity to handle more than 2,500 passengers per day and operate 10-12 flights daily from the very first day, connecting Ludhiana directly to major cities including Delhi, Mumbai, Chennai, Bengaluru, Hyderabad, Kolkata, and Ahmedabad.

Gupta stressed that operationalising the Halwara airport would significantly reduce travel time and costs for MSME owners, decongest Delhi and Chandigarh airports, cut fuel expenditure, reduce carbon emissions, and create thousands of direct and indirect jobs across aviation, logistics, warehousing, hospitality, and retail. He referred to airports as "economic multipliers" and reiterated that districts with airports record GDP growth up to three times faster than those without such connectivity.

Father murdered on son's wedding day; two arrested

SHIV KUMAR SHARMA
KARNAL, DECEMBER 2

A man in Karnal was murdered on the day of his son's wedding, shortly before the wedding procession was to leave. The family initially believed he had gone missing and continued with the ceremony. After the groom returned with the bride, the shocking revelation of the father's murder came to light.

The missing man, identified as 65-year-old Ramlal from Naurta village, had disappeared on the morning of the wedding. When he did not return home despite extensive searches around the village and nearby areas, his family filed a missing complaint at Indri Police Station.

Police checked CCTV footage from the village, which showed Ramlal riding on a motorcycle behind a local youth named Abid. Following this lead, Abid was detained and questioned. During interrogation, he confessed that he, along with his associate Wajid, took Ramlal to Kalesar on the pretext of buying liquor, strangled him with a gamcha, and dumped the body in a forest area.

Despite this confession, police have not yet recovered the body. The accused kept changing their statements during the search operations in Kalesar forest over the past two days, making it difficult for the police to locate the exact crime spot.

The family and villagers protested at the police station on Tuesday, alleging negligence.

They claimed that one of the accused even escaped police custody during one of the site visits but was caught again later. They warned of a large-scale agitation if the body is not recovered soon. The family also said that Ramlal was carrying a significant amount of money to buy wedding supplies, and that too remains untraced.

China reaffirms its opaque nuclear posture

China is expanding its nuclear-warhead arsenal at blistering pace, one that constitutes the fastest build-up of nuclear weaponry in human history. Alarmingly, Beijing has failed to explain why it perceives the need to do so, until now, that is.A Pentagon report published in late 2023 tabulated 500 operational nuclear warheads in China, a figure that had increased to 600+ by late 2024. By 2030, China will have apredicted 1,000 nuclear warheads.China set about offering clarity as to its nuclear posture through a white paper entitled "China's Arms Control, Disarmament, and Nonproliferation in the New Era". Issued on November 27, 20 years since China last issued such a document, it however leaves many questions unanswered.Why is China embarking on the world's fastest buildup of nuclear weapons?One brief line in the white paper offers an explanation: "the modernization of its nuclear forces" is apparently "to safeguard China's own strategic security and overall global strategic stability". By multiplying its nuclear forces, Beijing blithely asserts that both it and the rest of the world can feel safer.Tong Zhao, Senior Fellow at Carnegie China's Nuclear Policy Program, commented that "China now argues more openly that the strengthening of its military is to strengthen the peaceful forces in the world - a vision that ties the achievement of global strategic stability to a more capable Chinese nuclear force."At its 3 September military parade through Tiananmen Square, missiles featured prominently and proudly. In fact, no fewer than five types of nuclear weapons appeared in the event: DF-61, DF-5C and DF-31BJ intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBM); JL-1 air-launched nuclear-tipped missiles; and JL-3 submarine-launched ballistic missiles.Referring to this document's release, Lyle Morris, Senior Fellow at the Asia Society Policy Institute's Center for China Analysis, commented, "I wouldn't say the content is disappointing, since this is China's official position and repeats Beijing's historical positions from the past. To be sure, it's full of propaganda divorced from China's own actions and policies, but it nonetheless offers some new insights into China's own nuclear policy that merit our attention."One idiosyncrasy is China's assertion that it is a peace-loving nation and contributor to global security and prosperity. The white paper claimed: "The Chinese nation has always cherished peace and harmony among nations, upheld justice and opposed abuse of the weak by the strong and excessive use of force."Philippine and Vietnamese fishermen, and members of the Philippine Coast Guard, amongst others, would refute China's claims of innocence. The People's Liberation Army (PLA) and China Coast Guard are being particularly aggressive in the South China Sea. Furthermore, China eschewed and denigrated international organizations like the Permanent Court of Arbitration that told Beijing its territorial claims in the South China Sea are illegal. There is a lot of finger pointing in the white paper, generally towards the USA.

Putin's India visit

Ahead of Russian President's Vladimir Putin's India visit, Russia's First Deputy Prime Minister and Co-chair of the India-Russia Inter-governmental Commission on Trade, Economic, Scientific, Technological and Cultural Cooperation Denis Manturov said Russian President Vladimir Putin's upcoming visit to India marks a "return to the tradition of annual high-level summits," describing it as a major step toward deepening the strategic partnership between the two countries."This will be President Putin's first visit to India in a long period," Manturov said during an exclusive interview with ANI, adding that both sides had "thoroughly prepared the agenda" to ensure the meetings on December 4-5 are productive. "That would be the first visit of our President Vladimir Putin to your friendly country for a long period of time.

That returns us to the tradition of annual high-level summits which represents an undeniable success. Together with our Indian colleagues we have thoroughly prepared the agenda for the visit. We expect that all the meetings and negotiations that are to take place will be fruitful and will give new momentum for our two countries' strategic cooperation in all areas", said Manturov. Coinciding with Putin's visit, the India-Russia Forum will convene in New Delhi with senior government officials and business leaders from both nations. Manturov said the forum is expected to explore ways to expand and diversify bilateral trade, including boosting Indian exports of equipment, raw materials and food products to Russia.The discussions will also focus on deepening industrial cooperation, advancing joint investment projects and expanding collaboration in high-technology domains. Manturov stressed that the forum is intended to serve as a platform for direct engagement between businesses from both countries, helping to accelerate commercial partnerships and fuel growth in mutual trade."In the context of the visit of the head of our country on December 4-5 India-Russia forum is to take place in New Delhi with participation of government and business representatives. During the forum it is planned to discuss the opportunities for expanding and diversifying bilateral trade, including increasing the volume of supplies of Indian products -- in particular various equipment, raw materials and foodstuffs", said Manturov. "

Also on the agenda are the deepening of industrial cooperation and the implementation of joint investment projects, cooperation in the field of high technology and collaboration in other areas. The forum is designed to be a good platform for establishing direct dialogue between Russian and Indian companies and will contribute to the intensification of ties and the growth of mutual trade between our countries", he added. Manturov, on his vision for India-Russia relations in the next decade, said that Moscow expects its relationship with India to remain resilient, dynamic and deeply rooted in long-standing friendship over the next decade, outlining Moscow's long-term vision for the strategic partnership.

Reflecting on the rapidly changing global landscape, Manturov noted that predicting the future has become more challenging, but certain fundamentals remain clear. "Even in ten years, Russia and India will stay true friends aimed at the comprehensive development of bilateral cooperation," he said. He emphasized that ties between the two countries will continue to "evolve dynamically and adapt to the demands of the time," while remaining anchored in decades-old trust and historical warmth.

Manturov expressed confidence that current joint initiatives will reach fruition and pave the way for new areas of engagement. He said the next decade will see both nations advancing to a higher tier of cooperation, with a major emphasis on high-technology industries and both fundamental and applied scientific research.

"Russia and India will successfully move to a more advanced level of cooperation where focus areas would be hi-tech industries and scientific achievements," he said.On the global stage, Manturov predicted a rising role for emerging economies, noting that cooperation between Moscow and New Delhi will contribute significantly to the strengthening influence of the Global South.

"Thanks to joint efforts, the influence of the Global South will further strengthen," he said.The remarks underscore Russia's outlook for a partnership that blends continuity with transformation--preserving old foundations while opening new frontiers in technology, research and global diplomacy.Russian President Vladimir Putin will pay a state visit to India from December 4-5 at the invitation of Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi. During the visit, Putin will attend the 23rd India-Russia Annual Summit and hold talks with PM Modi. The President of India will also receive Putin and host a banquet in his honour.

The visit will provide an opportunity for the leadership of India and Russia to review progress in bilateral relations, outline the vision for strengthening the 'Special and Privileged Strategic Partnership', and exchange views on regional and global issues of mutual interest, the MEA statement said.The upcoming visit will mark Putin's first to India since 2021. The two leaders last met in person on September 1 this year in Tianjin, China, on the sidelines of the SCO Summit.

Empathetic education in the era of AI

As the world rapidly advances into the era of Artificial Intelligence (AI), the role of educators is evolving beyond imparting academic knowledge. While AI can analyze data, personalize learning, and assist in classroom tasks, it cannot replace the human touch that shapes emotional growth and social understanding.

In this changing landscape, empathetic educators have become the true need of the hour.

Empathy in education allows teachers to understand students' emotions, challenges, and diverse backgrounds. When educators respond with compassion and patience, they create classroom environments where learners feel seen, heard, and valued.

This emotional safety is essential for students to express themselves confidently and engage meaningfully in the learning process.

Amidst the increasing use of AI tools, children are more vulnerable to emotional disconnect, stress, and isolation. Empathetic educators bridge this gap by nurturing human connections.

They model respect, kindness, and understanding—qualities that technology cannot teach. Their presence assures students that their feelings matter, their struggles are acknowledged, and their well-being is prioritized.

Such safe and supportive learning spaces not only reduce behavioral issues but also enhance academic performance. Students become more resilient, collaborative, and responsible when guided by teachers who balance technological progress with emotional intelligence.In essence, while AI strengthens education, empathetic educators strengthen humanity. Their ability to create respectful, compassionate, and emotionally healthy learning spaces ensures that students grow not just as successful learners but as thoughtful, empathetic individuals prepared for the forceable future.

Capex cuts to offset tax shortfalls

The Central government is expected to meet its fiscal deficit target for FY26 by cutting back on capital expenditure to offset potential shortfalls in income tax and GST collections, according to a report by Goldman Sachs.The report highlighted that central government capex contracted sharply in October, declining by around 28 per cent year-on-year. This fall was mainly due to lower capex transfers to states, even as defence capex continued to remain strong. It stated, "We continue to expect the central government to meet its fiscal deficit target of 4.4 per cent of GDP for FY26 by reducing expenditure (likely capex), to offset potential income tax and GST shortfalls". In contrast, current expenditure rose sequentially because of higher interest payments, though it stayed lower compared with the same month last year.On the receipts front, direct taxes declined sequentially due to lower income tax and corporate tax collections. GST collections also contracted, following recent rate reductions, and are expected to remain subdued in the coming months. Despite these pressures, Goldman Sachs said it continues to expect the Centre to achieve its fiscal deficit target for FY26 by reducing expenditure.According to the report, the fiscal deficit for April-October 2025 stood at 4.0 per cent of GDP (GSe), compared with the budget estimate (BE) of 4.4 per cent for the full year. The deficit reached 52.6 per cent of the total budgeted deficit for FY26, marking the lowest level since 2011, excluding the pandemic years of FY21 and FY22.Direct tax receipts contracted 1.2 per cent month-on-month, mainly due to weaker income tax collections, which grew 27 per cent year-on-year but fell 23 per cent month-on-month. Corporate tax collections also contracted sequentially because of a high base in the previous month. Indirect tax collections contracted by 5.0 per cent year-on-year (-3.3 per cent month-on-month), driven by lower GST receipts following the implementation of reduced GST rates that came into effect in the last week of September.The report said these trends reinforce the expectation that expenditure rationalisation, particularly of capex, will play a key role in keeping the fiscal deficit within the targeted 4.4 per cent of GDP for FY26.

Block Jhunir sets landmark achievement in curbing stubble burning

In a significant environmental milestone, Agriculture Block Jhunir has recorded a dramatic decline in stubble-burning incidents during the Kharif 2025 season, emerging as one of the most progressive blocks in Punjab in the movement toward clean and sustainable farming.Stubble burning has long plagued North India, causing severe air pollution, soil degradation, and health hazards.

However, Jhunir's transformation reflects the combined efforts of the Agriculture Department and progressive farmers, who have shifted from traditional burning to modern residue incorporation practices.In-Situ Residue Management Drives SuccessThis year, the Agriculture Department placed a strong emphasis on in-situ crop residue management, encouraging farmers to use machines such as the Happy Seeder, Super Seeder, Mulcher, and Rotavator. These technologies allow residue to be incorporated directly into the soil rather than burned.Farmers who have practiced in-situ management for the last 3–4 years reported visible improvements in soil health and crop performance. They noted that earlier, residue burning caused declining organic matter, hard soil texture, reduced yields, pest outbreaks, and higher fertilizer requirements—ultimately increasing cultivation costs.

After shifting to residue incorporation, they observed:Better soil structure and fertilityHigher organic matter and improved moisture retentionIncreased crop yieldsReduction in fertilizer useLower cultivation cost and improved profitabilityOverall enhancement in long-term soil sustainabilityAs a result of these proven benefits, the number of farmers adopting in-situ management has risen significantly in the current season.

Villages Achieve Remarkable ResultsSeveral villages under Block Jhunir recorded outstanding progress. Kot Dharmu reported only one mature fire incident, while Makha achieved zero mature fires, demonstrating exemplary commitment. Due to limited availability of baler machinery this year, the department pushed for in-situ incorporation aggressively, which played a key role in reducing fire cases.Village Nandgarh set a unique precedent by choosing to adopt only in-situ methods and requesting subsidized machinery from the department. In response, equipment was provided through cooperative societies and Custom Hiring Centres (CHCs), helping Nandgarh achieve zero stubble burning this season.Farmers Become Change LeadersOn-field demonstrations and farmer-to-farmer guidance were organized across the block, where experienced farmers shared their success with others, creating widespread awareness and trust.

Progressive farmers such as Sardar Sadha Singh, Rupinder Singh, Mohandeep Singh, and Raj Kumar have been practicing in-situ management consistently for the past several years. Their efforts have been acknowledged by the District Administration and have inspired many new farmers to join the movement.

How technology is empowering new-age insurance models and micro-entrepreneurs

CHANDIGARH: Insurance today is simpler, smarter, and more scalable than ever. In recent years, India has seen remarkable growth in insurance adoption across small towns, Tier 2 and Tier 3 cities, and semi-urban and rural regions. This shift has been fuelled by rising internet access, widespread smartphone use, forward-looking regulation, and rapid digital innovation.

From digital-first products to micro-entrepreneurs selling insurance via mobile apps, the industry is undergoing a quiet but powerful transformation. At its core is a new belief: insurance should be simple, accessible, and a driver of opportunity.
Speaking about the transformation in the insurance landscape, Mr. Dhruv Sarin, Co-founder, PBPartners, shared, "There was a time when insurance meant long conversations, bulky paperwork, and confusing fine print. Today, the same product is bought and sold with far more clarity and transparency. With rising smartphone penetration, vernacular content, and AI-led recommendations, customers can instantly understand what's right for them. Technology hasn't just changed insurance distribution; it has changed how people decide to buy insurance."
New-age insurance models are now breaking away from traditional, long-term, and rigid policies. These include modular health plans that let customers customize coverage and add-ons; pay-as-you-drive motor insurance with usage-based premiums; and multi-year health policies that lock premiums while saving 15–18% and eliminating yearly renewals. All of these are powered by fully digital journeys, from comparison to purchase to claims. But perhaps the most significant shift lies not just in what is being sold, but who is selling it. Traditionally, insurance distribution depended on large agency networks, banks and corporate agents, a model that left out small business owners, gig workers and many individuals in non-metro regions. The PoSP (Point of Sale Person) model has changed this. Certified by IRDAI, PoSPs can sell motor, health, life and term insurance using just a smartphone and an internet connection. This allows anyone, regardless of location, to build a micro-business rooted in trust, community relationships, and tech-enabled support.

Spoken Fest Debuts in Chandigarh, Empowering the Next Generation of Storytellers at Chitkara University

CHANDIGARH: Kommune's Spoken Fest, Asia's largest spoken word festival, made its debut in Chandigarh with Spoken Evening at Chitkara University, bringing its creative spirit to a campus buzzing with emerging talent. The event followed Qisson Ka Karwaan, a storytelling workshop led by Roshan Abbas, Festival Director and Founder of Kommune. The decision to begin Spoken's Chandigarh chapter on a university campus was intentional. Young artists often discover their voice in environments where they feel seen, encouraged, and creatively safe. By hosting both the workshop and the evening performances at Chitkara University, Spoken aimed to offer students meaningful exposure to artistic expression, helping shape the next generation of storytellers through immersive, firsthand experiences.

This vision came alive when two workshop participants, Lucky and Yuvraj, both students from Chitkara University - who discovered their talent for storytelling recently during the course of the workshops leading up to the event - opened the Spoken Evening with their own performances, symbolising the festival's commitment to nurturing a cycle of learning, expression, and opportunity.

Speaking about the initiative, Roshan Abbas said, "A lot of our journeys begin in the classrooms and corridors of a campus. The entire idea is to empower and shape the next generation of storytellers. Young people are capable of becoming great artists if they just get a stage, a mentor, or the encouragement to speak up." Adding her thoughts on hosting the festival at Chitkara University, Dr. Madhu Chitkara, Pro-Chancellor, Chitkara University, said, "At Chitkara University, we believe that creativity thrives when young minds are given platforms to express their ideas fearlessly. Hosting Spoken Fest on our campus aligns with our commitment to nurturing imagination, confidence, and artistic exploration among our students. It was inspiring to watch our learners perform alongside celebrated artists and witness storytelling in its most transformative form."

Jaya Bachchan slams paparazzi culture

Jaya Bachchan, who has often made headlines for her not-too-cool interactions with paparazzi, took a dig at what she calls the increasingly intrusive 'pap culture'.In a recent conversation at the We The Women Asia event in Mumbai, the veteran actress described today's paparazzi scene as "strange" and questioned the ethics and professionalism behind it.Speaking about how she differentiates between the media and paparazzi, Jaya said she has great respect for journalism but shares a "zero" relationship with the paparazzi. Explaining the contrast, she said her relationship with the media is "fantastic" because she considers herself a "product of the media", but when it comes to paparazzi, the equation is very different."My relationship with the media is fantastic. I'm the product of the media, but my relationship with the paparazzi is zero.""Who are these people? Are they trained to represent the people of this country? You call them media? I come from the media. My father was a journalist. I have immense respect for such people."

She went on to lash out at the paparazzi's role and credibility, describing them as people who believe that simply having a phone gives them authority. Adding how "strange" she finds their behaviour, Jaya shared, "....Magar ye jo bahar drain-pipe tight gande gande pant pahen ke haath mein mobile leke... they think they have a mobile in their hand so they can take your picture?"The actress didn't hold back and went on to slam the way paparazzi make loud verbal comments while clicking photos. "The kind of comments they pass... What kind of people are these? Kahan se aate hain? Kis tarah ka education hai? Kya background hai? (Where do these people come from? What kind of education do they have? What background do they have?) They will represent us? Just because they can get through YouTube or whatever social media."

Discipline to Devotion: Shagun Pandey opens up about his journey as Ved

CHANDIGARH: Zee TV's Saru has been winning hearts with the beautifully layered love story of Saru and Ved, but behind Ved Birla's calm strength and emotional depth lies an equally compelling story of the actor who plays him. Shagun Pandey, who has now become a household name, reveals that portraying Ved has been one of the most demanding and transformative phases of his career.

Talking about the preparation that goes into becoming Ved every single day, Shagun says, "People often think television actors simply show up and perform, but playing Ved has reshaped my entire lifestyle. On shoot days, I go straight from a 12-hour set to a 2-hour gym session, but that's the commitment this craft demands."

Unlike the privileged perception people often carry about actors, Shagun emphasises that his journey has been built on discipline rather than shortcuts. "I never rely on Plan B. Discipline is my alarm clock; I wake up when my body tells me it's time to work. When people call me lucky, I smile, because they don't see the doubts, the hours, the sacrifice. But I carry all of it proudly, because acting isn't my profession; it's my devotion, and Ved is not just a character for me, he's someone who challenges me every day. His silence, his maturity, his inner battles… I had to unlearn my own habits and step into his skin. Playing him made me more grounded, more patient, and more aware of my own emotions."

Every layer added to Ved pushes Shagun to dig deeper as an actor, making their journeys beautifully intertwined.

To witness the next chapter of Ved, watch Saru every day at 7:30 PM, only on Zee TV

A Copycat on the Loose. A Killer Behind Bars. Only One Knows the Truth — Trailer out for JioHotstar's Mrs. Deshpande, premiering December 19th

CHANDIGARH: Bhooli si surat, aankhon mein masti — par iss baar, ussi muskaan ke saath chal rahi hai ek khatarnaak khaamoshi. Today, JioHotstar unveiled the gripping trailer of Mrs. Deshpande, a 6-episode psychological thriller produced by Applause Entertainment in association with Kukunoor Movies, premiering December 19, 2025. Featuring Madhuri Dixit in a raw, de-glam and deeply unsettling avatar—a striking departure from her iconic on-screen image—Mrs. Deshpande presents her as a woman whose silence is as dangerous as her smile, delivering a performance that is haunting, nuanced and unlike anything audiences have seen from her before. With its atmospheric tension and emotionally charged narrative, the series positions JioHotstar to close the year on a remarkable high, driven by storytelling that lingers long after the screen fades to black.

Set in a world where appearances deceive, Mrs. Deshpande follows Mumbai as it reels from murders echoing the signature of a long-captured serial killer. Forced into an uneasy alliance, the police turn to the original killer, a gentle, unassuming woman hiding a far darker truth. As buried histories and subtle betrayals surface, tension builds through the smallest, quietest moments. What seems ordinary begins to crack open, because to catch the copycat… they need the original.Adapted from the French thriller La Mante and directed by Nagesh Kukunoor, the series stars Siddharth Chandekar, Priyanshu Chatterjee, and a strong ensemble. Produced by Applause Entertainment in association with Kukunoor Movies, Mrs. Deshpande is a tense exploration of identity, manipulation, and the eerie power of a woman who says little—but reveals everything.Madhuri Dixit shares, "Mrs. Deshpande is a journey into the quiet power of a woman who seems ordinary but harbors a dangerous mind. Every glance, every pause holds meaning, and exploring this restrained, intense side of her was both challenging and exhilarating. I'm thrilled for audiences to witness a character that's layered, unpredictable, and very different from anything I've done before"Director Nagesh Kukunoor adds, "The trailer gives you an idea for the tone of what the show is really about - a character driven serial killer thriller. In Mrs. Deshpande I've tried to create one of those memorable grey heroes who the audiences root for. And Madhuri Dixit does total justice to the title role and then some!"
