Govt-oppn lock horns in LS, House adjourned for day

AGENCY
NEW DELHI, FEB 9

The Lok Sabha was adjourned for the day on Monday amid a stand-off between the government and the opposition over Rahul Gandhi's demand that he be allowed to speak before the discussion on the Union Budget begins.

When the House met at 2 pm after two adjournments, Sandhya Ray, who was in the Chair, asked Congress member Shashi Tharoor to initiate the debate on the Budget.

Tharoor told the Chair that Gandhi, being the Leader of Opposition (LoP), should be allowed to raise certain points before he starts his speech.

The impasse came to a head in the afternoon sitting when Gandhi insisted that the Chair had earlier assured him an opportunity to raise certain issues before the Budget debate. "The Speaker personally committed to us that I would be allowed to speak here and raise some points before the Budget discussion. Now you are going back on your word, so I would like to know whether I am allowed to speak on those points or not," Gandhi said amid loud support from Opposition benches.

The Chair, however, ruled that while Gandhi was free to participate in the Budget discussion, she could not permit him to raise the matter he was referring to as no prior notice had been submitted. She maintained that without a formal notice, she lacked the authority to allow a separate intervention. As the uproar continued and sloganeering intensified, the House was adjourned for the day.

Earlier, the Lok Sabha had been adjourned till 2.00 PM following sustained protests by Opposition members over a range of issues, including demands for a discussion on the India–US interim trade framework. When the House reconvened at noon after an earlier adjournment, Opposition MPs again moved into the well of the House and raised slogans. Although official papers were laid on the Table, proceedings could not continue smoothly.

The Chair called upon members to proceed with the general discussion on the union Budget 2026–27, presented by Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on February 1. However, as disruptions persisted, the proceedings were adjourned until 2.00 PM, resulting in no legislative business being transacted during that period.

Law student shot dead by classmate in Tarn Taran ; assailant kills self

UNI
CHANDIGARH, FEB 9

An incident that has sent shockwaves through the academic community, a first-year law student was shot dead by her classmate inside a classroom in Tarn Taran on Monday morning.

The assailant, identified as Abhiraj Singh, subsequently turned the weapon on himself and committed suicide at the scene. The entire horrific episode, which occurred around 9:00 AM, was captured on the college's CCTV cameras.

The victim, 20-year-old Sandeep Kaur, was a first-year student at the local law college. According to CCTV footage, the classroom was buzzing with students awaiting the start of lectures when Abhiraj entered, brandishing a pistol. He reportedly approached Sandeep, who was seated on a bench with a friend, and engaged in a brief, heated argument. In a matter of seconds, he pointed the firearm at her head and fired at point-blank range. As the victim collapsed, the assailant immediately reloaded the weapon and shot himself in the head.

The sound of gunfire triggered a stampede-like situation as panicked students fled the room. While Sandeep died instantly due to the severity of the head wound, Abhiraj was rushed to a nearby hospital where he was declared dead. Preliminary police investigations suggest the motive may be linked to a case of one-sided attraction, though authorities are exploring all possible angles.

The victim's mother, Harjinder Kaur, leveled serious allegations against the college management, claiming they initially misled the family by stating that Sandeep had sustained minor injuries in a "small fight."

Pb govt approves Punjab Cricket League to channel youth towards sports, away from drugs: CM Mann

BUREAU

Determined to confront Punjab's drug crisis by reclaiming its sporting legacy, the Bhagwant Mann Government on Monday approved the launch of the Punjab Cricket League (PCL), positioning sports as a strategic intervention for youth empowerment rather than a token outreach programme.

Planned on the Indian Premier League (IPL) model with district and regional teams and backed by institutional partnerships with the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) and the Punjab Cricket Association (PCA), the league is intended to systematically identify, groom and channel young talent into professional pathways, while simultaneously building a wider ecosystem of district- and state-level leagues across multiple sports to pull the state's youth decisively away from drugs and towards discipline, opportunity and national representation.

Sharing a few snippets from the following meeting, CM Bhagwant Singh Mann wrote: "Today in Chandigarh, held a meeting with senior officials of the Department of Sports and Youth Services to discuss various issues, with a focused deliberation on promoting sports culture across the state. All officials were directed to make their maximum contribution towards encouraging youth to take up sports, with the objective of building a healthy and fit society. The government is consistently working to restore sports culture in Punjab and to reconnect the youth with playgrounds across the state."

Haryana CM honours 417 sports-persons with prize money

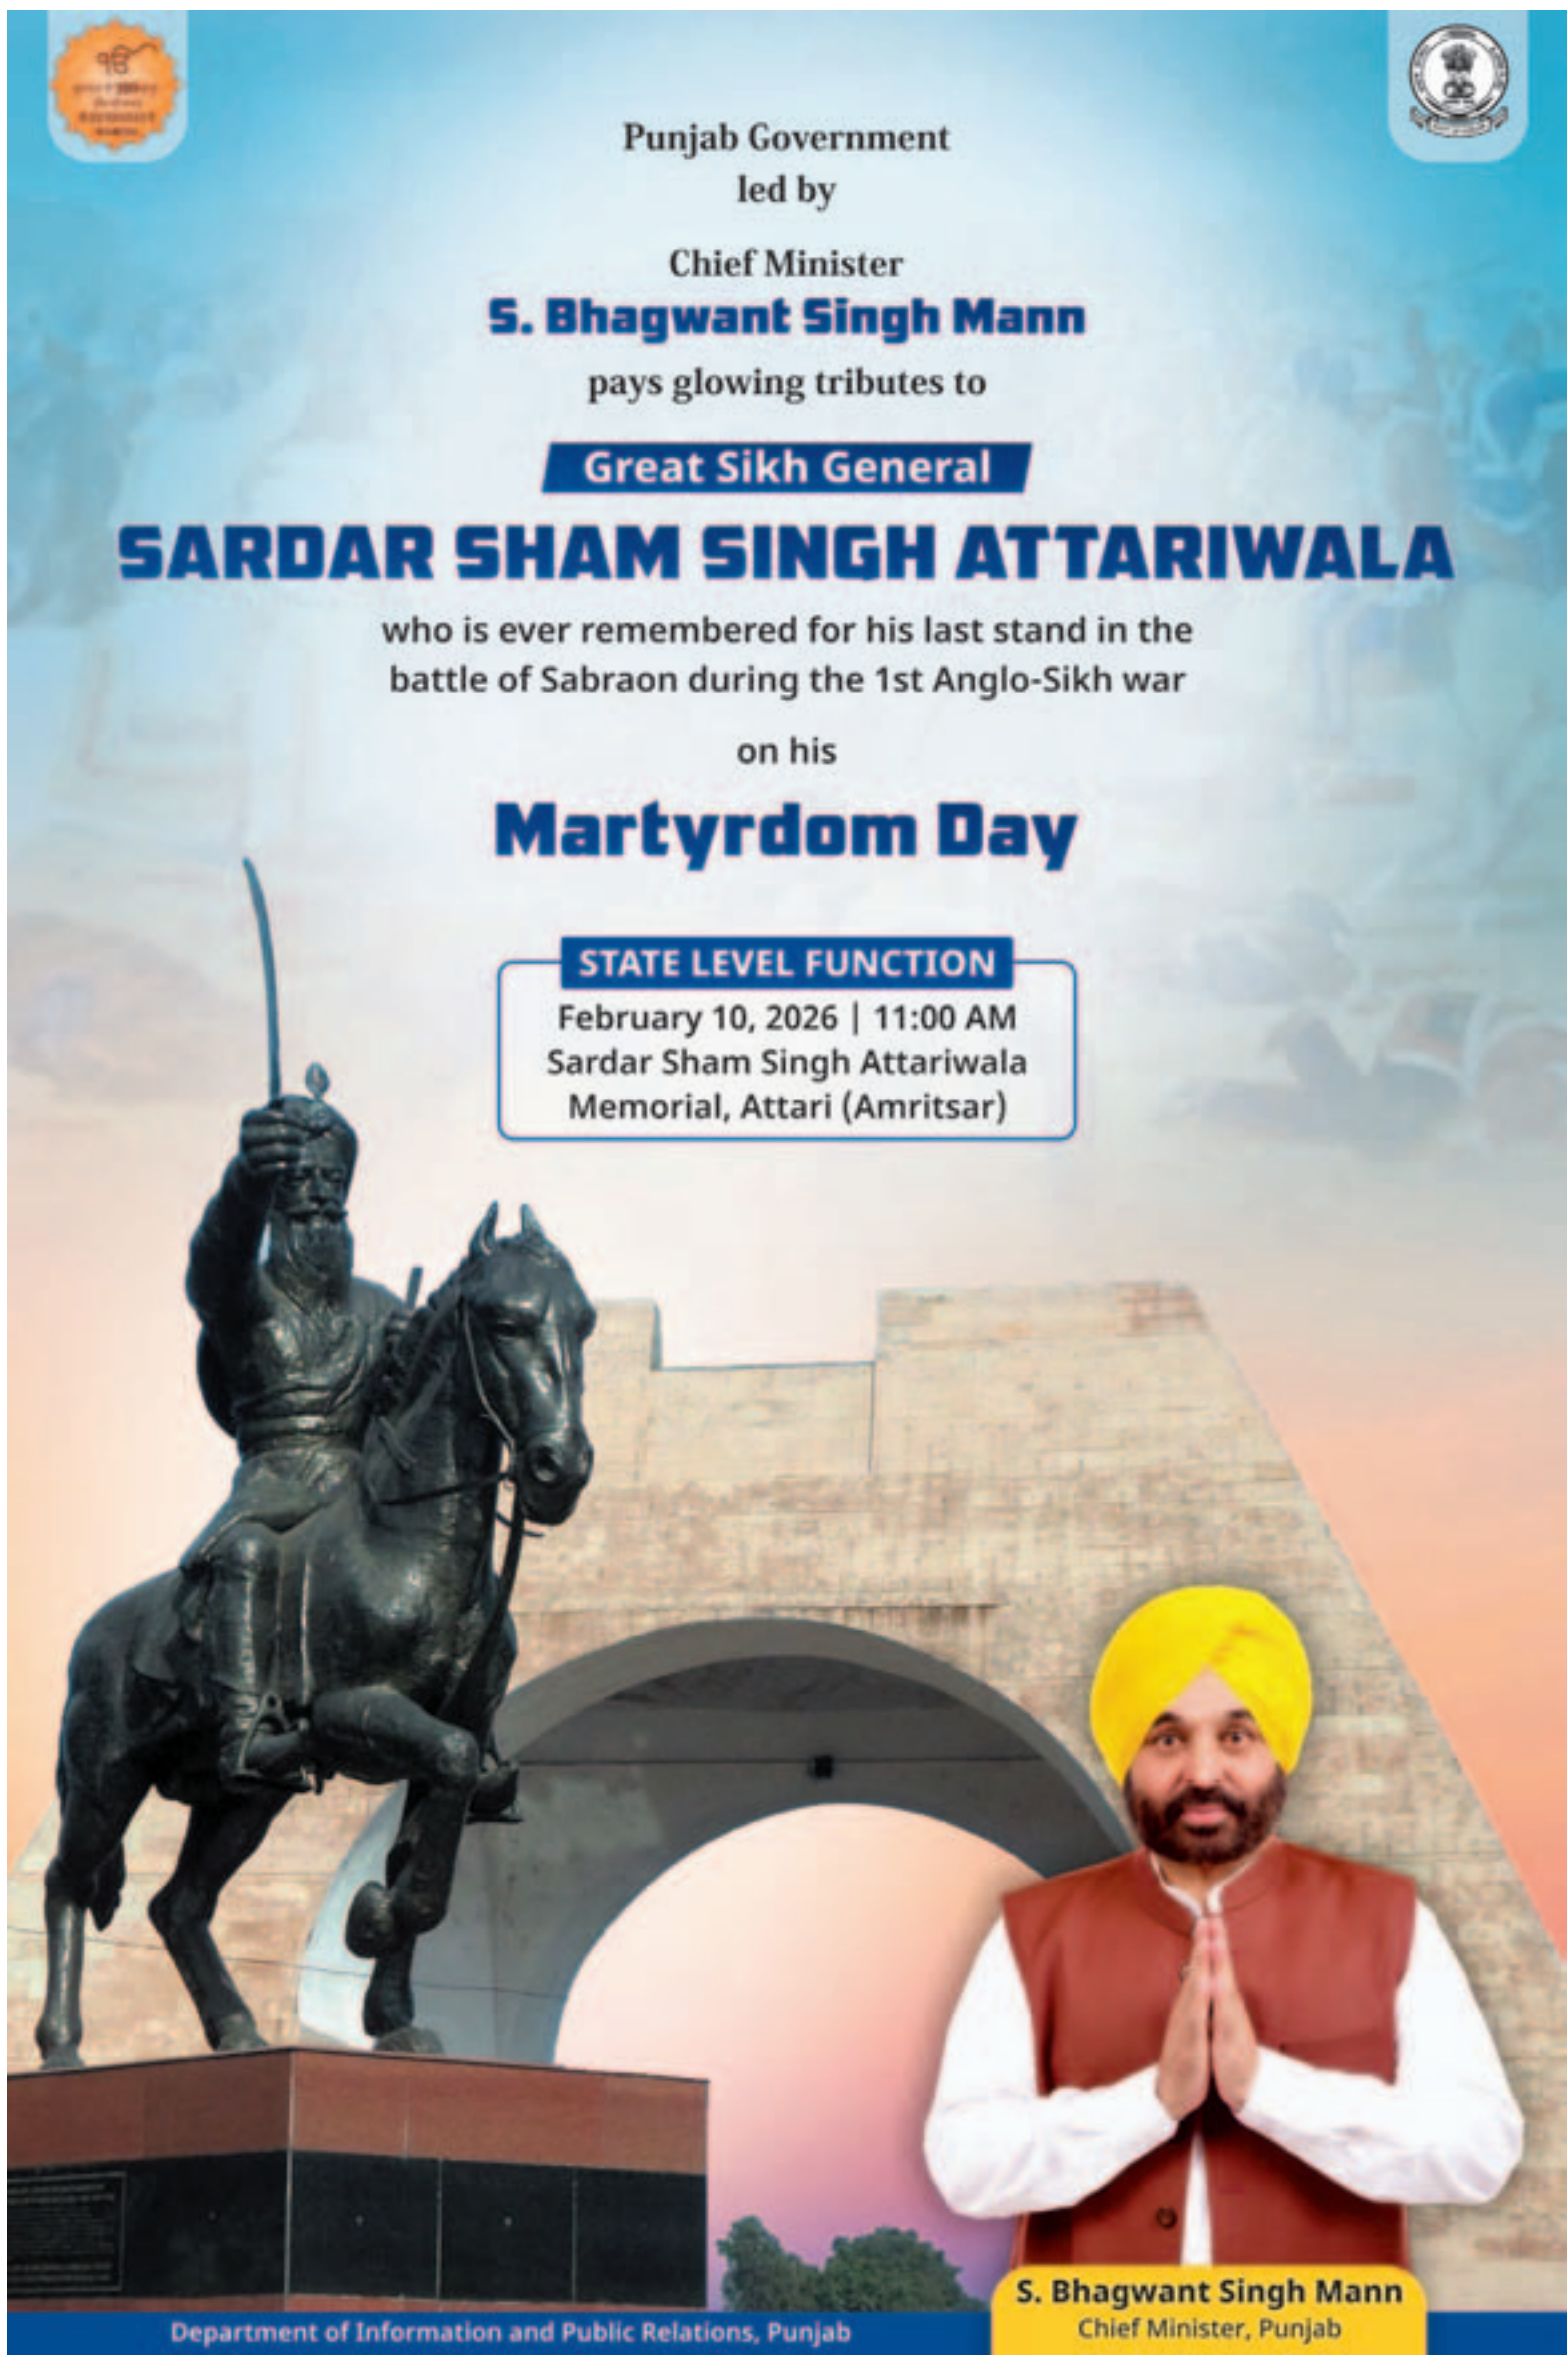

BUREAU

Chief Minister Nayab Singh Saini said that Haryana has now become a powerhouse of sports. The state not only produces crops but also champions on the playing field. He said Haryana is no longer known only as the land of farmers and soldiers, but has earned a nationwide identity as a land of sports. From National Games to the Olympics, Haryana's presence is being felt across the country. The government's objective is that no talented sportsperson in the state should lag behind due to lack of resources.

The Chief Minister was addressing the gathering on Monday at Tau Devi Lal Stadium, Gurugram, after inaugurating the Chief Minister's Cup and distributing awards to medal winners of the 38th National Games. He awarded prize money worth about 24 crore to 417 medal winners and participating players of the National Games. He also honoured hockey player Padma Shri Savita Punia. He said the event is a celebration of Haryana's sporting talent, discipline, hard work and determination, and that Gurugram's sacred land was witnessing two sporting celebrations simultaneously. Present on the occasion were Industries and Commerce Minister Rao Narbir Singh, Pataudi MLA Bimla Chaudhary, Sports Department Additional Chief Secretary Vijay Singh Dahiya and Sports Director Parth Gupta.

Sh. Nayab Singh Saini said sports platforms give wings to the dreams of youth, and athletes take a pledge to take the pride of the nation to greater heights. Haryana's players delivered an outstanding performance in the 38th National Games held in Uttarakhand. A total of 689 players from the state participated in 33 different sports and won 153 medals, proving that Haryana has become a sports powerhouse.

Finance Secretary for UPS urges CM to say goodbye to Old Pension Scheme

AGENCY
SHIMLA, FEB 9

Himachal Pradesh might be forced to shift to Unified Pension Scheme as freezing of RDG by the union Government deepen fiscal stress, this was indicated by state finance department during presentations on the impact of freezing Revenue Deficit Grant by the centre.

Mounting fiscal stress following the withdrawal of the Revenue Deficit Grant (RDG) might be force Himachal Pradesh to opt for the Unified Pension Scheme (UPS) introduced by the Centre, Finance Secretary Devesh Kumar told the State Council of Ministers on Sunday. He cautioned that the state's pending liabilities and future arrears could not be sustained within existing revenue receipts, making the continuation of the Old Pension Scheme (OPS) financially unviable. Interacting with the Cabinet, Kumar said that after the discontinuation of RDG and reduction in central support, the state would find it increasingly difficult to meet committed expenditure if it continued with OPS or even the New Pension System. He indicated that adopting the Rs 10,000 Unified Pension Scheme launched by the Narendra Modi government last year could be the only viable route to ease the growing debt trap. The Finance Secretary pointed out that the state inherited liabilities of around Rs 8,500 crore in 2022 from the previous BJP government on account of pending pay revision arrears, which could still not be disbursed due to resource constraints. He said the situation had worsened after the Centre's decision to discontinue RDG, further shrinking fiscal space and forcing the state to consider hard policy choices.The grim assessment came a day after the Finance Department issued a notification warning that the state government would not be able to defray pay and pension revision arrears of about Rs 8,500 crore, nor clear DA and DR arrears amounting to nearly Rs 5,000 crore. It also stated that no further DA or DR instalments could be released, while developmental liabilities of about Rs 2,000 crore were likely to roll over to the next financial year.

AGENCY
NEW DELHI, FEB 9

Union Parliamentary Affairs Minister Kiren Rijiju on Monday strongly criticised Congress MPs for disrupting Lok Sabha proceedings, alleging unruly behaviour inside the Speaker's chamber and accusing the party of deliberately stalling Parliament.Reacting to the Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla's warning to the Prime Minister on safety, Rijiju said the conduct of Congress MPs was unacceptable. This comes after Birla on Thursday said he had advised Prime Minister Narendra Modi not to attend the House to prevent any unpleasant incident after receiving information that some Congress MPs could approach the PM's seat and "resort to an unprecedented incident."Reacting to this, Rijiju said, "There are not enough words to condemn the behaviour of the Congress MPs in the Lok Sabha Speaker's chamber. When the Congress party's leader has no control over himself, then what the Speaker has done is right."He further alleged that the Congress had planned to create chaos when the Prime Minister entered the House."How the Congress planned to snatch away papers from the PM when he comes to the House. Parliament is not a place for 'gundagardi'. But when the Congress came to it, we acted with restraint. There is a limit to everything," Rijiju added.The Union Minister said the government was keen to run the House, but disruptions were hindering parliamentary business."We want to run the House. If the Congress doesn't want the House to function, then the other MPs will have to suffer its loss," he further said.In a separate statement, Rijiju said the debate on the Motion of Thanks on the President's Address could not be held due to continued disruptions. He alleged that the Congress leadership in the Lok Sabha was deliberately preventing proceedings."The debate on Motion of Thanks on the President's Address could not be held in the Lok Sabha. I think the Leader of the Congress party in the Lok Sabha does not want the House to run. The Speaker is also hurt by the Congress MPs' behaviour," he said.Rijiju warned that if the House remained stalled, the Opposition would be the most affected. "We want to run the House, but if Congress doesn't allow the House to function and the Budget is passed by a voice vote, this will affect Opposition MPs the most, as they won't have a chance to speak on it. We have already submitted a list of all NDA MPs who will speak in the debate on the Budget. If the MPs don't get a chance to speak, the Congress party will be responsible," he said.He further alleged that the Lok Sabha was being stalled due to Rahul Gandhi's stubbornness, adding that parliamentary rules must be followed. "The House is stalled solely due to Rahul Gandhi's stubbornness. In the House, one must speak according to the rules. If he speaks outside the rules, there is a system in place to address it. These rules and systems were framed long ago, even during the time of his grandparents," Rijiju added. Meanwhile, Lok Sabha proceedings saw no legislative business happen on Monday as Speaker Om Birla adjourned the House till 12 noon amid Opposition sloganeering demanding a discussion on the India-US interim trade framework, disrupting question hour.

Anurag Thakur raises issue of high sugar content in baby foods, soft drinks; calls for strong front-of-pack labelling norms

BUREAU
NEW DELHI, FEB 9

Former Union Cabinet Minister and Member of Parliament, Anurag Singh Thakur, today raised a serious public health concern in the Lok Sabha under Rule 377 regarding the alarming levels of added sugars in baby foods and soft drinks available in the Indian market. He urged the Government to ensure strict monitoring of added sugars and to introduce wider, bolder, and more effective front-of-pack labelling regulations to safeguard consumer health, especially that of children. Highlighting global health standards, Shri Thakur pointed out that the World Health Organization (WHO) recommends limiting free sugars to below 10 percent of total energy intake for adults and children, ideally under 5 percent, and clearly advises against any added sugars in infant foods. However, studies indicate that some packaged baby foods in India contain nearly 2.7 grams of added sugar per serving, while several popular soft drinks contain approximately 10.6 grams of sugar per 100 ml. Such high sugar consumption, he noted, is directly linked to the rising incidence of childhood obesity, early-onset diabetes, dental problems, and other non-communicable diseases among India's youth. Echoing Prime Minister Narendra Modi's repeated warnings on the growing threat of obesity, Shri Thakur referenced the PM's Independence Day address from the Red Fort in 2025, where he described obesity as a "silent crisis" that could become a major challenge for the nation.

BKU State President Ratanman said that the elderly have contributed to society and the country throughout their lives, but today these same elderly people are forced to wander from door to door for their pensions. He said that this policy of the government is not only inhumane but also anti-people. If the government does not resolve the issues related to old-age pensions and the construction of the Karnal Ring Road within a week, the organisation will be forced to launch a large-scale movement. Ratanman further said that if the elderly continue to be harassed in this way, this government will not last long. During the meeting, farmers and the elderly raised slogans against the government and demanded the immediate withdrawal of the pension cut decision. If the issues of service lane construction on the Ring Road and old-age pensions are not resolved within a week, a massive protest movement will be launched across the state. If the elderly continue to be harassed like this, this government will not last long.

Along with this, a serious discussion was also held regarding the demand for the construction of a service lane on the Karnal Ring Road. Farmers said that they are facing great difficulties due to the lack of a service lane on the Ring Road. A detailed discussion was also held on formulating a strategy for the movement on this issue.

Hindutva is the path of humanity and "live and let live": Surendra Singh

JAIBEER SINGH
BARARA, FEBRUARY 9

Under the auspices of the All-Hindu Conference Organising Committee, Barara, an All-Hindu Conference was organised with the objective of uniting the Hindu community, preserving Sanatan culture, and strengthening social unity. Surendra Singh, Organising Secretary of the Bharatiya Kisan Sangh from Uttar Pradesh, Sadhvi Purnanand Maharaj from Haridwar, Sister Savita from the Brahma Kumari Ashram, and storyteller Thakur Naveen Krishna were specially present at the conference. Various religious and social organisations of the region provided their support for the event. The main speaker, Surendra Singh, said that the objective of the Hindu conference is not to display power or establish dominance over anyone. Today, the world is talking about rights, forgetting about duties, due to which humanity is moving towards inhumanity. Hindutva is inspired by the spirit of "Sarve Bhavantu Sukhinah"

(May all be happy), which focuses on environmental protection, social balance, and humanity. He emphasized balanced interaction with the five elements—earth, water, air, fire, and space—saying that the earth is our mother and we should take only what we need from it.

Expressing concern over chemical poisons in agriculture, increasing diseases, and social disintegration, he said that change in society does not come from a single organization, but from the participation of the entire society. Potters, blacksmiths, farmers, journalists—everyone has an equal role. Not equality, but harmony can take society forward, because diversity is the beauty of nature. On this occasion, Sadhvi Purnanand Maharaj said that today we are followers of Sanatan Dharma, but our behavior is increasingly influenced by Western culture. Our Indian culture should be reflected in our clothing, food, language, and behavior.

Researchers give insights into cell's repair system

In living organisms, the membrane that encloses the cells is incredibly delicate and flexible. Many biological activities depend on how it repairs and protects itself from harm, yet this process is still poorly understood. Researchers at Forschungszentrum Julich have now used cryo-electron microscopy to uncover intriguing new information. Known from the photosynthetic system of plants, algae, and bacteria, the membrane protein Vipp1 may generate a variety of structures that may be used as instruments to reinforce and strengthen the cell membrane when needed. In a follow-up investigation, the scientists also managed to get fresh perspectives on the role of the associated bacterial protein PspA. Vipp1 and PspA are two molecules that have exceptional plasticity and may take on many shapes, such as rings and tubes with various diameters. The cell membrane has numerous important functions. For instance, it protects the inside of the cell from the environment. At the same time, nutrients are absorbed through the cell membrane, waste products are excreted, and signals are transmitted between cells. Despite its central role, the cell membrane is also very sensitive. It consists of a thin layer of lipids which, although protective by themselves, are also susceptible to stress caused by physical pressure and stretching or chemical influences. Environmental factors such as UV radiation or toxins can also damage the membrane. In plant cells, for example, intense light can severely stress and even damage the membranes in the chloroplasts, where photosynthesis takes place. Proteins such as Vipp1 are therefore essential for the survival of the cell, as they protect the membrane structures and repair them if necessary. How exactly the mechanism works is not yet fully understood. However, thanks to the state-of-the-art cryo-electron microscopes at Julich's Ernst Ruska-Centre, the researchers have now been able to gain new insights into the interaction between Vipp1 and the cell membrane. They discovered that Vipp1 forms carpet-like structures on the cell membrane and stabilize it. In addition, they found ring complexes and tubes made of Vipp1 filled with membrane, which can possibly "pinch off" damaged membrane areas as well as connect two separate membranes. These new findings provide new insights into the ability of the proteins Vipp1 and PspA to alter cell membranes and thus protect vital processes in the cells. These discoveries could contribute to the development of new biotechnological applications in the future, such as the production of biomaterials or the optimization of photosynthesis in plants. Vipp1 is particularly important, as it is involved in the formation and maintenance of thylakoid membranes - membranes in the chloroplasts of plant cells where the light reaction of photosynthesis takes place, i.e. the conversion of light into chemical energy. It is interesting to note that the basic mechanism is highly similar to the ESCRT-III proteins, which are also highly conserved in human cells.

Who gains as tariffs ease

The long-anticipated interim trade agreement between India and the United States has finally come into force, delivering a cautious but politically significant de-escalation of bilateral trade tensions and reopening a pathway toward a more ambitious Bilateral Trade Agreement (BTA) later this year.

As announced earlier by US President Donald Trump, the interim arrangement arrived at on Friday late night provides that the United States will levy a lower tariff rate of 18 per cent on a wide range of Indian-origin goods, including textiles and apparel, leather and footwear, plastics and rubber, organic chemicals, home décor, artisanal products and select machinery.

While the tariff level stops short of a full rollback, analysts and industry bodies see it as a meaningful reduction from earlier, more restrictive regimes. "We have managed to protect core agricultural interests while de-escalating the trade tensions as they should be done … but more work needs to be done by both sides," said Pinak R Chakravarty, former Secretary, Economic Relations in the Ministry of External Affairs.

At first glance, New Delhi's messaging around the interim India–United States trade agreement has focused on reassurance. Commerce Minister Piyush Goyal has emphasised that the deal "completely protects" India's most politically sensitive agricultural and dairy sectors.

The assertion is in part aimed at domestic audiences for whom market access in maize, wheat, rice, dairy, poultry, and allied products remains a red line and in part for the global strategic audience to underline that farm trade remains India's most sensitive veto point in trade negotiations.

India's give-aways have as yet not been clearly revealed, but while lower tariffs on most US exports will be brought in according to sources, "core sector interests remain protected." However, high-end farm products and processed food ranging from vegetables, fruits, wines, and processed food items will be allowed entry at highly competitive duty rates. As will high end automobiles and machinery, including defence and nuclear project-related manufactures.

From India's point of view, tariffs on certain high-value Indian export categories, generic pharmaceuticals, gems and diamonds, and aircraft parts, are slated for removal, subject to the successful implementation and finalisation of the interim pact.

The United States will also withdraw national security-related duties earlier imposed on Indian aircraft and aircraft components under steel, aluminium and copper-related measures. This would be good news for GE, Boeing and a number of aircraft and defence producers who have or are planning to set up bases in India.

The immediate gains are expected to be sector-specific rather than economy-wide, but they span both labour-intensive and high-technology segments. "The deal can be considered a beginning. There will be more discussions and more haggling on tariff rates. However, the non-tariff barriers that India had at some stage brought in, are being dismantled," said Prof Biswajit Dhar, former WTO Chair at the Indian Institute of Foreign Trade.

Indian generic drug manufacturers stand to benefit from improved access to the US market, potentially reinforcing India's role as a key supplier of affordable medicines. The gems and jewellery sector, particularly India's cutting and polishing industry, could see increased margins and higher export volumes despite stronger price competitiveness that has set in, in that sector.

The removal of tariffs on aircraft and aircraft parts is seen as a boost for India's emerging aerospace ecosystem, including manufacturing, maintenance, repair and overhaul (MRO) operations, and component suppliers.

For textiles and apparel exporters, the lower reciprocal tariff rate enhances competitiveness in the US market, especially in labour-intensive categories facing stiff competition from other low-cost producers such as Vietnam, Cambodia, Turkey and Bangladesh.

Engineering goods, including industrial machinery and auto components, electric vehicle component makers, are also expected to gain from reduced trade friction, while organic chemicals, plastics and rubber products benefit from improved pricing and market access.

While the interim agreement does not resolve all outstanding trade issues, both governments have reiterated their commitment to pursue a comprehensive BTA covering goods, services, digital trade, investment cooperation and supply chain resilience.

Implementation of the revised tariffs is set to begin promptly, with operational guidelines to be issued by relevant authorities.

Analysts believe that the interim pact "is not liberalisation in the classical sense. Rather, it reflects a recalibration". Their assertion is that India has shown its willingness to trade regulatory flexibility in selected sectors for tariff relief and strategic alignment with its largest trading partner. "This is realpolitics," admitted Dhar.

For now, the deal offers Indian exporters a degree of tariff certainty at a time of global trade volatility. More importantly, it signals renewed political will on both sides to anchor the India–US economic relationship in a more predictable and rules-based framework, even as negotiations on the final agreement continue.

ETGE marked 29 th anniversary of Ghulja massacre

The East Turkistan Government in Exile (ETGE) marked the 29th anniversary of the 1997 Ghulja Massacre, renewing its call for decisive international action against China's policies in East Turkistan, as noted in a post shared by ETGE on X.According to the ETGE post, the commemoration honoured the victims of what it described as one of the most serious atrocities committed by the People's Republic of China in occupied East Turkistan. The group recalled that on February 5, 1997, thousands of Uyghurs, Kazakhs and other Turkic peoples had staged a peaceful protest in Ghulja against religious, political and cultural repression. Chinese forces responded with live fire and mass arrests, resulting in hundreds of deaths and thousands of detentions, disappearances and alleged executions. ETGE said the massacre later became a precursor to what it termed a wider genocidal campaign that intensified after 2014.As cited by ETGE's post on X, commemorative events were organised in Washington, D.C., and other international locations, including gatherings outside the US Department of State. The organisation stressed that remembrance should be accompanied by accountability and concrete measures.

ETGE President Dr. Mamtimin Ala, speaking from Australia, was quoted as saying that the Ghulja Massacre represented an "ongoing genocide," adding that the victims would not be forgotten and that those responsible should not enjoy impunity.Addressing supporters outside the US State Department, ETGE Foreign Minister Salih Hudayar said the massacre was part of a continuous colonial process following China's military occupation of East Turkistan in 1949. He criticised the use of the term "Xinjiang," calling it a reflection of colonial control, and outlined policy demands including stronger sanctions, a ban on forced-labour imports and international accountability mechanisms, as cited by ETGE.The post further warned of expanding transnational repression, alleging intimidation and infiltration of the Uyghur and East Turkistani diaspora by Chinese agencies. ETGE reiterated that February 5, 2026, was observed globally as a day of mourning and resistance, reaffirming its commitment to justice, accountability and the restoration of East Turkistan's national independence.

RBI likely at end of rate-cut cycle

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has likely come to the end of its rate-cutting cycle and is expected to opt for a long pause, as there appears to be limited room to lower interest rates further unless the new series of CPI and GDP throw up unforeseen surprises, according to a report by Bank of Baroda.The report highlighted that recent policy signals from the RBI, including its neutral stance, indicate that the Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) is now focused on supporting growth while preserving financial stability, rather than continuing with rate cuts.It stated, "We believe that the RBI has come to an end of its rate cutting cycle and would now opt for a long pause."RBI Governor, in his policy statement, noted that "Benign inflation provides the leeway to remain growth-supportive while preserving financial stability. We remain committed to... sustain the growth momentum." According to the report, this statement, along with the neutral policy stance, suggests that the MPC has reached the end of its easing cycle and will keep policy rates on hold for an extended period.

The MPC unanimously decided to keep policy rates unchanged in its latest February meeting, following a 25 basis points cut in the previous meeting held in December 2025. The stance of monetary policy was retained at neutral, reflecting a balanced approach between growth and inflation risks. The repo rate is now unchanged at 5.25 per cent.

On the liquidity front, the RBI reiterated that it would continue to maintain sufficient liquidity in the system as and when required. The central bank also deferred providing its full-year growth and inflation forecasts to April 2026, as it is awaiting the release of the new CPI and GDP series later this month.According to the Bank of Baroda report, the April 2026 policy will offer more clarity on the outlook for full-year growth and inflation.Given the current macroeconomic backdrop and revised inflation projections, the report believes that the RBI has concluded its rate-cutting phase and is now set to remain on pause for a prolonged period.

Ovarian Cancer: A Silent Threat and the Importance of Early Detection

LUDHIANA: Ovarian cancer is a serious and potentially life-threatening disease that affects the ovaries, a key organ of the female reproductive system. Although it is less common than some other cancers, ovarian cancer is the third most common gynaecological cancer in India and remains one of the leading causes of cancer-related deaths among women.

Often referred to as a "silent killer," ovarian cancer is diagnosed at an advanced stage in nearly 70–80 per cent of cases, primarily due to the absence of early and specific symptoms. However, increased public awareness, timely diagnosis, and access to appropriate treatment can significantly improve outcomes, experts emphasize.
The ovaries play a vital role in producing eggs and hormones such as oestrogen and progesterone. Ovarian cancer develops when abnormal cells in the ovary begin to grow uncontrollably. There are several types of ovarian cancer, with the most common originating from the epithelial cells, which form the outer lining of the ovary. Other types include germ cell tumours, arising from egg-producing cells, and stromal tumours, which develop from hormone-producing tissues.
Ovarian cancer can affect women from all backgrounds, but certain factors increase the risk. These include advancing age (particularly after menopause, though cases are seen below 55 years), a family history of ovarian or breast cancer, inherited genetic mutations such as BRCA1 and BRCA2, never having been pregnant, and prolonged use of hormone replacement therapy.

gini's 'Feeka' is a playful pop confession about falling in love

CHANDIGARH : How does one person take up this much space in your head? At what point did you agree to catching feelings? Remember the "oh damn, I'm in love" phase, when it hit you for the first time? Singer-songwriter and producer gini returns with her latest single Feeka, a playful reflection on an emotion that often catches us off guard, falling in love. At its core, Feeka is a meet-cute moment set to music, capturing the frustration and sweetness of developing feelings when you least expect them.
The song explores that quiet, overwhelming realization that one person has begun to color your world, leaving you wondering how it even happened. Following the love for Naadaani, Aashiyan, and Sukoon, gini has built a loyal audience through her independent music, intimate Instagram Live sessions, and emotionally intuitive storytelling. With Feeka, she moves into a softer, more playful space. Where most love songs race toward passion or heartbreak, Feeka lives in the in-between—when life feels "technically fine," yet incomplete. You try to brush it off, maybe even feel annoyed, but love doesn't ask permission. Suddenly, everything feels… Feeka. gini gave a sneak peak of Feeka, at recent Lollapalooza India performance, where a brief sneak peek sparked early curiosity among fans.

Global Star AP Dhillon debuts his new track "Thinking of You" on Netflix's The Great Indian Kapil Show

GURUGRAM : Global swag meets desi masti as AP Dhillon takes over Netflix's The Great Indian Kapil Show with the first-ever performance of his brand-new track, "Thinking of You." From sold-out international arenas to Kapil Sharma's iconic stage, AP proves once again why he's no longer just a Punjabi hitmaker—but a true global phenomenon. The lights dim, the beat drops, and the Mastiverse turns into a concert zone. While Anubhav Singh Bassi delivers a deadpan zinger - "Dosti hui bhi nahi hai" - revealing he DM'd AP on Instagram just a day earlier… and got no reply. What follows is a hilarious bromance roast session that has the audience in splits. Enter Krushna Abhishek and Kiku Sharda as Bada Shaikh and Chota Shaikh, turning the chaos up several notches, while Sunil Grover as Diamond Raja adds his own quirky twist to "With You," proving that on this stage, music and masti go hand in hand. Just when you think it can't get bigger, Shinda Kahlon joins the madness, bringing his signature vibe to the stage and sealing the perfect music × comedy crossover - where beats drop, jokes land, and the Mastiverse hits peak energy.

Sonam Kapoor redefines maternity fashion in custom cape lehenga for baby shower

Actor Sonam Kapoor's Mumbai home turned into a picture of quiet celebration and couture as she marked her second baby shower with an intimate yet star-studded godh bharai ceremony.The Kapoor household was transformed on Sunday into a floral sanctuary, featuring lavish arrangements and whimsical hanging paper birds that set a warm, ethereal tone for the traditional puja.Surrounded by husband Anand Ahuja and father Anil Kapoor, the 40-year-old mom-to-be radiated a distinct maternity glow as she greeted a guest list including cousins Arjun, Khushi, Anshula Kapoor, B-town friends including Kareena Kapoor Khan, veteran actor Shabana Azmi, the gathering was a soulful family affair.The highlight of the afternoon was undoubtedly Sonam's custom-designed lime green lehenga.Crafted from a fluid, lightweight fabric, the ensemble featured delicate pastel floral embroidery scattered across the skirt, paired with a matching embroidered choli.Instead of a traditional dupatta, Sonam opted for a floor-length cape styled in a relaxed pallu drape, offering ease of movement while adding a contemporary silhouette.The high-waisted lehenga was designed to cradle and highlight her baby bump.Sonam wore her hair in a sleek bun, paired with a small red bindi and a striking red lip. Heavy gold jewellery, including a statement necklace, matching earrings, stacked bangles, and rings completed the look.Miheeka Daggubati also shared pictures from Sonam's baby shower.In the caption, she wrote, "Another little heartbeat joining a family I love so dearly. From childhood days when I followed you around, to now watching you have your own little ones who will do the same, it's been so special to witness you both build this beautiful life. So much love for this next chapter."

Sonam Kapoor and Anand Ahuja got married in 2018.The couple welcomed their first child, a son named Vayu, in 2022. Sonam shared the news of her second pregnancy in November 2025 with a stylish social media post that quickly went viral.She posted pictures in a pink outfit inspired by Princess Diana and wrote "Mother" with a kissing face emoji. Many friends from B-town sent their love.

Taylor Momsen rules out acting return after 'Gossip Girl'

Musician Taylor Momsen has said she has no plans to return to acting after stepping away from the profession following her roles in 'Gossip Girl' and 'How the Grinch Stole Christmas', according to People. Speaking to People magazine in an exclusive interview at Steven Tyler's 7th Jam for Janie Grammy Awards Viewing Party on February 1, the 32-year-old reflected on whether she would ever consider acting again."No. I mean, I've learned to never say never in life anymore, because life is too bizarre," Momsen said. "That's what I figured out in my 32 years." However, she made it clear that acting is not something she wishes to pursue. "But it's not something that I care to pursue," she added, according to People.

When asked if she would return for a reboot or continuation of a past project with a strong script, Momsen dismissed the idea, saying she was content with her current path. "I think I'm cool. I think I'm going to tour with AC/DC," she said, referring to her band The Pretty Reckless joining the legendary rock group on tour this year, Momsen noted that music has always been her true passion. "I'm having a really good time in life. I love making music," she said, adding that acting was something she did as a child, while music was a personal pursuit. "There's no character involved," she explained.Emphasising her creative independence, Momsen said she prefers being in control of her work. "I don't like being someone's pawn. I like being in charge. I like writing the script. I like writing songs. That's everything," she said.
